Yarns Spun On The Old Spinning Wheel

By Norman L. MacLeod (The Annex, Otisville, N. Y.)

The death occurred at Newport, R. I., on April 16th, of Mrs. Hattie Sullivan, who will be remembered by the older residents of St. Peters and many readers of the Home Weekly in other places as Hattie Liscomb. Her husband predeceased her a year ago. There are four sons all married and living in the United Stats. She was 72 years of age.

Hattie was a daughter of the late Edward G. and Mrs. Liscomb and was one of four girls in a family of eight who according to seniority were: Harry, Hattie, Angus, Margaret, Sidney, Emily, Stanley and Inez. Inez passed away about a year ago. Margaret, Emily and Stanley are the only ones still living, all married and residing in Massachusetts.

At all social events where song was on the program and in the choir of the Presbyterian Church their voices contributed to the enrichment of the tonal volume of the chorus. Mr. Liscomb whose rich baritone always rang out to the enjoyment of all was without a peer in the old town in those days.

In the April 20th bulletin of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church of Newport, a copy of which I received from Spencer Sullivan, son of the deceased with whom she lived, the following item appeared:

"Yesterday the Rector read the Burial Office for Mrs. Hattie Sullivan. You who have been here need no word about her. For the newer members of the parish Mrs Sullivan was Choir Mother for years. She has not been well for a long time, and therefore was not active. But she will be missed by many Emmanuelites for a long time to come."

Hattie left St. Peters while in her late teens. About three years ago we contacted each other and an enjoyable exchange of letters ensued. We had much in common as we mulled over the carefree days of our youth abetting no doubt at times but I also hope dispelling at other times the nostalgia that so readily springs up with little provocation after the lapse of a few decades.

She was of a cheerful, friendly disposition as a girl, always ready to help make up a skating, coasting or any party where good, clean fun prevailed. In our correspondence she displayed the same spirit of friendliness. She was devoted to her sons and her church and often spoke of her choir boys that she had charge of for years and was still interested in although inactive with them for some time.

Her health began to decline about a year ago to such an extent that our letters ceased but through a mutual friend in Massachusetts who visited her I kept in touch with her. She suffered considerably the past few months and was hospitalized for several weeks up to the time of her death.

I know that her old friends join me in extending our sympathies to the members of her family who are left to mourn their loss.

The return of "Tales, Tidings and Tidbits" with the smiling countenances of MacTavish and Baptiste is a welcome sight in its old corner. Fully realizing what it means for one with the business and family responsibilities of MacTavish to put together a column fraught with the wit and wisdom of Tidings and Tidbits, every week and that it takes time and concentration, yet I hope he will be able to favor us with a steadier flow than in the past.

While of a later day his column has much that is familiar. His references of some of the old boys like "Murdoch MacRae, peering through his thick lenses" and "Ranald the barber's love for legal phraseology and biting words" brought back fond memories to this old scribe. Come again and often, Mon.

Annual Meeting C.W.L. Held

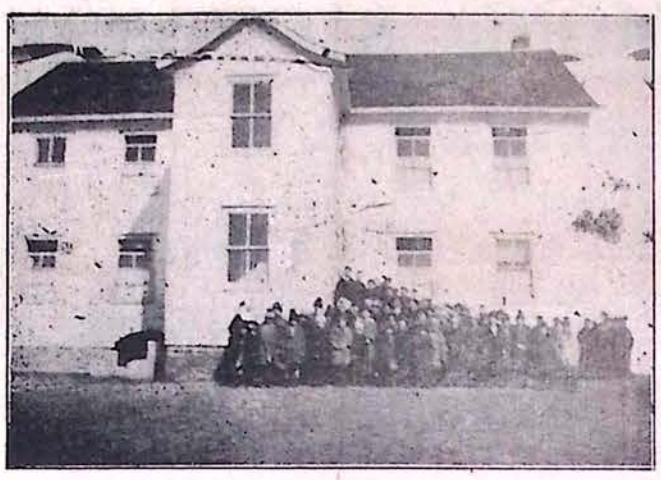

The members of L'Arodise CWL sub-division held their annual meeting in the school April 27th with Mrs. M. J. MacNeil presiding.

A report of the year's activities showed much progress had been made. Besides parish work and gifts to patients donations were sent to Red Cross Society, Little Flower Institute, Missionaries of Mary, Grailville, Holy Father's, Immigration Funds, Provincial and National Budgets. Holy Year visits were made in procession corporate Communions and a continuous Rosary on principal feasts of Our Lady. Members are represented at Credit Union, Consumers' meetings Home and School meetings and Red Cross Drive.

The convener of the nominating committee, Mrs. Percy Martell, submitted the slate of officers for the coming year. Mrs. H. Burke replaced the retiring president, Mrs. M. J. MacNeil, and the remaining officers were re-elected. The retiring president and the newly elected president gave very appropriate remarks.

Following the business period the members sang a hymn to Our Lady after which the meeting adjourned.

Arichat Needs New School

The Arichat Academy built over ninety years ago has more than served its purpose and now the residents within the school section of Arichat, are looking forward to seeing this building remodelled or replaced by a new up-to-date building to serve the present day needs.

Gravel roads from Grand Anse to Arichat have been replaced by a modern paved highway; the to electricity on Isle Madame; fish- to electricity on Isle Madame; fish ermen have advanced from the sailing boat to modern fishing craft; your weekly newspaper has left the typecase and hand press behind and has gone into the modern equipment field; residents have improved their homes and yet our school building remains in the same position as it did ninety years ago.

Education comes first in our lives so let us all put our shoulder to the wheel and help burden our share of the cost. The longer this important matter is left undone, the greater the cost will be to the ratepayers at a later date.

A meeting is being called for Tuesday, May 13th, to discuss the matter of borrowing money to remodel the school. We trust that a solution will be met to solve the important problem of a loan, so as work may start on the remodelling of the school, just as soon as the term comes to an end early in June.

CHETICAMP VILLAGE TO GET PAVING

CHETICAMP.—Dr. H. A. Ratchford, President of the Cheticamp Board of Trade in a recent interview in Halifax with the Premier, the Honorable Angus L. Macdonald, was told by the premier that the village of Cheticamp would be hard surfaced this summer.

This means a lot to an enterprising village like Cheticamp with its industrious people who have long awaited this move.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

PICTURE DIARIES

Keep a snapshot diary of your garden.

IT'S time to start your garden. And photography — snapshooting—should always be closely associated with gardens.

When should you start taking garden pictures? The answer to that question is—right now. This early in the season your plot undoubtedly is at the most barren and unattractive stage.

So your first garden picture of the season should be that of a member of the family preparing the garden for planting. That shot will serve as your number one snapshot of your garden picture diary.

You can either focus for an overall picture of the garden, including the gardener, or a fairly close-up shot to show the gardener at work. You must be the judge of the angle of view but quite often shooting down on your subject, say from a height of two or three feet, will result in a more interesting shot than one at eye level. Study several angles of view in your viewfinder before snapping the picture.

If you are one of those methodical individuals who carefully lay out their gardens with stakes and string, the line patterns made by the white string against the dark earth background will make another attractive picture—and show another step in your gardening efforts. To add human interest, you might have someone planting the first row of seeds. An angle view from a stepladder would help add pictorial interest to such a picture.

These suggestions may serve to help you start your garden picture diary. You can probably think of many more. When your vegetables start popping up from the soil and the rows stand out distinctly — there's another shot, and so on through the season.

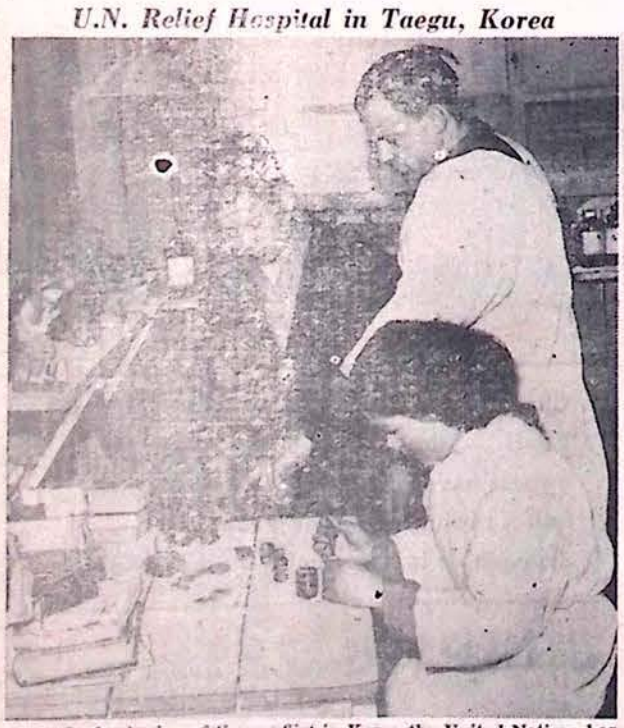

Here's a bit of advice. Try to make your garden pictures before eleven o'clock in the morning or after three o'clock in the afternoon. At these times of the day the sun is lower in the sky than at noontime, resulting in better lighting and interesting shadows that help add depth and form to your pictures.

Your garden pictures can serve two purposes. You'll have a complete record of your garden activities and its growth, and you can have extra prints made of the better shots to send in your letters to relatives and friends.

Always remember too, that members of your own family who may be far away, get a real thrill from pictures of life back home.

Special School Meeting

Editor, Richmond County Record.

Dear Sir:—We take this opportunity to let the ratepayers of Arichat School section know just what has been accomplished in the way of borrowing of money to repair and remodel their school.

The application for a loan through the Department of Education was under negotiation for a long time. Finally on January 22, 1952 we were advised by the Department that they would not consider loan until we had exhausted other methods of obtaining same and referred us to F. J. Brennan & Co.

By that time our opportunity to borrow from local sources was gone. Negotiations with F. J. Brennan & Co., have now reached the stage, that, before the firm grants the loan the scheme for repayments must be approved by the ratepapers. Hence the reason for Special Meeting on Tuesday, May 13th.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for space.

Secretary to Trustees.

Hon. R. H. Winters Reports From Ottawa

Ottawa, May 2, 1952.

The Editor,
Richmond County Record,
Arichat, N. S.

Dear Mr. Editor:

The six by-elections scheduled for May 26th seem to be reflecting themselves into the debates in the House of Commons. In any case, the debating this week was sharper than I have seen it in some time, and a number of speakers seized the opportunity to flog horses that were considered dead many long years ago.

The subject before the house most of the time was the Budget. But there were few speeches that gave very much direct attention to it. There are two debates a year which are considered to be of an "omnibus" nature and provide private Members with opportunities to discuss a wide variety of subjects of concern to them and to their constituents. One is the Speech from the Throne and the other is the Budget.

These debates enable Government Members to express views in support of what the Government is doing, whereas the Opposition, quite properly, avail themselves of the opportunity not only to criticize what is being done but to state their views as to what policies they would apply if they were in a position to do so; a number of quite interesting divergencies of opinion developed, most of them around the issue of Family Allowances, which happened to be a focal point in the debate.

Early in the week, Mr. Thatcher CCF member for Moose Jaw, criticized the programme of Family Allowances and other social security measures. His views were immediately repudiated by his party in a way that reflected a considerable amount of regimentation within the ranks of its Parliamentary membership. Then Mr. Drew attempted to demonstrate that when he referred to the Family Allowances legislation some years ago as being "iniquitous", he did not intend to imply that the principle of Family Allowances itself was bad. In other words, he asserts now that he, too, is for this programme, which brings about the interesting situation wherein some members of the socialist party, which normally gives warm support to measures such as this, find themselves in opposition to it; and the Progressive Conservative party, which likes to be regarded as the party of free enterprise, finds itself hotly supporting this social security measure just as it had uged a comprehensive system of price controls only a very short time ago.

I presume that once the by-elections have been held, proceedings in the House will again assume a normal pattern.

Yours very truly,

Robert H. Winters.

No Tolls At Causeway

Transport Minister Chevrier said yesterday he believes there will be no tolls on the causeway to link Cape Breton Island and the Nova Scotia mainland.

However, the Minister told the Commons special railway committee the matter is one for the Nova Scotia government, which is paying for the causeway jointly with the federal government.

The Minister said about 35 construction firms have shown interest in the project since tenders were called a few weeks ago.

He said he expects tenders for re-laying railway lines at both ends of the causeway will be called late this year. The re-laying job is to be completed by September, 1954.

Red Cross News

Halifax, N. S., May 8--There is special significance attached to the Date May 8, which we of Red Cross feel should not pass unnoticed by the general public. Today is being commemorated around the world as the one hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the birth of Henri Dunant, Swiss founder of the Red Cross," Eric W. Balcom, Mayor of Wolfville and President of the Red Cross Society's Nova Scotia Division said in a press interview.

"His contribution to mankind in the founding of the great humanitarian institution is one that can never be overlooked. Here in Nova Scotia, we feel that the record achieved within the ranks of our workers is one that speaks for itself, and is in part a lasting monument to the vision of Henri Duant," Mr. Balcom added.

The Nova Sotia Division President reported that the Canadian Society is joining an international short-wave broadcast from Montreal, in which voices of Quebec Junior Red Cross members will be heard around the world.

The "relief societies" which Dunant envisioned on the battlefield of Solferino nearly a century ago exist today in some 70 countries, uniting in the same ideal of human brotherhood one hundred million men, women and children.

"Such an ideal is all the more precious at a time when humanitarian values have been appalling debased, when war lurks just beyond the horizon and when the ideal of service is being increasingly replaced by the desire for material advantage even at the expense of others," Judge Emil Sandstrom, President of the league of Red Cross Societies, has just declared in a special message linked with this observance.

"Red Cross represents a great moral force in the world today," he stated. "By its example of unselfish action and brotherhood it is effective propaganda against war and gives humanity the hope of a better future."

LEBRUN -- MACNEILL

Sacred Heart Church, Sydney, was the scene of a lovely spring wedding on Saturday morning, April 26th, when Marie A. Macneill of Sydney became the bride of Arthur A. LeBrun of Arichat.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, A. D. Macneill, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march. "Fleischmann's Yeast never lets you down", says Mrs. G. Arthur MacDonald, Pictou, N.S.

Wins Baking Honors at 1951 Pictou Fair

With a fresh batch of ribbons for her prize-winning baking at the 1951 Pictou County Fair, Mrs. G. Arthur MacDonald has every reason to be pleased and proud.

Talking shop with her husband (he's a baker by trade!), Mrs. MacDonald attributes much of her success to her care in selecting ingredients. "Ingredients are so important," she says. "For instance, you have to use an extra-good yeast—one with plenty of pep and action—for the best results. I personally never use any yeast but Fleischmann's, because I know from experience how fast and peppy it is."

Right to the point! Across the Maritimes Fleischmann's Yeast is the favorite with prize-winning bakers because they've proved it's so dependable.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

Well, it is May and mute and material things are resurrecting and rejoicing around and about us.

The frogs are invariably the most reliable harbingers of spring. A robin or a bluebird may appear prematurely, but when we hear those denizens of pond and swamp it is proof positive that Jack Frost has relaxed his icy embrace.

They were a little late this season on account of being snowed in.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McFie (Agnes Morrison) and sons Norman and John, motored up from Glace Bay, Saturday and were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Vitus Burke (Irene Morrison, with the niceness of her girlhood days down on the farm still unmodified by change of residence or married life) were motor visitors to Seaview Sunday afternoon and favored us with an agreeable social period.

They were accompanied by Clement Burke.

Frank Burns has returned from Sydney where he spent the winter months with his family.

Old neighbours are glad to see Mr. Burns back on the farm for another summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McRae drove over to visit friends in Balmoral, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott McLeod also drove over there with their showy horse.

D. J. Ferguson was a Sunday visitor from Oban.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke were recent motor visitors from Sydney and guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott MacLeod.

Ceretha acknowledges that owing to unfavorable road conditions over the mail route this spring she was the victim of a few untoward incidents but that she was positively not "the young lady who drove a car through half a mile of burned woods near Hawker one night recently, and had to be hauled out by Leo MacPhee's trusty steed."

SPP Donald J. MacLeod who is stationed at Petawawa, Ont., is spending a few days at his home here.

Dan N. Shaw, Stirling, was a recent business visitor to Truro.

Dan Alex MacLeod and son Angus Archie have returned home from a trip to Boston by TCA.

Rod Shaw of Lake Uist purchased a new three ton GMC truck last week.

Mrs. A. D. MacDonald and son, Donald of Mt. Auburn, spent the week-end at Stirling visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLeod spent the past week-end at Stirling visiting friends and relatives.

Billie Shaw and son Willie spent the past week-end at Rock Elm visiting relatives and friends.

Friends are glad to learn that Donald A. Ferguson has returned home from Halifax, much improved in health.
