HIGHLY SIGNIFICANT HINTS

While experienced observers have claimed that a new memorable chapter in the history of this World War II has been written on Canadian soil in the newly created blueprint of plans for the balance of this war to defeat the enemies, yet apparently this most important chapter has been written with much use of invisible ink. In short, there have been hints that much, very much, has not been disclosed and more will become known of the total and exact plans from the mouths of guns than from the mouths of the statesmen or others in face of widespread publicity or stories, with the indication that it has been considered highly significant that circumstances have suggested that it was not improbable that this newly created blueprint of plans will reveal the adoption of political as well as military strategies on the world scene not merely for the present period of war but for the future.

* * * * *

UNTOLD NEW POSSIBILITIES

The joint operations of American and Canadian forces in the recent Kiska action have emphasized the closer and closer international co-operation of these two neighbouring countries in the vast whole northern sphere in this war and this may be extended much more after this war. Indeed, it has been known in Ottawa that a joint United States-Canada economic committee has been studying deeply and carefully for some time the untold possibilities of developing these enormous natural resources contained in hundreds of thousands of square miles of territories. These territories are rich in farming lands, in lumber, in mining facilities, in waterpower, etc., and whispers have been heard along Parliament Hill that their tremendous development by the joint efforts of the United States and Canada may be greatly extended much more in peacetime than they have been during this war, though this international co-operation during this war in these vast northern territories has been closer than ever before in the history of this continent.

* * * * *

COST OF LIVING INDEX AND TAXES

It has been no secret along Parliament Hill that for some time in the past there have been sharp criticisms and attempts to depreciate as well as to question the accuracy of the cost of living index in Canada, with one story having been that Federal, Provincial and Municipal sales taxes have not figured in its calculations. However, this has been a wrong attitude for several reasons. First, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has nothing to do with the preparation of this index either directly or indirectly. Second, the authorities in Ottawa have been determined that this index shall be accurate and sound in every possible way by being fairly compiled. Third, this index has reflected the Federal, Provincial and Municipal sales taxes, with the only exception being the Federal taxes added to tobacco products since June 1942. This exception was the result of Order-In-Council P. C. 6219 which aimed to curb the rapid rise in tobacco consumption so that labor might be freed for essential war industry and for raising revenue for vital war needs. It has been explained that the purposes of the added taxes would have obviously been defeated if an additional cost of living bonus was allowed to compensate for the larger tax. It has not been correct that this Order-In-Council removed tobacco from this index as sometimes it has been stated or claimed. It simply excluded additional Dominion taxation on these proucts. This has meant that Federal, Provincial and Municipal sales taxes have, in fact, been reflected in this index, though the additional tax on tobacco has not been included.

* * * * *

NEW ORGANIZATION IS EXTENSIVE

It may be realized by the man-in-the-street but it is recognized in well-informed quarters along Parliament Hill that one of the most important organizations in the nation's capital is the body charged with the responsibility for spending a billion dollars in Canada's mutual aid programme for this year, with the emphasis being on the great differences between its undertaking and the task involved in last year's billion dollars gift to Britain. This new mutual aid board must plan its foundations or operations in accordance with the strategic supplies for such transportation, and the numerous other factors. It is an enormous undertaking for Canada and this organization's operations, task and work are far more comprehensive and intricate than it is realized by the man-in-the-street throughout this country.

* * * * *

VIEWS AND STATUS

Whether the King Government's new experiment with its scheme of parliamentary assistants to busy Ministers of the Crown will prove a success or failure in actual practice is a question along Parliament Hill but it is stressed at the same time that there must be no misunderstandings about the status of a parliamentary assistant. It is pointed out that, when a parliamentary assistant is expressing his own views, he is not necessarily expressing the view of the Government, though there are occasions when a parliamentary assistant may be expressing the views of the Government, such as when he refers to the department of which he is the parliamentary assistant and he makes it clear that he is expressing the view of the Administration.

NECESSARY FOR MORALE

Newspapers have been found to be not only necessary for the war effort of a nation but they have been found to be absolutely essential for the morale. This has been indicated by the visit to Canada of a Committee of the United States Congress for the purposes of making first hand or "on the spot" investigations newsprint supplies in Canada. The newsprint problem in the United States has been considered to be in a serious situation and a solution has to be found, with the problem in the United States being inter-related with the difficulties in this country since 72 per cent of the newsprint consumed in the United States came from Canada and this country sent about 80 per cent of all her newsprint to the United States.

We hear a lot these days of human relations. Are yours?

Message From Premier A. S. MacMillan

Due to the acute shortage of farm labor in certain districts in this Province, considerable difficulty will be experienced in the harvesting of apples, potatoes and other vegetables.

Representations have been made to the Government of this Province by many people urging us to go so far as to close the City schools to enable pupils in the higher grades to give their services to the farmers who are in desperate need of harvest labor. This the Government would not care to do unless it is found absolutely necessary.

However, the Government would suggest that any pupils who can assist in any way should secure permission from the school authorities to be absent from classes for a sufficient length of time to enable them to render the assistance which is now so necessary to our farmer.

A. S. MacMILLAN.

Heads Royal Commission

A native son of Nova Scotia, Robt. MacGregor Dawson, heads the Royal Commission which on September 20 will begin a series of public hearings in Cape Breton Island. The Commission will enquire into the possibilities for local economic development and general post-war reconstruction.

Dr. Dawson was born at Bridgewater, N. S., in 1895. He is a Master of Arts of Dalhousie and Harvard Universities and obtained the degree of M. Sc. (Econ.) and D.Sc. (Econ.) from the University of London, England. He has been Lecturer in Government and Politics at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey; Head of the Political Science Department, University of Saskatchewan; and is now Professor of Political Economy at the University of Toronto.

In 1940 Dr. Dawson was invited to sit on the Canadian Research in the Social Sciences, Ottawa. He has been a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada since 1934, and an editor of the Canadian Journal of Economics and Political Science since 1936. Books he has written include "The Principle of Official Independence" (1922); "The Civil Service of Canada" (1929); "Constitutional Issues in Canada," (1933); "The Development of Dominion Status" (1937); and Vol. 2 of "Canada in World Affairs, 1939-41" (1943.) He is widely known in scientific circles throughout the world by his books and also by his regular contributions on economic and political science appearing in various Journals and Reviews.

Transportation Allowance For Apple Workers

Owing to the scarcity of apple pickers and other workers in the apple industry and in order to meet the present emergency, the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Federal Department of Labor, is sponsoring a campaign to secure apple pickers, apple warehouse workers and help for apple processing plants in the counties of Hants, Kings and Annapolis. The Departments have arranged to pay incoming travelling costs of three cents a mile with a maximum of five dollars to all such workers who have been satisfactorily employed for two weeks or more after September 13.

Growers, warehouse operators and processors requiring labor should list as soon as possible their requirements as regards number of workers and for what period they are wanted, with the National Selective Service office at Kentville; Charles Douglas, Agricultural Representative at Windsor, or Donald White, Agricultural Representative at Lawrencetown.

This bonus is payable to workers whether their employment has been arranged for through National Selective Service or by direct contact with their employer. Payment will be made after presentation to the National Selective Service office at Kentville of evidence of satisfactory employment signed by the employer and the worker.

TO A SMALL BOY

(By Frances M. Miller)

You try so hard to tell me what you do
The high adventures of your little day,
Although the words you know are very few
And even these are difficult to say,
Yet somehow you can make me understand
The wonder that is in you for these things,
The car, the dog, the fingers of your hand,
The planes that pierce the clouds with silver wings.
And being with you, I am comforted
In spite of wars and inhumanity
To look at life again with a child's surprise
To answer your demand for buttered bread,
And from my disillusioned heights to see
New words to conquer through your eager eyes.

NAZI GOOSESTEPPING GANGSTERS ON THE RUN

The Quebec Conference is over. Its deliberations remain secret—later to be revealed as the plans and policies adopted unfold themselves in action.

The war has reached what Mr. Churchill would call "a great climacteric." Tremendous events are in the immediate offing. This might possibly be the "Victory Year" after all," says the Halifax Citizen.

Never now can the Nazi gangsters hope to goosestep their way to the mastery of the world. Mussolini's fond dream is forever shattered. We have already seen him slinking off the stage. It will be Hitler's turn next, then Tojo and his filthy Japs.

Undue optimism is, of course, unwise. The grim uncertainties of war have always to be kept in mind. There may yet be dark and anxious days, heavy losses and great sacrifice. But Victory is certain. Of that there can be no doubt.

Mighty Russia, never let it be forgotten, has broken the back of Hitler's "invincible" armies. Despite all criticism, suspicion and innuendoes the fact remains that if Britain saved the world in 1940, Russia saved us all in '41-'42.

Letter From E. C. Doyle

To the Editor of the Record.

Mr. Editor—In the late issue of your valued paper you gave passing reference to the C. C. F. party platform. As you say it is as yet an untried one here in Canada. Nevertheless, judging by recent Canadian elections, many are apparently willing to give it a trial. In New Zealand a similar platform has had practical application with commendable results. Only a few days ago the guiding principles of the Canadian Co-Operative Commonwealth Party, a Planned Economy and Elimination of the Profit Motive, were re-endorsed by a large majority of the electors in the Commonwealth of Australia.

To my mind, viewing the pros and cons, it does seem that much of the objection to this party in our country is concerned 100% of our people are primary producers—workers or wage earners of some sort. Under such conditions a Planned Economy implies the material protection of our homes and lives, as a floor would be established beyond which individual incomes would not be allowed to fall. Be such income the product of wages, the farm, the forest or the sea.

As to Profit, recognized in our existing Captalistic Economy as the margin over costs—largely accumulated without due regard to the eternal principle that all men have a God given right to the means of life—it is roughly, in the sense in which it is used by the C. C. F. party, the substuting of the ideal of profit as we know it for the ideal of service to all. In other words the ideal of production would be for use. But in producing, the labor or services employed, be it fishing, farming, store or office, would be motivated by the wages or reward received for such services. Under the C. C. F. platform, as I understand it, the initiative to produce would remain as it is to-day—we must work or starve--but the purchasing power of said reward or wages would be graduated to conform with the demands of a proper standard of living for all the people.

So much for the present; we must not, Mr. Editor, unduly trespass upon your valuable space or time. These imperfect lines are only intended and directed as a Clarion Call for honest study and appraisement of the C.C.F. party platform by all of our people. We feel sure that within it will be found Principles and Policies that, by virtue of their inherent truth and justice are destined to become vital forces in our economic life.

Respectfully submitted,

E. C. DOYLE,

Arichat, N. S.

NOVA SCOTIA FARM NEWS

Pastures Continue Especially Good

The month of August was wet and cool as such was favorable for crop growth but unfavorable for haying and harvesting of crops, says the crop report issued by the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture. Pastures have continued especially good with milk production high and creamery butter production up. There has been further delay though in harvesting the hay crop and much of it is very dry. An encouraging condition from a feed standpoint is that on many fields a second crop has come up and is of good quality. There is also, on early cut fields, an excellent second crop. There is still considerable hay to be cut in the Province, particularly on the dyked lands. In several of the main dyked areas there have been breaks in the dykes causing much loss to the hay crop. The high tides in the Amherst Point area resulted in several breaks. One body of dyke land owners lost practically all their pasture land. Then there have been breaks in the dyke at Grand Pre and also in the dykes below Bridgetown, on the Annapolis River, as well as in other areas.

Grain harvesting is already under way. Early fields are, in many places, badly lodged, making cutting difficult. Yields are variable. Root crops also vary greatly, there being many excellent fields. In other words, wet weather has resulted in very spotty stand with a large amount of weeds prevalent.

Early potatoes are plentiful on the markets. The crop in general, however, has been damaged severely by blight. This is particularly true of heavy soils and sections in the western part of the province.

The large increase in chicks hatched is already making itself felt in the pools and quantity of poultry marketed. This year the hatcheries in the Province turned out 35% more chicks than last year. The recently held Brooklyn Pool, which planned on 500 birds, had 900, while at Port Williams the Cornwallis Club had 5 tons of poultry in the last pool. The difficulty of obtaining feed, particularly of kinds wanted, is having a definite effect on egg production and may have an effect on the number of pullets kept.

August Was Very Wet

More than six times as much rain fell in August 1943 as fell in August 1942, according to reports issued from the Meterological Station at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro. The precipitation for this August was 4.24 inches, compared with .68 inches last August, and Truro was not the wet spot of the Province. Reports from the Government Station at Kentville show a rainfall of 6.60 inches. To be sure, the northern part of the province had sufficient moisture, but it was considerably less than in the central and western parts. Nappan reports an August precipitation of 3.33 inches.

Reports from the three stations show the following maximum and minimum temperatures for the month Kentville, 87 on August 2, 43 August 13; Truro 84 August 3, 41, Nappan 81 August 2, 41 August 13. Nappan reports 6175 as the average mean temperature for the month while Kentville's average was 62.66.

August was very unsettled, says the Nappan report, with much fog prevailing form early morning until eleven a.m., and often until noon. Even the sunshine and rain, recorded in the statistical report, do not depict the unfavorable weather for harvesting and storing hay.

Blight May Be Checked

There is a heavy potato blight this season with the result that it is doubtful if an average crop will be harvested despite the fact that there is considerable increase in acreage. While the blight is seen even in many well sprayed fields, it is most pronounced where spraying was neglected. Although the situation is serious a certain amount of salvage seems checking the blight if prompt action is taken in commercial areas, equipped with power sprayers, a heavy application is being made of strong bordeaux mixture to kill the tops and stop the disease from going down.

In smaller fields the procedure is to cut off or pull the blighted stalk before the blight reaches the tuber. The tubers should then be left in the ground until the skins toughen. This procedure, of course, is applicable only where there is still some reasonable maturity of the tuber.

After the potatoes from the infested plants are dug they should be carefully stored. After a lapse of 10 days or two weeks the stored potatoes should be picked over carefully.

Offers Assistance for Sheep Buying

As a number of requests for the selection of sheep from Ontario have been received, J. A. Steele, Dem. Dept. of Agriculture, announces that the Dominion Department will consider giving assistance under the following conditions:

1. Deposits of $20.00 a head must be sent to J. A. Steele, Truro, on or before September 25th. Balance shall be payable on delivery.

2. No guarantee will be given that sheep will be purchased from any special breeder or that they will be perfect in all respects, although every care will be taken to select the best available.

3. If a carlot of ewes is purchased free freight assistance on the carlot to Nova Scotia will be paid by Agricultural Supplies Board under Sheep Expansion Policy.

4. Expenses on rams must be borne by purchasers and on ewes if less than a carload is obtained. These will probably range from $2.00 to $5.00 per head to Truro.

5. Prices of purebred sheep will probably range from $20.00 to $75.00 for rams, bulk about $25.00--$30.00; $18.00 to $40.00 for ewes, bulk around $20.00—$25.00.

6. Sheep already purchased in Ontario may be brought down provided they can be loaded conveniently.

7. No sheep will be purchased from Ontario unless at least 50 sheep are ordered by September 25th, 1943.

8. If sheep of the same breed, grade and quality are available in Nova Scotia, purchasers will be referred to these sources of supply rather than imports.

Holding Sheep Field Day Sept. 30

Hants County sheep breeders plan on welcoming the Nova Scotia Sheep Breeders to Windsor on September 30 with well arranged field day at which approximately one hundred purebred sheep will be shown. Rams will be graded and in the afternoon there will be an auction sale. Active committees are now at work completing details of what should be a valuable get-together for all who are interested in sheep.

Now..YOU can be a Fighting Airman in Double-Quick Time

The R.C.A.F. wants MORE Able-Bodied Men for Aircrew

THERE'S a place actually waiting for you in the gallant band now flying and fighting in R.C.A.F. planes on many different fronts.

More men are urgently needed to increase the attack—to bomb and blast the enemy into unconditional surrender. So, whatever work you are now doing, don't let adventure and glory pass you buy. It's your great chance.

A job, even in a war factory, is no longer as essential as fighting in the air. This is a call to every young Canadian who can make the grade.

Planes and Schools are Ready to Train You Quickly

You will be in Air Force uniform right away. No more delay getting into aircrew. Basic training begins at once. Skilled instructors are waiting. Fast planes are waiting.

If you are physically fit, mentally alert, over 17½ and not yet 33, you are eligible. You do not require a High School education.

Aircrew Needed Now for Immediate Training as

NOTE and COMMENT

Mr. Bracken promises "national" reform, a reminder that Sir Robert Borden used to promise "adequate" tariffs. If the Conservative leader had said "rational" the public would have sat up and taken notice.

Berlin radio tells its listeners that the Axis has won more battles than the Allies. Point overlooked is that a victory in the last battle constitutes a majority.

There are no suspenders to be had in Germany, so the Hun has to hold up his trousers while he heils Hitler with the other.

A contemporary thinks "it looks like invasion is now a cup of tea." Well, Mr. Hitler can count on this, that when that particular tea comes it won't be rationed.

President Roosevelt is said at Quebec to have taught Prime Minister Churchill how to fish. The pair of them also laid plans so that the Japs and Germans will catch something, too, the dirty little scum.

War, as the Finns are finding out, is like a lobster pot, easy to get into, but the very dickens to get out of.

A man who is on his toes in times of prosperity is not likely to be on his uppers in times of depression.

There are millions of "isolationists" who are beyond reproach. They are isolating Hitler in his German fortress.

Hitler and Goering: "Backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight; let us bomb London again for a night."

All bets as to whether the Russians or the other Allies will be first to reach Berlin may have to be called off. If the bombing keeps up there may be no Berlin for them to reach.

Hitler hasn't been able to foresee either the shape of things to come or the size of bomb to come. He built himself the world's safest air raid shelter in the cellar of his Berlin chancellery and now has deserted it.

The Japs valued Kiska (recently taken by the Americans) as a base, now they're off their base, having lost base and face at the same time.

The candid friend who drops a hint usually finds it was a drop too much.

Hamburg residents are said to be throwing Hitler's picture into the streets. This will make Adolf more furious than ever. But how appropriate a place, the gutter?

The standards by which all are finally judged is not wealth, education or fame, but service.

SAVE OUR FOREST FROM FIRES

HALIFAX, September 7.—A united effort of the daily and weekly press of Canada to curb the national menace of forest fires was urged today by John Bassett, President and Managing Director of the Montreal Gazette in an interview issued by the Canadian Forestry Association.

"The country's storehouse of timber is still our greatest source of employment and one of our ace cards in future industrial expansion," Mr. Bassett pointed out. "It is an absurdity in wartime Canada that our nation's wood resources should be turned into ashes when we know that the replacement of them will require fifty to a hundred years. Government statistics show 5 to 6,000 forest fires a year, indicating that the destroying forces number from five to six thousand persons. Out of our population of eleven millions, the curbing of that body of anti-social or careless elements should not be difficult. A vigorous public sentiment will turn the trick and nobody can create that sentiment with such force and finality as the newspaper editors. After all, the newspaper presses of Canada roll off their editions from spruce and balsam fibre. In the case of the largest city papers, between two and three hundred pulpwood logs are devoured daily in furnishing the newsprint for a single issue. There could be no more useful mission for the publishers and editors of Canada than to use their powers to subdue the forest fire menace which sabotages the only assets growing on 58 percent of our provincial areas."

WOOD CROPS A SAVING GRACE

—ooo—

During these years of national crisis, the forests and their wood crops have been a "saving grace" to Canada, declared G. Percy Burchill, President of the Canadian Forestry Association, in an interview recently.

"On wood, the Canadian dollar has floated above stream," he pointed out "and maintained its buoyancy in the world's money markets; with wood we have supplied the needs of the United Kingdom and enabled them to package vital war necessities for shipment to North Africa, the East and every theatre of war; with wood we have provided the manufacturers of munitions, tanks and trucks and other military necessities in the United States as well as our own country with an essential requirement: from wood the pulp and paper mills are producing pulps for the manufacture of explosives, containers for munitions and food, wallboard for housing, rayon and cellophane; wood provides the hulls, knees and other parts of certain types of fighting vessels while at the same time it has been found to be the best material, in lightness and strength, for bodies and propellers in the manufacture of some of our aircraft and perhaps reaches its highest peak of war utility in producing the famous Mosquito bomber.

Records of history reveal that countries, which allowed the national forests destroyed, signed away their solvency. Greece, Turkey, Palestine and Italy allowed their lands to be stripped and with their forests gone, went into bankruptcy for with the loss of forest resources went the loss of their inland waters, then the sequence of erosion, mountain sides washed out and their valleys rendered infertile. Cyrenacia is today a howling wilderness but it was the grain growing Saskatchewan of the ancient Roman Empire. Today you will find not an acre or a patch of grain, but you do find skeletons of colloseums that once held 70,000 people—the sports arenas of great cities now crumbled and you find the records of the work of 50,000 lumberjacks who labered in the now vanished forests that once furnished moisture to crops and people. Right here in Canada the report of the Guelph Conference, composed of well-known experienced scientists, declares that 80% of the once perennial streams of Southern Ontario now cease to flow for some part of a normal summer and that the floods often cost municipalities thousands of dollars to repair damage.

SEAVIEW

What with taking in the scenic sights at Seaview Lake and "The Falls", blue-berry picking, making sick calls; and conducting a devotional meeting; Dr. George A. and Mrs. Christie had a strenuous afternoon in the vicinity on the 25th ult.

Quartermaster Murdock McLeod, of the S. S. Scotia came down from Mulgrave last week to visit his brother, Alex who, we regret to say, is ill at his home in Roberta. Through the courtesy of Jack Ross, Murdock had occasion to come to Seaview, and old friends were glad to see him.

Sunday visitors included Jessie McDonald, Jessie Jr., Katherine McPhail and Robert McKenzie, Oban; John A. Grant, Sydney; Robert Morrison, St. George's Channel; and Willie and Mrs. McPhee, Thibeauville.

Robert McPie, advertising mgr., for the Sydney Post Record, in Glace Bay, was a week-end guest of John N. and Mrs. Morrison.

Among the youthful August brides was Mary Sutherland of Seaview who was recently married to Dan McAskill of the civil police force, Sydney. We extend congratulations and best wishes.

Last year's accumulations of pulpwood are being rapidly removed by the Calder and Flannigan trucks and our road margins will soon be clear again.

Pte. Dannie Sutherland, R.C.A.M.C., has arrived safely overseas and we'd infer from his letters that his impressions are satisfactory generally.

Pte. Lloyd McRae, Grand Anse, who is home on sick leave, is the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Felix Smith.

SYMPATHY IS NOT ENOUGH

To the Editor.

Sir:—Among the pledges made by the leaders of the United Nations is that of avenging the crimes committed by our enemies. Each time this pledge is repeated, sympathy to the victims of the atrocities is expressed, but the attempt to translate this into concrete action to save them is postponed continually. How long can we close our eyes to the suffering of these helpless people, and save our consciences with mere expressions of pity? Of course, we cannot hope to save all those who have been caught in the European blood-bath. But is that any reason for calmly sitting back and watching while thousands of people who could be brought out, are being slaughtered like sheep? Canada, with her vast territory and disproportionately small population, could easily absorb many thousands of refugees. Hitler has made no secret of his determination to exterminate the Jews. And yet, even in the face of this, Canada admitted to her shores only 142 Jewish immigrants during the year 1942. This, when thousands of Jews in Europe are dying daily, and Canada is involved in a war whose purpose it is to liberate the oppressed peoples of the world. If she is to remain true to this cause, Canada will have to open her immigration gates much wider than was done last year. A clear-cut policy will do far more toward alleviating the plight of Hitler's victims that all the expressions of pity put together.

RUBY GARRATH

Red Shield Home Front Appeal

Morale is a lot of little things. . . . mail from home when you're a thousand miles away. . . . the memory of a pleasant leave for a serviceman. . . the knowledge that "home" will always be there, when his job is done. . . and a thousand other things.

For the boys at the Front, morale means that folks back home are bending every effort to make his job easier for him; to send him what he needs to keep out the cold and to cheer him up. Morale means the knowledge that his family is safe and happy.

What about the father of a motherless child, who hears the call to arms? He is torn between his devotion to his child, and his loyalty to his country. What about the veteran of the last war who is still young enough for active service now? He is loathe to leave his aging Mother and Dad because they depend on him to provide the necessities of life. What about the woman war worker whose husband has made the supreme sacrifice to keep his country free? She wants to do a job of work, but has no place for her children to stay.

These are but a few of the needy who find their answer in The Salvation Army. The Army mothers the motherless child, giving her a home and friendly, loving care; The Army provides haven for the aging father and mother of a warrior son, whose reply to his country's need has been whole-hearted and instantaneous because of the help he has received; The Army gives back to the widowed mother the right to do her share in the country's war effort, by opening its doors to her children; by looking after their spiritual and physical growth while she reaches top production figures in the assembly line.

The soldier, who bids farewell to his new wife at the station, knows that even though he won't be on hand for the important event, his child will be born in the pleasant surroundings and secure atmosphere of a Salvation Army Hospital.

Morale is a lot of little things, but in the end it up to life itself.

The Home Front Appeal of The Salvation Army is reaching out to Canadians from coast to coast, asking them to make their response a generous one. By making a contribution, you are adding one more stone to the pillar of confidence and courage which every boy away from home carries in his heart. You are helping to care for his loved ones back home.

SICILY AND GARIBALDI

To the Editor.

Sir:—Canadians fighting in Sicily today are on the very scene of Garibaldi's conquest of just 83 years ago. On Aug. 21, 1860, the great liberator won the battle of Reggio. By Sept. 7 he had entered Naples. King Francis and the queen had left. Feudalism was collapsing, the petty kingdoms were fading and, finally, his collaborator, Victor Emmanuel, became king of the new "United Italy." Garibaldi refused all honors and rewards. Four years later the common people of London roared their welcome to the hero of Sicily. During their visit Garibaldi uttered the memorable words: "It is never too soon for slaves to break their chains." His coming to England gave a fresh impetus to democracy, for, in 1867, working men won the right to vote, a complete novelty in British politics. Garibaldi's life more thrilling and certainly more inspiring than anything to be seen in the movies. Of course, Italy has gone astray of recent years under the Mussolini regime of fascism instead of freedom. But in due time Italy will experience a re-birth of liberty. In that day she will revert to the path she began to follow under the inspiration of Guiseppe Garibaldi.

CUT FINE FOR CIGARETTES

THE joyriders drive blithely on, carelessly oblivious of their trail of blazing butts and matches. But Hitler counts them among his important saboteurs—since they cause MOST of our forest fire damage. Beware of their example. Enjoy the highways, the woods, but—

1—NEVER BURN brush or slash in windy weather. Never burn without a permit and without help handy.
2—NEVER SMOKE on the trail. Wait until you stop in a safe place. Be sure matches, cigarette stubs and pipe ashes are COLD.
3—BUILD CAMPFIRES only on stream bed or lake shore away from inflammable material. Douse with water until DEAD before leaving.
4—KILL any small fires you find. REPORT ALL OTHERS immediately by telephone to nearest Fire Ranger. And show this ad to at least three friends.

Meeting of A. D. C.

Flight Lieut. Reade, of the A. D. C., was a visitor to Arichat on Monday and lectured to the Reserve Army Unit, in the town hall on the Aircraft Detection Corps and the importance of reporting all aircraft flying over Canadian territory. If citizens of Canada could realize how important it is to the war effort to report planes and somtimes help to save the lives of our noble airmen they would give every assistance to this work. It may seem a loss of time to report passing aircraft but if we look at it in a different light—you may be responsible for guiding that plane to a safe destination. On the other hand no one would want to be responsible for the lives of our airmen if the A. D. C. could prevent such a calamity. In the words of Winston Churchill, Britain's gallant prime minster—"Never was so much owed to so few," meaning of course the airmen who saved Britain and her Empire. Let us not forget our airmen but assist them to carry out their duties without mishap and with the members of the A. D. C. carrying out their duties we shall not fail them. Flt. Lieut. Reade also held a meeting at Petit de Grat on Tuesday night and left for Sydney on Wednesday. He is a veteran of World War I and is now in charge of the Aircraft Detection Corps on Cape Breton Island.

PETIT DE GRAT

(By Observer)

Fish of all kinds are scarce at present. The hook and line fishermen did fairly well this summer owing to the satisfactory prices prevailing. Some of the large boats had good luck with swordfish at Eastern ports. One boat has landed 42 broadsides so far, and with such high prices they were well rewarded for their labor. In the quest for swords expenses are very high and when the boats fail to get the fish they run in debt. The prevailing price for swords is 26 cents per pound.

Mile-a-Minute Local on C.P.R. Prairie Run

One of the fastest trains of its kind on the continent, the Canadian Pacific Railway's gas-electric No. 849 burns up 41.61 miles of right-of-way between Regina and Moose Jaw daily except Sunday in 55 minutes flat—and it makes four stops en route.

Familiarly known as the "Galloping Goose", No. 849 is a combination of engine, baggage, express, mail and passenger car all rolled into one — a particularly valuable feature these days when conservation of power and equipment is a vital necessity.

The self-contained train, whose performance has been highly lauded by American railroad experts, leaves Moose Jaw at 6.45 a.m. and pulls into Regina depot just 55 minutes later. It is back in Moose Jaw again at 10.30 the same morning. The train does "local" work between stations en-route, but because of its light weight and ready acceleration it soon makes up for time thus lost.

No. 849 hits its real stride between Pasqua and Belle Plaine. On this 19.5-mile straight-of-way the train hits an average speed of 61.8 miles per hour to cover the distance in an even 10 minutes. Transcontinental trains actually equal that time on the same stretch but without slowing down for local stops.

Like other gas-electric units operating on short runs, No. 849 was designed to give frequent local service where operation of heavy trains would not pay. Inasmuch as they can maintain as satisfactory schedules with equal speed, safety and comfort, they have proven themselves highly popular with all sections of the travelling public.

SUNSHINE PICTURES INDOORS

Natural lighting from windows adds an artistic touch and appeal to pictures.

USUALLY sunlighted pictures are made out-of-doors, but have you ever thought of looking indoors for sunny-picture opportunities? There's a marvelous field and one, I think, that has been neglected.

Wherever sunshine comes through a window or illuminates a corner of a room, there is opportunity for a sunshine picture. Post a subject in this sunlit corner—for example, a small girl playing with her dolls, or a boy playing with his toys.

Often the surrounding walls will pick up sunshine and reflect it so that your subject is lighted from several directions, and you record a play of light which adds unusual quality and depth to the picture. Beautiful pictures can be obtained by a combination of sunshine coming through a window, and artificial light from household electric bulbs. For example, place your child on a sunny window seat. Then arrange your lights as you would for a regular snapshot at night, so that they illuminate the child's shadowed side. Or, if you do not care to use artificial lighting, a reflector placed on the shadow side will serve admirably. The reflector may be a large piece of white cardboard, white paper, or even a pillow slip or white cloth. Any of these will serve to reflect back the light from the window onto the shadow side of your subject so that more detail will be shown in the finished print.

Interesting effects can be obtained, too, when sunbeams shine downward to the floor. If you will place a toy, a flower, or some other small object just at the bottom, or end, of the sunbeam so that the shaft of light leads to it, and then take the picture, you will be pleased with the result. In making these pictures, take care to give an exposure full enough to pick up some detail in the shadows.

Interesting effects of backlighting can be obtained with a sunny window. If you have a cat, for example, with soft white fur, place it on a window sill. The sunlight shining through the fur will surround the pet with a beautiful light halo which makes a splendid picture.

Attractive silhouettes can be made by using a window which looks out on a sunny outdoor scene. Just place your subject at the window, in profile. Turn out any room lights and make an exposure which would be correct for the outdoor scene, or maybe a trifle longer. Since the light indoors will be much less than the light outdoors, you will obtain a silhouette effect.

Load up your camera now and prepare to begin a collection of sunshine pictures in your home. Such pictures are a valuable addition to any album.

But use discretion when taking your sunshine pictures. Think before you shoot and make every snap of the shutter count because there is a scarcity of film. Conserve it. And don't forget to have extra prints made of your best snaps to send to your friends and relatives in the Service. Pictures will give them a "lift."
