Tales, Tidings And Tidbits from Montreal

CASE DISMISSED

Slightly more than a quarter of a century ago, when Battery Hill was bald; when "Little A. A." persisted in digging holes in W. D. Morrison's lawn and when Percy's Green was favored for picnics by day and petting by night, pit-props were a source of pap for many a poor man.

A local dealer in our County had occasion to suspect that one of our Merry Micmacs had pilfered his pile near Barra Head.

Being a man of some means he was able to retain the services of a "Big Shot" barrister from the Sydneys and proceed to prosecute.

The Town Hall at St. Peter's was fairly well patronized the day of the trial. Murdoch MacRae peered through his thick lenses, his moustache twitching; his brother Bill sat slightly bent over, dribbling down the crooked stem of his pipe; Ranald the barber locked his small shop and tingled with anticipation, for he dearly loved legal phraseology and biting words. A handful of Indians squatted on the knotty pine benches by the walls, reeking of the green woods, smoke and sweet grass.

The accused sat immobile in the improvised dock, his black eyes steady.

The massive advocate, his black gown spilling from his massive shoulders and contrasting sharply with the white smooth head, roared lion-like at the accused.

"Tell me," boomed the barrister, "how many trees did you cut?"

The Indian's eyes showed no fear in their dark depths.

"Plenty," he replied.

"How many?" snapped the lawyer, "one hundred, two-three hundred?"

"Big bunch," the Micmac said.

"Come, come, my fine friend," the lawyer wrapped his words in sarcasm. "You weren't picking grapes. How many trees did you cut?"

"S'posum some trees give two-three props," the Indian replied, indicating with his fingers.

"Can't you count?" sneered the prosecutor.

"Some."

"Ah-ha," beamed the lawyer, "But you did know where my client's props were, didn't you?"

"Me know trees," grunted the accused.

The lawyer turned to the Magistrate. "Your Honor," he said, in a well modulated voice. "The case is quite clear....My clients props were entirely cut from one species of spruce.....and this particular species is not found within the limits of the Indian Reservation. There are no black spruce trees within the limits."

"Not right," the Indian's voice was threatening.

"Furthermore," continued the lawyer, ignoring protests from the accused, "black spruce logs were found in his piles." He pointed a pudgy finger at the Indian.

"You right--but me cut from Reservation."

"Bah! you wouldn't know a black spruce from a codfish. How would you distinguish a black spruce from another species" The lawyer smirked.

"Easy," said the Indian.

"How, by the bark?" The lawyer leered close to the dark face.

"Some," the Micmac said.

"By the cones?" he was asked again.

S'posum, some," was the reply.

"Here, here. Enough of this. Give me a definite answer. How?"

The Micmac's dark face broke bright with a huge smile. His eyes twinkled.

"S'posum no read. S'posum no write. S'posum no count much. But me black spruce's brother."

Books And Libraries

R. J. Chiasson
Inspector of Schools

In a previous article, we discussed the value of books as food for the mind for people of all ages. Books are necessary for recreational reading and to further our education and our professional interests It is a characteristic of the human mind that it never remains static for a long time: it either keeps on improving or else it deteriorates as far as its knowledge content is concerned. Most people are aware that it is far easier to forget something, to retrogress, educationally speaking, than it is to go ahead. It is of prime importance, therefore, for the wide-awake citizen that he nourishes his mind, that he keeps ahead of the times and new developments in his profession or else he finds himself slipping. We spend large sums of money (roughly $174,898 out of which about $26,000 comes from the County, the rest from the Province) for the schools in this County, approximately $83.00 per pupil, then we plunge them in the out of school atmosphere where books are practically non-existent. Many of these after being out of years cease to be functionally literate. Is this sound economy? Isn't it a "waste in education" to tolerate such a situation?

We must realize that education does not stop when the school years are over but that it is a process co-terminous with life. Indeed, eduaction is life itself. While a child is in school a generous supply of the right type of books is necessary if he is to form the reading habits which will permit him to read easily and profitably for the rest of his life. When he leaves school he must continue education if he is to make any improvement in his economic and social condition. To do this he must have books, and as a general rule he cannot afford to buy them. It is not even possible for the average community or small town to provide the wide range of material that its citizens should have.

The rural areas in this case, as in other instances, are at a disadvantage if they try to solve the problem on their own for they have neither the concentration of wealth nor of people to the condition.

Besides the value of books for recreational and serious reading for all ages, there is another important facet to this problem. Our democratic way of life depends largely on the extent to which knowledge, in its broadest sense, is available to every one of us. The democratic way of life makes heavy and serious demands on the citizens. It has its faults, but the remedy lies within the people. We agree with Aristotle that "democracy is the worst form of government except all the others which have been tried". For the citizen to meet the demands of the democratic system, he needs to be educated. For the knowledge needed to play his paart intelligently, he depends on books which are the accumulated record of man's progress and thought. Other sources of information are available, such as the radio, films, but eventually we come back to books.

The basic fundamental principles on the value of books may be summarized as follows:

(1) Supplying books for children to provide them with a wider range of reading material so that they can get books outside of the

Yarns Spun On The Old Spinning Wheel

By Norman L. MacLeod (The Annex, Otisville, N. Y.)

Cabinet makers and coopers should have a prosperous season this spring, but the outlook does not appear too promising for dressmakers and ladies' tailors. The style trends point toward box coats and barrel skirts. Some call them flaring skirts, but however designated, they will still be a bunch of staves and hoops, with a barrel-shaped bulge amidships. Stylists will possibly refer to the staves as stays but its the same difference expressed with a slight dissimilation. I have been told that some of those flaring skirts are heavily padded. If the padding is made of the same material as the new-type mattresses on the market, they should be very comfortable to sleep in.

Young people fortunate enough to have old trunks in the attics of their homes may be able to retrieve their grandmother's hoop skirts of yesteryear. With a few slight changes in construction it would be a great saving to the family exchequer and may leave enough for the old man to purchase a new spring hand-me-down.

A minimum of shoe with a well defined silhouette predominates in the spring designs in footwear. Vamps will be cut away to reveal all the toes; and what is left of the shoe will be completely backless, built in the style of a ferryboat, open fore and aft. To embark and disembark, the funnel on the top deck will still be used, the only apparent purpose of the fore and aft openings will be to omit fumes that may arise. Unless fenders are built at each end the girls are liable to become goose-steppers. This will be a return to the European sabot (wooden clog).

Milliners at a recent convention were unanimous in the opinion that there should be no departure from the usual materials used in making hats, their contention being that most of the domes to be crowned contained enough wood naturally. One designer sponsors a youthful off-the-face hat. While it might be advisable for plug-uglies of the male gender to cover their faces, it is no longer necessary for the girls to do so. There was a time when they had to wear heavy veiling but they was before there were any beauty parlors or face-lifting mechanics. Ain't science wonderful!

This off-the-face advocate turns to saucyelliptical brims, bicornes and tricornes. The latter being three-cornered the girls will be go-

Home and School Meeting At Arichat

The monthly meeting of the Arichat Home and School Association took place on Thursday, April 17th, at the O. L. A. Convent Hall. After prayer, roll call and the customary opening business, the Principal spoke of the basis for representation of pupils at the St. Peter's festival and possible island elimination in the future. The Salesmanship Campaign by High School students was also explained. After the President had called attention to the program "Kindergarten of the Air" for pre-school children, Mr. Gerald LeBrun read the highlights of the March Newsletter which stresses creativeness in education and the need for giving more publicity to educational matters.

At this point the members broke up into four discussion groups under the leadership of Mr. J. E. Benoit, Mrs. J. Power, Mrs. L. Boudreau and Sister M. St. Amédée. The questions discussed and the opinions expressed as read out by the secretary of each group were the following:

(A) Can we afford to be without running water in our school? No, we cannot, on account of sanitation and drinking purposes. Drinking gadgets should be installed on one tap of the wash basins if we cannot have drinking fountains proper. Paper towels and other related items should be provided by the Home and School if the School Board cannot afford to furnish them at this time.

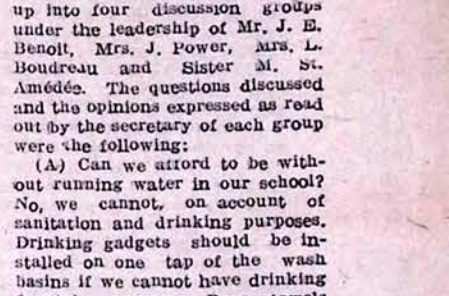

(B.) How can we make school more popular with everyone? Plan to have a playroom in the proposed remodelled school house as children at present must eat and play in classrooms on rainy days. Induce parents to visit the school, to attend the Home and School meetings and the Annual School meeting. FOCUS THE ATTENTION OF THE COMMUNITY ON THE NEEDED REPAIRS OF THE SCHOOL, A BUILDING ERECTED 90 YEARS AGO. Few homes, if any, in Arichat, have not been modernized since the past 90 years, but the school is a disgrace.

(C.) What the members of the Home and School do to stimulate interest in the school? Assume leadership and take responsibilities in all matters relating to the school and the needs of the children. Give publicity to the organization and bring in new members.

(D.) Should children be paid for doing chores at home? No, but credit should be given the child. Children should be taught that the home belongs to the whole family and that each member should strive to do his share. If allowances are given the children, they should be taught to save.

Following this, the Principal spoke on mental health and the losses resulting from the mental set-up of people: defeatism, local jealousies, prejudices, retard progress. One of the by-products of education is civilization. Are all our people civilized?

After a game, lunch was served a most delicious one. The meeting adjourned with "God Save the Queen".

CARD PARTY A SUCCESS

Despite the rain, a large number turned out on Sunday evening for the card party sponsored by the Arichat Home and School. Dr. Cusack won the door prize. The most lucky persons were reckoned to be Mr. C. D. Campbell and Mr. Aimable Boucher each of whom won two beautiful cakes, and Mr. Henry Thériault who carried off a cake and a large basket of groceries. Little Miss Elizabeth Power won the surprise box donated by Father Poirier who, himself, walked away with a week's supply of good things. Sincere thanks are extended to all who so generously contributed, whether at the party or by donating prizes and cash.

80th Birthday

Henry Boucher, a respected citizen of Arichat, celebrated his 80th birthday, on Tuesday, April 22nd. For many years Mr. Boucher was employed as a carpenter in an American shipyard. He returned to his home on South Side, Arichat, over twenty years ago where he resided up to the death of his wife three years ago. Previous to her daath they celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The father of a large family Mr. Boucher now resides with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Amable Boucher, Arichat. We join with his friends in wishing him many happy returns.

books they get in school. They learn the mechanics of reading in school, but the average child has not got a range of books available either at school or in the home to give him a wide range of reading material, so that he can get something out of his reading that only comes with practice, and practice only comes by having books available.

(2) Provision of recreational reading for there is a great deal of satisfaction in mental relaxation, reading enjoyment, and books of a higher quality than the comic, true detectives, etc., which are only a poison to the mind.

(3) Provision of serious material on any subject and every subject. The electrician likes to read about electricity, the plumber about plumbing, etc. Whatever your range of interest is, there should be books available for your taste.

In succeeding articles, we shall discuss Regional Libraries, the plans for this County andwhat is being done in other counties. Reactions and comments to our first article were many and favourable. Continue to send us your comments. We appreciate and value them.

MURDOCK CAMPBELL

(By our West Bay Scribe)

At an early hour on the morning of "Good Friday" April eleventh after a period of several months illness there passed peacefully away one of the best known and highly respected citizens a native of Marches, West Bay, N. S., in the person of the late Murdock Campbell, at the advanced age of 86 years.

In the prime of life he was frequently employed in the fishing industry on the Grand Banks and it was often a source of interesting entertainment for his intimate friends to hear him relate with such humour and emphasis his varied experiences observations and reflections in connection and along the lines of such exacting and strenuous work. Nor was his conspicuous talents and abilities confined to this alone for he was quite capable of rendering with beautiful melody a number of original songs in the Celtic or Gaelic Language thus giving strong evidence of pure "accents of the "Mountain tongue."

From early days he was imbued with deeply religious convictions which grew in intensity as years rolled on always taking as an important factor in the companionship of life that great Church Directory and Statute Book, The Family Bible.

In the autumn of 1903 almost a half a century ago he was married to Isabelle MacKenzie of Oban in the County of Richmond.

The family circle of nine was broken in past years by the death which brought much grief to the home. Those who are left to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and an affectionate parent are his wife, three sons and two daughters that is John; of two sons and two daughters Angus; and Freeman the latter arriving home from Ontario to attend the funeral; two daughters, Mrs. Ewen MacKinnon, (Margaret) of Sydney and Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald (Mary) of West Bay, N. S.

The funeral service conducted by Rev. H. T. Cox, Pastor of West Bay Congregation was held at the home on Monday afternoon, April 14th.

The portion of scripture upon which the Minister based his appropriate remarks on this solemn occasion is found in the book of Genesis, Chapter 15 verse 15.

"But thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried in a good old age."

The following appropriate hymns were selected: "The Lord's My Shepherd;" "Nearer My God to Thee"; and "Abide With Me."

To the near relatives and friends of the departed one the Community extends sincere sympathy.

New Trawler For Booth Fisheries

The trawler, "Dauntless Star," which arrived from England recently for the Booth Fisheries Canadian Ltd., is now in this port and is outfitting prior to making her maiden trip to the fishing banks.

The "Dauntless Star", is in command of Capt. John Cheesman, a veteran Gloucester skipper and a native of Newfoundland.

The mate and engineer who made the voyage from England on this sturdy and up-to-date trawler, will remain in the employ of Booth Fisheries. In conversation with them they informed us that the "Dauntless Star", was in service only a few years. They also said that on the trip over from England, they encountered rough weather practically all the way and that the trawler proved to be a very seaworthy ship.

We welcome Capt. Cheesman, the mate and engineer and trust that fishing operations will prove profitable so as to enable them to settle on Isle Madame with their families.

Crew members comprise men from Isle Madame and we are looking forward with interest and every confidence that the "Dauntless Star," the first trawler to operate out of this port will prove a noted success and open the way to all year-round operation of the fishing industry, thus keeping our men employed at the Booth Fisheries plant without interruption.

The "Dauntless Star," holds the pennant, as the highliner of the North Sea herring fleet.

The trawler will we understand, make her headquarters in Arichat, while awaiting the construction of the new pier at the Booth plant in Petit de Grat.

"I have never had a failure with Fleischmann's Yeast," says Mrs. Allan Armstrong, who bakes for a table of 13.

Wins Eight Baking Prizes at St. Stephen Fair

Home arts flourish on the stately Armstrong farmstead at Waweig, N.B. In the midst of canning wax beans, blueberries, and mackerel, Mrs. Allan Armstrong still finds time to do a batch of baking for the St. Stephen Exhibition. And when the judging at the 1951 fair was completed, Mrs. Armstrong had taken eight prizes!

Commenting on her success in the field of yeast-raised baking, Mrs. Armstrong says: "I can certainly recommend Fleischmann's Yeast to any one who wants to turn out tip-top baking. My own experience is that you can't beat Fleischmann's for dependable fast rising. I use it constantly."

Good advice! Champion bakers all over the Maritimes make it a rule to use only Fleischmann's Yeast.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Morrison motored to The Marshes, West Bay, Easter Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Morrison's brother in-law, who passed away after a lingering illness Good Friday.

The sympathy of her native Sporting Mountain goes out to the bereaved widow (Mary Bell MacKenzie) and surviving members of the family in their hour of trial.

On the afternoon of the 12th inst., Scaler MacKay had a busy period on Sporting Mountain and there were a few significant scales.

However, considering all the circumstances Samuel Boudreau's was comparatively good.

Running the ranch alone throughout the winter, he bought stumpage near home from John N. Morrison, and was active in between the acts of farm chores with results that surprised everybody.

Maurice Fougere walked up from his sylvan cabin Easter Sunday to spend a social hour with us.

As erect and active and humorous as ever, we were surprised when he told us he was in his eightieth year.

Mrs. Leonel LeBlanc returned Friday from a pleasant visit to relatives and friends in her native New Brunswick.

Mr. LeBlanc motored to The Strait to meet her.

Charles Kyte and Arthur Morrison of the Gov't. Fish Hatchery were business motor visitors to Seaview Thursday evening.

Whilst in St. Peter's Thursday James Goswell chanced to meet Mr. and Mrs. Ken McLean (Eva Goswell and little daughter Bernadette, enroute to their home in Halifax from East Bay where they spent the Easter holidays.

He thus got all the family news direct and neighbors are glad to know that Mr. and Mrs. John Goswell expect to be back to the old homestead May Day.

John N. Morrison motored Mrs. Lloyd MacRae to Grand Anse Friday morning.

Mrs. Elliott MacLeod gave the school room- a thorough cleaning up Wednesday preparatory to the reopening of school Monday.

Lorraine MacLennan of Grand River Falls accompanied Ceretha over the mail route Tuesday evening.

That in addition to being a good looking girl she is a smart girl was manifested when the car got ditched at "Arthur's Road" and in the course of a few minutes she had Leonel LeBlanc on the scene with the tractor.

"It makes such a difference"

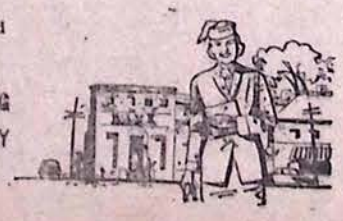

Mrs. Helen V.... was so pleased by the courteous treatment she received from a bank teller during a holiday trip that on her return home she wrote:

"It was really a pleasure to transact my modest banking affairs with you and I think the bank is very lucky to have such a charming and welcoming young woman with them. It makes such a difference when one is travelling to feel so at home."

At your own local branch, at any branch of any bank, you will find bank people going out of their way to look after you, efficiently and courteously. That is the way the chartered banks compete with each other for your business.

ing in three different directions at the same time, much in keeping with their footwear. You can never tell the course in which a ferryboat is travelling or now it is going to land, and these tricornes should not cause any noticeable departure from the fems usual mode of navigation. The elliptical brims are an improvement on the turban or sailor shapes as they will keep the wearers from going around in complete circles as heretofore. With the bricornes (crescents) the mooners will still be able to abstractedly wander about.

The above ensemble will enable milady to sally forth and have a suitable outfit for all occasions by making a few minor changes. No longer can she say "I have nothing to wear." The distaff side of the house is generally artistically inclined, and has often shown much skill in wielding a paint brush. They are quite adept at handling carpenters tools although at times they may have trouble driving a nail straight. Adding new or removing old ells such as puffed sleeves, etc., or railings like the frills and ruffles aunt Effie wore, will effect wonderful changes. With her paint brush she will be able to change the colors and designs on the barrels and boxes and so change their appearance that she will always have something different to wear.

There are other garments that we will not enter into in this yarn as we have no desire to "step-in" to them. The boxes and barrels will undoubtedly be decoratively lined with suitable material.

I am glad that I have again been in a position to give a preview of what will be worn this spring, but I am no way responsible for any statement that the ladies might think in anyway offensive. I am only trying to be a faithful scribe in keeping you posted on what is to be, although the chances are that it will never be. Remember, I am always the working girls friend.

RIVER BOURGEOIS

The death of Miss Louise Fougere, took place at L'Ardoise on Saturday, April 19th.

Miss Fougere, who was seventy four years old died at the home of her sistr, Mrs. Catherine Bona with whom she was living at the time of her death.

Miss Fougere was born at River Bourgeois and lived here most of her life having gone to live at L'Ardoise a short time ago after the death of another sister, Mrs. Dosithe Landry with whom she had lived for many years. Her passing takes from River Bourgeois the last of a highly respected and well loved family.

Besides her sister, Mrs. Bona, of L'Ardoise, with whom she resided at the time of her death, she is survived by another sister, Mrs. Fred Grimes of Jersey City, USA.

Though she suffered an affliction most of her life, being practically a cripple, she was always cheerful and her "ready wit" was well known at River Bourgeois.

She is also survived by a great number of nieces and nephews both at River Bourgeois and elsewhere.

Her body was taken from L'Ardoise on Saturday and she was "waked" at the home of her niece Mrs. Charles Richard of South R. Bourgeois.

Her funeral took place from St. John the Baptist Catholic Church here on Monday morning at 9 o'clock and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends, Rev. Fr. Sampson officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Remi Boudreau have returned to their home at Petit de Grat after having spent three weeks as the guest of Miss Katie A. Sampson.

Hyacinth Pottie of Hawker has left for Wolfville where he is employed with Standard Paving Co.

John Henry Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Burke, South River Bourgeois, has gone to Halifax to seek employment.

Arthur Digout has gone to Bear River after spending a couple of weeks at home. He is employed with the Nova Scotia Power Commission.

Walter Fougere spent a few days at home last week. His place as Gordon bus driver was taken by A. C. Frost of Balmoral who has been hired as part-time driver.

Miss Stella Boyd, of Little Bras D'Or was the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Boyd, recently.

We regret to say that Norman Sampson is seriously ill at his home here.

The Misses Nora and Josephine Burke spent a few days visiting relatives and friends at Sydney lately. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Isiah F. Burke.

Mrs. Charlie Richard and two children, Charleen and Carson of Halifax, are the guests of Mrs. Richard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pottie of Hawker.

Joe McPhee and son Edgar who are employed at Sydney spent the weekend at their home in Hawker.

Mrs. Henry Fougere, South R. Bourgeois, spent a week as the guest of Miss Lizzie DeYoung of Martinique.

Tom Morrison of St. Peter's was a business visitor to R. B. on Friday.

Mrs. H. Cyberg of Halifax is spending some time visiting relatives and friends at R. B.

Arthur Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burke, South R. B., has returned from Stirling where he was employed.

A District Federation Meeting was held at the Parish Hall on Friday evening. James Richards presided at the Meeting while Mrs Fred Digout acted in her position as Secretary. Guest speakers for the occasion were Messrs. Sam Cormier and Urbain LeBlanc of the U.M.F. Most of the discussion was centered on lobster fishing and marketing as most of the fishermen are at present getting their boats and traps ready for the lobster season.

Drift ice which came into the harbor recently has practically disappeared and though several boats were launched before it came in, no damage, with the exception of some scraped paint was done to them.

Mrs. Larry Sampson, son Bucky and daughter Patsy of Sydney spent Easter vacation with Mrs. Sampson's mother, Mrs. Minnie Sampson, R. B.

A number of officers and members of the R. B. Credit Union attended the C. U. Chapter Meeting at Soldier's Cove on Sunday evening. Owing to a misunderstanding there was no "Panel Discussion" as planned, but School Credit Unions were discussed and a lively discussion was held on the work and training of the Supervisory Committee. After having been served a delicious lunch by the women, the members returned to their homes, having spent an enjoyable evening.

Hervey Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Boyd is spending a few weeks at home before leaving for Sept Iles, Quebec, where he will be employed as Instrument Man. We hope that this will not come as too great a shock to the young ladies of the surrounding areas, who may not have been aware that he is going to leave so shortly.

Who?? is the big question around here, was the young lady who drove a car through half a mile of "burned woods" near Hawker one night recently and had to be hauled out by Leo McPhee's trusty steed.
