Yarns Spun On The Old Spinning Wheel

By Norman L. MacLeod (The Annex, Otisville, N. Y.)

Grand Bankers are not big bank executives. The term applied to a fleet of stream-lined sailing vessels that went down to the Grand Banks a half century ago in pursuit of halibut and codfish. Today they are no longer stream-lined but an ungainly looking fleet of stub-nosed, stunt-masted, power-driven vessels.

Every Spring several of those stream-liners would arrive at St. Peter's with a working crew of several men. The most of them hailed from Provincetown, Mass., but occasionally one or two would claim Bucksport, Me., as their port of registry. From the districts in and around St. Peter's they each made up the full complement of 18 to 20 men needed to man the dories on the Banks from which they hand-lined for the cod. The trip took about three months. The name Buckport was as familiar at that time to the average native as any section of Cape Breton.

A few weeks ago we attended a tea party in Massachusetts and a few weeks later discovered the theft of five feet of mountain in New Hampshire. This week we will rest awhile on the porch of Camp Bras d'Or overlooking beautiful Lake Heart's Pond in the State Maine.

Maine is a rugged country, not unlike many parts of Nova Scotia in fact, it is a cross between an American State and a Canadian Province being bounded on the North and East by the Canadian Province of New Brunswick and on the West by New Hampshire and the Canadian Province of Quebec. It will likely remain in that position unless another of my relatives will spend his vacation there and slip it across the border into Canada.

The Penobscot and Kennebec are among its principal rivers. It has about 1600 lakes, with Moose head, Sebaco and the Rangeley Lakes among the largest. Mount Katahdin is its highest peak towering to a height of 5268 feet. Its chief industries are agriculture (chiefly potatoes), fishing, lumbering and quarrying (granite).

On the State highway between Bucksport and Calais on the way to Ellsworth and Bar Harbor, my old pal Ernest Morrison has had built for himself a cabin which he has named Camp Bras d'Or where we are now resting in reverie.

When Ernest wrote to me early in 1950 he mentioned having acquired some property in the State of Maine and that he then had under construction a cabin, where he intended to settle. Replying to his letter I asked him for all the details and after awhile he told me how the work was progressing but did not give the information I wanted. I bided my time, and when he visited me on May 25, I backed him into a corner, and glowering from beneath my impressive bushy eyebrows and in my ever commanding manner, relentlessly plied him with queries that he could not easily evade.

Had I not been a man of strong will and self determination I would have weakened for beside him stood his loyal and charming daughter Miss Reta, who without uttering a word implored me with her lovely eyes not to harm her dad. He finally broke and producing a snap of the place handed it to me. He wanted to talk about the fishing and hunting, but I said what the old bunch and I were interested in was the cabin.

The idyllic scene presented in the snap had that "come and rest awhile" appeal that filled me with the desire to put my broken comb and extra pair of socks in the old red bandanna and be on my way even if I have to crawl to get there.

Camp Bras d'Or is situated on the border of Heart's Pond in such close proximity that to use Ernest's words he "can sit on the porch and toss his hat in the lake. Hope I get there before he tosses it, it might be my size.

The cabin consists of a large living room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. The kitchen is equipped with an electric range and electric refrigerator, and the the entire place is heated by radiant heating units with thermostatic control for temperature. It is completely wired for electricity, telephone service is ready to be installed on occupancy. He has his own water system with electric pump. There is an enclosed porch 16 feet long and seven feet deep, facing on the lake.

Heart's Pond is 1 1-2 miles long, 1-2 mile wide, 300 feet deep and is spring fed. Within a ten minute walk is Todd Pond, which is 12 miles long. If a body of water 12 miles long or 1 1-2 miles long are ponds in Maine, they must regard the ocean as a lake. Guinan's Pond where Ernest and I often skated as boys must be a mud puddle.

Both lakes teem with land locked salmon, trout, bass and perch. There are deer, bear, rabbit and partridge galore to test the skill of expert marksmen. Bobcats abound and are a source of profit to their captors paying a bounty $16 each. His land is covered with

ST. PETER'S OUSTS POINT TUPPER 8-5

Winning their second game in a row St. Peter's Royals took over first place in the Richmond County Baseball League, one game ahead of Port Tupper and Petit de Grat.

Playing their first away game of the season the Royals had quite a battle with the Point Tupper nine. For the first six innings it was strictly a pitching duel between "Mickey" White and Jim MacIntyre. The latter was replaced by John McCormack in the 7th who was promptly tagged for four runs. This put St. Peter's ahead 6-2; they added two more in the 8th to give up three to Point Tupper in the last frame.

Extra base blows were few due to the strong wind blowing in from left field and a couple of sparkling catches, one by Joe Chisholm of Point Tupper, robbed players of sure hits.

Playing a stellar game for the Royals was Art Williamson, whose hitting lead both clubs in that department. E. Langley was top sticker for the home team.

Winning pitcher A. White who has yet to loose a game, and loser John MacCormack who took over from MacIntyre in the 7th with the score tied 2-2.

A large crowd of fans were on hand for the game which took an hour and fifty-five minutes to play.

Umpires: C. W. Boyd at the plate, Reynolds and Langley on the bases.

Big Church Picnic At Historic St. Peters June 30--July 1st

The village of St. Peter's, C. B., situated on a narrow neck of land separating the Bras D'Or Lakes from St. Peter's Bay, is one of the oldest settlements in North America.

In the later years of the sixteenth century it was used by the Portugese as a fishing station, and called San Pedro. During the years between 1650-1665, Nicholas Denys built a fort and trading post here, cultivated considerable land, and carried on an extensive trade with the Indians. At this time St. Peter's was called St. Pierre.

Eighty years later the French still had an important fishing station here, which was plundered and destroyed by Pepperell's troops while on their way to capture Louisburg in 1745.

After Cape Breton was restored to France, St. Pierre, or Port Toulouse, as it was then called, was considered of so much importance to the trade and security of New France, that Count De Raymond, who was governor of Louisburg in 1751, built a very fine road connecting both places, traces of which may still be seen.

Several years after the final destruction of Louisburg, English settlers began to take up land at St. Peter's, the first being Lawrence Kavanagh, who arrived from Louisburg in 1774 and who, after the union of Cape Breton and Nova Scotia, was one of the first two members to represent Cape Breton in the Legislature.

In 1793, when England was again at war with France, a fort mounting eight guns was built on the summit of Mt. Grantville, overlooking St. Peter's Bay and Bras D'Or Lakes. Outlines of this fort can still be seen.

St. Peter's Canal, the only salt water canal in Canada, connects the Bras D'Or Lakes with St. Peter's Bay. Begun in 1854, it was opened to traffic on August 13th 1869.

In this lovely village, with such a colorful and romantic past, a grand Picnic is to be held, June 30th-July 1st., in aid of the new Catholic Church which is now under construction. There will be games and amusements of all kinds. In addition to ball games, Tug-of-War, and boat trips upon the blue Bras D'Or, a very enjoyabe outing is assured to all those who attend.

Hon. R. H. Winters Reports From Ottawa

The Editor,
Richmond County Record,
Arichat, N. S.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Consumer interest this week was probably centered on the announcement that the cost-of-living index dropped during the month of April by another two full points. This is the fourth consecutive month in which there has been a drop and the index now stands at 186.7 as compared with its high of 191.5. The price decreases were pretty general and benefits will doubtless be felt.

Each benefit to the consumer seems to be cause for concern among producers, and there has already been quite a demand for floor prices on a variety of products. In this period of falling prices, even though the decreases have been moderate so far, the question that comes to the fore is whether in the over-all the money of the nation is better off under conditions which result in high prices rather than those that result in depressed prices. This will always be a legitimate subject for active debate.

One piece of legislation which the Government thought would have a bearing on prices was enacted last year. It had to do with resale price maintenance. The Government is well aware that there are still good arguments to be made on both sides of the case and there is no attempt to attribute these recent decreases entirely to this legislation. Nevertheless, I think it fair to say that it has had some bearing. It is a matter of opinion as to how great its influence has been. However, those who were supporters of this legislation recommended by the Commission set up to look into the administration of the Combines Investigations Act were probably pleased to see that a further amendment to the Combines Investigations Act was introduced last week by the Minister of Justice

Other important items of legislation considered were a Bill to revise the capital structure of the CNR and an amendment to the Unemployment Insurance Act to increase the rate of benefits to unemployed people and to reduce the number of waiting days before receipt of benefits. One full day was devoted to a debate on Canada's external trade, which during this present year has enjoyed unprevented success.

The Members and their wives who visited Halifax and Lunenburg last week-end returned to Ottawa singing the praises of Nova Scotia and the hospitality of Nova Scotians. Many of them have expressed a determination to return.

Yours sincerely,
Robert H. Winters.

Editor Cecil Day Extends Welcome To Dr. McIntosh

Our good friend, Editor Cecil Day of the Liverpool Advance, in the following editorial in welcoming two professional men to the town of Liverpool, one of whom is Edwin MacIntosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. MacIntosh of Dundee, Richmond County:

"We would like to welcome to town Dr. James H. MacLeod, M.D. C.M., who has taken up residence on Main Street in the home of Miss Anne Hendry. We hope he will like our town and that our town will like him as time progresses. Next week we will welcome Dr. Edwin MacIntosh who will take over the dental practice of Dr. Donald Smith who returned home last week to recuperate from his long illness. Just whether he will make the Larrupers ball team this year has not been decided when we go to press. With all the MacLeods, MacDonald's and MacIntosh's coming to town I don't know whether the invasion is from Pictou County or that other island, Cape Breton. Be that as it may, we fear the post office at least will have some problems on their hands when mail for Dr. MacLeod and Dr. MacIntosh is being sorted. And finally they tell me that Dr. Doug Murray who has been in the United States for some years, will return to practice in Halifaxthis fall. And again we say thrice welcome."—Liverpool Advance.

HARRIS - ROBERTSON
(Truro Daily News)

TRURO, June 14 — A very pretty wedding and one of interest to a wide circle of friends was solemnized on Saturday June 7th at St. John's Anglican Church, Truro, where Gwendoyln Chapin, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robertson, of Truro, was united in marriage to Harold Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harris of Halifax. The ceremony was performed by Canon L. R. Bent of Pictou assisted by Rev. G. R. Thompson, Rector of the church.

Miss Bertha Dunn the church organist played the wedding march and during the signing of the register Mrs. Kenneth Greenough sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and lace with train. Her chapel-length veil of tulle illusion fell from a wreath of lily of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Helen Robertson, only sister of the bride was maid of honor, while Miss Grace Wile of Bridgewater and Miss Lilias McNeil, of Pictou were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of net over taffeta in shades of green, yellow and mauve respectively with matching head dress and carried nosegays of carnations and sweet peas.

Lieutenant William F. Harris, of Halifax, was best man for his brother while Mr. Donald Rogers of Halifax and Mr. Ruggles Hall, of Petit Riviere, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of powder blue crepe and lace and a corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a mauve crepe dress with lace jacket. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Scotia Hotel for relatives and immediate friends.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Canon Bent.

Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. James Reid, aunt of the bride, and Miss Myrtle Irish, aunt of the groom. Miss Olga Roman, classmate of the bride, had charge of the guest book.

Following the reception the bride and groom left on a motor trip through the province.

For travelling the bride was attired in a navy blue suit with navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Upon their return they will take up residence in Montreal where the groom is an engineer with the Bell Telephone Company.

The Record wishes both Harold and Gwendolyn a long and happily wedded life.

Jack Miner And God

The late Jack Miner, Canadian naturalist, used to say, "No life is complete without God." Another of his statements was: "No man starts living until he starts believing," and he used to apply this to his bird banding.

He started catching ducks in 1909 to band them and study their migration routes. In fact, Jack Miner was the first man on earth to secure a complete record of where a bird was banded and when it was killed. He banded his first duck in August 1909, and it was shot in January, 1910, by Dr. W. E. Bray of Anderson, S. C.

At the beginning he heard from only a comparatively small percentage that he banded, but when he started to put a verse of scripture on one side of each band and, as he said, "take God into partnership with him," his bird banding became a success. He added the Bible quotations entirely from an intuitive feeling that something would come of it because he could not forsee that the Eskimos and Indians of the North would take these bands to the Jesuit priests and Anglican missionaries for interpretaton of the verse of scripture.

In this way the reverend gentlemen acted as Jack Miner's agents in collecting the bands, which gave him the scientific knowledge he wanted as how to long a bird lived and where it was killed. A name or number on a band meant nothing to these natives, but the verse of scripture on the band caused them to rush to their clergymen "to see what God said this time."

JUNE

There is all of beauty in these few things—
A new-born child— and a new-born moon—
A tree a-bud in the flush of spring—
And a bride in the month of June.

There are many theories about the origin of the name of this month. It is claimed by some authorities that the month was named in honor of the goddess Juno—regarded by the ancient Romans as the protective genius of women—and the Roman woman believed that June was the most favorable month for marrying—a belief which has survived to the present time, for it is still the ambition of many young women to be June brides.

Cancer (the crab) is the sign of the zodiac for June. The birthstone for the month is the pearl—signifying good health and a long life. The flower for the month is the rose—signifying happy love and loyalty.

Don't Get Mad At Your Druggist

You should not get angry with your druggist if he refuses to refill you prescription with authorization from the prescribing physician. Frequently it is decidedly dangerous to do so—and in many cases unlawful.

For those and other sound reasons you should invariably return to your physician for examination before continuing to take prescribed medicine longer than originally planned. Also, never take any medicine that was originally prescribed for another person—it may easily endanger one's health, or life!

Milk Flown To Newfoundland

The traditional "milk run" is not a figure of speech to the passengers and pilots on Trans-Canada Air Lines flights between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland as the airline airlifts 5,170 pounds of fresh milk each month from Sydney to Stephenville. This bulk shipment of pasteurized milk has caused the air crew to label the TCA aircraft flying the route "flying milk saucers" and the six gallon containers "jumbo size milkshakes."

A dairy in Sydney supplies Stepenville merchants with fresh milk three times weekly, and assures the resourceful island community of a threefold supply of pasteurized milk and dairy products, as TCA flights alternate with road and rail shipments from Corner Brook. The milk is flown to Stephenville in special waxed containers, each carton weighing eight pounds empty and 56 pounds when filled. The cartons have a 24 quart capacity, and have permitted the Stephenville housewife to share a milkman with neighbors across the way.... 202 miles away..In Sydney.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Morrison had as their guests over the holiday week-end, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. MacFie (Agnes Morrison) and sons, Norman and John of Glace Bay.

Roy J. Morrison who is employed in Halifax came down for the occasion too, thus completing the family reunion.

Sober, industrious, and reliable we bespeak success for Austin.

Arthur Morrison motored up from River Tillard Sunday evening and called upon his old neighbors who are always glad to see him.

Leonel LeBlanc and Alfred Boudreau have both been busy during the week transferring lumber to Sporting Mountain Station, and loading it on cars.

The former was assisted by W. Bouchard and the latter by L. Fougere.

Dan MacDonald accompanied Coretha over Tuesday evening, and visited Thomas Madden.

We enjoyed two veritable social feasts during the week resurrecting reminiscences of a schoolterm in Cape Breton's most hospitable area, when Councillor Wm. Morrison of Loch Lomond called upon us accompanied on the first occasion by Alex MacAskill, and on the second by Dan J. MacAskill.

Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Leonel LeBlanc we motored with them over Pringle Mountain on the evening of the 11th inst., to attend one of Inspector R. J. Chiasson's informative meetings in the interests of Trustees and Secretarys at The Points school house.

Away back across the decades we were an incumbent there for three successive school terms and no teacher could wish for a more desirable little band of boys and girls than was ours.

We boarded at the Pringle home on the hill, but the present teacher, W. B. Pringle, was still unnumbered in that family circle.

The advantages and facilities of these days were not characteristic of those days, but, nevertheless, we were accomplishing something and we are not a bit ashamed nay we are proud, to acknowledge "A. F." of Dundee Dew Drops as a product of ours without any postgraduate studies.

It was pleasing to be once again among old friends on "The Shore" particularly veterans like James MacIntosh and John Smith of Dundee.

There are none of our old pupils in The Points now, but we were glad to see Reuben Ross, one of the bigger boys of our initial charge at Roberta.

That was "the year of the big snow" and we can still vividly visualize the starting of the storm. When we emerged from the little school room into the blinding blizzard "Ruby", quoting a phrase from one of the lessons, exclaimed: "Oh, this is a hurricane eclipse!"

After the meeting Mr. LeBlanc decided that the longest way round was the shortest way home and we continued to Black River and thence through Grand Anse to the paved highway.

Enroute we dropped in to see Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison (Florence MacRae) at The Channel.

The hospitality of that home through preceding generations was not unknown to us and it was nice to note it is still maintained.

While there, it was a pleasure to make the acquaintance of Ross MacIntosh who operates an adjoining farm.

virgin pine and cedar.

I did not receive a handsomely engraved invitation to Camp Bras d'Or. In his first letter he said, "When I am settled I want you to visit me." That could mean anything-an hour or two, a weekend or even longer. When he was here he repeated practically the same invitation, but in a letter received from him since his visit here, was what I consider a gilt-edged steel-clad invitation, in these words: "When I am settled, I want you to visit me and stay as long as you wish". That's what I call a carte blanche bid- "as long as you wish". What he let himself in for! With my bow and arrow slung over my shoulder, my sling shot in my pouch and my personal belongings in the old red bandanna, with the buoyancy of youth I will bound over hill and dale ,ford rivers, skirt the coast line, brave the forest denseness and the scorching rays of the sun in the open plain until I finally come to rest on the porch of Camp Bras d'Or and watch the gentle ripple of the water on Heart's Pond.

I don't know who is going to do the cooking—Iam not! But what I will do to the deer, rabbit, patridge, salmon, trout and bass and Maine potatoes when they are cooked, is a sad, sad story mates.

His parting shot was: "You old pest, you coerced me into submission to get your yarn, but don't paint it too rosie." Thought there was a joker in it—he expects me to go there and paint the place, but I ain't agoin' to do it. I am going as a non-paying guest to stay as long as I wish and I am going to loaf and sleep, only working at meal time.

Well Ernest old pal, thank you for your kind offer. I will keep hoping that some day I will be able to visit Camp Bras d'Or. Whether or not, my most ardent wish is that you will be blessed with the health and vigor to enjoy the beauty and comfort of your chosen retreat for many years to come.
