Earl W. Urquhart, Receives Acclamation At Liberal Convention on Thursday

Premier Angus L. Macdonald Accorded A Rousing Welcome

Earl W. Urquhart, M. L. A., for the constituency of Richmond, since 1949, was again selected unopposed for the Liberal nomination, at the largest convention ever held by the Richmond County Liberal Association, at the County Hall, St. Peter's, on Thursday, April 9th.

The Convention was presided over by M. J. Bourinot, President of the Richmond County Liberal Association, who called the roll of the 15 districts in the County and then declared the Convention open. On motion of Councillor David Boudreau, Petit de Grat, seconded by Joseph Marchand of Louisdale, the name of Earl W. Urquhart, was placed before the Convention. As no other name was presented a motion to cease nominations was unanimously endorsed by the Convention amid the cheers of the large gathering, when Mr. Urquhart, was ushered into the hall to the platform, where he feelingly expressed his thanks to the Convention, for having again honored him with the Liberal nomination and on this occasion by acclamation.

He reviewed his record since 1949 and pointed out the many achievements in the County such as the Stirling Mine, Cold Storage, at Petit de Grat, Paved Highway, from Grand Anse to Arichat; extension of highway to Petit de Grat and West Arichat, the Lewis Cove Road and other projects. He also announced the calling for tenders for six miles of highway in L'Ardoise, to be built this coming summer..

Mr. Urquhart made no promises but pledged his continued support in the interests of his constituency in the same manner that other accomplishments were brought about since his term of office and he said he was certain that the electors of Richmond would re-elect him when the next election was held. He pointed out that a vote for him was a vote for Angus L., an outstanding leader and statesman.

On the completion of his address Mr. Urquhart was loudly cheered.

The next speaker was Smith MacIvor, M. L. A., Sydney, who in his opening remarks congratulated the Convention for having re-nominated Earl Urquhart as their Liberal candidate. Mr. MacIvor, spoke of the ability of Mr. Urquhart in the House and his untiring efforts in the interests of his constituency.

Mr. MacIvor, outlined the achievements centered in his constituency and said that this was brought about by the Macdonald Government.

Joe MacIntyre, a barrister of Glace Bay and recently nominated as the Liberal standard bearer in Cape Breton East, was also present at theConvention and in his address spoke of his classmate, Earl Urquhart when they both attended Dalhousie law school. He said that he was happy to be in attendance at the Convention and congatulated the delegates in according Mr. Urquhart an acclamation.

The next speaker was Mr. W. F. Carroll, M. P., who on entering the hall was loudly cheered. Mr. Carroll was in his usual good form and vigoursly upheld the principals of both the Federal and Provincial governments headed by the Hon. Louis St. Laurent and the Hon. Angus L. Macdonald. He extended his hearty congratulations to Earl Urquhart and the Liberals of Richmond County for having extended to him a renomination..

At the conclusion of Mr. Carrol's speech, Premier MacDonald, accompanied by Senator Dannie MacLennan, appeared on the platform and during the next few minutes that followed the cheers of the gathering echoed and re-echoed throughout the hall and as one good Liberal remarked after, "the cheers must have been heard throughout the length and breadth of Premier Macdonald's native Cape Breton announcing the arrival of their beloved and distinguished son.

Senator MacLennan a former Federal reresentative for the constituency of Inverness-Richmond, Cape Breton West was heard in a brief and humorous address. He spoke of the accomplishments of the Liberals down through the years and stressed that every man and woman should hold fast to the great Liberal principles that was won for them by men such as the Hon. Angus L Macdonald and other great Liberal statesmen. Senator MacLennan remarked that the largely attended Convention proved beyond a doubt that Liberalism in Richmond County will again be decided in favor of the Liberals at the forthcoming Provincial election.

Honorary President, W. S. Urquhart, in a well worded address moved a vote of confidence in the Angus L. Macdonald government and Earl W. Urquhart, M. L. A. and Liberal standard-bearer at the forthcoming election. This motion was endorsed by an unanimous standing vote.

Councillor James Johnston, a veteran Liberal, also delivered a brief but fitting address in which he upheld the Macdonald government and called on his hearers to continue to support the Liberal party.

The next speaker was Gordon S. Walker, President of the Inverness County Liberal Association, who in his remarks said he was happy to be in attendance at such a large convention and congratulated the Liberals of Richmond on their loyalty and in their choice of such a brilliant candidate as Earl Urquhart.

Mr. Walker is well and favorably known in Richmond County and is held in high regard for the able manner in which he upholds the high ideals of the Liberal Party.

At the conclusion of the Convention, the President thanked Premier Macdonald and all the speakers who were in attendance. Thanks was also extended to the officers, executive and committees of the Association for their co-operation in making the Convention such a noted success. The delegates were congratulated on having journeyed to the Convention with representation from every district in the County.

Clark Kaplan was accorded the thanks of the Convention for having supplied the furniture used on the platform for the occasion.

A large welcome banner bearing the following: "Welcome Premier Macdonald to Richmond County" was gratefully acknowledged and appreciated.

The Convention closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

EARL W. URQUHART, Liberal Candidate

Premier Macdonald Warmly Acclaimed

The President then welcomed Premier Macdonald to the Convention and spoke of the unbroken record of the Macdonald Gov't. during their past twenty years of noted service to the people of Nova Scotia.

Premier Macdonald on arising to speak was given a rousing reception with everyone arising to show their respect and loyalty to their distinguished guest and leader.

Premier Macdonald spoke highly of Mr. Urquhart and congratulated him on his re-nomination and said that as a representative from this county, Urquhart had displayed great ability.

Premier Macdonald upheld the record of his government and outlined the progress made in the field of welfare, health, education, highways, rural electrification and the many other public services dealt with in his brilliant address.

His government having instituted old age pensions at the outset of office in 1933, had placed in the hands of the aged of this province up to the present day over Seventy Million Dollars, for their comfort and security.

At the conclusion of the Premier's address the applause was ample proof that its contents was appreciated by the meeting.

We would like to have brought the full text of the speech to our readers, but space will not permit.

Warden Boudreau then translated his remarks into English.

The Future of Mulgrave

A brief concerning the future of the town of Mulgrave prepared by D. H. Gillis, Ph. D. and sponsored by Mayor Leonard O'Neil and the town council, also the Mulgrave Board of Trade, headed by President Bill Hutchinson, was received by us recently; another copy was handed us in person by James Gould on Tuesday.

We read the brief carefully and must say it contains some timely suggestions as to the future of this CNR terminus town.

The one feature in favor of Mulgrave is the causeway, but if nothing in the way of industry is provided for this town its construction will be of no avail to the inhabitants who reside in this town and depend wholly for a livelihood from employment received from the CNR.

In item No. 3 of the brief we were particularly interested and that was the proposal of a pulp and paper mill for the town.

With such a mill located at Mulgave it would eliminate transportation problems and Guysboro County with large tracts of wood land would benefit by such a mill, as would also the adjacent county of Antigonish and Cape Breton Island.

As a seaport for overseas ships could use this port of Mulgrave the year round and with a great demand for paper and the by-product of pulp a ready market could be obtained abroad.

Possibly a grain elevator could be located at Mulgrave and this port again could provide a good shipping point to the overseas markets with an open harbor the year round.

The citizens of Mulgrave are up and doing and face their problems with grave concern as to the future of their town.

We trust that some means of industry will be provided for Mulgrave and all the Strait towns and that the future of their economy will supply employment, happiness and prosperity in the years to come.

Hon. R. H. Winters Reports From Ottawa

The death of the universally beloved Queen Mary last Tuesday cast a pall of gloom over Parliament as well as the entire nation. In a deferential gesture, Parliament unanimously decided to lore go its evening sitting when sad news became known. A period of mourning was proclaimed and state functions were curtailed. The Premier of France, Mr. Mayer, and Madam Pandit of India were both scheduled to be in Ottawa but the round of state functions planned in their honour was cancelled. This grand old regal lady seemed to be the embodiment of all the crown symbolizes and she will be greatly missed. Her passing serves to emphasize again that the Royal family is a source of strength and unity in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The discussion on the legislation to extend the Emergency Powers to another year occupied a prominent place in Parliamentary debate. This discussion took far more time than was anticipated. The opposition argued that no emergency exists of the type which would require the use of emergency powers, whereas the Government with its responsibility to the Canadian people, feels that in view of the strained state of world affairs, it must have powers to take certain types of action if and when required.

The powers sought are not sweeping in character and are fully detailed in the legislation. The Prime Minister brought this whole discussion into sharp focus last Thursday when he spoke in closing the debate. His speech was a short one, but it had a great impact on Parliament, which thereupon voted in support of the measure. The Prime Minister referred back to the different days of conscription and cited his own problem when on that occasion he felt it necessary to take a stand that was not popular in his own province of Quebec but which his sense of duty nevertheless required him to take. He used this to illustrate the type of responsibility the Government must take in discharging the affairs of the nation even though the steps are not always popular and sometimes might seem to be wrong.

It is then a matter for the voters of Canada to decide whether or not they have confidence in the Government and are satisfied that it has acted in the best interests of the nation.

On Friday the House gave Second Reading to an amendment to the Post Office Act which is designed to bring relief to some rural mail carriers who are now operating under severe financial handicaps. This amendment was approved unanimously by a Committee of Parliament set up to study it and subsequently received the endorsation of all parties in the House of Commons.

Hazeldine Hall, "Cuckoo Clock House's' charming hostess, gets good advice while coloring Mr. Easter Egg. Matilda the Cuckoo and a perky Easter bunny are on hand to put in their two cents worth with every stroke of the brush. Miss Hall and the saucy little bird are heard regularly on the lively children's program. Other participants include host Fy the Hon. R. H. Winters Kenny Graham, Lou Snider, Bernie Johnson, Bill Needles and, of course, Basil the Bullfrog. The broadcasts encourage listeners aged eight to twelve to widen their reading range by introducing them to good books. Equal portions of fun, frolic and fine music are mixed in to make "Cuckoo Clock House" a favorite with young listeners to the CBC's Dominion network.

Ray F. Sampson

The passing of Raymond F. Sampson, Superintendent of Fisheries for Cape Breton Island occurred at the City Hospital, Sydney, on Friday at the age of 60 years.

A native of Lower L'Ardoise, where for many years he was the efficient Fisheries Inspector for that section of the County and sections in Cape Breton West. A few years ago Mr. Sampson was promoted as Superintendent of Fisheries for Cape Breton Island moving to Sydney with his wife and family he took up residence at 134 Union Street. An efficient and courteous officer Raymond Sampson's passing will be mourned by his many associates and friends throughout Cape Breton Island.

In the World War of 1914-18 Mr. Sampson held the rank of Lieutenant, a promotion he won on the battlefield of France.

Only a few weeks ago Raymond paid us a friendly call and on his visits to Arichat we always looked forward to seeing our good friend whom we had known and respected for the many years we had the honor of his acquaintance and friendship.

Surviving besides his wife are three children, John, Mary and Sylvia.

Two brothers Arthur U. Sampson of Lower L'Ardoise and Alex G. Sampson of Toronto, survive.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved wife, children and brothers in the loss of a beloved husband, father and brother.

Fight Cancer Give Now!

The Canadian Cancer Society is carrying on a Membership and Fund Drive in the Province of Nova Scotia during the month of April. Cancer, as you know has no respect for age or circumstances. Over 14,000 Canadians die annually from this disease and here in Nova Scotia the toll is high.

For the past few years, since the Nova Scotia Divison was first organized, the work in Education and Welfare has continually expanded and we, in common with other parts of the Province and the Dominion, must play our part In order to carry on our work during the coming year, we must have $50,000. Our objective is still "A MEMBER OF THE SOCIETY IN EVERY HOME IN NOVA SCOTIA".

Education is vitally important. Through our members we can combat fear and ignorance and impress upon everyone the fact that most early cancers, if treated in time, can be cured.

There is also a great need for welfare among cancer patients. The policy of the Society is to help cancer sufferers within certain prescribed limits and without overlappng the work of any other organization. Cancer dressings are expensive and volunteer groups during 1952 made over 80,000 dressings in Nova Scotia which have been distributed free of charge to any one who needed them. The Society has also financed transportation to treatment centres for those who otherwise could not afford to come, nursing care has been provided, as well as hospital beds, bed linen, bedside supplies and foods. This Society looks after those whom no other organization touches.

Nova Scotia must play its part also in financing cancer Research. Last year the Nova Scotia Division sent $10,000 to the National Cancer Institute of Canada, the sister body of the Canadian Cancer Society, to be used to finance cancer research projects across Canada.

The work is only beginning. There is much to do--in Education in Welfare and in Cancer Research.

It is hoped everyone will join in the battle against Cancer in this province by becoming a Member of the Canadian Cancer Society. Send your dollar or as much as you can afford to your local unit of the Canadian Cancer Society, or to Provincial Headquarters, 151 South Park Street, Halifax, N. S.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Spring Reverie

Remote from man made ridges and ravines
I seem to see a sweep of silent
sky;
Star spangled o'er a stretch of sylvan scenes,
Where brooks still sing a spring-

I see the trees slow sway against the night,
Whipped by a wind that wanders
in from sea;
While in the valley looms a lonely light,
That beckons out across the miles

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of George C. Parker, who passed away on April 12, 1950.
A shadow rests upon our hearts
We miss his smiling face
Where'er we turn, where'er we go
Cannot the pain erase.

God is good, he gives us strength
To bear our heavy loss;
He is the only one who knows,
How bitter is that loss.

Inserted by his wife Beatrice F. Parker and daughters, Christeno J. Shaw and Jean M. Campbell.

"JOCK"

From R. J. Deachman's Office
V. B. Fellows

I glanced out my window. There was a slight mist charged with rain, the old buildings opposite of yellow stone and brick had an eerie look; a plane droned overhead and then hearing a little tap at the window, I looked down, and there on the windowsill was R.J.'s old friend, the sparrow "Jock'. His feathers were fluffed- he was already to get down to business; his look was almost malevolent and I found myself hastily offering apologies for Mr. Deachman's continued absence. "You see Jock", said I, "it isn't my fault. I had hoped he would be back by now. too, but he is still in hospital very ill. His articles, though, are still being published and read and if he were well enough what a lot he would have to write about now.

"There is the freight rate increase. You know how interested he would be in that angle of freight rates and his sympathy, of course, would be with the Federal Board of Railway Commissioners for the recent wage increase of 12 percent to railway men had to be taken care of in some way. An increase of $104 millions to their operating costs is a lot of money and with rising costs of labor and materials transportation charges will of necessity be higher. The remedy does not lie in fixed rates but in the avoidance of things which cause a need for them, and that's a big problem, Jock.

"Then, too, he would be interested in the discussion that may be coming up at the next session of Parliament about increasing the M. P.'s salary to $10,000 as a flat over-all salary. Mr. Deachman suggested this in one of his articles written on January 5th, 1950. You know he has always maintained that the work of an M. P. is more than a full time task and should receive a salary in keeping with duties involved in a position of such high responsibility. There are great economic and social forces that M. P.'s have to foresee and resolve, of which their constituents are only half aware. During the session the working Member is usually in his office at 9 o'clock in the morning and quite often his day doesn't finish until 11 at night and during the day, in addition to his parliamentary duties, there are interviews to be held personal and by telephone, mail to be studied and replies dictated a great deal of reading to be done, speeches to be prepared, and--oh on beyond comment.

"I wonder if perhaps another improvement could be made because if the debates were cut to a time limit the business of the House would be carried out much more efficiently. Mr. Deachman has sugested too, that what great help a secretariat would be to new members coming in, and if a place were available where they could go for information for any subject on which they might be working it would save a lot of time. Yes, I think that M. P.'s, the guardians of our country, need an executives salary, and even $10,000 may not cover it."

I turned to the window where Jock had been busy translating my thoughts to his friends. I caught his eye and said. "That's when I will have some more news for you.' He winked a bright eye and with a cock of his tail was off into the clearing sky.

RUSSIA

V. B. Fellows

Mr. Stalin's passage beyond the affairs of men occurred nearly a month ago, an event which somehow seems to have already passed into history's melting pot where the dross of human action is spewed up to the surface and only eventually dispelled, while the separating ore remains hidden, to be funnelled out little by little. A much forecast occurrence resulting from Mr. Stalin's demise strangely enough never happened; neither the world stopped, nor did the moon fall from her accustomed place. Dialectical materialism is not so powerful a force as had been supposed.

There has been rather too much made of the Russian bogey, and not nearly enough of the Communist horror, for unfortunately the two have become confused in the public mind. The former is just the old East-west controversy not dissimilar to the Infidel's invasion up to the gates of Vienna in the fifteenth century, while the latter is an even older force in different guise, a more deadly force, for in essence it would vitiate the soul of the state, and destroy the soul of man. The one can be fought with slogans and arms; the other can be treated like a disease--the victim either to be isolated, or given an antidote of equal or greater force.

One may ask what this all has to do with economics? Only this: that the East-West problem is solely within the realm of economic and politic interest, within the control of wealth, of confidence, of independence, and of security: but Communism is essentially outside the jurisdiction of any of these things, and can only be combated in the state of Mind, of Imagination, and of Courage. This Communism is currently being fought against in Russia as much as we would fight against it here, for it arises from loss of belief in the integrity, and can lead only to despair and chaos.

Our Canadian Society, by its careful preserving of personal, political and religious liberties, by its well disposed concern for our culture, has done more for us in this battle against social rot, then, for instance, the 'Senator McCarthy Witch-hunter's Inc.' in the U. S. and by its splendid poising into balance of the innumerable economic conditions, growing up with us, for the ever greater expansion of this common-wealth, secures as well against invasion from without--a state of things for which we should all be grateful.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

This rainy day picture was made on ordinary snapshot film with a box camera. It was taken on a cloudy bright day. On a dull day you could still do it by using an extra fast film.

Snapshot of an April Shower

APRIL showers have long been famed as the forerunners of May flowers, but we don't often think of them as first spring snapshots. Yet they do very nicely in this role. However, first of all, we have to get rid of any deep-rooted ideas that bright sunshine is essential to picture taking. Then you go on and make pictures on a rainy day.

It's hard to state any hard-and-fast rules for rainy day pictures—because there are rainy days and rainy days. Some of them are much brighter than others. And it's probably wisest not to do much ordinary snapshooting on the darkest ones

You can, however, make rainy day pictures with a simple camera and ordinary snapshot film. That is the way the one illustrating today's column was made. But just to be on the safe side, it's a good idea to load your camera with extra fast film for showery shooting.

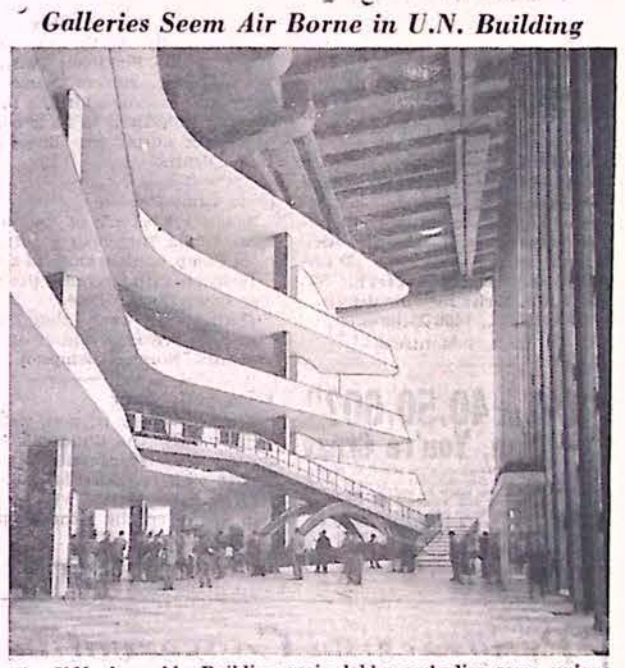

In suggesting that you take pictures in the rain, I'm not advocating that you get soaking wet. Some of the best pictures are made shortly after a rain or between showers—or are snapped from the shelter of a window or doorway.

And, of course, be sure to keep your camera dry. A few drops of water on the lens may blur its view of the picture far more than a tear in your eye will interfere with yours.

Among the most effective wet-weather pictures are street scenes made at night when the pavements shine with the reflection of street lights and neon signs. Here again, use a time exposure, ranging from one or two seconds to a minute—and remember that your night-time exposure'll be the same whether it's wet or dry.
