Behind The Headlines

OTTAWA

BY DEAN WILSON

(Written for the Record)

These days wherever Members of the House of Commons gather near Parliament Hill, the most popular subject of debate is the proposed investigation by the Dominion Government of the activities of the Fascist Movement in this country and informally these representatives of the Canadian people do not hesitate to express their opinions on this subject, though they have shown a marked reluctance to do likewise in the House of Commons.

Many of these representatives hold that the proposed investigation should not concentrate on Fascism only. but that the enquiry should include every other form of subterranean movement that has been imported in this country within the past few years. There are ideologies being preached to Canadians which are openly contrary to the principles of democratic government and these include Fascism. Communism, Capitalism, Socialism. Naziism, Collectivism, Nationalism. Internationalism and Totalitarianism. While these names will not infer anything but words to most citizens of Canada, yet veteran investigators of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the various provincial police forces throughout the land, and even the municipal police in the larger centres have collected detailed information which is [illegible] the [illegible] ed by "mysterious" agencies which seem to have unlimited supplies of the money necessary to carry on their unlawful campaigns against the peace and order of the country. Then again, it is known in the Capital that investigators of the police have been operating in the midst of these activities as members in good standing and sensational disclosures are due any day now.

Well-informed circles believe that the Federal Government may appear to be nonchalant on this matter since the Hon. Ernest Lapointe. Minister of the Department of Justice, merely stated that the Government will investigate a Fascist movement in this Dominion and prosecute any person or group which has violated Section 99 of the Criminal Code, wherein it is regulated that the Governor-in-Council is empowered to prohibit drilling, military exercises and training whenever it is carried out without lawful authority. This law was proclaimed during the dark days of the last Great War and it was issued on September 2I, 1917, to safeguard this country against the inroads of many foreign propagandists who aimed to disintegrate the political life of Canada. However, that is only one chapter in this story and the truth is that Federal authorities are working day and night in gathering data upon which they may be able to take the necessary legal proceedings by way of criminal complaint against certain individuals and groups who have been receiving large sums of money from abroad to foster these foreign creeds or faiths amongst the men or women of this Dominion.

Although the official statement by the Minister of Justice indicated that the Government intended to investigate Fascism only and to prosecute under Section 99 of the Criminal Code, yet there is a good reason to believe that an important and highly significant enquiry is about to be completed and it will result in possible legislation [illegible] ction within the next few [illegible], probably in the present [illegible] of the House of Commons. [illegible] are many Canadians who [illegible] satisfied with the existence [illegible] statues of Section 98 and 99, [illegible] they are in favour of a radical [illegible] ge in the law and methods of [illegible] ving peace and order in this [illegible] ry, though it should be accomplished without sacrificing any liberty of the press, liberty of speech, or other characteristics of democracy. In other words, opinion in Ottawa seems to be that while every citizen of Canada has a perfect right to his political thoughts and notions, yet no political activity should be tolerated when it is contrary to the laws of the land either in method or in principle.

The Department of Justice is a busy scene now, particularly in view of the special enquiry into Fascist activity in Canada, which exists under various pretences. The official look upon every political movement as Fascism, if it follows [illegible] wherein the [illegible] local organization of all the people in the state exists under the banner of nationalism and the complete sacrifice of the individual's liberty, permitting private property and enterprise but it is so rigidly controlled by the state that the individual is nothing but a trustee of his own property and being for the state. It is opposed entirely to the Anglo-Saxon principles of a truly democratic nation and its blood and iron policies imitate the ideals of the Italian Dictator, Benito Mussolini, who cannot be regarded right now as a friend of the British Empire.

While overy form of isms is likely to be investigated by Ottawa, there is evidence in the Capital that the Government will make a serious effort to eradicate Fascism in this land. This Movement has been gathering followers in every Province, particularly in Ontario, where it is reported on reliable ground that there are more than 11,000 regular members of a secret order, and Quebec, where the leaders boast of eight divisions of 8,000 men each, who parade and drill regularly in black-shirted uniforms.

Ottawa is not afraid of these activities, but a prominent Canadian expressed the feelings of the vast majority of right-thinking Canadians when he quoted a famous old saying by Lord Carnarvon: "We lavish our attentions on what is obsolete, save on what is essential, and always think that our past good luck is a guarantee of future success." This is an appropriate way to express the attitude of the Canadian Government towards Fascism or any ism that involves forceful or unlawful methods to impose political ideas upon fellow-citizens and the officials are taking no risks or chances with the greatest possession of Canadians, namely, democratic rights of government by the people.

Death Capt. Louis Boudreau

Capt. Louis Boudreau passed away at his home on the I7th inst., after an illness of several years at the age of 71 years. He was a man of sterling character and made many voyages to the West Indies while in command of the Schr. Diamond. He also served as chief officer on boats of the Petit de Grat-Arichat-Mulgrave Service for a number of years, retiring over seven years ago. Surviving besides his wife (who was formerly Miss Jeanie Leslie), one daughter Elmira a registered nurse and two brothers, Dr. Francis Boudreau, Moncton, N. B., and Henry Boudreau, East Boston, also one sister, Mrs. Geo. Somers, Halifax.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock p. m. Rev. A. E Monbourquette, P. P., officiating at the church and grave. A large concourse of relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives.—Com.

Rapidly Turning to Chemistry to Improve Petroleum Products

The world is rapidly turning to chemistry to find ways and means for improving the products of its industries and petroleum chemistry is playing an increasingly important part in that program.

The work being undertaken by petroleum chemists may be divided into two major classifications, one the use of chemistry to improve the characteristics of oil products such as motor fuels and lubricants; and the other the application of chemistry to convert petroleum fractions into products of industry such as synthetic alcohols, resins, and solvents.

The former classification represents chemistry's contribution to the world in making one barrel of crude oil do what two barrels was required to do only 20 years ago.

In this respect oil chemistry may be said to have saved 12 billion barrels of crude oil.

Death of Mrs. Josephine Bourinot-Moseley

(Halifax Herald)

The death occurred Saturday at the home of her son, J.F. Moseley,27 Chestnut Street, of Josephine, wife of the late Frederick Moseley, barrister, of Sydney, who predeceased her many years ago. Mrs. Moseley was the last member of one of Nova Scotia's prominent families. She was the youngest child of the Hon. John Bourinot, of Sydney, who sat in the Nova Scotia Assembly for many years until called to the Senate at Confederation. Her mother was Jane Marshall, a daughter of the late Venerable Judge John G. Marshall. The late Sir John Bourinot, of Otthwa, was a brother. She is survived by two sons, John, of Halifax, and Egerton, of Montreal. A serviee will be held at 4 p. m. Monday at 27 Chestnut Street with Rev. Dr. Savary, of St. Paul's, officiating, after which the remains will be taken to Sydney for inrerment in Hardwood Hill cemetery.—Halifax Herald.

Mrs. Moseley was an aunt of Bertram Bourinot, of the Record, who extends his sympathy to the two fine sons of the deceased in their bereavement.

SKY GIRL

By NELLIE GRAF

SYNOPSIS

Elinor Ames tries to escape the heartbreak of her postponed marriage to Dr. Norman Rogers by becoming an air stewardess. Dr. Rogers' mother approves an alliance between Norman and wealthy Francine Bayless. Norman is jealous of Jack Newton, the pilot who helped Elinor get her job. Leola Rogers, Norman's sister, is in love with Jack, but has quarreled with him. Leola disappears, but wires Elinor a mysterious message not to fly again until she has seen her. A few days later, Elinor reads a newspaper account of Norman's betrothal to Francine Bayless. She leaves on her regular flight. A foreigner, Valdmirz, is aboard. He carefully guards two small green bags and goes into a frenzy of anxiety when the plane runs into a lightning storm.

CHAPTER VIII

Fear clutched at Elinor's heart, but she could not permit herself to show it. The plane lurched crazily.

All the passengers by now had caught the realization of danger. Women began to sob and some of the men moved about uneasily.

The man in the front seat, whose name was Bailey, arose and came back to Elinor, who balanced herself as the ship banked.

"We are not in danger." He spoke loud enough for the other passengers to hear. "I've been in worse storms in the air. Now, if everyone will just buck up, we'll be all right."

The nervous little man sat gripping his bag.

"How about telling a good joke?" Bailey whacked him on the back.

Valdmirz huddled deeper into his seat. "Don't know any jokes," he croaked. "Let me alone."

Elinor glanced back into the fog, but it was not the fog blanket which held her eye, made her shudder with new fear. Two great lights penetrated the fog a short distance behind them and a little to the right. The lights of another plane. It was flying faster than their ship and gaining every second!

Valdmirz stiffened, gasped audibly. "What's that flyer trying to do?" he muttered. "Crash into our ship?"

"Of course not," Elinor answered with a cheerfulness she did not feel. "That's probably a Government plane off its course, trying to get its bearings by trailing us."

"It isn't a Government plane," Bailey remarked. "It isn't the right color. Looks as though it might be privately owned."

Plane In Pursuit

Elinor pressed the pilot's signal. Immediately, her signal flashed, summoning her to the pilot's compartment. She hurried forward.

"What's your trouble?" Jack asked. "A ship has been following us," Elinor explained, "just behind and a little to the right."

"Great guns," Jack groaned, "is the pilot crazy? Is he trying to . . ."

The words died on his lips. The other ship was cruising alongside on the right now, its nose even with their own liner. The noise was deafening.

"Holy cats, Jack!" yelled the co-pilot. "Turn left and put on speed."

Jack was already doing just that, but the other plane followed, hovering as close as it dared.

"Whoever that pilot is, he seems bent on committing suicide and murder," the co-pilot groaned.

Jack made a sudden turn and deftly loomed ahead of the shadowing plane in a burst of speed.

"Whew!" The co-pilot wiped his forehead. "Let's make for the next landing, Jack. I'm losing my grip."

After a moment of tense silence, Jack said: "We'll make it to Bellefonte." His eyes were on the fuel indicator. "Gosh, there's that plane again. Roll your window down, Grimes," he said to the co-pilot. "Beckon to them to clear the way."

Out On The Wing

Grimes did as he was instructed, but the pilot in the other ship could not or would not see as he kept on flying alongside, dangerously near.

"The fellow is just plain crazy!"

"Go back to the cabin, Elinor," Jack said tensely.

But Elinor, whose face was pressed against the pane of the co-pilot's window, screamed. "Jack, that ship — it looks — it is — it's the silver ship you remember the one in the hangar."

"It's Doctor Rogers!" Jack shouted. "Handle the controls, Grimes!" He peered out. "It looks like that ship all right. What the. . ."

He was interrupted by a frantic pounding on the door. He opened it to find the fellow with the green bags, Valdmirz, in a frenzy of fear.

"That ship!" the man screamed. "It's after me. Me! Get away from it. Hully! There's been a leak. Someone told. It's me they want!"

Bailey was pulling at Valdmirz. The other passengers were huddled in their seats. Women were weeping. The men held to their safety belts with shaking hands.

Bailey was the only passenger who remained calm. He assisted Jack in forcing the fear-crazed Valdmirz back to his seat. Elinor administered aromatic ammonia, but she kept glancing out at the plane flying so close through the storm, which seemed to be getting worse.

As she watched, fascinated, she noticed the emergency hatch of the silver plane lift slowly—that large glass opening above the pilot seat. A figure emerged—a slight figure. It crawled cautiously onto the wing and rested.

Elinor could neither speak nor move!

He Threatened Queen Victoria

Peer Who Frightened Her With Letters, Is Now Dead

Memories of a national sensation—a threat to the life of Queen Victoria—were revived by the announcement of the death in Broadmoor (England) Criminal Lunatic Asylum of Harry Wyndham Carter, at the age of 88.

For nearly two generations he had been forgotten.

Forty-three years ago Carter, a bachelor and would-be aristocrat, claiming the title of the Earl of Whyncombe, saw the outside world for the last time.

Found Insane

He had threatened to kill Queen Victoria in letters he had sent her. He was found insane at the Central Criminal Court and ordered to be detained during Her Majesty's pleasure.

Three more reigns have passed, and a fourth begun, but the words "during Her Majesty's pleasure" have followed him to the end.

Carter served two terms in Broadmoor. In 1891 he was sent there after his mind had failed while serving a sentence of five years' penal servitude passed on him for shooting two men. He was released but the Queen Victoria incident led to his return.

Harry Wyndham Carter is now buried and soon will be forgotten.

SNACKS For Ski-ers

Though most hostesses and housewives haven't the time to take an active part in winter sports along with the youngsters, they can be winners in their own field when the crowd comes home to eat. Skating, skiing and tobogganing are strenuous sports, take a lot of energy and produce ravenous appetites in sport enthusiasts. When it comes your turn to entertain the crowd, surprise them with something a little different. Waffles are a favourite dish of lovers of the great outdoors and here are a variety of ways in which to serve them.

Plain Waffles

2 cups sifted cake flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, well beaten.
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks, milk and butter. Add to flour, beating until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with maple syrup. Makes 4 four-section waffles. For variety, sprinkle batter with premium shred coconut before closing iron.

Ham Waffles

Prepare batter for sour milk waffles (above). Bake in hot waffle iron, sprinkling ¼ cup uncooked ham finely diced, over batter of each waffle just before closing iron. Soft scrambled eggs may be served on waffles. Bacon may be used instead of ham, if desired. Bakes 4 four-section waffles.

Just in case you haven't a waffle iron, griddle cakes are just as good and are, perhaps, easier to make.

Southern Waffles

1 cup boiling water
1 cup corn meal
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1¼ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 cups milk
2 egg yolks, well beaten
3 tablespoons melted butter
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Pour boiling water over corn meal. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Add milk to corn meal, then egg yolks and flour, mixing well. Add butter. Fold in egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with syrup. Makes 7 four-section waffles.

Cheese Waffles with Grilled Tomatoes

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup grated cheese.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks, milk and butter. Add to flour, beating until smooth. Fold in egg whites and cheese. Bake in hot waffle iron. Place a slice of grilled tomato on each section. Makes 4 four-section waffles. Diced uncooked bacon may be sprinkled over batter before closing iron.

Sour Milk Waffles

2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1¾ cups sour milk or buttermilk
1/3 cup melted butter
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add soda, baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine egg yolks, milk and butter. Add to flour, beating until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Bakes in hot iron. Serve with syrup. Makes 4 four-section waffles.

Wheat Griddle Cakes

1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup thick, sour milk or buttermilk
1 teaspoon melted butter or other shortening.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift again. Combine egg and milk and add to flour gradually, stirring only until smooth. Add shortening. Bake in hot, well-greased griddle. Serve with syrup. Makes 12 cakes.

Bran Griddle Cakes

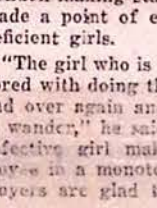

1¾ cups milk
1 cup whole bran
1½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoon melted butter

Pour milk over whole bran. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar, and salt, and sift again. Add eggs to bran mixture. Add flour and blend. Add butter. Bake on hot, well-greased griddle. Serve with syrup. Makes 24.

SORE THROAT WITH COLDS Given Fast Relief

Take 2 "Aspirin" Tablets with a full glass of water.

Claims Hard Foods Cause Tooth Decay

Eight Year Experiment by Columbia Bacteriologist Leads To This Assumption

The suggestion that hard, rather than soft foods are the cause of tooth decay has been advanced by Dr. Theodor Rosebury, assistant professor of bacteriology in the Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Rosebury, who has worked for eight years — experimenting with rats, and clinically with Eskimos—tentatively indentifies hard, compact foods, rich in carbohydrates, as the primary cause of caries, or decay. He believes that particles of such foods are packed into fissures of the teeth under relatively strong biting pressure, are not removed in the process of eating, and ferment. The acids produced, Dr. Rosebury explains, then cause cavities in accordance with the classical theory of dental caries.

Hard But Compact

The foods having this effect, according to Dr. Rosebury, must not only be hard, but compact. Toast, for example, though hard, crumbles when bitten without packing into crevices, and does come within this classification. The hypothesis has still to be tested on human beings under control conditions. Dr. Rosebury says, and he proposes that such clinical tests be made with groups of children. The experiments with rats, made in collaboration with Dr. Moxwell Karshan of Columbia, indicated that the only way of producing molar decay in the animals similar to that found in man was to feed them diets containing coarsely-ground raw cereal.

Telephone Girls Lauded by Shaw

George Bernard Shaw rated telephone operators above actors and actresses this week in diction and enunciation.

"There are dramatic schools all over the place; and yet today all professions speak better English for public purposes than the dramatic profession," the playwright said in a message to the annual meeting of the Association of Teachers of Speech.

In addition to the "wonderful telephone girls," Shaw listed the clergy, politicians and lawyers as being superior.

Transition

The quick years pass, like birds in hurried flight,
Cleaving all space with swift and shining wing,
Blown 'cross the spray of cloud, to endless day
Where life remains a fair and shining thing.

As if your rose had climbed the garden wall,
Your eager eyes in fadeless bloom to greet,
And golden stars, that were above your head,
Are now about your feet.

"We must not be intolerant, stern or narrow in our interests, if we are to make the most of life." — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

London Firm Hires Sub-normal Girls

Are Better on Monotonous Jobs Than Their More Intelligent Sisters

Secondary school girls and well-educated girls are not so good at monotonous jobs as girls of sub-normal intelligence.

This is the view of Mr. A. H. Hill, Inspector of London, (Eng.) Special Schools, expressed at a London conference.

He said that there were firms in London making standard articles who made a point of employing mentally deficient girls.

"The girl who is well educated, gets bored with doing the same thing over and over again and her mind begins to wander," he said. "The mentally defective girl makes a steady employee in a monotonous job and employers are glad to have them."

The Spectator has so far failed to acknowledge the birth of its new rival and thus shows by its silence either its contempt or its aversion to opposition. One thing in the Spectotor's favor is that it is printed in its own plant. As Annapolis Royal is too small to support two papers, it will be the survival of the fittest.

The Germans are, it is said, counting upon Great Britain to yield some colonies. Britain, of course, did yield a very large colony on this continent 160 years ago, but the Germans should not rely too much on that precedent.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"ANGLE" PICTURES

Tilting the camera up or down gives unusual "angle" pictures.

WHEN you walk down the street of your home town, looking for pictures, what are some of the things you see?

Do you notice a new building going up, and tilt back your head to get a good view of the work? Is there someone digging a pit or excavation, so that you have to lean over and look down to see what's going on?

In such cases, the angle makes the view interesting, doesn't it? Then why not try the same thing with your camera?

I know, of course, there's a rule which says, "Don't tilt the camera." It's a good rule, too, for many pictures. For instance, if you take a picture of your house, and get so close that you have to tilt the camera upward, your picture will show the house as if it were tilted back on its foundations, which isn't the effect you want at all.

But, in a great many pictures, an unusual viewpoint gives added interest. And, for many subjects, the "bird's eye" or "worm's eye" angle is a natural point of view.

For example, suppose you see a painter on a tall ladder doing repair work on a store sign? If you snap him from some distance down the street, the picture won't be especially interesting. But—what if you are almost under the ladder, with the camera pointed straight up at him? You will get an "angle" picture that catches the eye instantly and if you try snaps from two or three angles, turning the camera so that the lines of the ladder and store sign "lead into" the picture in different ways, you may get several striking arrangements.

Whether it is a "natural" view of an unusual subject, or an unusual view of an ordinary subject, the "angle shot" nearly always has interest value. A small boy curled up in a big armchair with a book is a good picture subject from a normal viewpoint. But why not try a snap of him from a high viewpoint, such as from a box or table or even from the household stepladder? It might give an even better picture.

I saw an interesting "straight-down" snap recently made from a window right over the snapshooter's front door. Two visiting friends were looking straight up at the camera, one could see but little more than their faces, and the walk on which they were standing. Unusual camera angles made the picture unusual. But there really should have been one more picture—a snap of the snapshooter as he leaned out of the window to snap his friends, taken with the camera pointed straight up. That would have given both viewpoints.

Try some "angle shots." They are a fruitful source of camera fun.

Forgotten Hero

Among the forgotten heroes is the stork in the Millar will derby.—Hamilton Spectator.

Or Grapefruit!

An exchange points out that the trouble with too many ambitious men in the public eye is that they are in the public eye—like a cinder.—Calgary Herald.

Undisturbed

Canada's gold, nickel, copper and lead mines are yielding more than ever before in our history. Evidently haven't heard the tales of the ticker-tapes.—Ottawa Journal.

Absolutely Essential

Unless a larger spirit of goodwill is built up between the provinces of Canada, this Dominion is certain to face troubled times. It should not be difficult for any provincial government to achieve at least a measure of understanding of the viewpoints and problems of other provinces. After all, it is very doubtful if the people of any province, as individuals, harbor ill-will toward their fellow Canadians who happen to live in other parts of the Dominion. — Edmonton Journal.

No Holiday For Death

The shadow of Ontario's traffic toll over Christmas had been deepening in repeated warning that it would be an alarming one. It was an alarming one. More people were killed in the province than in the state of New York; an appalling number injured. That is one of the most sinister elements in this never-ending tragedy of the roads. It is worked out like a business chart. The shattered lives and sorrow that follow in its wake are down now to a numerical proposition. It is a chilling commentary on carelessness and negligence. — Hamilton Spectator.

Rights of the People

It is well for the people to remember always that the freedom of the press is not a privilege enjoyed by owners, publishers and editors of newspapers for their own exclusive use and advantage. As a matter of fact, the press has no special privilege before the law. Freedom of the press was granted not to newspapers but to the people. Without it, democracy cannot function. Newspapers may be irked at suppression of news but it is the people who are injured when a right is enjoined. The people who are shut off from facts about their governments or news of nations or peoples are the principal sufferers. — Brandon Sun.

Canada's Task In 1938

Make Canada one nation: that is Canada's job of the year. It is a job to which every citizen must put his hand.

To leave it to selfish, narrow-minded provincial politicians of the type that have been particularly vocal in recent weeks is to jeopardize our future as a nation.

The job will require a modernized constitution.

It will require the best wisdom and judgment the Rowell Commission can bring to bear on our complex financial and taxation puzzles.

It will require elimination of overlapping services and of the vexatious confusion and waste that have crept into our governmental system since 1867.

It will require encouragement of every unifying force such as our national publications.

Above all, it will require the active co-operation of all Canadians who believe Canada should go forward as one nation and who are prepared to make sacrifices, if necessary, to achieve this end.

This is Canada's job for 1938.—Toronto Financial Post.

War Diet Kills Madrid Elephant

Pancho, the Retiro Park Zoo elephant, who thrilled generations of Madrid children, died last week, a war casualty.

Pancho, ill for months from undernourishment, died in his snow-filled pen without having tasted a peanut or any tidbit except coarse black bread for 17 months.

What is left of the fat of his body will be converted into grease for war purposes.

"The bungling, over-sentimental or wilful handling of the parole problem still remains one of the greatest disgraces America has ever known." — J. Edgar Hoover.

THE EMPIRE

Love's Autopsy

The acting chairman of the Australian Wine Board has asserted that lack of knowledge of cooking is perhaps the most prolific cause of divorce. The statement is provocative in this compressed form, but when it is expanded it sounds quite feasible. Bad cooking means bad indigestion; bad indigestion means bad temper; bad temper leads to the death of love. So the autopsy reveals that love died of wounds inflicted by (a) a blunt instrument such as a frying-pan, and (b) a shart instrument such as a can-opener. But bad cooking does not always lead to divorce. Many a husband proves long-suffering in more senses than one. Although he speedily learns that his "lass with a delicate air" is also a lass with a delicatessen flair, he forgives her.—Melbourne Argus.

Stimulating Migration

For some years British migration to Australia was in the doldrums; in fact the flow of migration ran backward, with a loss to Australia of nearly 30,000 people of British stock during the period 1930-36. Now the tide has turned at last, and the flow is in the normal direction, outwards from Britain to this country. In the nine months ended in September of last year our population gained 117 people by migration. For the same period this year the gain was 2,438, a rapid and gratifying increase which is also a natural indication of the change from depression to economic recovery. With better conditions, too, there has been a recent psychological change in the attitude to migration, both here and in Great Britain. It is felt—and felt rightly—that the time has come when pracical plans for stimulating British migration should be worked out and put into action. — Sydney (Australia) Herald.

Lawyers Offer Services Free

Four Young Winnipeg Lawyers Have Been Appointed to Hear Inquiries From Those Unable to Pay.

Persons unable to pay for legal advice will be assisted by a social service to be set up in Winnipeg and to be known as the Needy Persons' Advising Centre.

R. B. MacInnes of the Law Society of Manitoba, announced the new service, being sponsored by the society. It will be carried on for a year in the Winnipeg judicial area after which decision will be made as to whether the service should branch into all judicial districts of Manitoba.

Meet For Consultation

Mr. MacInnes said a committee of four young lawyers has been appointed by the society to hear inquiries from those unable to pay for legal advice. This committee will meet regularly in the law courts where consultations will take place without fee payments.

After hearing the cases and making necessary inquiries, the committee will make recommendations to a certificate-issuing committee and a general chairman for final decision. The general chairman is John Kelly and the certificate-issuing committee includes R. M. MacInnes, E. G. Phipps Baker and W. P. Fillmore.

No Criminal Cases

If the certificate-issuing committee considers the cases within their jurisdiction and they point to a possible successful verdict, their recommendation is passed on to the general chairman who supervises the operations of the agency.

Mr. MacInnes said the Law Society would stress the duty of every practising lawyer in giving his services free. Cases outside the scope of the service would include slander, libel, small debts, cases against the debt adjustment board or any other such boards, and appeals to the Court of Appeal, unless the committee decided there had been a miscarriage of justice and considered an appeal justified.

The agency will not touch criminal cases as the government supplied a lawyer when the plaintiff or accused was without means.

Await New Japanese Moves

LONDON.—With the sessions of the Japanese Imperial Conference, the Far-East situation is believed here to be entering a new and more dangerous phase. It is recognized that Japanese strategy continues to be directed against the Western powers, the decision of the Tokio Conference regarding the actual war in China being relatively meaningless.

It is learned that British Cabinet Ministers have been notified to hold themselves in readiness for an emergency session if Tokio developments follow the expected course and Japan formally declares war on China.

Transportation Increases In Northwest Territories

Ottawa Reports Important Additions Made to Facilities up North During 1937—Land and Water Traffic at New High.

Transportation activity in the Northwest Territories reached a new high in 1937 when the four principal transportation companies, using steam and diesel-powered boats, carried 23,000 tons of freight from and to Waterways, Alta., at the end of steel, the Federal Department of Mines and Resources reported last week.

In addition, two main airway companies handled 600 tons of freight and supplies and due to increased mining activity the transportation companies are looking forward to an even heavier movement in 1938.

New Boats Launched

The report stated that an important addition to transportation facilities of the northwest during the past year was launching of the diesel-powered steel boats, Radium Queen and Radium King, on the Mackenzie River route. The tugs were built at Sorel, Que., and moved to the north in sections by rail.

Another noteworthy development, the report said, was construction of an eight-and-a-half mile pipeline with storage tanks to overcome navigation difficulties at St. Charles Rapids on Great Bear River. This is believed to be the world's farthest north pipe-line.

A fleet of tanker barges was constructed at Fort Smith to aid movement of oil between wells 50 miles below Fort Norman and the consuming points. Oil during summer months now moves on a regular schedule in the northwest.

Tractor Road Built

The report said that completion of a winter tractor road from Yellow-Knife Bay to the Gordon Lake area speeded up movement of heavy freight. Brought to Yellowknife Bay during the water navigation season, freight and supplies are re-shipped 75 miles by tractor at much cheaper rates than the former method of aerial transportation.

The airline continued to play an important role in northern development, the report said, with the number of planes in service in the northwest last year varying from 16 to 20 operating from Edmonton, Prince Albert and Fort McMurray. Indications are that this number will increase this year.

2,000,000 Tons For Year Is Expectation Voiced by Anthracite Institute

Exports of Pennsylvania anthracite to Canada in 1937 may exceed 2,000,000 tons for the first time since 1931, the Anthracite Institute said this week.

During November, 1937, the export total was 232,517 net tons, according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures, the highest tonnage for any month since February, 1931. The total for the first 11 months of 1937 was 1,825,199 tons, and compilation of December figures was expected to push the tonnage above 2,000,000.

A year ago Pennsylvania supplied Canada with 47.5 per cent. of its anthracite, but the percentage now has increased to 55.2, the Institute said. The United Kingdom's anthracite shipments to the Dominion have dropped 12 per cent.

Hitler to Visit Duce In Spring

Committee Starts Work on Plans For Colorful Reception

Plans to welcome Chancellor Hitler of Germany with fanfare rivalling the greeting of Premier Mussolini in Germany last September, were discussed this week by an Italian Government reception committee.

Hitler will visit Italy next spring, returning Mussolini's trip through Germany. The exact date has not been fixed but he is expected to arrive in Rome on May 9, second anniversary of the proclamation of the Italian Empire.

The committee sought to arrange for Hitler the most spectacular entrance possible into Rome. Newspapers already have urged that he leave his train outside the city and ride ceremoniously past the Coliseum, the Arch of Constantine, the Basilica of Masenzio, the Roman Forum and other vestiges of the glory of Ancient Rome.

News In Review

New Jap Conscription Law

TOKIO.—The Japanese War Office has called for a new conscription law to mobilize additional man power for the war in China, while Emperor Hirochito presides over an Imperial conference on the conflict.

The Ministry of War announced that the conscription bill to be submitted to Parliament would swell the ranks of the armies by restoring the old 24-month term of service instead of the present term of 18 months. The former term was in effect until 1927, when the conscription law was revised.

Unemployment Insurance Proceeds

OTTAWA.—Although faced by an opposition blockade of three Provincial Governments, the Federal Administration will proceed with plans to provide for an unemployment insurance measure, Prime Minister Mackenzie King intimated last week following a meeting of his Cabinet.

Younger Men Appointed

LONDON.—Further high army appointments were announced last week end as additional proof the policy initiated by Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, of bringing youth and ability to the fore, is being aggressively pursued.

The new appointments are a direct consequence of the sweeping shake-up of the Army Council, Dec. 2, when the Minister passed over fifty senior Generals to make Maj.-Gen. Viscount Gort Chief of the Imperial General Staff, and, by wholesale retirements, reduced the average of the Council from 63 to 52.

Supreme Soviet Foregathers

MOSCOW. — Newly-elected Soviet deputies gathered in colorful array in Moscow this week ready for the first session of the Supreme Soviet. Many of the deputies, coming from distant regions, had to start their journey in sleds drawn by reindeer or dogs. In some cases it took 15 days to reach a railway. Several had never seen a train before.

Pope Warns Hitler

BERLIN.—A dramatic warning by the envoy of Pope Piua to Chancellor Hitler that mankind calls for peace, and a reply in which Hitler pledged himself "honorably and confidently" to co-operate with all nations marked a New Year reception to the diplomatic corps this week when brilliantly uniformed foreign envoys and a little group of high Nazi Government officials were grouped in the Fuehrer's Chancellory in the historic Wilhelmstrasse.

Tide Has Turned

MADRID.—President Manuel Azana declared in a decree this week the victory of Government forces over Spanish insurgent troops at the provincial capital of Teruel, 160 miles east of Madrid, changed the face of the Spanish war.

Ozana awarded the Laureate Insignia of Madrid to General Vicente Rojo, Chief of Staff of the Government's central army and commander of the Teruel offensive.

Rioting In Austria

VIENNA.—Disorder raged throughout Austria this week-end as Monarchists and Nazis clashed with clubs, stones and stink-bombs at sixty mass meetings, called to open a campaign to restore the 25-year-old Archduke Otto to the Hapsburg Throne.

The worst disorders occurred in Vienna, where eleven meetings were held in tribute to the handsome and exiled youth, who is hailed as "Austria's savior."

Fifty anti-Monarchists were arrested in Vienna and at least 200 in other parts of Austria. Numerous suspects were released after they were taken into custody for investigation.

Refuse to Recognize Him

WASHINGTON. — The United States' refusal to recognize King Victor Emmanuel of Italy as Emperor of Ethiopia has resulted in suspension of the Italo-American negotiations for a commercial treaty.

Informed sources said Mussolini required the new treaty to be made in the name of Victor Emmanuel as King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia and that State Secretary Hull refused.

Arrested On Fraud Charge

CHATHAM.—Bail was set at $5,000 each last week-end for two London, Ont., men who allegedly obtained $300 from a Raleigh township resident by claiming they were members of a syndicate which had sold a patented chemical formula to Lawrence Du Pont for $4,000,000. The two are Samuel Willis, 69, and Thomas Agnew, 57.

News Parade

Commentary on the Highlights of the Week's News . . . by Peter Randal

UNCONQUERABLE? — An interesting article by Frank Illingworth in an English magazine discusses the exceedingly timely topic, "Can China Ever Be Conquered?" Drawing lessons from Chinese history, the writer comes to the conclusion that the Japanese will detach more and more of China; that the Chinese will fight desperately, and probably lose.

But as soon as the conqueror settles down, the Chinese will go back to his fields, back to his books of wisdom, back to the cities and villages where life has not altered one bit for centuries. "And the Japs? They'll become Chinese!"

China has already been conquered successively in the past two thousand years by the Tartars, the Kitans, the Juchens, by Jenghiz Khan and his Mongol hordes, by the Manchus. But all these invaders have settled down and been absorbed amongst the Chinese.

Two thousand years of history have by now accustomed China to the thought that any conquest of her 400,000,000 people can only be a temporary affair.

WE'RE ALL CRAZY: Scientists and psychologists are telling us now, and apparently no one is daring to say them nay, that insanity or a tendency towards it exists in a large number of people who look to be perfectly normal. Two specialists speaking before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, went so far as to declare that a great many supposedly normals should trade places with insane patients in mental hospitals.

They based their remarks on tests made of forty-three patients in an Ohio mental hospital and of another group of forty-three college students.

Which shows you never can tell. As the old saying goes, "All the world's a little queer but thee and me, and sometimes I think thee's a little queer".

THINK OF THE CHILDREN: If loving parents bent on giving their firstborn a beautiful name would pause a moment and reflect on how that name is going to sound to the bearer of it twenty years hence, there would be far fewer foolish monickers disguised under variegated initials in the world today, and the number of sheepish, henpecked-looking individuals slinking about their daily rounds would be considerably less. Think of the effect the precious name is going to have on your sensistive child before you make the decision irrevocable! Best rule to follow: steer away from the exotic; stick to common sense.

It takes all a man has, to rise above a name like "Cyril" or "Elmer".

HEAVIER POLICING: Motorists of Ontario were given a chance to behave themselves on the roads at Christmas time, and look what a mess they made of it—the blackest holiday toll ever! A wave of protest has swept the country and indignant letters have been appearing in the press. Now the Attorney-General of Ontario is doing something about the situation, ordering an immediate and substantial increase of the motorcycle patrol force of the Provincial Police, instructing them how to prevent violations of the traffic laws.

We motorists have failed to act like adult human beings on the streets and highways of Ontario. If for a change we are treated like the children we evidently are, better road behavior may result.

BALANCE OF POWER: When Italian Fascism in the person of Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Ciano, crossed into Hungary last week on a diplomatic mission, it met with a sharp disappointment. Hungary and Austria refused to say "yes" to the Italian suggestion that they quit the League of Nations and recognize the regime of Franco in Spain. Neither would they join the anti-Communism pact recently signed by Germany, Italy and Japan.

The democratic powers had reason to breathe easier following this rebuff.

Nevertheless the new Rumanian set-up with Octavian Goga as virtual dictator under King Carol's wing is viewed as threatening to reverse the balance of power in south-eastern Europe, and the democratic governments tremble. Reason why: Rumania, as ally up to now of Czechoslovakia, has been helping to block Hitler's proposed march east through Czechoslovakia to seize the oil and grain fields of the Ukraine.

It is our fervent hope that Rumania will continue with her former allies in spite of governmental changes and not line up with the Fascist powers.

BIRTH RATE FALLS: In the first half of 1937, births decreased in the Dominion of Canada, 0.7 per thousand. At the same time deaths increased 0.6, the figures raised by a higher disease toll and a larger number of automobile fatalities.

Looks as if the population of this fair country may shrink to nothing before we know what it's all about.

Flying Classrooms

Four Big Planes Will Carry Six to Eight Student Flyers And Instructors In the R. C. A. F.

"Flying classrooms" will lighten the tedium of learning for Royal Canadian Air Force student fliers. Construction of four big planes will be started soon in a Montreal aircraft factory at a cost of nearly $100,000.

Each of the four sturdy Noorduyn "Norsemen" will have accommodation for six to eight instructors and students and will be used to teach embryo fliers such sciences as bombing, map reading, navigation, sketching, radio communication and "spotting" for artillery.

Supplement Ground Teaching

The aerial classes will supplement the usual theoretical teaching of ground school. Under actual flight conditions, Canada's young airmen will learn the science of aerial warfare under the first-hand guidance of experienced instructors.

The big Canadian-designed transport planes will have attachments for bomb sights, ground-to-plane radio, removable ports and mounts for aerial cameras, and gun mounts.

Monoplane Transports Used

To aid teaching navigation, especially under adverse weather conditions, latest navigation instruments will be installed.

The "classroom planes" will be built by Noorduyn Aircraft, Ltd., at suburban Cartierville, Quebec. They will be monoplane transports of metal construction and powdered with a Wasp engine of 525 horsepower, giving them a high speed of nearly 170 miles an hour.

In keeping with Canadian flying conditions, the new planes will be adaptable to skis for Winter flying and to either wheels or seaplane floats in the Summer.

"There can be no real prosperity in state or nation for either the industrial city or the agricultural country without the other being prosperous." — Herbert H. Lehman.

A year ago a discarded cutting from a pineapple plant was thrown on a rubbish heap at Torquay. It is now bearing fruit and growing rapidly. So, although it refused to thrive when pampered with care and attention, it manages to enjoy life when left to its own devices on the rubbish heap.

Where Apples Get Their Rosy Cheeks

Chemical Substance Called 3-Galactosidylcyanidin is Said to Be Nature's Rouge; Effect on Complexions Studied.

According to chemical tests carried out by the United States Department of Agriculture, it is not rouge that puts the blush on the cheeks of apples, but a chemical substance that sports the awe-inspiring title of 3-galactosidylcyanidin. If an apple merely has 3-galactosidylquercetin it is usually yellow in appearance, but 3-galactosidylcyanidin is the stuff that makes one of those nice red skins you love to crunch. The tests have shown that this substance is present in yellow apples of the Grimes Golden variety, but it is not identical with or responsible for the yellow color of the skin. In red apples the unseen coloring matter is acted upon chemically and changed to red idaein, which is a simpler name for 3-galactosidylcyanidin. They have not yet identified the conditions that cause this change from yellow to red.

Color Is Important

Color in apples is important to growers and to consumers. For the grower there is the practical advantage that well-colored apples are not nearly so subject to injury by storage scald as are apples in which the color is imperfectly developed. Buyers have a decided preference for well-colored apples, whether they are yellow or red, and are willing to pay higher prices for them. There is good reason behind the preference. For the consumer, good color is a practical and easy guide to selection of good ripe fruit.

The chemical changes that are essential to the formation of good color are the changes that are also required to bring fruit to maturity and to develop flavor, aroma, and palatability. This research does not compare the merits of yellow apples and red apples. It does bear out the popular idea that to be good, red varieties ought to be red and yellow varieties yellow.

MAKE YOUR LIVER Produce its bile

Your liver has a big job to do. Make it do what it is supposed to. Its job is to produce 18 to 36 fluid ounces of bile every day and send it through the system. If it falls down on its job you suffer. AND HOW!

The most effective stimulant for the liver known to medical science is calomel, which in small doses is of the highest use in congestive conditions, especially those due to overeating, over indulgence in alcohol, lack of exercise, etc. Tanol Tablets contain a certain proportion of calomel, blended with cascara and other medicines. They are mild and harmless. But your liver understands and takes the hint. For sale at all druggists, 50c. (B)

HAVE YOU HEARD

Somewhere she lies across a bed. Her frail form shakes with sobs.
Through weary months she searched for work — but there weren't any jobs.
Her empty arms prove life is cruel.
Though young, she's lost all dreams.
She's not to blame—for circumstance tossed her into its schemes.
A thing that promised her deep joy brought horror, unbelievable.
They've torn her baby from her arms
—a crime that's inconceivable!
While—through mere lack of money—
scenes like this are authorized,
Each day throughout our land — how can we think we're civilized?

—Lyla Myers

Two parsons were having lunch at a farm. The farmer's wife cooked a couple of chickens, saying that the family could dine on the remains after the visitors had gone, but the hungry ministers ate them all.

Later the farmer was conducting his visitors about the place when a rooster began a lusty crowing:

One of the Ministers — "Seems mighty proud of himself."

Farmer (growling) — "No wonder. He has two sons in the ministry."

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: — "John lets me charge everything I wish," said the carefree wife, "so I never buy anything unless I need it."

Professor of English—"Correct this sentence: 'Girls is naturally better looking than boys'."

Pupil—"Girls is artificially better looking than boys."

READ IT OR NOT—A horse has no eyebrows.

A man with a big wart on his chin dropped into a doctor's office to have it removed. When he failed to return for additional treatments, the doctor phoned him to ask how the wart was getting along. "Just fine," replied the patient. "My face is gone, but the wart is still there."

Nell—"I hear that you and Elmer are engaged. I don't suppose he told you that he was engaged to me last year?"

Bell—"Well, dear, he did say something about there being things in his past he was ashamed of, but he didn't go into details."

The mother-in-law joke is overdone. Ever notice that when there is sickness in the family, the first person sent for is the wife's mother?

A golfer was driving off about a foot in front of the teeing mark. The club secretary happened to come along:

Club Secretary (indignantly) — "Here! You can't do that. You're disqualified!"

Golf Player—"What for?"

Club Secretary—"You're driving off in front of the mark!"

Golf Player (tersely)—"Away with you! I'm playing my third stroke."

The mills of the gods grind slow. And that's also the way the old head works when you're trying to think up a snappy retort to somebody's wisecrack.

Along Canada's Mining Highway

From coast to coast the aggressive expansion goes on—bringing results that indicate another new record of production for 1938.

The Province of Quebec is the scene of great activity. East Malartic Gold Mines, now developing underground, shows definitely a "big mine" outlook. Adjoining on the east, the Rand Malartic property reports good diamond drilling results. On the Lacoma property in Tavernier township exceptional results are reported from first new work underground. The East Lacoma people are planning diamond drilling. In the west section of the Province, Powell and Beattie show healthy development.

In the Larder Lake district of Ontario, great activity is apparent. At the Barber Larder property mining plant is being installed preparatory to underground development of the extensive orebodies indicated by diamond drilling. Fernland is preparing for shaft sinking. Kerr Addison continues development on a large scale. Martin-Bird is shaping up well, with important new ore developments in the west section.

Kirkland Lake Gold, Pamour and Buffalo Ankerite receive much favourable comment in the older mining districts. Albany River and Uchi are looming up importantly in the Patricia district.

Alberta reports much good news, indicating this Province as a potential big source of oil supply for the British Empire. On the west coast of Vancouver Island a new camp is causing some excitement. Bralorne and Ymir Yankee Girl report favourable developments.

Money Spent Was Boon to Industry

$61,000,000 Spent By the C. N. R. During 1937 From Almost Ten Thousand Canadian Firms.

Purchases made by the Canadian National Railways during 1937 amounting to over sixty-two million dollars from approximately ten thousand Canadian firms assisted very materially in bringing various branches of Canadian industry back to normal conditions, R. C. Vaughan, Vice-President in charge of purchases, stores and steamships, stated in an interview at Montreal last week in which he reviewed the year's activities of his department.

"We expended considerably more for the purchase of material and supplies in 1937 than in 1936," Mr. Vaughan said. "That was necessitated by the increased business handled, which required the running of more passenger and freight trains to meet the needs of increased traffic. Consequently, more fuel was burned and a larger quantity of train and other supplies were used."

"Our shops were also operated to greater capacity during the year, which was necessary to meet the equipment requirements of the railway, and, therefore, more material was required for that purpose."

Fifty First-Class Coaches

"Our total purchases of material in Canada in 1937 approximated $62,506,000. Of that amount approximately $15,140,000 went for new equipment, and $11,216,000 for Canadian fuel used on our locomotives and in our boiler houses, stations, coaches, etc. Approximately 315,700,000 feet of forest products were bought in Canada by the Canadian National Railways in 1937, which consisted of materials for construction and repairs to equipment, buildings, etc. Of that quantity 225,700,000 feet are represented by track ties."

During the year the following new equipment was delivered to the National System by car builders in Canada, Mr. Vaughan announced. Fifty first class coaches; 10 mail and express cars; 2,665 box cars; 49 flat cars; 15 ballast cars; 30 and cars; 300 gondola cars; and 175 freight refrigerators. In addition, 125 freight refrigerators were built in C. N. R. shops.

Air-Conditioning to the Fore

"During the year we had a heavy air-conditioning programme in connection with our passenger cars, and 126 cars were air-conditioned," Mr. Vaughan added.

"In 1937 there was a substantial increase in the price of some lines of material, but we are hopeful that there will be recessions in price during the year."

"The expenditure by the Canadian National Railways of such large sums of money in Canada has meant many million man hours of work for our Canadian citizens and has done much to assist various branches of Canadian industry back to normal conditions.

We all feel this way at times:

Physician—"Are you ill? Let me see your tongue, please."

Patient—"It's no use, doctor. No tongue can tell you how bad I feel."

Passenger Traffic Is Up 15 Per Cent.

C. N. Railways Vice-President Reports Volume of Freight For Year 1937 Also Tops 1936 Figures.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—The volume of freight and passenger traffic carried over lines of the Canadian National Railways during the past year shows a considerable improvement over that of 1936, Allstair Fraser, Vice-President in charge of Traffic, stated in a review issued here last week.

"The year 1937 was one of steady progress in the volume of freight traffic handled, as well as changes and improvements effected in our service to the public," said Mr. Fraser. "While there was a heavy falling off in grain shipments, resulting from the very light crop in parts of Western Canada, this was more than offset by the improvement in general business, resulting in an increase in freight tonnage handled of approximately ten per cent. over that of 1936.

Progress In Mining Development

"Mining developments in Northwestern Ontario and Quebec have shown remarkable progress during the past year. The opening of that portion of the Canadian National Railways' new Senneterre-Rouyn line from Senneterre to Val d'Or on November 29 provided much-needed rail facilities to the numerous mines located in that area."

Increased 15 Per Cent.

Mr. Fraser stated that passenger traffic on Canadian National lines had shown an increase of fifteen per cent. during the year. "Increase in train travel generally resulted from the upward trend in spending power that was noticeable during the greater part of the year," he said. "Frequent low fare excursions between Canadian cities and towns, and to points across the international border, brought hundreds of thousands of people to the railway for short coach trips. Good progress was made in the air-conditioning of our passenger equipment. We have had air-conditioned standard and tourist sleeping cars, dining cars, compartment, observation and library cars, parlor cars, buffet club coaches and lounge-buffet cars in service for some time. By the purchase of fifty air-conditioned first-class coaches of the latest design during the past year, we have attained the objective of having all principal main-line trains fully air-conditioned."

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER WITH YOU ALWAYS

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

THIS is the time of year when telephone service is even more valuable than at others. During the winter months the companionship and protection afforded by a telephone in the home are indispensable to comfortable living.

The home that has a telephone is always happier and more secure. Those who live in it are benefitted both spiritually and physically by the outside contacts the telephone makes possible—and in the hour of emergency it may save life or property. Through just one service it may repay its cost for months—perhaps years.

Just compare what a telephone will give you, with what you pay for it. You will find that in usefulness, protection and convenience it represents unparalleled value. Can you afford to be without it?

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

DECORATIVE SILHOUETTES

Since the puppy is likely to move, a photographic flash bulb, which gives an instantaneous flash of light, was used in making this silhouette.

PHOTOGRAPHIC silhouettes are a source of decorative pictures—and camera fun—which every snapshooter should try. The arrangements are simple—a white sheet stretched over a doorway, or division between two rooms, with a strong light behind it and the camera set up in front.

By arranging his subjects in front of this brightly illuminated sheet, the clever photographer can construct any number of imaginative or story-telling pictures. Costume snaps are particularly interesting in silhouette, and there are possibilities for many humorous pictures of the "it-can't-be" variety.

For instance, a juggler can be pictured keeping a dozen or two balls or bottles in the air at one time, or a camper can be pictured with two skillets, flipping a dozen flapjacks at one shot. In both these pictures, the objects to appear in the air would be cut from black paper or cardboard and pinned to the sheet at proper points.

The sheet must be stretched evenly, as wrinkles will show in the pictures. Lighting behind the sheet should also be as even as possible. Five feet is a suitable distance from lamps to sheet.

Three sixty-watt inside-frosted electric bulbs will provide enough light to give good results with five-second time exposures, using a box camera with its lens at widest opening, or other cameras at lens stop f.11. To stop movement when pets or small children are appearing in silhouette, use a flash bulb behind the sheet. Or, with two or three large size flood bulbs snapshots can be taken.

When using the flash bulb, someone can flash it at the correct moment at an "okay" signal from the person operating the camera. There should be sufficient light, from unshaded regular household bulbs, behind the sheet for the "cameraman" to see the silhouetted images and to know when to give his "okay" signal.

When the silhouette is snapped, of course, all lights must be turned off in the room which contains the camera and subject. Unless this is done, detail in the subject will show, spoiling the silhouette effect. The photographer should also be watchful of stray light from windows, and mirrors which might catch light from the illuminated sheet and throw it toward the shadow side of the subject.

Canadian Winter Eggs Please British Housewives

A new branch of Canadian commerce has been established in the shipping of winter-produced eggs to Great Britain, a move officially inaugurated January 13 when the Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverbrae sailed from Saint John with the first carlot shipment. A week before the sistership Beaverford carried a sample shipment overseas, the first Canadian winter-produced eggs ever sent to Great Britain. Up till then only "storage eggs" had been shipped, England receiving her fresh eggs from Continental countries. Canadian government officials stated this progressive step would boost the Canadian product above the standard of Australian eggs and bring them into competition with poultry supplies from Denmark, drawing better prices for Canadian farmers.

Photos above show: Department of Agriculture "light-box" test for freshness after which each egg is individually stamped "Canada"; unloading eggs from Canadian Pacific Express delivery truck; the Beaverford sailing from Saint John with the first shipment and the smiling British housewife who won distinction as being the first user of the Canadian fresh eggs "putting the finger on" her package of "firsts". She said: "They're delicious; much better than the foreign imported eggs. With Canadian bacon they form a wonderful meal!"
