Do you know a place where you can buy two dollars for one dollar? There is such a place, It's your CREDIT UNION. For every dollar you put in you get another dollar of free insurance. To put it another way, if you put a dollar in. your family will get $2.00 in the event of your death. If you put in any amount up to $1000. they get double the amount. Can you imaine anyone saving anywhere else IF HE IS AWARE of just how amazing this credit union service is?

Now you know, so there is no sense in putting your dollars in places where they will only give you back what you put in. Buy your family and yourself that peace of mind that comes from knowing that they are PROTECTED. Exchange your money for twice as much money! Fair enough?

Wedding

HODGINS - PETERS

St. Mary's Basilica was the scene of a pretty wedding on April 25th when when Rev. Fr. Albert O'Driscoll united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peters, and William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodgins of Lucan, Ont..

To the strains of the wedding march the bride entered the church with N. L. O'Keefe, by whom she was given in marriage. She was attractively attired in a powder blue gabardine suit with pink accessories; her corsage was of red roses and maiden hair fern and she carried a white missal.

Miss Alma Peters, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, becomingly attired in a light rose suit with powder blue accessories and corsage of mixed flowers and fern.

Mr. Howard Hartnett attended the groom.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Constant Sanson, Bedford, to immediate relatives and friends, after which the bridal party motored to Cape Breton where a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents to a large number of invited guests. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth and graced with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was later cut in the traditional manner by the happy couple.

Later in the evening a dance was held at the Co-op Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Hodgins were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

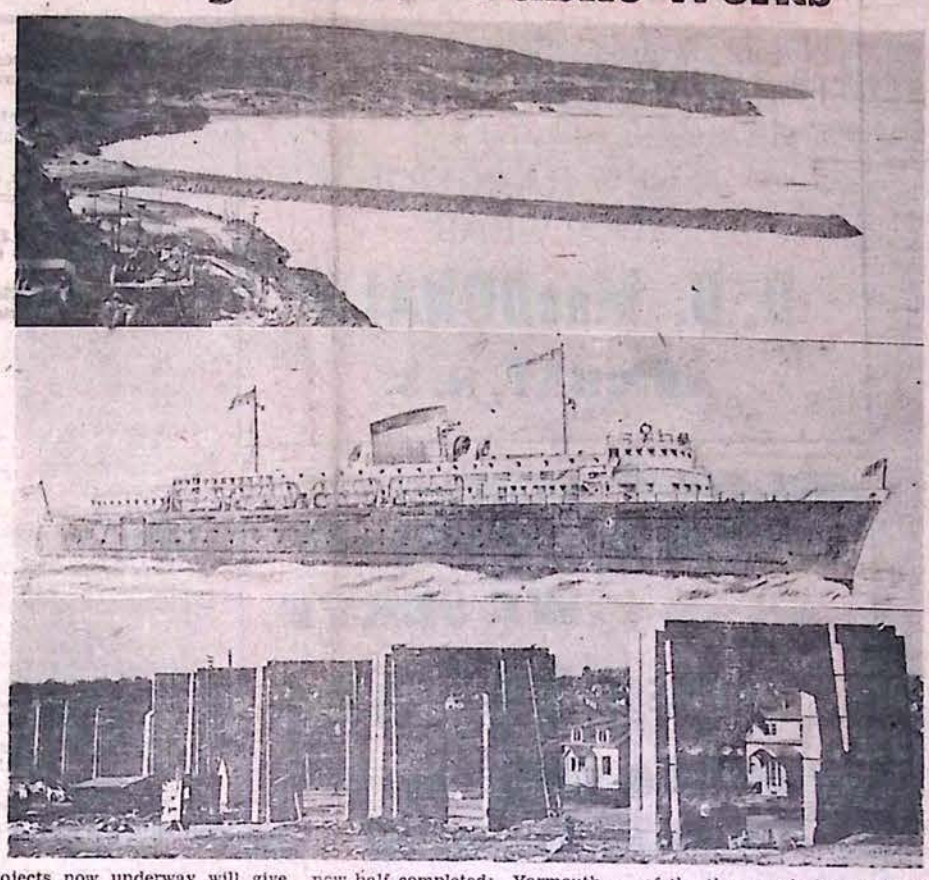

Out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Alfred Bouchie, Spryfield, Richard and Howard Hartnett, Miss Alvina Peters, Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. John Youchesyn, Mr. and Mrs. John MacPhee, Miss Josephine Gillis, Alexander Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Petitpas, son Gerard, daughter Ethel, Miss Margaret Currie, Sydney.

Mr. Hodgins is serving in the Royal Canadian Navy and spent two years in Korea. They will take up residence in Halifax.

Best wishes are extended for a long and happy wedded life.

New Rail Link To Causeway

Because of the almost unprecedented progress in the building of the Canso causeway the CNR is getting ready for its part of the multi-million dollar project and c Friday called for tenders for the construction of the railway line diversion.

It will be a 12 mile stretch of railway and will be routed from Linwood to Harbour Boucher down to Auld's Cove to the Causeway.

With the awarding of the contract shortly, construction work will get immediately underway and operations will be in full swing early this summer.

The Causeway undertaking is months ahead of schedule, due to the open winter which facilitated the fill operations at Porcupine.

The railway contract will involve an expenditure of thousands of dollars and the employment of hundreds of workers it is indicated.

Sealed tenders marked "Tender Linwood to Canso' will be received by G. R. Doull, Regional Chief Engineer, CNR Moncton, N. B., up until 12 noon, May 22.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

The secret of a good snapshot seldom lies in the choice of film. It's the choice and arrangement of subject material that usually counts most. This picture won a top prize in the 1951 Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

You Have Your Choice

IT REALLY hasn't been too long ago that an amateur picture taker simply walked up to a counter and asked for a roll of film with no concern about what type it was, because there was only one type. But now all camera users have a choice.

And some of them find this business of choice confusing because they don't know what the differences are between the types. So today let's take a look at the two most popular types offered in black-and-white roll film sizes.

Technically, they are named orthochromatic and panchromatic . . . simplified to ortho and pan in popular usage. Orthochromatic is the type I mean when I write about ordinary snapshot film. A good example of this type is Kodak Verichrome. It is fine for sunlight and photoflash shooting, and is especially good for use in box type cameras because it has a wide exposure latitude which allows photofinishers to compensate in some measure for inaccuracies in exposure. The word "orthochromatic" means that the film is sensitive to all visible light except red; therefore, this film can be developed under a red safe light. This makes it a good choice for amateurs who turn kitchen into darkroom on occasion for it gives them a chance to do their work in a certain amount of light. This lack of sensitivity to red shows up in your prints sometimes. Anything in your subject that is bright red is likely to photograph quite dark.

The other popular type is represented by the various panchromatic films. Most commonly used of these is a fast pan film, such as Kodak Super XX. Because of its speed, this film enables you to shoot on days when he sun is weak or even on dull days. It's also recommended for use indoors with photoflood lamps. This film's name means that it is sensitive to all visible light and, therefore, will give you greater evenness of tone in your snapshot. The reds, for example, will be recorded in lighter tones, more in the relative brightnesses as the eye sees them.

Today's column is not intended to recommend one type or the other—merely to explain them most briefly. Modern photographic film is of high quality and any of them will give you good results.

Together with our family we viewed the Causeway at Port Hastings and while in that area we had the pleasure of calling on Mrs. Abe MacIntosh, where the genial lady (the former Lina Mauger of Cape La Ronde) accorded us a hearty welcome.

Mr. MacIntosh, we regretted, was not at home having recently left for P. E. Island where he is employed on the car ferry "Scotia" during the period the "Abegweit" is under repairs in Halifax.

Mrs. MacIntosh's aunt, Mrs. Mary Ann Mauger of Cape La Ronde, is at present her guest.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

It is May and what with an absolute absence of night frosts and a profusion of showers throughout April ,all nature round and about us is primed to burst into premature beauty and bloom.

We regret that Peter MacIntosh a native and veteran citizen of Oban is at present a patient in the V. G. Hospital.

Mr. MacIntosh's many friends hope he will soon be enjoying his wonted health again.

Arthur Fougere was obliged to spend the week at home in consequence of a minor accident at the Mindamar Mine.

Mrs. A. Gordon (Kaye McDonald) of Coxheath was a visitor to the parental home in Oban during the week and accompanied Ceretha over the mail route Thursday evening.

R. A. McFie of Glace Bay was a Sunday motor visitor to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Morrison

James Smith motored up from River Tillard Monday evening to call upon some of his former neighbours

A number of men are at present engaged in chopping away the bushes along the Sporting Mountain road margins preparatory to the coming of the grader.

Deer are apparently plentiful hereabouts this spring.

There were seven feeding contentedly together below our door Sunday evening.

J. N. Morrison was a business motor visitor to Isle Madame Saturday.

We liked exceedingly well the thoughts that arose in Rev. Ralph Latimer M. A., and aired over the air in a recent "Church of the Air."
