Date of writing is July fifth, and on these sunkissed slopes we are basking in the glorification of summer.

Thou who hast given me eyes to see,
And love this sight so fair;
Give me a heart to find out Thee,
And read Thee everywhere."

Clair Warriner of the Steel City, is a youthful guest at the Boudreau home.

We thank you, "Robin Hood," It is human nature to appreciate a compliment, and somebody said he'd prefer an ounce of taffy to a ton of epitaphy.

COVIN—GRENIER

A pretty wedding of widespread interest took place in Sydney, N. S. when Miss Peggy Grenier was united in marriage to Francis Covin of this place. The bride looked charming in a traditional bridal gown of white gossamer satin, the bodice of lace was adorned with braid, pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt had a double nylon net over satin, with delicate lace flower appplique, sweetheart neckline and lace sleeves coming to a point over the hand. Her long veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white and red carnations with a satin bow. The bride was attended by Mrs. Willie Poirier and Mrs. Frank Colette. The groom was supported by Ernie Poirier and Frank Colette.

Mrs. Poirier wore a ballerina length gown of yellow net over taffeta with a matching bolero, elbow length lace mitts, a shoulder length veil held in place by a headdress of flowers, with a corsage bouquet of yellow roses and ferns.

Mrs. Colette wore a gown of light blue imported tulle over taffeta, fashioning a fitted bodice and matching bolero and elbow length lace gloves. She wore a three quarter length veil, held in place by a headdress of flowers. She wore a corsage of blue roses and ferns.

After the ceremony and reception, the newlyweds left on a motor trip through the Maritimes. On their return a reception was held at the home of the groom where supper was served to a large number of invited guests. The centre of the table was decorated by a three tier wedding cake. The bride was given a shower by her many friends in Sydney. Mr. and Mrs. Covin were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

They will reside here. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Covin a happy wedded life.

A Tribute to Pipe-Major MacDonald

On July 1st. the common word whispered throughout Cape Breton and particularly with the Scottish element was "Pipe Major" Jack MacDonald was buried to-day. Yes all that was mortal of Jack was laid at rest at Barra Head cemetery at 10 a. m.

To give even a short biography of Jack MacDonald would require a volume. The tribute most commonly appliedd to him was "a true Scot, a great patriot and a real man."

A piper in the Cape Breton Highlanders during the 1914-18 ance before the late King George war, he gave a command perform-V and was presented with a set of silver mounted bagpipes by Colonel Cantley.

As a piper he was known from coast to coast, having won severa championships. On numerous occasions he was asked to play for visiting celebrities from the British Isles.

A veteran of World War Two, as well as World War One, he was known to hosts of people and the skirl of his bagpipes was familiar to many parts of two continents.

He ws attached to the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders from 1939 until ill health made it impossible for him to continue.

He was buried with full military honors, the military service being carried out by the Cape Breton Highlanders and members of its pipe band were pall bearers.

Fr. Donald Rankin of Creignish and Fr. J. H. MacEachen of St. Peter's officiated at the church services.

One had to know him to realize his sterling worth, his straighforwardness and above all his sense of justice and fair play.

Yes, his body was laid to rest but his memories will linger on. A staunch admirer penned these closing lines:

"O'er the hills and glens of Cape Breton,
When the lilt of the bagpipes will sound
From a wee nook way up in the Heavens
His twinkling eye will stray down."

Wedding

Paon, wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over bridal satin, fashioned with strapless bodice, over which she wore a jacket of Chantilly lace, the sleeves coming to points over the wrists. The bridal veil was of illusion net, and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Douglas Copp, sister of the bride, and she wore a gown of pale blue nylon over taffeta with bandeau and mitts to match. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

CRAFTSMEN-AT-WORK

The ninth annual Craftsmen-at Work Exhibition, co-sponsored this year by the Handcrafts Division of the Nova Scotia Department of Trade and Industry and Saint Francis Xavier University, will be held at Antigonish July 12 to 16.

The exhibition this year will be an entirey new one with the theme being the use of textiles for rugs, drapes, upholstery and wearing apparel planned and woven in the modern manner.

The show will embrace many features, one of which will be the Nova Scotia Mural, designed and executed by Nova Scotia craftsmen, and which depicts the history of sheep raising in the province. The mural has just returned from a trans-Canada showing, going as far west as Edmonton.

It was during the designing and making of this large mural that the Nova Scotia tartan came into being. Members of the Handcrafts staff, in attendance at the exhibition, will gladly tell visitors the story of the mural and tartan which will be displayed in a cpecial setting against a background of darker authentic handwoven tartans. A beautiful handwoven "cloth of gold" evening dress will also be featured beside the tartan..

Led by Miss Mary E. Black, director of the Handcrafts Division, staff members have gone all out to make the forthcoming display one of the best exhibitions of handcrafts ever shown in the province.

A sparkling Christmas scene will suggest many items which may be ordered for later gift giving-beach wear will be shown in a special seaside setting with accents of driftwood and sea creatures. Driftwood is in popular demand now for interior decoration.

Research and development of native Nova Scotia materials are two of the major functions of the Handcrafts Division, and as an example of this, pottery, with a glaze compounded of garnet sand found in Yarmouth county, will be displayed. The garnet glaze was found so interesting that drapes and upholstery were planned around its color scheme and a one-room apartment using these fabrics, all handwoven, will be on exhibit, suggesting the various ways in which handcrafts can be used in interior decoration.

For the first time a demonstration of silk screen printing will be given. This method of decorating fabrics and paper is largely used by both handcraftsmen and professional printers. It is a fascinating process to watch and once the technique has been learned drapes, upholstery and dress materials can be designed and printed in the home workshop.

Making of pottery from Nova Scotia clay will be demonstrated and there will be a display of hand wrought silver jewellery set with hand polished Nova Scotia agates-products of Nova Scotia's fast growing group of silver craftsmen whose pieces are executed in both traditional and modern manner.

Weaving, spinning (one of the oldest crafts), leathercraft, woodturning, needlecraft and rug hooking, a craft for which Nova Scotians are world famous, will be demonstrated by skilled craftsman.

Because of the great interest in tartans at the present time and their correct usage a student of Scottish culture and costume will be in attendance to advise on the correct ways to make and wear the

NOVA SCOTIA COAL—THE THRIFTY FUEL

Modern Coal Washing and Cleaning Plant at Old Sydney Collieries

Use NOVA SCOTIA COAL

Coal supplied for domestic heating was not always washed and dustless. Dosco Domestic Stoker Coal will be so treated in future. By using such fuel, the furnace-room can be kept clean and free from dust. With coal, there is no grimy, oily film spread through the home to soil furniture and decoration. Coal is the cleanest fuel available when it is washed and rendered dustless as Dosco Stoker Coals will be.

Coal used in automatic stokers is a safe fuel. With its use there is no possibility of furnace explosions. This cannot be said for other fuels, with the use of which disastrous furnace explosions occur from time to time.

Protect Your Future—Use Nova Scotia Coal
