The bride who looked charming and was given away by her brother Edward Mauger, was attired in a sand colored suit with hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Daisy Mauger, was dressed in navy blue silk. After the ceremony the wedding party motored to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwards, where a very bountiful wedding supper was served to a few relatives and immediate friends. A wedding cake was sent from Glasgow, Scotland, by the groom's sister, Mrs. E. Brown. Their many friends wish them every joy and happiness in their wedded life.

Red Caps Win Finals 7-6

by James Mombourquette

Petit de Grat, Oct. 1—A large contingent of shivering fans looked on as righthander Louis Samson held the visiting River Bourgeois nine to only two scratch hits, to give the Petit de Grat Red Caps a well-earned 7—6 triumph in the final and deciding game of the R.C.B.L. play downs. The Petit de Grat ace was just two hits away from seeing his name inscribed in the county Hall of Fame. Oddly enough the two who spoiled his bid for a no-hitter were players who did not perform regularly throughout the season. With one out in the 4th, Alfred Landry swung on a letup ball and hit a soft liner into short left-field for the first safety. Then in the 6th, third baseman Joachim Boudreau stumbled while attempting to field Tony Burke's easy bounder and seemingly handcuffed by the ball, his throw to first baseman Rudolph Boudreau arrived just a split second too late, to account for the River's second hit.

The visitors opened the scoring in the second frame when Hervey Boyd came in all the way from second base on a wild pitch. However, this lead was shortlived, for the Red Caps went to town against Fred Digout and successor Lawrence Pottle to register five runs giving the home team a 5-1 advantage. Louis Samson singled to center but was out, catcher to the second baseman, on an attempted steal. Joachim Boudreau walked, Jossiyn Landry was hit by a pitched ball. Art Boudreau singled to left, and when leftfielder Tony Burke threw wildly to the plate, Joachim Boudreau scored, Henry Fortune squeezed in Landry with the second run on a beautiful bunt down the first baseline. George Jollymore singled to left scoring Art Boudreau. Adolph Boudreau got a free ticket to first, and when Peter Boudreau belted a line single to left, to send Jollymore across, Rudolph Boudreau struck out, but when the pitch got away from catcher Steve Landry and went back to the screen, Adolph Boudreau came in with the fifth marker.

Not to be denied, the visiting Tigers evened up the count with a four run outburst in the third canto as the Petit de Grat infield fell apart at the seams. With two away, a base on balls, a hit batsman and three infield errors did the damage. The Red Caps got one back in the bottom half of the third when little Art Boudreau single to right-center to drive in Joachim Boudreau with the leading run. The home team nursed their slim one-run margin until the sixth, when with the bases jammed, Steve Landry drew his third free pass to force in Hervey Boyd with the tying run. The Petit de Graters came close in both the seventh and eighth innings but failed to break the tie. Then, in the ninth Peter Boudreau singled through the middle, with two men out, and stole second base. Rudolph Boudreau promptly became the toast of Petit de Grat by dumping one safely into right field to give the Red Caps the contest and the championship.

Arthur Boudreau proved to be the hitting star of the series and one of the chief factors in the success of the Petit de Grat club. In today's game he collected three singles in four trips, driving in a pair of runs, and scoring one himself. He also came up with the fielding play of the game in the very first inning on Steve Landry's grounder.

Double-plays were the order of the day as far as the Tigers were concerned, for they came up with three twin killings during the course of the game.

In regard to the star of the series this corner can be justified in nominating Louis Samson of the Red Caps. In the last two games he racked up a total of twenty-seven strikeouts, with thirteen of them coming in today's game.

This corner will venture to give a personal review of this year's version of the R.C.B.L., space permitting, in the next issue of the Record. So look for "Baseball Review".

TWO PROBLEMS

By R. J. Deachman

A friend of mine sent me a clipping from a Canadian Daily a few days ago. It showed the total foreign investment in Canada which is an imposing statement and represents a grand total of approximately $8 billion. The bulk of this came from the United States, nearly $6 billion, $1¾ United Kingdom, over $300 million from other countries.

My friend wrote across the top of the "clip" these words: "Is this good or bad?" The answer I think must be in the affirmative. It was good in the past and it is still good. We lacked, in earlier years, sufficent capital to develop this country as rapidly as it should be developed, we still need more capital. It was only natural that much of our capital supply should come from the United States. The Americans knew our conditions, we knew theirs. With all their peculiarities the Americans are the best neighbors in the world. The freedom of movement between the two countries increases the tendency to invest. We too have considerable sums invested in the United States. To the average American capitalist we are not really a foreign country. It is highly desirable that there should be somewhere in this world boundary over which two nations can exist without continually snarling at each other.

American capital has been used to develop Canadian industries. Development would have been very much slower had it not been for the earlier development in the United States and the overflow of capital into this country. The picture for the future if one may take a guess at it, is that we shall provide more of our own capital but we need a tremendous amount of capital in this country and I would expect to see more capital come from the United States and if we have a peaceful world, which at the moment seems doubtful, there will be a larger amount of capital coming to Canada from other countries.

Problem No. 2 is of a more complex nature. The questioner is amazed at the steady upward movement of wage rates and wonders how long it can continue. I have from time to time pointed out that the basis of prosperity lies in technological improvement in the means of production. With this we should have some real understanding of the nature and distribution of these gains. They arise primarily from the search for better ways of doing things. Should they all go to capital? They never have as far as that is concerned. The share of capital perunit of production is not excessive. Should they go to labor? That is a moot question but so far it seems to be rather definitely settled. During the whole century from 1800 to 1900 there was a steady rise in the level of wages in the United States and the same thing took place in Canada.

This was the result of technological improvement and a fairly steady decline in wholesale prices. While wholesale prices have gone up somewhat in the present century wages have gone up tremendously. Now, mark this, if wages had remained at lower levels than the gains which accrued to labour from the reduction of wholesale prices would have given it a real wage very substantially higher than the nominal wage it was receiving. If this condition had prevailed we would have escaped in large measure those periods of depression which at times threw our economic pace back to a crawl and left us with far too many unemployed.

The case is clear and rather simple. If labor is sufficiently strong in the years to come the conditions which exist in the past and which brought about depressions are not likely to remain dormant in the future. In this connection the most complete statement of the position is to be found in a recent book published by The Brookings Institution of Washington D. C., entitled "The Controll-

Port Hood Coal Mine

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 2—A new coal mining industry for the northern Cape Breton Port Hood area was seen today following the announcement that the Margaree Shipping Company Limited is trying to reach a 5.8 seam.

W. N. MacDonald of Sydney, president of the company, said the mine has prospects of producing 3000 tons a day if markets can be found. The mine will be mechanized.

He said a daily output of 300 tons is expected within a year, giving employment to 100 persons. Provincial geologists have estimated the seam contains more than 10,000,000 tons of coal. Flooding of mines in the Port Hood area halted large scale mining several years ago.

PLOWING MATCH ENTRIES NUMEROUS

Mrs. Frank MacCharles, Baddeck Bridge has the honour of being the first lady to forward an entry to Donald MacKay, Secretary of the Provincial Plowing Match, scheduled to be held at Middle River, Victoria County, on Tuesday and Wednesday October 3rd and 4th. In commenting upon the receipt of Mrs. MacCharles entry, Mr. MacKay advised that interest in the ladies' competition is high and that the ladies' tractor class will be filled by the time the class is called on Wednesday.

Interest in the Provincial match, which, this year is being held in Cape Breton Island for the first time, is extremely keen and already, entries have been received from plowmen and women of Hants, Cumberland, Pictou, Cape Breton, Inverness, Victoria and Richmond counties. Forty-five entries were received last week and a corresponding number may be expected to be directed to Mr. MacKay before the mtach gets underway.

CAPE BRETON ISLAND FOLKSCHOOL SCHEDULED

Interest in the second Cape Breton held at Margaree Forks during the Island Folk School scheduled to period October 16th to 21st, inclusive, is mounting. To date, several advance registrations have been received, and it is anticipated that some thirty men and women will be in attendance when the school opens a couple of weeks hence.

The school is being sponsored under the auspices of the Farmers' Associations of Inverness, Cape Breton and Richmond counties. Those planning to attend, or those who may wish additional information on the proposed school, are urged to get in touch with the Chairman of the local school committee, J. Malcolm MacFarlane, South West Margaree; the Agricultural Representative at St. Peters, Sydney Mabou, or Cheticamp or the Adult Education Division at Sydney.

The Nova Scotia folkschools, which have been conducted during the past three years, are akin in spirit to the far-famed Scandinavian Folkschool. The primary purpose of these schools is to teach the students to think, to read, and to express themselves clearly, and to take part in community life. The theme of the whole course is a broadening of interest in farm living and rural community life; and to this end, each day, the course centres around the general study of the farm, the community, and the province. In addition, group singing dramatics, and recreation form an integral part of the daily program.

Reading, discussion, and participation in group activity are the basic educational methods of the folkschool. The entire program provides the students in attendance with a rich experience in small community living.

During the two weeks of the course there is an opportunity for our rural young people to live think, study and play together under the guidance of a staff group with diverse skills. The whole program is aimed at the growth and development of the students in personality, in ideas, in reading and speaking ability, and in their outlook on the possibilities of farm and community life in Nova Scotia.

THIS AND THAT

Over 2000 prize lists have been distributed by R. F. McCunn, Secretary-Manager of the Maritime Winter Fair.

The annual Federal-Provincial Agricultural Conference will be held at Ottawa early in December.

District and County farmers' organizations are planning an active winter season, reports Mrs. Nadine Archibald, Secretary of the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association.

Fewer chickens are dying on Nova Scotia farms in recent years and there is no doubt but that this is due to the fact that better management practices prevent disease and parasite outbreaks in young stock. Another fact which must be kept in mind is that Nova Scotia poultrymen get their requirements from Nova Scotia's approved hatcheries, which produce the healthiest chickens found anywhere.

Many farm fires can be prevented by eliminating fire hazards.

Campaign Organizer Savings Bonds

J. Donald Wood, of Halifax, has been appointed area payroll savings organizer for Arichat and district and the entire Cape Breton area at an organizational meeting of Bank of Canada officials held recently in Halifax in connection with the forthcoming Series Five, Canada Savings Bonds, campaign which opens throughout Nova Scotia and the rest of Canada on Monday, October 16 to November 4, inclusive. Terms and conditions will be identical with those of previous series sold through out the Dominion last year.

Working from Sydney and Halifax, Mr. Wood will also be responsible for Guysborough, Antigonish, Hants and parts of Halifax counties. Roy F. Eaton, also of Halifax, has been appointed to a similar position and will be responsible for firms in Annapolis, Kings, Queens, Lunenburg, Digby, Colchester, Cumberland, Yarmouth and the other parts of Halifax counties.

Attending the meeting was H. Graham Gammell, Chief of the Securities Department of the Bank of Canada at Ottawa, who briefed the organizers and expressed the hope that Nova Scotia will again establish a record in the sale of the Fifth Series, Canada Savings Bonds, this year.

Darroch Macgillivray, St. John's, was appointed payroll savings organizer for Newfoundland, and Norman B. Anstin, of Saint John, will be responsible for New Brunswick. Others attending the meeting were William D. Farrell, Halifax agent for the Bank of Canada, and Henry Pryky, Press Liaison Officer of the Bank of Canada for Nova Scotia.

Terms and conditions of Series Five will be the same as those of Series Three and Four.

The interest will remain at 2¾ per cent for 10 years. Purchases will again be limited to $1000 for each member of a family. The bonds come in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1000 and will be dated November 1, 1950.

Clyde T. Watt, of Saint John, was again appointed Maritime Regional Director of the Payroll Savings Plan. He said that plans have been completed to launch the Canada Savings Bonds campaign throughout Nova Scotia next month.

The organizers stressed that the bonds will be available not only to employees through their firms on the popular Payroll Savings Plan but also by outright purchases from chartered banks, their branches and investment brokers.

Aimed at the lower and middle income wage earner, the Canada Savings Bond is looked upon by the Federal Government as serving a dual purpose. First it tends to siphon off surplus money lying idle in private bank accounts, which otherwise would be spent, thus tending to prevent inflation. Secondly, it gives the wage earner one of the best and least painful means of saving through regular weekly or monthly deductions from his pay envelope.

In yeast-raised baking especially it's been nip and tuck, and Miss Woodworth credits her yeast with giving her the edge. ing Figures in Economic Development". It deals with this very issue in a chapter entitled. "The Distribution of the National Income". It should be read by the man who asked me this question and it should be read by every Member of the House of Commons and by every Senator. It touches the basis of our present trouble in regard to the railways. The distribution of the fruits of progress is one of our great problems. Too high a wage rate will reduce total wage payments. When labor realizes that fact human progress will be accelerated and we still have a higher standard of living.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

When on a recent summer Dr. John and Mrs. Boyd with their family sojourned for a period at Sporting Mountain, the unpretentious couple did not hold themselves aloof from its citizens whose sentiments of sincerest sympathy we thus re-echo to distant Detroit.

"A Tour of the South Shore and Annapolis Valley" was interesting to read about to say nothing of being privileged to enjoy it.

Far away fields look green but native heath do not always suffer by comparaison.

In our humble opinion the story was wonderfully well told.

Enroute to visit friends in Cape Breton County, Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart of Watertown, Mass., accompanied by the former's sister, Mrs. Annie McDonald (Annie Stewart) of Port Hawkesbury comprised a welcome motor party to Sporting Mountain Friday.

Old neighbours and old friends, it was nice to thus renew their acquaintance.

There is rejoicing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Morrison (Marion Chadwick) of Long Branch, Ont. Favored with all the joy and exultation of a first baby, little Donna Bernice arrived Sept. 12th and tipped the scales at 9 lbs. 7 oz.

The proud and popular parents are being showered with congratulations from their many friends.

Congratulations are in order too, to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sutherland (Kaye McNeil) on the recent birth of a daughter, Andora May.

A foreman at the Steel Plant, Neil has a fine home (largely the product of his own handicraft between shifts) in advanced course of construction at Sydney River.

What with the reception and dance in honor of the young bridal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell (Jean Parker) at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell, The Points, Friday night, and a ploughing match succeeded by a dance on the spacious Pringle farm the day previous, all roads led to "The Shore" during the week-end.

James Smith was an over the week-end visitor to Halifax.

The veteran horse dealer, Angus McDonald, driving a prepossessing span was in the vicinity Friday.

He was accompanied by Frank Burns who visited his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McFie (Agnes Morrison) and little sons, Normie and Johnnie, motored up from Glace Bay Friday, to the Campbell — Parker wedding reception at The Points.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boudreau motored to Barra Head Sunday to see the formers brother, Mr. Maurice Boudreau, who resides with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McNeil.

A novel incident in this area was the tractor ploughing contest on Michael Kyte's farm at River Tillard Friday afternoon.

Francis Boudreau was a business visitor from Cannes Tuesday.

Leonel LeBlanc, J. H. Ross, Austin Boudreau and Elliott McLeod were among those who took in the ploughing match at The Points.

"Seaview Falls Day" is back on the program written in capitals.

It will only mean a few hours absence from the Shire Town.

BASEBALL

By James Monbourquette

The following account of the second game of the Richmond County Baseball Series arrived too late for our last issue. We are publishing it for the benefit of our readers.

River Bourgeois, Sept. 24—The visiting Petit de Grat Red Caps kept alive their hopes of becoming the new champions by downing the defending River Bourgeois nine 10—7 before a good sized crowd on the Sporting Mountain diamond. The Red Caps were forced to come from behind, on several occasions as they found the going tough against the home team's ace hurler Fred Digout. However, trailing 2—1 going into the seventh frame, the Petit de Grats ignited a big four run rally, and kept right on going with four more in the 8th. Meanwhile Louis Samson was doing a tremendous job of checking the opposing batters. The Red Caps then added an insurance marker in the 9th and that was the ballgame. Samson was often kept in hot water by the loose fielding of his mates, but the right hander was hot in the pinches and certainly deserved the victory.

Little Art Boudreau proved to be the fly in the ointment as far as Fred Digout was concerned, for the diminutive shortstop was successful in garnering a pair of two base blows to pace the Red Caps to victory. A two base wallop off the bat of Peter Boudreau proved to be the big blow in the contest when the rangy gardener cleared the bases in the 7th inning uprising.

Fred Digout and Louis Samson hooked up in one of the best mound duels of the season with the latter outpitching his rival to gain the decision on the strength of a fourteen strikeout performance. Both pitchers received lack lustre support from their associates and so, they were forced to bear down frequently. Digout coasted along nicely until the visitors caught up with him in the disastrous 7th. Lawrence Pottle replaced the veteran righthander in the 8th, but he, too, failed to hold back the rampaging Red Caps.

This corner has finally got around to giving praise to one of the most under-rated players in this league, Rudolph Boudreau. This youngster playing under severe physical strain, has been turning in some smart fielding around the initial sack and practically [illegible] the Petit de Grat infield together.

It is quite difficult to prepare a writeup without any material so this effort will be minus the usual details. Lady Luck certainly shines on Cletus Boudreau when it comes to toss a coin! The genial captain of the Red Caps again won the toss and so Petit de Grat will be the site of the third and deciding contest in the Richmond County finals.

Dundee, N. S.
Oct. 3, 1950.

Dear MacTavish:

Through a series of mid-summer activities, and confusions, we seem to have lost ourselves for a time, and therefore an acknowledgement of your letter of August 19th was delayed.

Your contributions to the Record are most fascinating and are among those we look forward to each week, and the description of your Dundee, P. Q., which was exceptionally interesting, brought to us intellectually a scene of real beauty.

However, it is not difficult to understand why there is still another Dundee, that is even more beautiful (especially in October).

The sight of Black River, reflecting the light of the harvest moon on a calm night, and the rainbow colors of the surrounding hardwood groves on a sunny autumn day. The winding road overlooking the blue Bras d'Or with a changing scene as you go along.

All these and so much more that make an autumn landscape in Dundee N. S. seem lovely. Or maybe, the locality has something to do with it. say nothing of the many friends and acquaintances.

We have pitched our tent on a small slope by the side of the river, where we have access to everything that is beautiful around Dundee.

So when you take a trip our way, why not pay us a visit? The boss (an old friend) will surely be pleased to find a peg to hang up your cap.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Even the slightest change from the routine baby picture is refreshing. The young father who took this shot of mother trimming baby's nails wanted a little variety in his collection of bathing and dressing shots.

Let's Take a Baby Picture That's Different

IF YOU'VE a baby or small children in your family, undoubtedly the camera shutter is clicking with regularity. But are you making the most of your opportunities with such wonderful subject material? Are you using your imagination to produce pictures that are not only different but which will record the various phases of the growing-up process?

I've seen some baby-picture collections that would indicate that the baby—and even the three-year-old—lived in an immaculate world and beamed on it with a happy smile every waking moment. Chances are a record would be much more real—and I not one bit less appealing —if it snapped baby in the midst of his better howls, or pictured him in a pout.

The other day I saw a cute picture of a young man, age 4, who will know just how he looked when he had the mumps.

As far as the baby is concerned, you've no doubt made the obvious and traditional shots of him in his bath, as he smiled in his sleep, and in a bare state on a bear-skin rug (or its equivalent). These are fine shots and certainly have a place in your family album, but there are many more opportunities for shots just as appealing as those you see made by the professional photographers. You are in the midst of picture-taking situations for which these professionals spend time and money in quantity to achieve—so make the most of it.
