Tales, Tidings And Tidbits from Montreal

A PAST PERSONALITY

A French Canadian writer in describing the Cure of our unique Quebec village remarked, "Their good sense and humour bundled in six ells of black cloth." And that is the way I like to remember a massive man who wore the cloth and was an integral part of our village of St. Peter's during the first quarter of the century.

He was tall, wide-shouldered and weighty and walked with a brisk, strong step along our streets and around our stores. He usually held a crocked stemmed pipe in his mouth and the bowl would fairly touch the huge Roman collar that encircled his thick neck. He had an infectious laugh --a glorious deep throated rumble which is peculiar to most strong highland men. A slap on the back or a hearty handshake was his to give, be it lawyer, doctor, Indian chief, rich man, poor man, beggarman, thief. Such was his nature and the simplicity of his soul made him great among us.

It is pertinent to relate that as a child of the manse, but a stone's throw from the Glebe, I became infused with the admiration and respect that the Minister and his household retained for this fine competitor in religious creeds, dogmas and denomination.

I can still see him striding down our street, the wind from the sea whipping his light black coat away from his huge frame and hear the friendly word of greeting to a man from the Mountain or a Forchu fisherman as they wheeled by in their wagons -and recall the gestures of profound respect which were returned.

Whether he was dressed in his old cassock which might well be faded and shabby or in the majesty of his sacerdotal robes, his goodness of heart was revealed in his slightest gesture or his most insignificant action; and his leadership in the community and rural districts was exercised, I believe, nearly as much as his religious ministry, because he understood that the fisherman's gear and the ploughshare and the axe were basic supports of the Altar.

Father MacDonald was fond of the children of our village and chided them with an abiding patience. A pat upon our young heads or a tempered slap to our tender bottoms warmed our affection for him.

Once when a young urchin with an amazing command of obscene and blasphemously blended words met the Father as he walked our cindered sidewalk, he stopped him and asked in childish boldness: "Hey, Mr. Priest, tie my ?!& shoelace, will you?" The Reverend gentleman stopped and performed the task, scolding tenderly the little offender and sending him on his way with a blessing.

And again when two young Protestant Pretties with their short, short skirts, rolled stockings and bobbed hair, fancied in that era, sought recommendations for teacher's license and not catering too much to their own minister, because of his frown and denunciation of the daring bared knees and nocturnal necking, walked to the Glebe and requested character references, the good priest gladly wrote adequate testimonials with a teasing admonition that they were Protestants.

Not many years ago I met him for the last time. It was between trains in Truro. He had retired from active priesthood and was living out his days in Antigonish. As I perched by the polished counter in the CNR restaurant I discovered him sitting beside me, his large body spilling black over the narrow stool. He had become old. The abundant flesh fell loose and the jowls hung low giving him an appearance of bleakness.

But his handshake was warm and the inner man shone as brightly as ever.

Later as we boarded the smudgy coaches of the Sydney train and rattled toward the Strait he sat with a stranger at the rear of the car.

As the train ground to a stop in Antigonish and the noisy chatter and the yells of the students filled the night air and the placid pale faces of the nuns clad in flowing black and fringed with white flashed by in the dim lights of the station, he came to bid goodbye.

"Met a fine fallow down there," he said nodding to the rear of the car. "Fine, fine fellow--and intelligent too."..... and then he paused and a smile broke over his face, lifting it--and suggesting a semblance of younger days, and then he said..... "And do you know--he's not a Catholic either." And highland laughter rumbled from his throat.

As the tall, old priest of other days disappeared through the coach door and from my ken forever, I must have unconsciously borrowed one of the stock phrases of his calling and whispered "Dominus Vobiscum".

Bon jour,

Poet's Corner

IT'S SEPTEMBER
Edgar A. Guest

It's September, and the orchards are afire with red and gold,
And the nights with dew are heavy and the mornings sharp with cold;
Now the garden's at its gayest with the salvia blazing red
And the good old-fashioned asters laughing at us from their bed;
Once again in shoes and stockings are the children's little feet,
And the dog now does his snoozing on the bright side of the street.

It's September, and the cornstalks are as high as they will go,
And the red cheeks of the apples everywhere begin to show;
Now the supper's scarcely over ere the darkness settles down
And the moon looms big and yellow at the edges of the town;
Oh, it's good to see the childen, when their little prayers are said
Duck beneath the patchwork covers when they tumble into bed.

The essays were in conformity with the regulations laid down by he N. S. Cooprative Union and were judged on the basis of content, precision, clarity, style of writing, arrangement and neatness.

River Bourgeois News and Sport

The death occurred on Monday September 14th at St. Rita's Hospital, Sydney, of Mr. Henry Landry of this place at the age of 53 years.

Henry was known for his kind disposition and had a host of friends in River Bourgeois where he resided during most of his life.

He is survived by his wife, the former Elizabeth Burke, and three young children, also two brothers. George of Windsor, Ont., Peter of Sydney River; two sisters: Mrs. Charlotte Campbell, Deep Cove, Cape Breton county, and Mrs. Henry Pottie, St. Peter's.

To the surviving relatives we extend sympathy.

Edmund Burke is spending his holidays at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guillaume Burke. We congratulate Edmund on his recovery after undergoing a serious operation in Boston, Mass.

Recent visitors to River Bourgeois included the following. Mr. and Mrs. George Boyd and son Billy accompanied by his wife and daughter from Guadeloupe, Fr. West Indies. Also Dr. John Boyd of Detroit, Michigan.

All are visitors at the old homestead.

We are glad to report that Mr. James Richard, principal of the River Bourgeois School is recovering from a recent illness. This illness did not deter James from attending the baseball game at L'Ardoise, where he joined the cheering supporters of the R. B. team.

Steve Landry of the RCAF, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Landry, South River Bourgeois, is home on furlough. Steve is well known on the local athletic field, having starred as catcher on the R. B. team during the years when they won the trophies.

The first to land a salmon with rod and reel in this locality was our pastor, Rev. Fr. Samson. Fr. Samson is an ardent sportsman and we congratulate him on his achievement.

Last week Marie Boyd set out to cross the river in her boat, when she discovered that her oars were missing. Courageously she picked up a coal shovel and as the song goes, "with neither pole nor paddle" proceeded to cross "the stream" in record time. Fishermen are now speculating on giving up the old fashioned oars in favor of the modern coal shovel.

On Sunday, Sept. 13, the third game of the Richmond County baseball playdowns took place on the L'Ardoise diamond where a large crowd saw the River Bourgeois nine defeat the L'Ardoise Ramblers by the score of 16-9.

Bernard McPhee went all the way giving up 11 hits, while the R. B. team collected 13 hits from the three L'Ardoise pitchers, Bert Pottie, Howie Samson and Lorenzo Samson.

Pacing the winners at the plate was Arthur Digout with 3 homers and 1 double, while Peter Pottie and Pat Burke supported their pitcher by spectacular fielding.

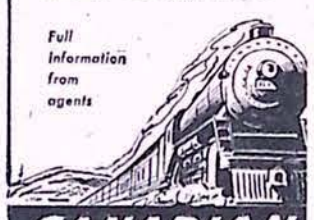

Stars for the L'Ardoise team were Gerard and Stan Monbourquette, Howard Samson and Jerome Martell who each collected two hits.

This victory gives the R. B. team a two-one lead in the finals.

The fourth game will be played on the R. B. diamond Sept. 20th.

Born at Arichat they left here at an early age but never lost memory of the old town where they spent the early days of their youth.

The old landmarks, many of which have disappeared, but the ones remaining were of special interest to them. Making a few visits to Arichat since leaving, they seem to find greater joy in each one.

We often heard our late parents speak of the many fine qualities of Claude and Steve when they were boys in the yesteryear of this old historic seaport.

While here they were the guests of their cousin ,Thomas Babin, at the American House.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

Date of writing is Sept. 12th and except for the hurricane and some subsequent cloudy intervals, comparatively fine weather prevailed throughout the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McMillian (Elizabeth Grant) were welcome guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Goswell over the week-end.

Their palatial little residence in the Steel City is almost exclusively a product of Mr. McMillian's innate handicraft.

Other visitors at the Goswell home included Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Crooks and family, Dianne, Kenneth, Deborah and Darrell, of Kentville, N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Morrison motored up from St. Peter's Sunday and were afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Morrison.

Mrs. F. Digout of Cannes opened school in Seaview on the 8th inst., with an enrollment of eighteen pupils.

Seaview is singularly fortunate to have a teacher of Mrs. Digout's recognized capacity.

A business motor visitor from Ance de Loup to Sporting Mountain, Tuesday, we were glad for a neighbourly call from Thomas Morrison enroute home.

We were glad to make the acquaintance of our potential neighbour John M. Mason when he was a business visitor to Seaview from the mining area, Friday.

Forbes McDonald motored his father D. R. McDonald and neighbors, Mrs. Clyde LeLacheur and Miss Martha MacKinnon to Sydney and Glace Bay during the week.

They called to see friends on Sporting Mountain enroute.

Margaret McDonald is in receipt of a recent letter from her brother J. R. McDonald, project manager of steel erection for the J. H. Pomeroy and Co. Inc., of California.

Mr. McDonald is at present erecting a radio tower (eight hundred feet high) for the navy on one ofthe Aleutian Islands (Adak) in the Behring Sea, twelve hundred miles from the Alaska mainland.

Loans To Lobster Fishermen

LOSSES FROM STORM DAMAGE, 1953

Arrangements are now completed to accept applications for loans to lobster fishermen of certain areas where losses of traps and gear were abnormally severe as a result of storms last winter and spring.

Loans will be made available to fishermen operating in the following areas.

(1) Lobster fishing district No 4—Halifax County (west of Cole Harbour), Lunenburg, Queens, Shelburne, Yarmouth and Digby Counties (to Burn's Point): For losses sustained from February to April inclusive.

(2) Cape Breton Island, Pictou County and Antigonish County: For losses sustained in May and June.

The MAXIMUM NUMBER OF TRAPS against which a loan for losses may be authorized shall be 25% less than the number of traps set, but in no case can exceed 150 traps.

The amount of loan shall be that MAXIMUM OF TRAPS MULTIPLIED BY THE UNIT VALUE of the traps determined for that particular part of the coast where the loss occurred.

Application for a loan must be made on forms provided. These can be obtained from your LOCAL FISHERY OFFICER or from THE FISHERIES DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND INDUSTRY, PROVINCIAL BUILDING, HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA.
