PRACTICAL REASONS FOR PARLIAMENT'S ACCELERATION

One of the impellent reasons why the final part of the second session of the 19th Parliament witnessed such speed in carrying out the work at hand was the fact that members' indemnities expired for this session on May 25th, 1941, with the result that members attending these gatherings in Ottawa do not receive any payment since they cannot be paid for the next indemnity until the third session has actually commenced.

RUSSIAN ALLY AND CANADIAN COMMUNISM

Although the man-in-the-street throughout Canada is puzzled over the policies of the Canadian Government in regarding Russia as an ally in this war and at the same time persecuting Communists, yet this matter has been cleared up along Parliament Hill because the official explanation has been given in the capital that the Communist Party was declared illegal not on account of its attitude towards Russia but on account of its subversive attitude towards Canada's war effort. This means that Russia's entry into the war has not changed the situation much or it is irrelevant in itself.

OTTAWA DOES NOT FAVOUR WOODEN SHIPS

It is well-known along Parliament Hill that certain interests have urged the Government in Ottawa to consider the possibility of building wooden ships for war purposes, especially has this effort been strong on the part of Members of the House of Commons from British Columbia, but the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, has settled the issue by stating that wooden ships will not be constructed in Canada for war purposes because it is not worthwhile. In the first place they cost as much to build in Canada as steel ships. In the second place, they would be of little or no use after the war is finished.

GASOLINE RATIONING AND AGRICULTURE

There is little doubt now in the capital that gasoline rationing will come sooner or later for Canadian motorists, but it is learnt from the highest authorities that this will not apply to agriculture purposes since this is regarded as a war and the farmer will be protected.

PARTY POLITICS AND CANADA'S WAR PLANS

When the information backstage is analysed by an expert, it is apparent that the people's representatives of all political parties in Ottawa know that national sentiment now is overwhelmingly opposed as it has never been before to any mixture of political and war issues. In other words in face of all stories or dispatches from the capital, yet the political angle is not the dominant phases in certain war issues and it will not determine the fate and future of war policies or leaders. The sudden political activities along Parliament Hill have specific cause and definite meanings, though these have not been obvious in the official dispatches or stories. These political activities are merely timely reactions from the Official Opposition Party, quarreling amongst themselves occasionally and placing them at a disadvantage by the supposed emptiness of the excessive multiplicity of followers and contention for power, prestige, and a greater share in the supposed affluence of the organization.

IS PETAIN'S ANNUITY COMING FROM CANADA?

A story has circulated that a charge has been made in the House of Commons in Britain that Marshal Petain of France draws $2,670 a year from a Canadian company, but upon investigation or closer examination of the case it is discovered that no Canadian company would be allowed to send money to Marshal Petain as an annuity, though if the money is paid through an English branch of such a company it might be different since the event of such instance this would depend upon the British regulations on such matters. In other words, money can be sent to France subject to two controls, one being the Foreign Exchange Control Board and the other being the Custodian of Alien Enemy Property which regards France as a "prescribed area."

POULTRY MARKETING

Total volume of dressed poultry marketed in co-operative producers' pools to the middle of November for the present year was 137,497 lbs. which is an advance on the figures for the same period last year. This was marketed in a total of 34 pools. Of the total, 44,118 lbs. were capon, 62,607 lbs. were chicken, 30,366 were fowl, and 406 lbs. were turkey. Of the total of more than 100,000 lbs. of chicken and capon marketed, about 85 percent was in the milk-fed grades.

Turkey pools will be under way early in December but the volume of turkey is expected to be considerably below that of last year, for various reasons, chiefly due to heavy mortality in hatchings early in the year, a condition noticeable also in other provinces.

T. B. TEST IN KINGS COUNTY

Test for T. B. in cattle is proceeding in Kings county, where a total of 10,188 head have been tested with only 82 re-actors, a percentage of only .8. This is the seventh county in which general test for T. B. was carried out in the past two years, the others being Yarmouth, Cumberland, Colchester, Pictou, Hants and Antigonish.

HOME PRODUCTION OF PORK

Junior boys' and girls' clubs for production of pork for home use have been successfully conducted in five fishing centres along the eastern shore of the province during the past season, this being the first time in Canada that such a project was undertaken in connection with junior farm clubs. The main purpose was to produce pork for home consumption in fishing centres for improvement of the meat rations of the families concerned, and to utilize waste food materials from the homes. The clubs were operated in Little Dover, Malmdieu, Little Lorraine and North River Bridge. An average of 15 hogs has been raised in each of these clubs, providing a substantial meat supply for these centres during the coming winter. The project was operated under the joint auspices of the dominion dept. of agriculture, and the extension division of the provincial dept. of agriculture, and A. D. Hales, B. S. A., of Guelph, Ont. who conducted killing demonstrations for each of the clubs. These were for the purpose of demonstrating the proper manner of killing to get the most meat from the carcass. Methods of cutting and curing pork were also demonstrated. Each club later on will have a cured meat show, when various cuts of meats cured in various ways will be exhibited. During Mr. Hales' visit, a judging class on live hogs was conducted at each point, after which the hogs were killed and dressed and again judged. Mr. Hales also gave demonstrations to the students at the agricultural college at Truro.

SALES AND PRICES OF DAIRY COWS

Reports received by the markets branch of the Nova Scotia department of agriculture indicate that in the main the export of dairy cows from the province was lighter during the month of October and that the cows sold within the province, largely to meet requirements of milkmen supplying the provincial markets, went at considerably higher prices than in the earlier months.

In Yarmouth county during October, six grade Guernsey cows of good quality reported sold at $75 each. In Colchester and East Hants a shipment of grade Holstein and Guernsey springers went to Massachusetts at an average of $81. Several shipments of fresh grade cows went to the Sydney area at $75 to $125. There were some sales in West Hants of fresh grade cows at $80 to $90. Two high class Guernsey cows sold early in the month for $150 each. In Kings county prices on local sales averaged around $75.

Information from Ontario and Quebec tell of one lot of purebred Holsteins from Southwestern Ontario going to Pennsylvania at an average of $160, another small lot to Michigan at $200. Good grades were from $90 to $120. In central Ontario commercial purebreds sold from $125 to $150. Good grades from $90 to $100.

In Quebec purebred Jerseys sold at an average of $150 for cows and $125 for heifers near calving. Four carloads of grade Ayrshires brought from $55 to $65. Commercial purebred Ayrshires brought from $100 to $165.

An interesting item clipped from a British agricultural paper tells of a sale of a dairy cross heifer zellfree at one sale in the old country for £32 which would be close to $400 Canadian money, and grades selling for from £70 to £80.

PASSENGER TURNS REFUND OVER TO RED CROSS

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 24—A few days ago a resident of Virginia, Minnesota, paid a visit to Winnipeg and on his return a railway official noted that there should be an adjustment on the price of his ticket. The matter referred to the passenger traffic officials of the Canadian National Railways who quickly sent out a money order to cover the difference. Recently a letter was received from the passenger returning the money order which had been endorsed back to the company. His letter read "We are returning to you Canadian National Express money order N. Q. Q 975474. We have signed this order and would thank you very much if you would hand this money to the Red Cross. Wishing for Britain a crushing victory against its enemies." The money order was passed along to the local branch of the Red Cross Society.

OUR AIRMEN

By G. J. COFFEY, St. Peters, C. B.

A cold gray dawn is breaking o'er the dark and dangerous deep
As one by one the silent shapes of ships in Convoy creep,
Across the twisting, endless lanes of sub-infested sea,
Bearing the awful tools of War that men might still be free.

Yes, they must go, a steady stream from this and other quays
But Tools of War are useless save for human hearts and hands;
And so they go, with smile and song, our best and bravest boys
To find Adventure, Life and Death in Europe's flaming skies

Seems only yesterday they played upon the Summer sands,
And watched the heron's silent swoop across the darkening strand;
Then rested tired little heads when toys were put away
N'er dreaming thru long, blissful sleep of Things that Are to-day.

N'er dreaming that the Dogs of War, unleashed by savage Huns,
Would soon arouse a fearful world to man the vengeful guns;
That soon a million souls enslaved by armed might and lies

When winged Death filled England's skies with thunder, fire and flame
The vanguard of a mighty Host our gallant airmen came;
To take their place with those who fought off Hitler's hordes of hell;
To tell a bleeding Motherland that all would soon be well.

O God who moulds all mortal men from out the common dust;
Who knows the price we yet must pay e'en tho our cause is just;
Protect and guard our splendid ones until Thy Wrath has passed,

Bridge The Strait Of Canso

As the proper body to press the matter on the authorities, the associated boards of trade of Cape Breton have taken up the question of improved crossing facilities at the strait of Canso. The question has been in the slings for a long time and no definite effort has yet been made to look into the project. If it is really impracticable the public of this island should be informed of it, says the Glace Bay Gazette.

When mention is made of improved facilities connecting the island with the neighbouring peninsula, either a bridge or tunnel is meant. The ferry service might be improved but it could not be sufficiently enlarged for the transfer of heavy trains carrying coal or steel. Cape Breton with a population of nearly 150,000 produces two of the most important commodities for the production of war supplies, coal and steel, not to mention fish and other products.

P. E. Island with about half the population of Cape Breton is receiving prodigious amount of attention in the matter of transport and it would be no surprise if steps were taken to tunnel the Northumberland strait. Apart from the production of potatoes there is scarcely anything the island turns out that merits large scale transport facilities.

Most of the island's transport problems are of course connected with passenger service and with the development of air transport. But it is scarcely in the same class as Cape Breton as regards production of national importance. Not that anybody in the isolated section of the dominion begrudges the islanders anything that they can work out of the government, but there ought to be some degree of proportion about government aid to these sections of the dominion.

The peculiar thing about the strait-transfer problem is that no public man on either side of the strait or on either side of politics has ever ventured to challenge the government on the matter, not at least since the late Hon H. F. Macdougall brought the question to the attention of the authorities at Ottawa.

Canada And The World

(By D'Arcy Marsh)

HON. ANGUS L. MacDONALD

Among the more important announcements made recently was that of Hon. Angus MacDonald, minister of national defence for naval affairs, who promised that during the next year Canada would build at least 100 ocean-going ships, quite apart from those she has been committed to construct as part of a naval building program. The ships will be freighters designed for the Atlantic carrying service, and will presumably be around 10,000 tons. It is worthy of note that one vessel of 9,200 tons was launched the past week at Lauzon, Quebec, and that this is the third of a number of ships contracted for by Quebec shipbuilders.

It has long been accepted that Canada should build ships for the Atlantic service as speedily as possible, but few persons have yet noted that the establishment of a shipbuilding industry in Canada—to be more exact, one should say the re-establishment of Canada's historic shipbuilding industry—may prove to be one of the few permanent changes in the Canadian economy wrought by the war. Once, in the days of the wooden bottoms—Canada was among the great boat-building nations. The industry waned and the people of the Maritimes turned to fishing primarily as a means of sustenance. Now, on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the industry is booming again, and there is no reason why the boom should not last until long after peace has been signed.

One of the mysteries of the present war is the manner in which Britain is continuing to build ships. According to speculation of correspondents, secret shipyards are dotted around the English coast, so that construction can go ahead despite the serious results of the air raids. That, obviously, is the only way in which Britain can hope to continue shipbuilding for the great ports and shipbuilding centres such as Hull, Bristol, Southampton, Glasgow and Liverpool have been exposed to merciless attacks on the part of the Luftwaffe.

However, although such a device is a legitimate wartime measure it is not the most efficient way in which to build ships, all other things being equal. Furthermore, it will be some time after peace has come before Britain can restore her great shipbuilding centres to their former state of productive efficiency. Yet the period directly following upon the end of this war will be a period in which ships are at a tremendous premium, and it is precisely in that period that Canada will have her chance of establishing a permanent and extremely remunerative industry along her coastlines.

The ill wind of war may at least blow a modicum of good towards Canada in this respect.

ON TO VICTORY!
NOVA SCOTIA!

5 BOMBERS EVERY MONTH FOR THE DURATION

This is Nova Scotia's objective in the National War Weapons Drive

● We've nearly done it! Our province is close to its objective in the War Weapons Drive. But more pledges are urgently needed. Our soldiers, our sailors, our airmen are counting on us. More regular purchases of War Savings Certificates mean more weapons for our forces. Each of us must do his part — not one of us must shirk his duty. Let's all get behind this drive for the last push to success.

Remember—our present objective is just a start. Our job for the war is far from finished. We must do better and better until Victory is achieved. This means larger investments in War Savings Certificates — month in, month out, for the duration. Let's make our effort a power drive for Victory.

NOTE and COMMENT

The trouble with a lot of men in C. B., who have music in their souls is that they insist on having it also in their motor horns.

A man who represented himself as the son of a British peer has pleaded guilty to tendering seven rubber cheques. He wasn't what he peered to be!

Marshal Petain, who now collaborates with the Huns, said recently: "Germany has established a claim to the world's gratitude by fighting Russia." Then what a claim to the world's gratitude Russia has established by fighting Germany.

Hitler can point to one advantage of the New Order. Subject peoples dropping a slice of substitute bread don't have to worry about its falling butter side up.

All is not well with an army when its generals spend too much time in the huddle, like the Nazi high command in front of Moscow, which now does not know what play to call next.

Another bad feature about poltroonists is that they're fellows who drink alone.

There were deaths by a cocktail party at which drinks were made from anti-freeze. Those who drank the stuff that knocks out the cold, found that it can also knock them cold.

A Newark magistrate ordered a statute of Justice out of his court room because it was, he claimed, too scantily clad. Yet that man probably expects the naked truth from witnesses.

There "captive" coal mines that figure in the news despatches must surely be financed by an issue of bonds.

A man who is right on his toes, even when he lies down on the job, is the politician who is busy keeping his ears to the ground.

"Sock Uncle Sam, Tojo," gurgles Adolph from the clutch of the Russian bear. "I'll take a chance," mumbles Benito. I did, and look at me now."

A life insurance doctor who objects to overweight may, like Darwin, believe in the survival of the fittest, but he does not believe in the survival of the fattest.

Every person, says a doctor, should carry information on his blood type, but there are plenty of fellows with porker faces who don't need it. One glance shows that they are cold-blooded.

Even though other kinds of wages are frozen, the wages of sin, no doubt, are still hot money.

One lesson of war as learned by the Finns: It is hard to get out when once you've slipped in.

It should be clear, even to Berlin, that no Hitler dove can roost on Mr. Churchill.

Former Ambassador Cudlay repeats that Hitler suffers from a malignant disease, although in any event the disease can't be half so malignant as the patient.

Germany is disappointed to find that captive countries don't make nice pets. They are ungrateful enough to bite the hand that bleeds them.

Asked if they approved the administration of Dictator Antonescu, Rumanians voted yes 874,915; no 17. At dawn the next day the sound of 17 shots convinced the majority that they had voted wisely.

100th Anniversary

NOVEMBER 20 was the 100th Anniversary of the birth of Sir Wilfred Laurier and to mark the event the five room brick house in which he was born in the little village of St. Lin, Que., was dedicated by Government University leaders as a national shrine.

As stated by The Ottawa Journal "a younger generation may find it hard to realize the devotion and the passion that Laurier's name called from this country. He became a symbol; his name a rallying cry for millions. And when, in the end, he passed from the scene, it was as if a great light had gone out in our midst; as if (in Whitman's famous line over Lincoln) a great oak had crashed on the hillside, leaving a lonely spot against the sky.

"Yet the name of Laurier lives on among us; and it is well that it should. Such men belong to no party but to all of us and to history—go on to weave by memory and tradition the stuff of a braver world. At this solemn hour in our destiny it is especially fitting that we take inspiration from what life told for us."

The News Behind The News

The news behind the news, which for certain reasons of policy is not published, has a most important bearing on the real truth. Reading a despatch one is apt to jump at a conclusion which may be wide of the mark. For one, even for a brief day to get behind the scenes and become possessed of information previously withheld, is an experience which sheds a new light upon various problems. Conditions change so fast these days that few people can keep up with the procession, which moves with great swiftness. The world grows smaller as the days pass.

The practice of news commentators is now to give news stories for what they are worth from centres such as London, Moscow and Berlin. Frequently the despatches are so diametrically opposed that it is an impossibility to tell who is telling the truth and who is lying. Each nation plays up its own victories, leaving to its enemies the task of publicizing the disasters and failures. In doing this the tendency is to magnify what is mine and minimize what is thine. In following this course likely everybody is stretching the truth more or less. It is indeed a difficult task to find the truth amidst the chaff of misrepresentation and error.

The Commandos

There is something about the newest fighting forces developed by the British army to stir the imagination. Even the name, "Commandos," departing from the routine nomenclature, suggests that it is no routine task for which these men are being set apart. Recalling the feats of others who bore it, the name carries the implications of adventurous work ahead for the members of the new force.

What has been permitted to be known about the Commandos heightens these impressions. A picked body of men, selected for physical prowess and mental alertness, permitted to select their own officers who in turn select their men from volunteers for special tasks, the whole setup sounds like that of the picturesque free companies of the middle ages more picturesque perhaps in fiction than in fact. There is no fiction about these men, however. They are very real and they are being prepared systematically for the execution of certain tasks which may call for the use imagination inspired by a love of adventure, but which also call for keen minds and cool heads if they are to be successful.

More will be heard of the Commandos before the war is over, and it is safe to predict that the enemy who will learn about them at first hand will not enjoy the lesson.

Vichy France generously announces it will not deprive the Jews of their business, but will content itself with confiscating all their profits. This is proof that the traitor leaders of Vichy France are followers of Hitler and his murderous tribe.

HAILIE SELASSIE PROCEEDS SLOWLY

Cautious co-operation with Haile Selassie in the re-organization of Ethiopia is the keynote of British policy. Secretary Anthony Eden told enquirers recently that Britain was looking after Ethiopia's interests until such time as the country was "reinvested with sovereignty."

An Associated Press writer said last week, Haile Silasse is looking hopefully to the future. Broadcasting to his people on the occasion of the feast of Maskal recently, he said:

"People of Ethiopia, we shall not desist from working for the good administration of our people. But you must all realize that time is necessary to restore a house that has been in ruins for five years.

"You are doubtless aware that discussions are in progress with the Government of Great Britain that will enable us to achieve our goal. The work that we are carrying out for our good people must not lead to spurious liberty but to real liberty."

Guided by British advisers, and himself enjoying a greater prestige than ever before, Haile Selassie has set out to preserve whatever accomplishments of the Italian conquest may be deemed beneficial, to work toward a national integrity and security far beyond those existing before the conquest.

BEAR LOOKS IN ON CANADA'S SOLDIERS

Moncton, N. B., Nov. 25—Even the bears are interested spectators of Canada's army in the making. Just recently, states Ernie Poole, Fish and Game Representative for the Canadian National Railways, a military unit stationed in New Brunswick was engaged in a route march and went marching merrily down the road headed by its officers. All unnoticed, from the vantage point of some thick bushes along the roadside, was a good-sized bear. In his eagerness to get a closer glimpse of Canada's fighting men, he leaned out too far from the protecting screen of bushes with the result that the marching soldiers were presented with the spectacle of a shaggy bear's head sticking out from the bushes. Since this is one of Canada's big game hunting preserves two of the officers figured here was a chance to do some hunting and supply the unit with some tasty meat, so they took a couple of pot shots with their service revolvers. Mr. Bear decided, however, discretion was the better part of valor and gave an exhibition of just how quick a bear can make a getaway, notwithstanding his apparent awkwardness.

U. S. SKIS FOR RUSSIAN FIGHTERS

Montreal, Que., Nov. 24.—Almost on a par with the old saw about sending coals to Newcastle is the fact that American skis are now being shipped to Russia. When the Canadian National's "Maple Leaf" arrived in Montreal from Chicago recently, an extra express car was attached carrying 4,000 pairs of Minnesota skis for transfer to an eastern Canadian port for trans-shipment to the Soviet.

Rudolph Hess, who revealed that Hitler hopes to starve Britain, must be hoping that his old chum doesn't succeed.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

WATCH THOSE SHADOWS

Dark shadows in the face are usually a feature of snapshots of this type. A large white blotter, however, was used here to revert sunlight back into the shaded areas, avoiding harsh, contrasty lighting.

SHADOWS in photography can sometimes be used to deliberately improve a snapshot; other times they are troublesome. Probably you have taken outdoor portraits in bright light in which you found extremely dark shadows below the eyes of a hat, the nose, or the eyes. These, of course, you want to avoid, and there are several simple methods to correct this fault.

Indeed, the use of reflectors, or light-reflecting mediums. These are the easy way to find; in fact, they may even be a natural part of a scene. For example, a snapshot of a person sitting near the side of a white house usually has soft translucent shadows so that you can easily see detail in the dark portions. Or a sheet of newspaper or large square of white blotter may be placed in such a manner that the light is reverted into the dark areas. This added illumination in the shadows makes the range of brightness more uniform with the result that "harsh" appearances are eliminated.

If no reflector is available, then a good outdoor informal portrait can easily be made by having the subject turn away from the sun so that the strong light comes well from one side, or from behind. It's important with this type of lighting to time your exposure to record detail in the shadow side of the face.

Another simple solution is to place the subject where there is no bright sunlight—in the open shade—as on the shady side of a house under the open sky. In such a location, give about twice as much exposure as you would for the same type of snapshot made in bright sunlight.

Now for the other side of the question. It is not always advisable to soften shadows or avoid them. Long, interesting shadows are distinctively a feature of early morning or late afternoon scenics, and at these times their inclusion in a snapshot adds a quality of depth or third dimension.

Always study the shadows before you shoot. If you are snapping an informal portrait and think the shadows may be distracting in the finished print, try to soften them. If they have a definite place in the composition and will improve your picture, by all means be sure they are included.

CANADA HAS TWENTY RIVERS NAMED BLACK

One Of Them Is In Richmond County

Montreal, Que., Nov. 24.—Twenty streams in Canada named "Black River" are located in seven of the nine provinces of the Dominion, states C. K. Howard, Manager, Tourist Convention Bureau, Canadian National Railways. The two exceptions are the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta. The Province of Quebec, according to Mr. Howard, has nine "Black" rivers and they are situated in the counties of Abitibi, L'Islet, Drummond, Joliette, Charlevoix, Portneuf, Bellechasse, Pontiac and in Saguenay region. There are five Black Rivers in the Maritime Provinces, one of them is to be found in Richmond County four in Ontario and one each in Manitoba and British Columbia.

CAPE BRETON BOARDS OF TRADE TO URGE BRIDGING OF STRAIT

Among resolutions to be placed before the convention by the Associated Boards of Trade of the Island of Cape Breton will be—proposal to bridge the Strait of Canso, and complete improvement of the C. N. R. roadbed east of Moncton.

It is suggested in some quarters that the King government was elected on the pledge of an all-out war efforts, that it should therefore adopt conscription, and that it shows fear of the ballot box when it does not do so. Such an argument ignores the fact that the government was elected on a no-conscription pledge, and that, instead of fearing the ballot box, Mr. King has said that he will not adopt conscription unless the people by their ballots so decide. On the other hand ,there is not much force in his argument that the people voted against conscription in 1940, for those what favored it at that time had no chance to express their wishes at the polls in an election where both Liberal and Conservative leaders had declared against it.

ADVERTISE

Death of Rev. Fr., Maillet

Rev. T. P. Maillet, assistant to Rev. D. E. Chisholm, P. P., Pomquet, died at St. Martha's Hospital last Thursday morning, Nov. 20, after a brief illness. Cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of death.

Father Maillet had been in indifferent health frequently during the past year. Last Wednesday evening he was to have been the supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. MacAdam on Church street. Towards evening he drove to the yard of the Antigonish Wholesalers, where Mr. MacAdam is employed, and it was while he was sitting in his car waiting that he suffered the fatal seizure. He was removed to St. Martha's Hospital where he died Thursday about 7. a. m., after the last rites of the Church had been administered by Rev. L. G McKenna.

The remains were taken to St. Croix Church, Pomquet, pending removal for interment to Chetticamp. Solemn requiem Mass was celebrated Friday morning by Rev. P. A. LeBlanc, P.P., Chetticamp. Rev. J. R. MacDonald was deacon, Rev. E. Chaisson, sub deacon, and Rev. H. J. MacDonald, master of ceremonies. Bishop Morrison gave the absolution his chaplains during the Mass being Rev. A. Briand, and Rev. Louis M. Maillet, Chatham, N. B., brother of the deceased. The sermon, both in French and in English was preached by Rev. Alfred Boudreau, Petit de Grat. Members of the diocesan clergy and the parishioners of Pomquet in large numbers attended. Interment was made at Chetticamp Monday.

Theophilus Paul Maillet, son of Pelycarpe and Mary (Romard- Millet was born at Chetticamp, February 5, 1898. After preliminary education at the convent in Chetticamp he attended St. Ann's College, Church Point, Digby Co., from 1914-1918. He entered Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax, and was ordained at the seminary by His Excellency Bishop Morrison, February 22, 1922. A few days after ordination he was appointed to the parish of Friar's Head, other parishes he served were: West Arichat, Louisdale and Glace Bay before going to Pomquet in November 1938.

Four brothers and two sisters survive, including Rev. L. M. Maillet, and a Sister in Arichat convent—The Casket, Antigonish.

CAPABLE SCOT GIVEN HEAVY WARTIME JOB

A six foot Highlander with a powerful personality and a knack of getting things done in the bewildering world of finance has just been appointed to the heavy responsibility of guiding his country through an economic sea completely unmarked on the charts of democracy.

His name is Donald Gordon, and at the age of 49 he has been called from his job as Deputy Governor of the Bank of Canada to the chairmanship of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. It will be his task to put a ceiling over prices to stop the spiral of disastrous inflation.

Horatio Alger would have liked the story of Donald Gordon's rise to his present position of vital importance. He arrived here, a penniless Scottish immigrant, at the age of 19. At 15 he started out in the field of finance as a clerk in the Bank of Nova Scotia. At 19 he was a bank inspector, the youngest in Canada. At 29 he was assistant manager of the Bank of Canada's main office in Toronto and at 34 was first secretary of the Bank of Canada. At 37 he was the Bank of Canada's Deputy Governor. Now, at 49, he faces a job that will require every ounce of training and financial ability he has acquired in the steep climb from immigrant boy to bank governor.

He brings as a blessing to his new job the traditional solidness and sense of fair play of the Scot. He is a realist in a job where wild theories and a tendency to dabble with haphazard experiments might be disastrous.

He makes no effort to gloss over the grief involved in the things he is attempting. He believes it is unavoidable as the grief Canada's fighting men must bear in serving their country, on the sea, and land and in the air. But he is also convinced that it is a means of heading off a worse grief and to this end he has turned the energies which have already made him an outstanding figure on Canada's economic scene.

The Best Chance

Nova Scotia Farmers Ever Had

NOT even during the first great war, were Nova Scotia Farmers in as favorable a position as now to increase production profitably, and to build up their farms for the future.

Here are the factors which have created such a situation:

1. Assured markets for dairy products, eggs, bacon, because of Empire war contracts.
2. Better Price levels for these products than for past ten years.
3. Greatly reduced cost of feeds because of the Free Freight Policy.

NOW WE CAN PLAN AHEAD

For years farmers in Nova Scotia have labored under the handicap of low prices and high costs.

Now that the relationship of these two is more favorable to profitable production, farmers should not only make an effort to produce more to help fill the Empire's needs, but should plan to build up their farms on a more permanent basis for the future," when our present advantages may have disappeared.

HERE ARE SOME SUGGESTIONS

1. Arrange feed rations to utilize the large surplus of good quality wheat available at new low cost.
2. Continue to increase production of home grown grains.
3. Develop more areas for fertilized pastures and clover production by greater use of lime under the "cheap lime" policy.
4. Conserve time and labor on the farm by careful planning and better organization of farm work, and by use of labor-saving machinery where possible.

The Empire needs all the dairy products, bacon and eggs we can produce. This is our golden opportunity. Let us make the most of it.

Consult your Agricultural Representative on these matters.

Hon. L. D. Currie's Visit

Hon. L. D. Currie, who is to succeed D. D. Boyd as the county's next provincial representative, was in town on Wednesday and made a most favourable impression on the people whom he met. He was accompanied by Mr. Boyd, who introduced him to as many of the electors as his short stay would permit. Mr. Currie was defeated in C. B. East by the combined efforts of both Tories and C. C.P.. The Conservatives placed no candidate in the field in C. B. East, but concentrated their efforts on defeating Mr. Currie. Their loss is our gain and that will be fully borne out after Mr. Currie becomes Richmond's able representative.

What Advertising Does

The cost of advertising is part of the general cost of business. Instead of forcing prices up, however, advertising by widening markets creating mass demand makes possible the great economies of mass production and distribution. This saving is reflected in prices to the consumers. In fact, this saving, in some instances far exceeds the cost of advertising. Has this ever occurred to the business men of Richmond county?

Is Frankness A Virtue?

We speak of the frankness of youth as though it were a virtue. Is it a virtue? There is no mistaking the meaning of plain words to express ideas, but some ideas are better left unexpressed. A due sense of delicacy in mixed company, a respect for the weaker sex, a deference for ages, are indicative of qualities of greater value to youth. In self-perfect, youth no more than age should publish all it knows about some matters.

It is said that young Nazis are taught to worship a statue of an athlete. More appropriate would be a statue of Cain. Though to say so is a terrible insult to Cain's memory.

Liberal Convention Nominates Hon. L. D. Currie

The Liberal convention held at St. Peters yesterday afternoon which nominated Hon. L. D. Currie as the Liberal candidate to contest Richmond county in the by-election to be held on December 15, was one of enthusiasm for the candidate nominated and gave evidence that the large audience was more than pleased over the selection made. Mr. Currie was unanimously nominated from the floor and all stood up to ratify the choice of the convention. W. A. Urquhart acted as chairman, and performed his duties very satisfactorily. When Hon. Mr. Currie stepped to the front of the platform there were vociferous cheers which lasted for several minutes and testified to the fact that the electors of Richmond, if an opponent steps into the arena, that Mr. Currie will be elected with an overwhelming vote. The time and space at our disposal does not permit us to give a lengthy account of his admirable speech. A bare outline would not suffice to do justice to his eloquent peroration, the best ever heard in the county hall at St. Peters. He certainly lived up to the reputation that he had earned as one of the provinces's ablest speakers and it was free from acrimony and personalities. He struck a high and patriotic note in his reference to the European war and stated that "Hitler and his cohorts" must be defeated if we are to live in peace and security and enjoy the freedom which our forefathers had fought so hard to secure. He said that all the buildings in London town could be burnt to the ground its dead could fill its rivers but there would "Always be an England", which brought down the house. Mr. Currie was delighted that an opening was made in this county for his election and expressed his gratitude for the warm reception accorded him. We cannot go into detail in describing his eloquent address, as space and the short time at our disposal makes this impossible just as we are going to press. The chairman at the conclusion of Mr. Currie's speech asked for a one-minute silence out of respect to the memory of Rt. Hon . Ernest Lapointe, one of Canada's outstanding Canadians, who died a few days ago. The audience reverently bowed their heads as a silent tribute to a distinguished public man who served his country faithfully and well for many long years.

D. D. Boyd, A. E. Morrison, Rudolph LeBlanc, Dr. Deveau, F. C. Cotton, H. T. Boudreau, Warden Johnson, Stanley W. MacLeod and a Mr. Landry from River Bourgeois, were among the speakers.

Dr. McGarry, M. P., who has been laid up for some weeks on account of a car accident, wrote a letter read by the chairman regretting his inability to attend the convention and expressing his high opinion of Hon. Mr. Currie.

FUNERAL OF REV. FR., BURRELL

At the funeral of the late Father Burrell held recently the following were the pallbearers: E. C. Doyle, Dr. B. A. LeBlanc, G. J. LeBlanc, R. J. O'Leary, Dr. G. R. Deveau and J. E. Samson.

The service was conducted by Rev. Father Monbourquette, P. P., assisted by Rev. Fr. Keats, St. Peters; Rev. Fr. Briand, West Arichat; Rev. Fr. Landry, Louisdale; Rev. Fr. Boudreau, Petit de Grat and Rev. Fr. Boudreau, L'Ardoise.

Rev. Father Landry, of Louisdale, delivered a very touching sermon in both French and English.

Fr. Landry, Fr. Boudreau and Samuel Vicneau assisted in the singing during the service and at the graveside.

The funeral was one of the largest ever held and the large church was crowded to capacity by people from all over the Island.
