Yarns Spun On The Old Spinning Wheel

By Norman L. MacLeod (The Annex, Otisville, N. Y.)

July, 1952, was one of the most eventful months of recent years. It was one of the hottest ever recorded, there being one stretch of 14 days in which the thermometer reached 90 degrees, some days going several degrees higher.

Politics played the major role. Two great conventions for the purpose of nominating candidates who would on November 4 ask the electorate, many of whom never held a big job or lived in a house of their own, if they would place them in the top jobs and give them free rent in a big house for the next four years, were held in the City of Chicago. They also built platforms from which they will do their politicking until November, after which they will lay them away for four years, when they will build another using the planks from the previous one, that aren't too rotten to again use.

The Republicans opened their show on July 7 and had a run of five rays. The performance was televised and heard over the radio, from the main building, but the side-shows were behind closed doors in hotel rooms and were a complete flop, for the actors under the big top were given such a hand that they nominated General Dwight Eisenhower and Senator Richard M. Nixon as their standard bearers the first time out.

Two weeks later on July 21, the Democrats presented their bill, which was also televised and broadcast, and had a run of six days. They put on a good show in the main tent, but apparently the side shows had features that made the big show look tame, for they nominated Governor Adlai Stevenson and Senator John Sparkman against the opposition of the performers in the main tent.

As a calm generally precedes a storm quiet now reigns on the political front, but both sides are carrying on maneuvers behind the lines in preparation for the big battle that will not gain much momentum until after Labor Day. Unlike other wars this one is dated, for it is a foregone conclusion that an armistice will be signed on November 4. However, there will not be a complete cessation of hostilities as sniping will be continued from various ambushes culminating into another major battle four years hence. So on ad infinitum.

There has been a somewhat disturbing occurance during the month, in which disks known as flying saucers have come in for considerable attention. They have been reported in different sections of the country, given much credence by some, but lightly considered as some strange phenomen by others. Their frequent appearance during the latter part of the month, especially in the vicinity of Washington, has caused more alarm. Scientists say something about layers of hot and cold air was causing some kind of an illusion or mirage, which brought the remark from a local wag that the hot air was brought in by the politicians returing from the conventions in Chicago. Whether optical illusions or real objects they are still being seen and even photographed.

Much more of great interest has happened during the month, but what you are about to hear now is of a revolutionary nature. Whether anybody else has ever thought of it or not, it has never been tried out before to my knowledge.

A year ago I told you that on July 31, 1951, I had reached the age of 70 years, which is the alloted span of life. Naturally you will say that I am 71 years old this year. But that is not in accordance with this new system.

The thought and desire of most people is to live to be 100 years or more. many do and amaze everyone with the way they have retained so many of their faculties and the marvellous vitality they show. May many more go on to such a fine achievement. Personally I have adopted the same system that I used in acquiring my fabulous wealth. When I saw I could not make my first million dollars I abandoned the idea and started on the second in which I was equally successful in not acquiring. So on reaching the full span of life I decided not to try for 100 years but to start on the second span, and that makes me one year old instead of 71.

This is different to the second childhood in which one seems to be happy cutting out paper dolls or being engaged in some similar occupation. Neither has it anything to do with reincarnation or any of the other old theories, ideologies, systems, or what have you. It is something new, so don't try to chisel in with anything else.

One will be too young to be considered for Congress or any of the top elective offices but will have an excellent opportunity to get in on the ground floor for the big jobs that go to those under 35 years of age out in the business world. Should one be engaged in an occupation that they feel calls for too much hand and leg work and does not give an opportunity for what is stewing in their brainpan to be tried, they can join a couple of neighbourhood clubs, social and political. If what they have a-stewing doesn't boil over and scald too many of the other members and has the right flavor, they may be appointed dog catcher or tax collector. In a short time they may be elected as councilman, possibly mayor. Should they become Governor they have a chance of being groomed for the Presidency or Premiership of the country of their citizenship. Then if they have not been impeached or sent to jail nothing will be too good for them.

When I am 30 years of age I will still be a young man, while under the old system if I reached 100 years I would possibly be worn out and in the way. Perhaps I will be as big a dud as I was at that age before, but it will be worth a second try.

It is not likely that much attention will be given all this, unless some cultist seizes upon it and tries to start a new religion with it, which I hope does not happen as we have enough now. My own trouble will be to explain to my grandson how he can possibly be two years older than his grandfather. But why should I worrry, let his parents attend to that. They may tell him that the old man is nuts.

Diocesan Orphange Campaign

1. Mite-boxes will be placed in homes throughout the Diocese.
2. Objective: one cent a meal per day per family.
3. The women of the Diocese will supervise the campaign in each parish; each collector will have a number of families, usually not more than 12, to call on once a month.
4. Collectors will empty the mite-boxes on the last day of the month and will make returns to the Parish Treasurer on the 2nd day of each month.
5. The Parish Treasurer will send returns to Chancery Office, P. O. Box 300, Antigonish on the 4th day of each month.
6. The totals from each parish will be published once a month in the Casket.

Address Little Flower Institute Silver Jubilee

Reverend Chairman, My dear friends,

First, I wish to thank the Sister's of St. Martha for their twenty-five years of devouted service at Little Flower Institute. They have done their work, as one would expect, quietly and efficiently, and with great patience and charity. The Diocese owes them a very great debt of gratitude, as indeed do the children for whom they have cared.

I wish secondly to express the appreciation of all associated with Little Flower Insitute for the interest and assistance given by the Provincial Director of Child Welfare, Mr. F. R. MacKinnon, his departmental officials, and the of ficials and field staff of the Children's Aid Society of Cape Breton.

It is a duty, also, to say a sincere word of thanks to all the generous, kind hearted people who, by their donations or otherwise, have helped so much from year to year in the important and necessary work of this institution.

This Institution has done very valuable work under difficult circumstances. Twenty-five years ago it was the common view that the problem of homeless children was solved by placing them in an Orphanage. Some people still hold this erroneous opinion. The practical outcome of this view is over crowded Orphanages. Little Flower Institute, more often than not, has had more children to care for than the accommodations warrant.

A home provides the natural environment for children. An Institution, no matter how good, is only an inadequate substitute, and it should be only a temporary substitute. As soon as possible, children should be placed again in home surroundings—in foster or boarding homes if their own home is no longer available or if it is not advisable to return them there.

This means that foster and boarding homes have to be found and that the children placed therein have to be supervised by competent and trained social workers. The more efficiently and constantly this work of child placement is done, the easier it is to keep down the number of children in the Orphanage to the unavoidable minimum.

The 25th Anniversary is an appropriate occasion to launch plans for improvement in the care of homeless children of the Diocese.

The Diocesan program of Child Welfare calls for three definite undertakings,

FIRST, a new modern fireproof Orphanage should be built. To finance this project, the women of the Diocese are going to raise funds through a system of Penny Banks in the homes. Every family will be asked to contribute one cent a meal. This is a small contribution but, if attended to regularly every day, three times a day, the aggregate sum from the whole Diocese will eventually pay the cost of the new building.

SECONDLY, the placement of homeless children in foster and boarding homes should be well-organized, efficiently supervised, and consistently carried on. To facilitate this part of the pr gram, a Sister of St. Martha has been assigned to co-operate in this work with the Provincial Departmen and with the Children's Aid Society.

THIRDLY, more Family Welfare Bureaus should be established. We now have two in operation one in Sydney and one in Dominion. Our plans call for at least five additional Family Welfare centres. Through the efforts of these Bureaus, solutions are frequently found for family problems, and thereby children are kept in their own homes. Effective work in the field of social welfare makes a large Orphanage unnecessary. Orphanage accommodation is a necessity but it is either the last resort after every other solution fails, or a temporary resort pending some other satisfactory solution.

Many family problems are basically economic. For this reason, every support should be given to the program of social and econonomic betterment sponsored by the Extension Department of St. Francis Xavier University. Indeed I consider it of very great importance that the constructive and remedial phases of Family Welfare Work should be in close association. The aim is the same the procedures and means differ. Extension workers and Social Workers are both concerned with building people and families socially and economically, and both are ultimately concerned with the cultural and spiritual well-being of people and families.

Even when the work is done by Family Welfare Bureaus and by the University Extension Department is kept at a high degree of efficiency , it is noth enough. Young people must be properly prepared for famly life through Preparation for Marriage Courses. People properly prepared for Christian Family living will establish homes that will be bulwarks against the evils attacking family life, Every encouragemen will be given to Preparation for Marriage Courses.

On August 24, 1927, a forward step was taken when this Orphanage was built and opened. In 1952, we propose to take another step forwards in our diocesan program of child welfare. We beg Our Lord's blessing on these plans, and we ask His Mother, who is the spiritual Mother of all the children of God to watch over, with motherly solicitude, everything we do to bring these plans to fulfillment.

MORE GAELIC IN CAPE BRETON THAN IN SCOTLAND

Hugh MacPhee, in charge of Scottish programs for the British Broadcasting Corporation, said during the past week to Montreal, he was amazed at the number of Canadians who play the bag-pipes,

McPhee completing a month's tour of Canada, said it takes time and background to play the bagpipes.

"Seven years of his own learning and seven generations before."

He said he found a great number of Canadians who speak Gaelic with ease and fluency.

"In Cape Breton Island, I believe more people per capita speak Gaelic than in Scotland itself. At the Gaelic Mod in St. Ann's, N. S. I heard a choir sing a Gaelic song which was composed by Scottish immigrants when they left their native land some 150 years ago. That song is now forgotten in Scotland."

Cheer Up, Folks!

SCIENCE is now on the way with many amazing things some of which are expected to become available in 1952. From "Science News Letter's forecast of the "Synthetic Future" (Jan. 5, 1952) we note the following items which are supposed to bring peace and plenty to all.

People will soon be "happy, healthy and kittenish" at the age of 100, through inventions now on the way. Clothing to be made from coal and oil; cure of ANY human ailment by a variety of drugs and medicinals; storage of the sun's energy for man's use; deliberate molding of people mentally and physically —by drugs.

Yes, there is talk of "interplanetary football and baseball matches" and celestially-anchored hot-dog stands along the rocket-ship routes. No other than Maj. Alexander P. DeSeversky has recently said; "I am confident interplanetary travel will be a reality before the end of the century."

All these things, of course, provided we are not in the meantime annihilated by other man's inventions,

JAMES SHANNON

* * *

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shannon he had been in poor health for some time and only last fall underwent a major operation. He bore his affliction with Christian fortitude.

Jim Shannon was a man of high character and one in whom we counted a personal friend.

Surviving besides his wife are two sons and two daughters, Leonard and Harold, at home; Mrs. Bill MacDonald, Janvrin's Harbour and Mrs. Charles Briand Halifax; also three brothers Melvin, Martinique, George and Howard of Medford, Mass.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved widow and family.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

The senior and junior Albert Cotes with their respective wives and little families comprised a motor party from Grand Greve to Seaview Sunday afternoon, and through their courtesy Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison had occasion to visit her native Sporting Mountain.

Mrs. Morrison favored us with a pleasing social period, and what with her pronounced optimism and in-born humor made us feel rejuvenated ere she took leave of us.

When the sinking sun of a passing day stretch out the shadows behind us, it is nice to still enjoy the friendships engendered in life's heyday, when the sun was at an adverse angle and these shadows were cast the opposite way.

K. McLean motored down from Halifax Saturday and Mrs. McLean (Eva Goswell) and little daughter Bernadette, who had spent several days at the old homestead accompanied him back to the metropolis, Sunday.

Alfred Boudreau went to Stirling Monday to join the others from this vicinity who are lucratively employed there.

Thomas Morrison and daughter Patricia, of whom he is justly proud, were transient motor visitors from Ance de Loup, Tuesday evening.

"Patsy" has resigned her position at the Royal Bank preparatory to continuing her education at Antigonish.

Yvonne LeBlanc returned from North Sydney Tuesday after spending a pleasant week the guest of the McLeod sisters Marguerite and Myrna.

Marguerite accompanied her up and went home by Gordon Bus on Saturday.

J. Calder Goswell of the Halifax Shipyards spent the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Goswell.

Leonel LeBlanc brought us a big load of slabs the other day from K. J. McDonald's mill in the West Bay vicinity.

It pays to advertise in the Richmond County Record.

Maurice Fougere was a business visitor from his cabin to Sporting Mountain Wednesday evening.

Maurice's active step and erect carriage do not betray his seventy eight years.

Wilfred Burke of Cannes assisted Leonel LeBlanc during the past week in transferring and loading pulpwood at Sporting Mountain Station.

Thursday we imposed upon Ceretha's characteristic courtesy, and went over to Thibeauville to see our old friend, Hector McLean who is not enjoying his wonted good health.

The other members of the family are able to be up and doing, and the extensive vegetable garden down on the meadow is suggestive of something you'd see on a demonstrative farm.

Moreover Margaret's flower garden is as conspicuous as usual.

While there we met Anthony Russo who is, now numbered among the energetic farmers on "The Shore". With the advantages of youth, health and a helpmeet who was nurtured on a spacious farm we see no reason why Anthony's most ardent ambitions should not eventually be realized.—D.A.S.

BLACK RIVER

Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacAskill, Everett, Mass., visited Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Russo recently.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Smith on August 20th in Isle Madame Hospital, a son--William Irvin.—Congratulations.

Archie and Billy MacIntosh have completed the barn they were building for W. D. MacKay The Points and are at present employed by A. C. Russo.

Miss Alice Calder, Kenneth and Elsie Campbell, Malagawatch, visited friends in Dundee on the 25th inst.

Congratulations to Philip MacInnes Dundee, who observed his 95th birthday on August 25th. It is the wish of his numerous friends that he may enjoy many years yet of his usual good health.

Mrs. Sarah MacAulay an aged and highly respected resident of The Points who operates her own farm and owns a considerable number of cattle, sheep and poultry lost a number of hens recently by a large hawk which killed a number of hens and pheasants in that locality through the summer. Mrs. MacAulay recently killed this savage hawk with a stick, a feat of which she is justly proud.

Andrew MacRae, Kempt Road spent the week-end with friends in Dundee.

Several persons from this community attended the marriage of Robert Skinner, West Bay and Murdena MacRae, Kempt Road, in Cleveland United Church on Saturday August 23rd. We congratulate this popular young couple and wish them much happiness in their wedded life.
