...t Review Reveals Industrial Activity in 1951

By Hon. A. H. McKinnon
Minister of Labor

Throughout the whole of 1951, there has been a steady increase in industrial activity in the Province of Nova Scotia The index of industrial employment for every month showed an advance over the same month in 1950.

The high employment is reflected in a reduction in the number of those seeking work. Unemployment, as indicated by the number of applicants registering at the local employment offices was, during the summer months at its lowest point since 1945.

In the primary industries, forestry, fisheries and farming, demand has been generally high and production well sustained despite setbacks due to unusual weather conditions. . The outlook for the coming year is very satisfactory, indeed.

Labour legislation enacted at the 1951 session of the Nova Scotia Legislature included a new Employment of Children Act, a revised Women's Minimum Wage Act, and amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The Employment of Children Act is an extension of the restrictive legislation previously in effect governing the employment of children. In certain industries regarded as hazardous or unwholsesome, which are specified Acts of 1920. Good Old Montreal

By R. J. Deachman

I was in Montreal last week. I like Montreal, it's a fine old city, one of the immovables. It must be forty years since I first saw it, yet it is today as it was then, a bright and bustling place. Of course it has grown in size and importance. It gets a fair share of the business of the nation. Not only is Montreal prosperous, it looks prosperous and happy and, bless its heart, it has opinions of its own. That's all to the good. I do not want to live in a city where all the people think alike. That would leave no room for argument

I was there on a holiday. It was called "Conception Day". It is not a national holiday, it is a religious one. The stores were ordered to close but many didn't do it. Business was booming. Apparently the people of Montreal wanted the stores to be open and it paid the stores to keep open. The fine for transgression is said to be $40. If they pay the penalty they will still be far ahead of the game. It may be that 700 stores took the risk. It would cost him $28,000. That's a mere drop in the bucket in these days of top notch business . . . . Far back from some half locked chamber of my memory there comes this sentence: "The man who is truly loyal to the chief magistrate will neither advice nor submit to arbitrary measures". I am glad I found that sentence There are times when I am rather proud of rebels, the people who do not conform.

I registered at the Windsor, a fine old hotel. I have known it for a generation. It's one of these comfortable hotels where the "tip-hungry" never step on your toes. It's so well known that you are certain to meet people you know from almost any part of Canada. I sent a wire to my son and told him I would take a taxi and go out to see him. When I got to his house he wasn't there he had left about twenty minutes earlier. I turned back to the Windsor. It was a $3.00 ride and the only point about it is that I got back to the place from which I started having made about 10 miles in my effort to reach him.

The driver who took me out was a bilingual Canadian of French extraction. He spoke both languages with equal ease. I complimented him on his fluency. "I had to learn both," he said, and then added: "I wonder how many people learn to speak another language unless they have to do it." I asked him how he learned English. "By blundering away," he said. "I threw my French away, took it out of my mind. I read the English papers. I talked to everybody in English, at least I thought I was talking English. I am not so sure now. It was all very funny."

That afternoon my son and I decided to visit one of the largest stores. We wanted to see how the stores were keeping the "holiday" There was something else. I had, on a previous occasion, lost a bet to him. I postponed making good on it. He didn't forget. I was under his control for the day and he decided that I should make good my obligation. It cost me $5.00 in a store which was, on that particular day, supposed to be closed. Was it closed? No. It was terribly crowded. They were busy handing out suits of clothes and underwear and hats. The whole store was busy. I passed the remark to my son as we got back on the street that they might be fined. "Chicken feed," he said "in that store today they will earn enough every minute to enable them to meet any fine the city is likely to impose." I agreed with him.

As I went down to pay my bill before checking out I thought of the conversation I had some years ago when paying my bill at one of the largest hotels in Western

FORGERON -- BABIN

A very beautiful wedding of wide interest took place in the Immaculate Conception Church on Wednesday the 26th when during Nuptial High Mass, Rev. Conrad Gerroir united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mary Rose Babin and James Adolph Forgeron.

The bride entered the Church on the arm of her uncle Raymond by whom she was given in marriage. The wedding march was played by Miss Jeannette Gerroir.

The bride looked charming in a floor length gown of white slipper satin fashioned in princess lines with long sleeves. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a coronet and her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. She carried a white prayer book with satin streamer and tiny buds She wore white accessories to match.

She was attended by Miss Genevieve Gerroir who looked lovely in a gown of yellow satin with matching shoulder veil, headdress and lace mitts. She carried a prayer book with yellow streamers and buds.

Douglas Forgeron supported the groom.

A delicious breakfast was served at the home of the groom following the ceremony. The happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Halifax and other points of interest.

We wish them a long and happy wedded life.

ST. PETER'S

Prominent in the St. Peter's news during the past fortnight was the Christmas Concert in the Community Hall staged by the local school pupils, grades one to ten.

The program, under the Chairmanship of Miss Helen Archibald Principal, got underway with a chorus by the Primary Department: "Snowy White Snow" and "Jingle Bells". The performance continued with solos, duets, folk dances and plays and the pupils actually displayed some potential talents, besides being a credit to their directors. The rendition of the popular "Silver Bells" with Descant was especially well done by the girls of Grades 7 to 10, accompanied by background chimes. The presentations concluded with a tableau of the scene at Bethlehem, with special lighting effects. Toward the close of the evening Miss Archibald thanked the Musical Directress Mrs. Patricia Morley for "her untiring efforts with the St. Peter's School, and Norman Spurrell, President of the Students Council gave Mrs Morley a gift for her assistance with the annual High School Plays. Mr. Remi Chiasson, Inspector of Schools, then complimented the pupils and teachers, Miss C. Morrison, Mrs. T. Cameron, Mrs G. V. Kyte and Miss M. Madden on their splendid production The evening closed with "God Save The King".

Home to St. Peter's for the holiday season were: Charles Sampson, RCAF, Greenwood, N.S. Mr. Finlay Sampson, Sydney, N.S; Mr Kenneth MacEwen, Stirling,; Cpl. Gordon Morley RCAF, Calgary; Mr. Bill Pearo, Royal Bank Whitney Pier, N. S.; Miss Elsie Harnish, presently teaching in Orangedale, N. S.; Miss Alice Hogan, teaching in Halifax and Miss Casey Poirier, Dept. of Mines, Sydney; St. F. X. Students on vacations include: Miss Yvonne Digout, Miss Lydia Kyte, Burton O'Leary, Richard Morley, Lloyd and Roswell Pottie, Ambri White and Leo Guyette.

Old friends were happy to greet Miss Isobel MacKenzie who is visiting her mother Mrs. R. D. MacKenzie. Isobel has been nursing in San Francisco, Cal., for the past five years.

1,300 Miles Paved Highways In Nova Ssotia

Minister of Highways and Public Works

Steady construction progress through the year has increased Nova Scotia's grand total of paved highways to 1,300 miles. The 83 miles completed this season include:

Barrington Passage to Clarke's Harbor.

Prospect Road as far as White's Lake.

French Village to Hackett's Cove.

Grand Anse (Richmond) to Arichat across Lennox Passage.

Guysboro to Canso.

Yarmouth to Darling Lake on No. 1 highway (repavement).

The Barrington Passage-Clarke's Harbor work included paving of the Causeway to Cape Sable Island. It is gratifying to find that there has been no settlement whatever in the mass of solid rock quarried on the mainland and deposited in the tide race of Barrington Passage until the other side was reached.

Some idea of the strength of the tidal currents in the two bays created may be gleaned from the fact that while there has been no settlement, there has been some slight scouring of the slopes of the causeway.

Other work of the year included Preparation for paving of an additional 117 miles.

Many miles of county highways reconstructed or otherwise improved.

Completion of agreement between Nova Scotia and Canada for construction of the Canso causeway.

More than 11,000 miles of highway kept open for winter traffic, requiring the services of 168 units of snow removal equipment.

Projected work on many highways bridges has been held up by a lack of structural steel, now diverted to various defence industries but nevertheless 35 important structures have been replaced in other materials during the year.

Sheriff Smith

Friends of the late Sheriff Wylie Smith in Arichat and throughout Richmond County, and they are many, were shocked to learn of his sudden passing on Wednesday at the City Hospital, Sydney, following an operation.

For nearly half a century, the late Sheriff Smith represented Payzant and King, of Halifax, prior to becoming appointed as Sheriff of Guysboro County.

A man of genial personality Wylie, as he was familiarly known by his friends, was always a welcome visitor to Arichat and other parts of Cape Breton.

The memory of the late Sheriff Smith, will linger in the hearts and minds of his many friends in the years to come.

As a personal friend we admired Sheriff Smith for his many fine qualities of character and although old in years he was young in spirit.

To his widow we extend our sympathy in the passing of her beloved husband.

plete before the steel shortage became acute was the 150 foot span at Musquodoboit Harbor, which replaces one of the first steel bridges ever erected in this province.

Motor vehicle registration is at an all time high of 104,500 vehicles of all kinds against 96,604 last year.

Vehicles new this year total 14,109.

By way of contrast it may be stated that total registration in 1914, the year the Kaiser war began -- was 1,710.

Nova Scotians now holding drivers' licenses total 140,000 of whom 16,900 are classed as beginners.

An innovation for 1952 is the five year license plate system, which is expected to prove a great convenience to all concerned.

The Public Works department this year handled a number of large building projects including:

Rural High Schools at Sutherland's River, Pictou county, and Cambridge, King's county.

Victoria General Hospital, nurses' residence, Halifax.

New Building for Nova Scotia Technical College, Halifax.

New main lodge at Keltic Lodge Ingonish.

In addition the province cooperated with the towns of Shelburne and Bridgetown in construction of Regional High Schools at those places.

[illegible] Training Division". Headed up by a Director, this Division is responsible for the administration of three important parts of the Dominion - Provincial Training program - Industrial Apprenticeship. Training of Unemployed Persons and Training of Industrial Workers for industries essential to defence production.

Apprenticeship training is a joint undertaking on the part of employers, employees and the Department of Labour. The presen program provides for the training of tradesmen in the building trades and certain skilled occupations in industry. The apprentice works at his trade under supervision for a specified period at a sliding scale of pay and receives part time instruction in related trade theory.

The importance of the training of skilled craftsmen can hardly be overemphasized. One of the problems in maintaining a sound program over the years is that the demand for skilled tradesmen varies with the tempo of business activity.

If an adequate system of apprenticeship training is not maintained throughout periods of reduced demnd, a shortage cannot be made up in a hurry, if demand increases suddenly. In a time like the present when the shortage of skilled tradesmen may become a bottleneck in our production program this problem is brought sharly into focus.

The success of the program is entirely depdenent on the initiative and continuing cooperation of the employers, the labour unions and the individual employees. It is gratifying to report that the total number of registered apprentices in the Province of Nova Scotia now stands at four hundred and twenty-eight.

Provision has been made for the training of personnel for the defence industries under joint sponsorship of the Federal and Provincial Governments. The project is designed to train persons for semi-skilled and skilled occupations in which there is a potential labour shortage, and for employment in those industries in defence production which have employment priorities.

The period of training is from three to six months depending on the nature of the occupation and the degree of skill to be attained. Classes on a full time basis are presently being conducted in Aircraft Sheet Metal, Machine Tool Operation and Welding.

Trade training for the less highly skilled is also being provided for unemployed persons at the Halifax and North Sydney Training Centres. Trainees are selected where a seasonable good chance of employment on graduation exists and a considerable proportion of those being trained are physically handicapped.

Courses are now being conducted in diesel machanics, commercial and cooking. With the change in the labour market it has been found necessry to divert the facilities formerly available for train ing for the service trades and to limit their use to a growing extent to the trades more essential for defence production.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

This is an appealing picture as you see it here—but imagine it in full color! That would make it the brightest spot in the family album.

What You Should Know About Color

I'VE found lately that many snapshooters are missing the big thrill of making color pictures just because they don't know that there is film available for use in their cameras.

A friend of mine has a folding camera to which he has been devoted for years—and which has given him many albums filled with excellent pictures. So I expressed considerable surprise when I heard him say that he thought the time had come for him to get another camera. His explanation was that he wants one with which he can take color pictures. He didn't know that he could buy roll film for his camera that will give him wonderful color prints. This film, which makes regular size snapshots, is now available in all the standard roll film sizes.

Of course, if he had said he wanted to make the popular 2 x 2 color slides for projecting, wonderfully enlarged, he would have needed a miniature type camera that uses either 828 or 35mm. film.

Another unfortunately prevalent idea is that color pictures are difficult to make. In general, the photographer who consistently makes good black-and-white pictures will get equally good results when his camera is loaded with color film. A story-telling picture is just that, whether it is in monochrome or color. The rules of composition and arrangement hold good for both.

The only point at which color film needs more careful attention is when it comes to exposure. Black-and-white film gives you greater latitude. Modern photofinishing processes can do much to compensate for a wrong guess on exposure, but there isn't much that can be done along these lines with your color film. However, you won't have any difficulty if you follow the instructions with the film or use one of the little inexpensive guides that will give the answer to any exposure problem you're likely to meet.

Color pictures are easy to make and you can make one kind or another with practically any camera, including your ever-faithful box. If you have any doubts about yours, check with your photographic dealer. He'll be glad to tell you how you can enjoy color photography.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Premier Angus L. Macdonald said in a New Year's message that 1951 has been "a year of steady progress" for Nova Scotia.

Old lands have been reclaimed from the sea, old orchards had been uprooted to make way for the new and agriculture "has marched on to new levels of production and income."

There were new mining machines, new generating plants and "everywhere there is the stir of new enterprise and new activity."

"At the beginning of 1951 when it seemed that war might come at any moment, I said that in spite of the ominous signs of those days I saw some hope that peace would yet prevail among the major powers.

Fortunately for all of us that hope has been fulfilled during the 12 months now ending. The Korean struggle still continues, but it is my hope that 1952 will see the success of some or all of the negotiations now in progress and a beginning of a new era of peace and happiness for the people of all the world comparable to that which we already enjoy in Nova Scotia and Canada."

The Lower L'Ardoise social club held a Xmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Westlake. A jolly time was had by the large number of members present. A lovely Xmas tree twinkling with colored lights was the centre of attraction in the decorated living room. During the evening "Santa" appeared in the person of Mrs. Westlake, creating merriment and later distributing gifts to all from beneath the tree. Mr. and Mrs. Westlake were presented with a special gift of a chromium plated cigarette stand, from the club members. This came as a delightful surprise to Mr and Mrs. Westlake and they graciously thanked the members. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted in serving by Mrs. Molly Sampson, Mrs. Nora Playter, Mrs. Betty Stone, Mrs. John Raney and Mrs. Henry Sampson.

The Misses Joan and Jean Martell, students at Mount St. Bernard, Antigonish and Mr. Cyril Martell,, Halifax spent the Xmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Martell.

Joseph W. Monbourquette, student at St. F. X. University, Antigonish is spending his holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Monbourquette.

Friends of Mr. Robert Clannon and Mrs. Thomas Clannon who have been confined to their homes through illness will be pleased to learn they are making a satisfactory recovery.

Mrs. Guy Russell, Moore's Mills, N.B., 1951 winner at St. Stephen Fair, uses Fleischmann's Yeast exclusively.

Her Baking Wins Prizes For 27 Years

As you can see, winning prizes for home baking is an old story with Mrs. Guy Russell, of Moore's Mills, N.B. Her collection of prize-winning tags from the St. Stephen Fair goes back to 1924! She can give good reasons for her success, too. "I have baked bread as many as four times in a week," says Mrs. Russell. "But it isn't just experience or baking skill that makes you a prize winner. First you have to have the finest ingredients. For rolls and bread my choice is Fleischmann's Yeast. With Fleischmann's I'm sure of quick rising and fine results."

That's just what they all say! Prize-winning cooks throughout the Maritimes depend on Fleischmann's Yeast.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

DAVID DUNPHY

On this side the Passage citizens generally had occasion to feel the untimely passing of Dave Dunphy.

In life's heyday his rare musical talents were much in demand at picnics, entertainments and social functions. Thus he was wont to mix much with the masses, whilst his unassuming and kindly disposition engendered their enduring friendship.

Indicative of his neighbourly nature, we recall his walking over South Mountain to play gratis at a box social in Seaview school house in the interests of an aged citizen the late Lawrence Kiley, who had the misfortune to loose his little home by fire.

The old man attended and we have never forgotten the appreciative lustre that lighted up his dejected countenance when given the proceeds (a significant sum in those days) which he carefully secured in his red bandanna ere wending his weary way back to Balmoral.

A few days previous to Dec. 25 Arthur Fougere discovered some May Flowers with bulging buds in a sheltered nook on a sun-kissed slope.

He gave them to his cousin, Mrs Henry Pate who placed them in a glass of water, and as a result had May flowers in bloom on her table Chistmas Day.

D. J. Ferguson was a Yuletide visitor from Oban.

"Donald John" is a veteran citizen who has many friends, but no enemies.

Regardless of denominational lines, Leonel LeBlanc with his canopied Mercury motored Mrs. MacPhee's pupils to the Christmastide entertainments at Cannes.

We compliment Jacob Isackson upon his remembering some of the children of this community with a contribution Christmas Day

Never weary of well-doing, Mrs. Samuel Boudreau catered again to the bachelor element this season; it was the third generation Clare Burke, who made the presentations.

Leonel LeBlanc had occasion to motor to Grand Anse, Christmas Day, to secure the veterinary service of Alex P. MacRae for Lloyd MacRae's horse, but we were glad to see the spirited animal go by next morning as brisk as usual.

A well known and popular family publication expressed the wish that Christmas might bring us all the twin parcels of Commonsense and Goodwill.

Well, here is hoping that the New Year may give us all capacity to duly appreciate and assimulate them!

"Mother was right ...there's nothing like an Enterprise"

● Wise is the bride who realizes that Mother's reputation as a fine cook was made with the help of her Enterprise Range! For today's new models combine the same rugged construction with modern features that Mother's range never had — tribute to the Enterprise policy of constant improvement.

See the new Enterprise Ranges at your dealer's. Note the generous cooking surface, the roomy oven with its heavily insulated, spring-balanced door. Gleaming enamel and rounded corners and sparkling beauty, make the new Enterprise so easy to clean.

Ask about the hidden features that make Enterprise the fastest-cooking, most durable range on the market — the chassis with all-cast underfront that ties body and base into one rigid unit . . . the pressed steel, no-warp oven bottom . . . and the streamlined flue and scientifically designed plates for graduated top heat.

If the Enterprise Range model that you want may not be immediately available, it is worth waiting for.

"The fact is," [illegible] have a greater sense of obligation to the hotel they have lived in for a day or two than they have to other people--at least it looks that way to me." At the Windsor they took my money and said "Thank you."

I went back to Ottawa on the 8.30 p.m. train. It was a full train I handed the conductor my ticket, then I asked him if the CNR expected to give us a dividend instead of a deficit this year. "You got on at Montreal," he said "did you ever see that station as crowded as it was tonight?" I hadn't. "Neither did I", he answered," Then added. "Man this country is growing it may keep it up for years. We have only started on a new road to prosperity." He passed on down the aisle punching tickets. I started to read the evening paper. I enjoyed that day in Montreal. I like that city and the people in it.
