DECISION ON LEADERSHIP AND POLICY

There is considerable interest now in the highest political circles in Ottawa in the objective, constitution and work of the general committee for the national Conservative convention in a few weeks since its organization to represent all sections and all factions of this Official Opposition party. When a similar committee was organized last fall to deal with the whole question of leadership, policy and organization in general, this committee decided against holding a national convention at that time, naming instead Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as leader, though it was no secret in well-informed quarters in the capital that the twice former Prime Minister and leader in the Senate did not want the assignment. However, there are hints now that a complete reorganization of the party and its policies is coming in such a way as not only to inspire the rank and file of the Official Opposition party but to produce new vigour through great changes in both leadership activities and policies.

RUMOR IS SPIKED

Ever since the amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act was passed so as to allow the use of draftees for overseas service, if the Government wanted to do it, various stories have circulated regarding the results of this action by the Liberal Government in Ottawa upon the Liberal Government in Quebec, with a widely prevalent rumour that the Quebec Government intended to hold soon a general election as a test on this issue. In fact, this rumour has reached a stage where the Premier of Quebec, Hon. Adelard Godbout himself has had to spike the rumour. "The Government has not ever discussed the question, he said," and I don't see any reason to do it. This is a typical instance of the exaggeration about Quebec's reaction on this issue.

HEADQUARTERS' SELECTIONS PREVAIL

Though the resignation of Brigadier Riley, D. O. C. for Manitoba, has been followed by much critical comment and dispute, yet it is pointed out along Parliament Hill that Brigadier Riley's resignation can be ascribed to ill-health. In regard to the story that headquarters had named an officer to command a training camp other than the one suggested by Brigadier Riley, it is reiterated that headquarters officials are not forced or compelled to accept such suggestions or nominations from any D. O. C., if it is desired or deemed advisable to do otherwise.

FORERUNNER OF OTHER REVISIONS

Under the new revised regulations, aliens resident in Canada can now be called up for military service, even if each case is to be treated on its merits by the authorities. But at the same time it is indicated in the naten's capital that this move is only a forerunner of other revisions which are expected as likely to be made in order to stiffen considerably the regulations in calling up men for military service.

PRIORITIES OF WORK AND COMMODITIES

In somewhat similar vein which established priorities in many commodities in this war, the Government in Ottawa is creating priorities in many commodities in this war, the Government in Ottawa is creating priorities in labour so that those may be a proper rating or scale of essential and non-essential work, with this policy being predicted as early as the middle of last summer when meetings were held in the capital on this subject. Of course, these priorities in labour lists can and might be changed in accordance with developments on the home front or activities of the armed forces in this war, which sometimes cannot be readily foreseen even by the authorities. Nevertheless, this is an extremely important declaration for all men and women in Canada and this means that in time and in whatever stage men and women as well as their work business or profession are to be under complete control of a graduated system or pool. This national regimentation under Selective Service organization may involve some delay, uncertainty and experimentation, but it is emphasized in well-informed circles along Parliament Hill that there are no alternative measures in "total war." These measures will undoubtedly involve novel and history-making tasks in tune with the tempo of increasing activitie s on the part of Canada and the others of the United Nations in the various theatres of war.

Holds Meetings On Larger School Unit In This County

Inspector J. A. Comeau continues to hold public meetings in the various school sections of the County to explain the Larger Unit of School Administration to ratepayers. These meetings are largely attended by the men and women of the various districts. Nearly half the sections in the County have been approached and to date only one community has gone on record as opposing the new system of inspecting schools. Before the week is ended, it is quite evident that a majority of the sections will have voted in favor of the Larger Unit. Generally speaking, the ladies of the County seem to be very much in favor of a system that will eventually improve education in all communities. Already many ratepayers, when the regular discussions are over, remain in school to debate various improvements that should be undertaken during the year or next summer. When the Improvement Cup is awarded next all it is estimated that many schools will compete for the honor. Mr. J. A. Benoit, ex-Inspector of Schools for this County, who assisted Inspector H. M. MacDonald of Antigonish in the Campaign for the Larger Unit last year, assisted Mr. Comeau in a number of sections. Mr. Benoit saw the Larger Unit grow in Antigonish County and is a strong supporter of the system.

By Flight Lieutenant T. C. McCall
Royal Canadian Air Force

You don't have to budge off this continent to find a part of it that is at war grimly, earnestly and on a round-the-clock basis.

Find, if you can, this base where a Bomber Reconnaissance squadron is stationed and within five minutes of your arrival it will be borne home to you with a pronounced degree of clarity that the war which has already engulfed most of the earth, is already right on the North American doorstep.

It is being fought twenty-four hours a day by lads from your own home town. They live in remote outposts along our coasts, do their jobs quietly and effectively and succeed in helping to maintain the lifelines from the New World to the Old.

They miss out in the glory that accrues to their brothers overseas. There are few communiques about their work. But you'll find morale and spirits as high as anywhere in the world. These chaps know that they're doing a man-sized job and doing it well. They're hitting Adolf where it hurts him the most—spoiling the carefully laid plans of the last ten yeas to destroy Britain and her Empire by cutting her supply routes.

This Bomber-Reconnaissance Squadron is just one of the Royal Canadian Air Force units engaged in the vital task of searching out sea raiders and protecting shipping from the scourge of submarine wolf-packs. Its planes—huge, twin-motored craft—range far out over the North Atlantic every day and night. Bad weather, poor visibility, extreme icing conditions mean little to these lads. When the seagulls are thumbing rides, the planes of this Squadron are still in the air looking for subs.

They find them, too. Security does not permit revelation of details of attacks and the results achieved, but when the record of this war is written, some pages will be devoted to the exploits of this group.

Visit the squadron at their base and you'd be struck very forcibly by one fact. A bomber crew is not a collection of individuals but rather a well-coordinated team. It is in many respects a football team. The pilots are the lads who carry the ball. They get most of the gallery's applause and share in all the spectacular plays, but they are the first to admit that without the best efforts of the other members of the crew, their own work would be useless. There is "Tail-end Charlie," the wireless operator-air gunner. He does the blocking for the team, fights off the opposition, outguesses his opponents and is generally indispensable. And there is the air navigator who calls the signals, acts as boss a good part of the time and steps modestly aside when the kudos is being handed around.

In a bomber-reconnaissance squadron which works hundreds of miles at sea and far from its base, the navigator is probably the number one man, if any man in the outfit can be considered more important than the rest. Here is why:

In the first place, the aircraft must reach its objective which in this case might be a hundred-square-mile area of ocean over which a "sweep" is to be carried out. This particular region may be three hundred miles off the coast. It is the navigator's job to see that the plane gets there by providing the pilot with a course which will take into account the constantly changing speed and direction of the wind as well as atmospheric conditions which might build up icing on the wings.

Assuming that the patrol area is reached without difficulty and that the "sweep" is carried out, the next task of the navigator is to get the aircraft back to its base safely. A good portion of the plane's fuel supply has already been used and the chances are that the tanks do not provide for a sightseeing junket to Greenland or Cape Cod. What the navigator has to do is to set a course which will bring the bomber right spang over its home aerodrome. Probably night has fallen in the meantime and there is a fine drizzle of rain. It is still up to the navigator to find exactly where he is and how to get from there to where he wants to be, quickly and accurately. Between its present position and the base the plane may run through fog or heavy clouds which, under winter conditions, will load inches of ice on its wings in a matter of minutes. And a heavily loaded plane will require more fuel. Or, arriving back over the aerodrome, the pilot may find that the weather has closed in—as it frequently does on coast bases—and it is impossible to come down. So the navigator has to help select an alternative field, perhaps 600 miles away, and provide a course which will get the craft there before its gas tanks run dry.

Little wonder, then, that the navigator rates very highly in the Air Force's book. In a pinch he must be able to man the guns, and on occasion to help with the plane's controls. For all this he has the unstinted praise of his fellow crewmembers and the satisfaction of knowing that the pilot must rely upon his store of specialized knowledge.

Richmond County Liberal Association Hold Meeting at St. Peters

Senator MacLennan and Dr. McGarry, M. P. Addressed the Meeting

A meeting of the Richmond County Liberal Association was held at St. Peters on Wednesday, October 7th at 2 p.m.l. and was largely attended by Liberals from every district in the County.

The President W. A. Urquhart, of West Bay, opened the meeting and was sorry to say that one of the important speakers Hon. L. D. Currie, Minister of Mines was unable to attend but asked the president to convey his best wishes to the meeting and that he would be with them at some future date.

Senator Donald MacLennan was the first speaker. He thanked the people of Richmond for the warm welcome he always received in this County. The Senator was in great form and outlined the course the King Government had taken during this war as compared to the conduct of the World War of 1914-1918. He said that Nova Scotia was fortunate in having three Cabinet Ministers in the King Government, who hail from the province of Nova Scotia and who are conducting our war effort in a very efficient manner.

He praised Dr. McGarry the federal representative and said that he was a man in whom the electors of Inverness-Richmond, Cape Breton West, could place their confidence. He also gave Hon. L. D. Currie, Mnister of Mines praise as an able man and a good orator and that Richmond should feel proud of him and advised the Liberals to hold on to him and elect him whenever an election arises and that they would be doing the right thing. During his address Mr. MacLennan kept the meeting in laughter with many witty stories.

The president W. A. Urquhart, then called upon Dr. M. F. McGarry, M. P., and in making the announcement said that Dr. McGarry was called after two very well known names in the Bible "Moses and Elijah" and that we all knew how famous Moses was and that Elijah was the man who was carried up into heaven, at this Dr. McGarry retorted that was where he was going.

Dr. McGarry in his address said that it was impossible for him to get in contact with all the people of this far flung constituency as he is over six months in Ottawa and that the most effective way to get in touch with him is by means of correspondence. He was very frank in his statements and said that some little public works could be given out at this time and only in the places where it was found to be an absolute necessity. He said the military had taken over all work to assist Canada in her war effort. He said we going through a dark phase in our history but we could see victory for the Allied cause only if we will do our part on the home front. Today the people of Canada are paying out of their earnings and savings to help Canada in her war effort. He spoke of the part the armed forces of this country are doing and are prepared to do to keep the enemy from our shores so as we may live as free people. Dr. McGarry said that the King government deserve credit for having established a Wartime Prices and Trade Board only three hours after war had been declared in 1939 and for many more wartime measures undertaken since the outbreak of war.

Brief speeches were given by A. J. Langley, Port Hawkesbury; S. W. MacLeod, Cleveland; Warden Johnson, Johnstown and M. J. Bourinot, Arichat.

The following officers of the Richmond County Liberal Association were appointed:

W. A. Urquhart, President
S. W. MacLeod, Secretary.
M. J. Bourinot, Vice-President.

The executive will comprise members from the different districts throughout the County.

On motion the meeting went on record as expressing their sympathy to Mrs. A. D. Samson and immediate relatives of the late A. D. Samson a former president and honorary president of the Association. Two minutes silence was observed in memory of his passing.

Dundee School Holds Trophy For Second Year

At a meeting recently held in the Dundee School House to discuss the Lager Unit of School Administration, Inspector J. A. Comeau again awarded the cup donated by the Canadian Forestry Association to Dundee Section. The people of this small communityk take great pride in their school surroundings and are determined to keep the cup as long as possible. The ratepayers of Dundee maintain that whatever section takes the cup away from their school they will have to work hard.

CHECK RADIO LICENSES

Receiving set owners will see to it that they have the little slip, which is the official permit to tap the skyways of the country and pipe programs into their homes, or else. Transport Department Inspectors are on th march again and already N. S. citizens have felt the pressure. In the eastern section of the Province last week, a number of set owners were "caught napping" so goes the tale, but not from the calibre of the programs it is presumed.

Rumor has it that Premier Bracken of Manitoba won't accept the leadership at the Conservative convention to be held this fall. In other words, that gathering may set the heather, but not the Bracken, on fire.

DISRAELI'S ESTIMATE

Benjamin Disraeli was famous in literature and politics for the keenness of his pen and sharpness of his wit. This was illustrated in a conversation with a companion as they strolled along the bank of the Thames. Upon being asked the difference between calamity and catastrophe he replied curtly without hesitancy: "If my opponent fell into this river it would be a calamity, but if I fell in, it would be a catastrophe."—Christian Science Monitor.

NOVA SCOTIA FARM NEWS

Timely Fall Suggestions

In referring to the extreme labour shortage on most farms of Nova Scotia, Mr. Mcdonald stated that it is important to get all the plowing done that it is possible to have completed this fall and so save valuable time next spring. Another thing we should keep in mind, he said, is that in all probability we shall not be favored with as early a spring as we were this year, and therefore the more that can be accomplished along the lines of fall plowing, putting implements in condition, and planning work generally for next year, the easier it will make it for everyone next season. It is encouraging to learn from the fruit growers, Mr. McDonald further stated, that more help has gone into the Valley than had been expected. Consequently the fruit growers are well up to date with their picking and it is to be hoped that the more severe frosts will hold off so as to enable the harvest to be completed without serious loss.

In conclusion Mr. McDonald said that the Department would like to take this opportunity to express its appreciation to the merchants of the Valley towns, as well as the educational school boards and the young people for their assistance in helping to meet the labor shortage situation.

Weather and Crop Report For Month of September

Rainfall during the month of September at the College Station, Truro, amounted to 8.96 inches, falling on 13 days. This is greater than the rainfall during the five months, April, May, June, July and August. Of this amount 6.91 inches fell during the period September 21 to 24 inclusive. This is greater than the rainfall during the four months, May to August inclusive. September also was a warm month with the maximum reached 91 degrees reached on September 2, and with 19 days over 70 degrees. The minimum was 27 degrees reached on September 26 while the temperature fell to the freezing point on one occasion and on three days fell below 40 degrees.

The very heavy rainfall during the four days starting the night of the 20th resulted in one of the worst floods in the history of the province in the rentral counties. In many districts the amount of rain falling during this period was much heavier than at Truro. The eastern part of province only received a light amount of this rainfall while the western part received less than in the central district.

While the rainfall will help fall pasture and aftergrowth, also turnips, damage was done to grain not yet in, also potatoes. Thus A. D. Burris, Upper Musquodoboit, had 20 acres of potatoes under water, and picked up over 100 bags washed out on one five acre field. Much damage was done to roads and intervale and marsh lands. Fall plowing will be furthered as much ground was too dry for plowing with horses. It is to be noted though that there has been more plowed to date this fall than for years mostly with tractors.

Canning Blueberries

The Larry's River Co-operative creamery has received, to date, more than nine thousand gallons of blueberries this year. It is expected that the year's business will exceed 2,000 cases.

Cash Income From the Sale of Farm Products for Nova Scotia

An increase of $1,000,000 or 13% in two years' time is shown in the cash income from the sale of farm products for the first six months of 1942. This is as taken from data put out by the dominion bureau of statistics. The total cash income for the first six months of 1940 for Nova Scotia amounted to $6,246,000.00 while for 1942 it amounted to $8,821,000.00. It is significant that the returns from dairy products came first, supplying 20.3% of the total for 1940, increased to 31.6% in 1942. It is also of interest to note that returns from poultry and eggs were greater in the first six months of 1942 than for cattle and calves, or hogs, amounted to 8.4% of the total as compared with 5.7% for hogs. Sheep and lambs have not varied much during the past three years, but returns from cattle and calves have doubled and both hogs and poultry and eggs have greatly increased.

The Production of Hatching Eggs

It took quite a lot of hatching eggs to produce nearly a million baby chicks hatched in Nova Scotia hatcheries last spring! It took approximately one and a half million eggs, or over 4000 thirty-dozen cases,—produced by nearly 40,000 approved hens.

All hatching eggs used by hatcheries must come from approved flocks of pure bred birds, which must be selected, banded and blood tested individually for pullorum disease until eactors are found to be less than two per cent.

This work is already started this fall and anyone interested in same should write the provincial poultry promoter, dept. of agriculture, Truro, N. S., for rules and regulations governing this work, and application form.

The production of hatching eggs is a profitable response to the ever increasing number of poultrymen in Nova Scotia. For a period of four or five months in each of the past few years some poultrymen have been getting a premium of more than fifty cents per dozen over the wholesale price of A Large eggs.

Bonds and War Savings Certificates

In order that the specified objective of the third Victory Loan may be reached, the National War Finance Committee hopes that every single citizen who can buy a Bond or Bonds will do so. Knowing that there were many primary producers who could not buy War Bonds previously they have devised an additional means by which farmers and other primary producers who have not cash but have products they expect to sell may become purchasers of war securities. Briefly, under the new Victory Ticket method a farmer or other primary producer may suscribe any products or port ion of products which he expects to sell and authorize the purchaser to remit part or all of the proceeds to the National War Finance Committee who will remit Bonds or War Savings Certificates or Stamps up to the amount remitted. Full particulars may be obtained from members of your County War Finance Committee.

NOTE and COMMENT

A man has indeed to be vain of his reasoning ability if nowadays he would rather have his tire punctured than his argument.

There's a ceiling on the price of gas, but no floor on the coupon value. The motorist who thought he was on the ground floor with an "A" book is now in the cellar with an "AA."

In Russia Wendell Willkie kissed a ballerina. That is pleasanter than campaigning at home and being limited to babies.

Old-fashioned persons like the writer who wear long nightgowns will get cold feet at the thought of the war night gowns that are to be knee length only.

Some weather prophets think it will be a long winter from the way squirrels are hoarding. From the way some humans are hoarding, it should be a long war.

Having allready performed miracles, the Russian defenders of Stalingrad may yet move out to invest Berlin.

That convention of Conservative laymen, says an enthusiastic observer, electrified Canada from coast to coast. But it didn't relieve the party's or the country's power shortage.

Marshal Von Hoth succeeds Von Bock. In short, it seems to be just Von after another. Still, as there is no evidence of retired German generals being beheaded, it is not quite a matter of chop and change.

In those unheated schools, the little shivers are also little shivers.

After that cloudburst in Halifax, those who want a curb on alcohol will demand a curb on water also.

Those who say there is no war effort at Halifax should bee the effort to find a room for the night.

The Huns are finding that the Volga is like Vodka, really hot stuff.

Having taken women off their high heels, Britain will take Hitler off his high horse.

The man who thinks the war already won is as much a menace as the man who talks gloomily about it. This is no time for bell-ringing or hand-wringing.

Prince Edward Island now supplies moss formerly imported from Ireland. The harvesting, of course, is done by local men, for as is well known, migrant labor gathers no moss.

Though a dagger is a symbol of the new Victory Loan campaign, the bonds aren't financially a stab in the dark. They are a sure thing.

If the Conservatives hold a convention in November, they already have the opening lines of a speech going. "It was in the dread November—how distinctly I remember."

Twenty-one thousand Canadians reported in August that they had lost their national registration cards. That's very serious. How'n a man in know who he is if he has no card to consult

Don't Turn Over

We're facing a desperate hour in a critical year of the War and a grim job lies ahead for all Canadians.

Not so grim as scaling the blazing cliffs of Dieppe, or crawling wounded along its fiery beach. Not so terrible as hurtling down from a flaming Hurricane on Cologne, Hamburg or Munich. It won't call for the heroic determination of the defenders of Stalingrad, or demand the supreme sacrifice of those long lists of men who went down on the Raccoon, Charlottetown and Ottawa.

Nevertheless it's going to be a real sacrifice—to many a great sacrifice—and it's going to take plenty of courage as well as determination. It's going to mean that many people of this Province will willingly give up pleasures they love, comforts they want, or even things they consider necessary, because they are made of the same strong fibre as those other Canadians who stormed Dieppe and who will fly nightly over Germany, and who on the North Atlantic, stand ready to give not merely their money, but their lives, to accomplish the same grim job.

The plain fact is that the task ahead is a stark "must" to carry on the war, and if we don't see it through to quick and complete success the lives of our husbands, sons, brothers and friends who are doing the fighting may pay for our failure through the delay caused while the Government has to review its disbursed plans and order on other methods of taking our money instead of being able to push steadily ahead getting sorely needed planes, guns and tanks to some blazing hell in which our men are fighting on time.

We have never been the sort of people in this Province to be the cause of "too little, too late", through skimping the war effort by tightening our purse strings. We are proud of the reputation we have won in the past, and have richly deserved our place along the front for enduring hardship and sacrifice to accomplish a great purpose.

We shall be frank and admit that the Third Victory Loan is coming at a particularly tough time, just a month after our taxes have been nearly doubled, and we, like other Canadians who have never been accustomed to demands for our money on anything approaching the scale of today, are trying to recover from the shock and figure out our problems. We readily agree that it is not going to be easy for any of us to buy Victory Bonds.

But, we must also admit that the Battle of the Atlantic has taken a grave turn for the worse. Each news bulletin brings us word of another corvette torpedoed, another destroyer sunk. We are only holding our enemies in the desert, and the Russians fight like fury on the streets of Stalingrad It is not going to be easy to win the war, and more ships for the Atlantic, more planes, more tanks for Russia and ourselves are needed with desperate urgency.

At a crisis like the present, when our enemies are making a supreme effort to force a decision, speed is the essence of success. We must take the fact that we, also, must strain our resources to the limit to counter their attacks, and must act with speed and decision. Never was it truer that he who gives speedily gives twice.

We are not going to talk in high sounding generalities to make it appear that buying a Victory Bond is any easier than it is. We are not Government officials writing from an office a thousand miles away, but like yourselves, feeling up with all the inconveniences, shortages and annoyances of this wartime part, and we understand your problems and share your views.

Put yourself in our place. How would you feel if you had to get people you have already hard pressed to make larger and harder sacrifices especially when you knew and were proud of the mighty fine war they were already taking it on the chin not counting the cost to themselves.

We feel just as you would. It is not a pleasant job. Therefore please help us out. Give us a break and DON'T TURN OVER without reading this article and others which will appear in this paper until the Third Victory Loan goes over the top.

These articles are written in an attempt to help you solve the problem of buying a Victory Bond out of your reduced income. We realize how very hard, perhaps impossible, it is for [illegible] money at the present time, and we feel it will take all of us together to figure it out.

It is vital that every one of us who possible can should buy a bond. The Government is forced to find huge sums of money to continue the war. We are being asked to lend it voluntarily in the form of Victory Bonds, and so far Canadians have responded magnificently.

DOLLAR STRETCHING

To the Editor.

Sir:—I should like to know just when the allowance for soldiers' wives and their children is going to be increased. The long winter is nearly upon us, the cost of living up and continuing to rise. I cannot conceive how anyone can properly meet all the requirements of food, clothing, education, fuel, rent, medical care, dental work, etc., on $79 a month for a wife and two children—it just can't be done no matter how well experienced one is in the stretching of a dollar. As everyone knows, no extra credit is given wives of soldiers, and when the month is up and there aren't enough funds to go around, well, there just isn't any more credit. That is the law. Hence I should like to know how we are expected to carry on. I'm sure all soldiers' wives are very anxious to help win the war, anxious with greater reason than women who still have their husbands at home, soldiers' wives will sacrifice and do everything in their power to help, but we have to have the necessities of life, the same as other human beings.

TRUE CANADIAN

BRITAIN THE BULWARK

To the Editor.

Dear Sir:—For the first part of this war Great Britain alone suffered the full force and brunt of the Germans' savage and persistent bombing? Surely then it is Britain's right to protect her own island at all costs and it is hardly up to us to criticize them who rent ammunition they could ill-afford to spare to aid Russia to the extent of lessening the protection of the British Isles. If Great Britain, falls, then the whole world will succumb to Hitlerism—yes even Canada. Why is it that when things go wrong with us we blame Great Britain? No doubt had the other free countries of the world aided Great Britain wholeheartedly at the start of this war with their manpower, then Mr. Churchill's "boast" would have been realized before this. What if we have had two years and three months of extensive preparation. What is that as compared to the many years Germany has had? And during these two years and three months of extensive preparation we cannot successfully furnish Great Britain and Russia with all the desired material. Surely Mr. Churchill, too, has realized that it would be far quicker for Canada to ship direct to Russia, but possibly Mr. Churchill's military experience has endowed him with some intelligent foresight. Great Britain has done and is doing her full share in maintaining the saltatich of the world, and it is to the Britons we should pay tribute and pay it gladly. We all know how easy it is to criticize a man in the public eye, but how much more just it is to give him his due, so let the foremost thought of all Canadians be: "Here's to Mr. Churchill."

LOYAL CANADIAN.

CONSERVATIVE DIFFICULTIES

To the Editor.

Sir:—From the time Canada declared war in 1939 the Conservative press and Conservative spokesmen have filled the air with demands for a total war effort, have accused the government of timidity and weakness, lack of leadership, have cried out for a strong-handed policy that would hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may Now we are hearing squawks, wails and cuteries about regimentation, bureaucracy and undemocratic methods from precisely the same sources. Why? Because the chips are falling their way-the things they advocated are beginning to pinch themselves Now, had their friends been in power or had even had a finger in the pie by way of a union government, there might have been warts and means of tempering the asperities of wartime policies for the favored few. Now, it seems, the very democratic nature of the methods used are their fault, everybody has to share the self-denial (mild though it is), that Canadians are supposed to be practising. Under other circumstances there might have been ameliorating factors, such as curbs jobs with fat salaries as in1917-18.

Sad, sad, very sad! But there may still be some hope for Conservatism if only there might be a refurbishing of the party program (carefully safeguarded, of course), but calculated to impress the public with the idea that the party was marching with the times and had at long last absorbed some really democratic ideas. It may seem a bit like a death-bed repentance, but as a [illegible] party has never considered the average voter bright enough to see through any sugar-coating that might cover the same old principles. For instance—"Collective Bargaining" with the decisions of a national labor board composed by a Tory (government) majority. Labor is not supposed to see the joker in that one. Then "Initiative in Business," and a strange vagueness on the subject of traffic. Anything funny about that? Not if you are as gullible as you are supposed to be.

However, recent elections seem to indicate that the Canadian voter is awake.

JOHN DOE.

SUGGESTION TIME

To the Editor.

Sir:—I often wonder if some of the advice we are given comes from the "Voice of Experience." We are advised to eat turkey and chicken to save the meat. Wouldn't the average citizen enjoy a nice chicken dinner if the price permitted it? Many consider themselves lucky to have turkey for Christmas. Regarding canning I have always done considerable canning including 40 or more quarts of tomatoes. These I was able to buy at a price that encouraged me to can for our own use. This year I purchased new rubbers to be ready for the tomato peak crop,but find that they are too dear to bother with. I can save all the trouble and risk of spoilage by buying them in tins—so why talk to me about canning. Another foolish suggestion is that people cut their meals down to two courses. Only the well-to-do ever had more than two courses. We are all out to win this war and no sane person would want Hitler's new order, but why waste time and energy making impractical suggestions.

"I'M A FREE MAN!"

"I'm glad I live in Canada. My family is safe here. There is no Gestapo, no hunger, no brutal aggression. I have a good job, and I am free, and unafraid.

"In many lands, the people have been robbed and beaten, their money and possessions forcibly taken from them. Here in my country, I can lend my money and know that it is safe, backed by all the resources of Canada, and that I will get interest on it, too. I am gladly doing without some things so as to be ready to lend every dollar I can to the country that has been so good to me and my family."

Every dollar you lend to Canada helps to protect you . . . gives you the right to work in personal freedom instead of under brutal dictators . . . enables you to live your own life, for yourself and your loved ones.

Victory Bonds are a good way to save . . . this country has always paid back every penny loaned to it, with interest. Plan now how you can lend your money . . . figure how you can save to lend more. "Canada never has failed and never will fail to meet her obligations promptly and in full."

Our country urgently needs every dollar we can spare from our earnings. Canada will back every cent with interest.

When you buy Victory Bonds you lay up for yourself the best of all investments. They are backed by all the resources of the Dominion of Canada; they yield a fair rate of interest; you can borrow against them; and they are readily saleable when you need the cash.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
PICTURES FROM HOME

Pictures from home are always a grand gift for the boy in the armed services. He'll always enjoy pictures of the family doing things. Send him snapshots frequently.

ACCORDING to the best information there's nothing which makes so big a hit with the boys in the armed services as letters from home—and pictures. But what kind of pictures? Most of us have already sent snapshots of the folks to service men. What comes next?

The answer to that is—news pictures! Not professional news photos, of course, but records of the little, personal news events that take place in every home all year round. Such subjects may not rate as big news to the world at large, but they always will be of interest to soldiers, sailors, and airmen.

•Our illustration this week, although it may not look it, comes under that heading. Not long ago it was sent to a boy in the army with the following note: "Here's a snapshot of Nancy hard at work on the farm. She's been helping Uncle Henry during the farm labor shortage, and she's earned more than enough to outfit herself for school this fall."

When you look at things that way, you shouldn't have much trouble finding good pictures to send the boys in the armed services. For instance, you might photograph dad working on the car in an effort to make it last "for the duration"; maybe you could get a shot of mother starting out to shop with her ration book. If Johnny builds a toy boat, or helps with the scrap rubber collection, you'll have two more good subjects there.

Keep your eyes open, try to develop your "nose for news" and you'll never lack subjects for pictures from home.

JUST A MINUTE!

So now it is sacrifice we are talking of! As the new Canadian Victory Loan campaign approaches, the term "sacrifice" is perhaps one which is used somewhat freely. Who is sacrificing, and what? Individuals who talk glibly, and write of a thing called "sacrifice," should first turn their eyes in other directions than their own daily lives. Should mark its significance well. Is it sacrifice to continue our customary habits and mode of life, with perhaps the odd War Savings certificate or a Victory Loan Bond thrown in as a sop to our conscience? Is it sacrifice to fall in with the Government restrictions and rationing, which appeal to many as an adventure into wartime activity? If that is the idea which at the present seizes the minds of many of our people, then the sooner we begin to realize, and practice, the real meaning of sacrifice, the better it will be for all of us. Purchasing Victory Loan Bonds cannot be considered a sacrifice by any stretch of imagination, when it affects the average individual.—Yarmouth Light.

The Second Front

We think we can safely leave the military authorities to decide the most auspicious time to open up the second front. The armchair critics are not competent to say when or where the second front is to take place. The second front is worrying Hitler and his gangsters more than their failure to take Stalingrad, and when the invasion does take place Hitler and his brother assasins will shiver in ther shoes, like tahe cowards and bullies they are.

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY—We doubt if anything Premier Hepburn, of Ontario, says in criticism of Ottawa is treated seriously any more. WITH THE R. C. A. F. OVERSEAS

This is the third of a series written by Wafter R. Legge, in collaboration with C. V. Charters, representatives of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association on a trip to Great Britain.

After a week with various activities of the Canadian Army in England, we started to see what the Royal Canadian Air Force is doing.

On Saturday, September 5, we were received by Air Marshal H. E. Edwards Air Officer Commanding in Chief, R. C. A. F. (Overseas) at an informal press conference at which he freely answered all the questions put to him by the Canadian editors.

The Air Marshal made it clear that he fully favours Canadianization of the R. C. A. F. and that those who are in opposition to do this do not fully understand what is meant. Canadianization of the R. C. A. F. overseas does not mean that it will cease to co-operate with the rest of the R. A. F., any more than some famous regiment would operate independently of the rest of the army. "The very best of high morale finds itself in identity" declared the Air Marshal.

He expressed himself as well satisfied with the standard and training of the men coming over from Canada, and summed it up in the words "Our Air Force is superb." At another time, he said "This war will be won in the air. It is the only way it can be won. Not without the Army and Navy, but definitely in the air."

After such an interview, we were more anxious than ever to study the work of the R. C. A. F. at first hand. The first squadron which we visited was the one commanded by Squadron Leader Keith Hodson, D. F. C., London, Ontario. One of the interesting things to be seen at this station is a remarkably fine scrap book containing photos and clippings of all matters which have taken place at this station. It is an excellent idea and very well carried out.

At this station we chatted with Flight Sgt. C. H. J. Fisher, of Wadena, Sask., who spoke of the pleasure he gets from his home town weekly which he has been receiving all through the two years he has been overseas. Another member of this station with whom we conversed was Flight Sgt. J. W. Cantelon, of Ridgetown, Ontario. A fine show of formation flying and manoeuvers was witnessed by the editors during the afternoon.

On Monday, going to a more distant station, the visiting editors were lucky enough to be able to see the departure and return of a bomber squadron which formed part of a raid on Duisburg. The same evening we witnessed a German raid on a neighbouring town. The whole evening was such a unique experience that it will be the subject of a separate article.

Among those whom we met at the station were Flight Lieut. Cliff Guest, of Barrie and Ottawa, who immediately asked after Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacLaren, of the Barrie Examiner, and Pilot Officer Arthur Mortimer, whose father is a member of the staff of the Lloydminster Times. There are a number of Montrealers attached to this station. While there, a number of Halifax and Wellington bombers were inspected by the editors.

The next day we moved on to another station where Lancaster bombers are located, and were given an opportunity to climb on board one of them. Some of the largest bombs being used against Germany were seen, and the editors also saw a bomber being loaded with bombs and being serviced for a raid that night.

At this station we talked with Flight Sgt. Reynold Quinn of Bromptonville, who has two brothers in the R. C. A. F. Flight Sgt. Harold Quinn, who just returned to Canada as an instructor, and P. O. Walter Quinn attached to another station in England. Having eaten several meals in the messes of these stations, the editors agreed that the food is excellent and plentiful. It is served to the boys by girls of the W. A. A. F. These messes have large bright rooms, equipped with libraries, radios, gramophones and games, and there is a very pleasant and cheerful atmosphere in all of them. One remark that we heard was that the meals on the stations are very much better than the meals served on most of the boats bringing the boys over. In fact, it was suggested that something should be done to improve the meals on the boats.

Afternoon tea and late dinners, according to the English custom, seems to be the rule at all these stations.

The following afternoon, the editors visited a night fighter station of another airdrome.

Batter up! Baseball games in the back yard are excellent material for any picture diary of life at your home.

HAVE you ever thought of devoting one section of your snapshot album to pictures taken around the home? It might be titled, "The Four Seasons At The Smiths." And right now would be an excellent time to start such a picture diary. What better time is there to begin anything than this season of the year?

How would such a section be handled? Well, I'd suggest that you commence with a few general views of the home. That would start your collection by showing your home and where the series to follow is taking place.

Next, it would be a wise plan to introduce the principal characters in the picture story you're going to tell. Make a good informal portrait of every member of the family—including yourself. Then you can turn your full attention to picturing the four seasons at your home.

For instance, this year your family has probably started a Victory Garden. Make some pictures of that, with Dad and the rest of the family working in it—perhaps admiring the vegetables.

Next, why don't you show the family busy about the home grounds? Everything that happens at your home—from cutting the lawn to washing the windows—is suitable subject matter for snapshots. And if you photograph revealing activities of that sort, you'll soon create a broad picture of your family's mode of life.

Finally, carry the project right on through the seasons. Jot down picture ideas as you see them, or better yet, have your camera ready for action and make the picture right away. If you take advantage of all your opportunities, you'll have a truly unique collection of home snapshots by the time summer arrives again.
