Yarns Spun On The Old Spinning Wheel

Norman L. MacLeod,
Sea View Hospital (Wd. 83)
Staten Island, N. Y.

In the course of my daydreaming a short time ago my mind reverted to my boyhood days, and I thought of what a good, obedient lad I was—when I knew you were watching me. From my musings emerged two or three events which I will try and spin for you. About three years ago I told you about my stepfather forbidding me to mount his horse when I led him to the watering brook, and how I obeyed until I got well out of sight but came to grief as a result of forgetting instructions, all due to a faulty memory.

Instead of that yarn I will spin another about mounting an inanimate steed. The Gazette Office was on the second floor of the Stewart Building. My brother Jack was clerking at the Stewart store at the time and owned one of the best bicycles in town. It was originally owned by Lindsey Morrison and was practically new. After Lindsey's death Jack bought it at a greatly reduced price and on easy terms. During the day while at work Jack would leave the bicycle in front of the store and I was strictly forbidden to use it. I carried out this order faithfully until one day I came down from the office on my way to the post office. Being so preoccupied in mind as to fail to respond to the ordinary demands on my attention I inadverently mounted the forbidden wheel and was pedaling along in good style until I saw several sacks of oats stacked in front of A. MacAskill's store. In order to avoid colliding with them I kept my eyes riveted in their direction instead of on the road. The more I twisted the handlebars and watched the stack the straighter I pointed to it. Suddenly there was a crash and I was catapulted over the handlebars, doing a triple loop in the air that would make any professional acrobat look like an amateur. Of course, somebody had to tell Jack.

My friend, Dan W. Morrison, who I am glad to learn, is still going strong in the old town, had the trimmest and most streamlined yacht to be seen for miles. If I remember rightly it was built by Emoree Brothers of Port Hawkesbury. He gave it the Indian name Wawa. It was a beautiful sight as it glided gracefully through the waters of the Bay or on the Bras d'Or. During my last summer in St. Peter's after a sojourn of five years in Sydney, there happened to be a very dainty and attractive package of young femininity from across the Border spending the summer with her Canadian cousins a short distance from town. Naturally after being away from home a few years I had a fair idea of what it meant to be in a strange place alone. So putting all personal thoughts aside I felt it would be the right thing to make her visit as pleasant as possible. A very unselfish attitude on my part you must admit.

One afternoon when she came to town, thinking a sail on the Bras d'Or would be a good way to entertain her, I asked D. W. if I could use his boat. He gave me permission to take the rowboat but not the sailboat. (Nobody seemed to trust me as a horseman, bicyclist or sailor. I wonder what would have happened if we had airplanes or submarines in those days?) Obediently, I took the rowboat, but again through my inadvertency (how it haunted me through life) we boarded the Wawa as she laid peacefully at anchor on the bosom of the lake. Weighing anchor and hoisting sail, we were soon wafting through the water with a nice sailing breeze, enjoying life to the full, but alack alack-a-day, we saw a rowboat pulling out from the shore, and with strong, steady strokes it was soon alongside, and here we were face to face with D.W. Some friend or foe betrayed me and gave the alarm. At the time I thought he was a foe but as I look back over it all, I am inclined to look upon him as a friend. D.W. was wonderful, for while he had every right to douse me in the lake, he controlled whatever resentment he felt "Like father, like son" how could he act differently? His father John W. had the goodwill of every boy in town. One Hallowe'en when one of his carriages was suspended over the end of one of the wharves instead of boiling over like others who suffered minor offences, he smiled and ordered a couple of his remarking "boys will be boys".

One day, wishing to do some clam digging, I asked R. D. MacKenzie for his rowboat to go to L'Ance De Loup. There was hardly a ripple on the waters of the Bay, but Rory was an expert boat man and needed only to look skyward to forecast the weather. So he warned me: "The wind is likely to come up before long, so get your clams and hurry back, and don't attempt to sail." (For the enlightenment of some landlubber who may wonder how you can sail a rowboat, let me say that many rowboats in those days carried a mast that had a triangular shaped sail called a leg o' mutton attached, and which was kept in the bottom of the boat. In the event of a light breeze it could be inserted in a slot in the center of the forward seat (thwart) and secured at the bottom by insertion in a chock). Now that I have thoroughly confused the issue, I will proceed to confound what I am trying to profound.

As I was saying before I was interrupted, Rory warned, and I promised, but while I was digging the clams true to his prediction, it started to blow, and again in my inadvertency (dogging me again) I placed the mast in the chock and spread the sail. The breeze stiffened, white caps dotted the Bay and that ballastless skiff with a ballastless headed kid ensconced in the stern steering with an oar scudded through the water.

I remember seeing Sir John A. MacDonald, Sir Charles Tupper and son Sir Hibbert Tupper, Sir Wilfred Laurier, Prof. Alexander Graham Bell and other notables pass through on their way to the Sydneys and other points along the Bras d'Or, and the banks of the canal would be lined with people from all the outlying districts to greet them, but never before did the townspeople turn out enmasse to greet an incoming ship as they did the day that this sloppy barefooted kid sailed in in a skiff with full sail set through a choppy sea and driven by a heavy wind.

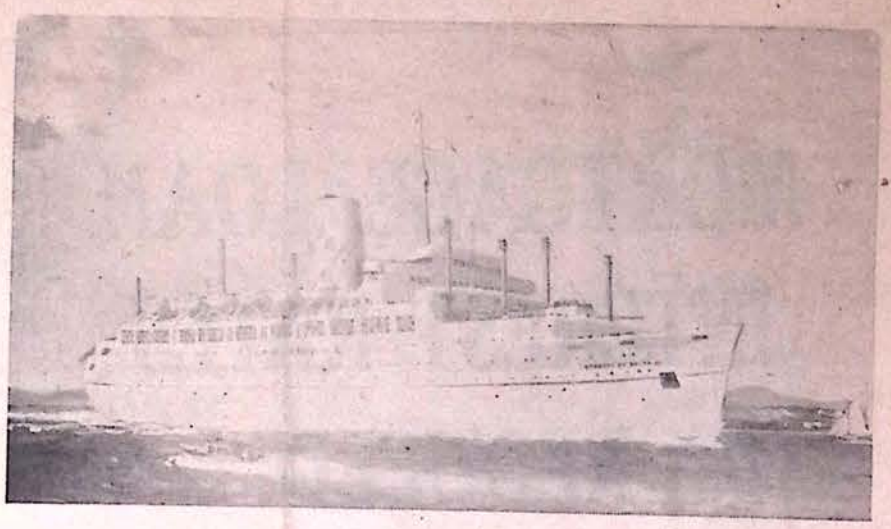

The shore was black with men, women and children and the concensus was that I would never make it for no boat could live in such a sea, but with the sheet belayed and fastened in the cleat, and the wind on my quarter, grasping the oar with both hands as it was held in the oarlock, in my "blissful ignorance" I kept to my course and proved to the amazement of all that it is "folly to be wise". As I neared the shore and came within earshot, instructions came thick and fast, but heedless of all, I let out the sheet and ran up on the beach. The story ends there and I refuse to give even an excerpt of any of the various orations delivered by the welcoming committee on that inauspicious occasion—and continued for days after.

Baseball is again in the spotlight, and the Petit de Grat Red Caps have entered the League. Good Luck! Boys.

Baking's Easier, Speedier with Wonderful New Active Dry Yeast!

CINNAMON BUNS

Measure into large bowl, 1 c. lukewarm water, 2 tsps. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 2 envelopes Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 min., THEN stir well. Scald 1 c. milk and stir in ½ c. granulated sugar, 1¼ tsps. salt, 6 tbs. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Add to yeast mixture and stir in 2 well-beaten eggs. Stir in 3 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 3 c. more once-sifted bread flour. Knead until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl; brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cover and set in warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. While dough is rising, combine 1½ c. brown sugar (lightly pressed down), 3 tsps. ground cinnamon, 1 c. washed and dried seedless raisins. Punch down dough and divide into 2 equal portions; form into smooth balls. Roll each piece into an oblong ¼" thick and 16" long; loosen dough. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with raisin mixture. Beginning at a long edge, roll up each piece loosely, like a jelly roll. Cut into 1" slices. Place just touching each other, a cut-side up, in greased 7" round layer-cake pans (or other shallow pans). Grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 20-25 minutes. Serve hot, or reheated.

● No more taking chances with perishable yeast cakes that have lost their leavening power! New Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast keeps full-strength and active right till the moment you use it. Needs NO refrigeration — keeps safely in your cupboard. Try its marvellous results in your next baking.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

MRS. JAMES CALDER
(Annie Morrison)

A host of friends and family connections throughout a complex arear are sorry for the passing of Mrs. James Calder.

Veteran citizens remember her in her maiden days as a resident of her native St. Peters, and a prominent member of the teaching fraternity.

Subsequently, as the mother, mistress of the Calder home on the South Shore she was equally outstanding.

Thus, it is that her final departure is so sincerely and generally mourned.

Much sympathy is centered on the bereaved husband who more than anybody else will have occasion to miss the desirable presence of his good and faithful helpmeet.

Thomas Morrison was a business motro visitor from St. Peters to the LeBlanc home Saturday evening and favored us with a friendly call.

We were glad to see our old neighbor looking well and fit and in optimistic mood.

The years of our ages coincide, but we are not so physically robust as he is.

Arthur Morrison and Josephine Burke motored up from the southern frontier Sunday evening, and everybody was admiring the glamorous new Dodge.

The road grader was up to make some improvements on the Sporting Mountain mail route, Wednesday.

Lillian Cooke is at present in Ingonish where she is the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stockley.

Yvonne LeBlanc is at home enjoying a respite from her position at St. Peter's. Yvonne is one of Miss Archibald's Grade XII graduates.

Alfred Boudreau motored Lucille Martell to her home in Little Anse, Friday evening.

John Fougere of the Hawker Market, contacted his customers in Seaview, Friday morning.

It is Mr. Fougere's purpose to take leave of us ere long, and thus his convenient calls will be much missed.

Date of writing is May 21st., and it is not spring but summer here to-day.

Hon. R. H. Winters Reports From Ottawa

Dear Mr. Editor:

The meeting in Halifax on coal yesterday climaxed my visit to Nova Scotia last week.

The Honourable George Prudham, Minister of Mines and Technical Surveys, and I, represented the Federal Government at this important meeting which was called by the Provincial Government and attended by both labour and management. The Premier, together with Mr. Patterson and Mr. Fielding, represented the Provincial Government. Mr. L. A. Forsythe, President of DOSCO attended, as did Messrs. McLaughlin Dolhanty, Delaney and Higgins, for the Unions.

Although the discussions dealt with the whole problem of coal in Nova Scotia's economy, they centered around the imminent closure of 1B Colliery, to determine if any reasonable grounds could be found for keeping this mine in operation.

Whilst the meeting was in progress, the hazardous nature of this whole industry was emphazied when water had broken through and flooded the MacGregor Mine at Stellarton, at a time when over one hundred men were working underground here. Happily we learned in due course that there were no serious injuries.

The problems of production costs and markets were foremost in everybody's mind at the meeting, and all parties readily undertook within the scope of their jurisdiction, to apply themselves vigorously in attempts both to reduce cost and find markets for coal.

Whilst he was in England, Premier Hicks discussed possible markets for Nova Scotia coal and confirmed that this year the United Kingdom will be a large importer of coal. If we can convince the British that the sulphur content of our coal is not as serous a detrimen as they think it is, and if our coal can be delivered in England at a price the British market can afford to pay, then there are good possibilities.

With the help of the trade facilities of the Federal Government, DOSCO is exploring this possibility vigorously. They have also undertaken to re-assess the domestic market. But whether any of these possibilities will constitute sufficient remedy at an early enough date to induce the Dominion Coal Company to alter its decl... close the mine on the 31... month, remains to be seen.

However, in the light ... spirit prevailing at the me... am sure no stone will ... turned in an effort to ... tinued employment ... men who will othe... selves out of work ...

Yours ver...
Robert ...

DUNDEE DEW DROPS

This Community was saddened by the passing of Mrs. James D. Calder, whose death occurred on Thursday, May 12th. at her home, in St. George's Channel, following an illness of several months.

Born and educated at St. Peter's Richmond Co., 71 years ago, she was formerly Annie Morrison, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs.. John W..Morrison. Choosing teaching as her prpfession, she was engaged in a number of schools, until her marriage, when she adapted herself to farm life.

Known widely for her hospitality, Mrs. Calder was a homemaker, and a competent housekeeper. Skilled in handicraft (an art inherited by her three worthy daughters) her exhibits at the Annual Community Fairs were varied, varient and prize worthy.

She was a member of Black River United Church and The W. M. S. Her support will be missed in many social functions.

Surviving besides her husban d, are two sons, John ad Billie, at St. George's Channel. Three daughters Margaret, and Christine (Mrs. Bill Wheaton) of Halifax, and Jessie (Mrs. D. A. MacLeod) of Sydney River, C. B.

Also surviving are three sisters, Ella (Mrs. Severns). Peggie (Mrs. D. N. MacLeod) and Flora (her married name regrettably unknown to the writer), of Boston. Two broters, Allan, in Boston, and Dan W. St. Pter's, survive.

The largely attended funeral took place on Sunday 15th. at the home, with interment at MacKay's Cemetery, St. George's Channel.

The collection of wreaths,, cut flowers and sprays, conveyed messages of love and sympathy.

Service was by Rev. R. Humby, who rendered beautifully,a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross."

To the sorrowing husband and family, also remaining sisters and brothers, our sincere sympathy is extended.

THE RICH MEN

When I was a lad, I thought the man who owned the corner store in our small prairie town must be very rich indeed. One look at the chocolates , the all-day suckers, the rows and rows of yard goods, the big round cheese, the bags of sugar—that convinced me. To won so much the man must be rich. Everybody in town spending money with him—what a wonderful life!

Because I bought quite a bit of his candy and chocolate, I was soon introduced to the town dentist He pulled some teeth, bored holes in others, and sent father a bill for $23.00. I was amazed. All that money just for pulling a few teeth and stuffing a few others? The man must make a fortune!

Richest man of all, I thought, was the owner of the local hardware Store.. I'd look at the rifles in his window, and wonder how so much money could be charged for a bit of wood and metal. Beyond doubt, the hardware man was another Midas. All he had to do was stand behind the counter and take in money. How I envied him!

The our baseball club bought an advertisement in the weekly paper. The publisher charged us 57 cents an inch! I realized at once that the editor of our hometown paper must also be a millionaire—getting more than half a dollar for an inch of paper and ink.

Then, as I got older. some of these wealthy citizens passed on. The corner merchant left assets barely enough to support his widow. Even the dentist, when he died, turned out to be of very modest means. The hardware merchant left a pretyy large inheritance—twelve thousand dollars, folks said. The newspaper editor is [illegible] alive and printing, but if he's [illegible] though he was, how [illegible] old second-hand [illegible] in front of the [illegible] other day that big [illegible] today average only [illegible] profit on a dollar [illegible] profit in most [illegible] than that.

[illegible] so wonder- [illegible] topping with millionaires, and that some day you , too, might own a corner store and pile up millions of your own. But as you grow up, you learn. The big danger, is that some Canadians haven't grown up. They still see the profiteers behind every counter. They can't face the fact that profits are low. Why, if they admitted it, what would there be to grumble about? Poolroom politics would dry right up without the profiteers to be lambasted!

An IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

MARITIME TELEGRAPH & TELEPHONE CO. LIMITED

A NEW BILLING DATE FOR YOU

Commencing with the next telephone bills, billing dates for all telephone subscribers will be changed.

Groups of bills will be mailed out at different times during the month, instead of all bills being sent out at the end of each month.

For instance:

One group of subscribers will receive their bills dated the 3rd of each month.

Another group will receive their bills dated the 6th of each month, and so on throughout the month.

The change in the billing date will mean a small adjustment on your first statement to cover the period between the old and the new billing date.

THE ADJUSTMENT WILL NOT MEAN A CHANGE IN THE AMOUNT CHARGED FOR YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE!

What are the reasons for these changes?

Spreading the billing dates this way levels out work loads in the billing department throughout the month and helps keep down the cost of providing service.

Spreading the billing also spreads the work load at telephone payment offices because every telephone bill isn't due on the same day. Customers who come in to pay their bills can be served more promptly without undue delay.

A TOUCH OF GREASEPAINT

Barry Morse and Alan King, top-flight actors of international repute, do a program which is a sort of theatrical curiosity shop. Their half-hour weekly CBC Trans-Canada network show features everything from dramatic readings, anecdotes, news and criticism. to little-known stories of playwrights and actors. To gather material for "A Touch of Greasepaint" they must do a good deal of research as well as calling on their own broad fields of experience.

WEDDING BELLS

Demers — Lake

A pretty spring wedding took place at Notre Dame Church. on Saturday, May 21st. when Pauline, daughter of Mr.. and Mrs. Robert Lake, of Ketch Harbour, became the bride of Peter Demers, of Quebec City.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. A. P. Poirier. In attendance at the ceremony was Rev. Father Lannigan, of Ketch Harbour, N. S.

The bride looked charming in a white gown and long veil with a corsage of red roses. She carried a white prayer book.

She entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage.

The bridesmaid, Miss Agnes Arsenault, of Summerside P. E. I., wore a yellow dress with yellow head piece, and a corsage of white and yellow carnations.

The groom was supported by Andy Rodrique, of Quebec City.

After the ceremony, which was attended by relatives and friends.

The happy couple proceeded to The Arichat Hotel, where a wedding breakfast was served the bridal party and immediate friends.

Receiving was the bride's mother. who wore a pink dress with white fur and white hat with pink trimmings.

The brides going away outfit was a pink suit with coat to match and blue accessories.

The happy couple left on a brief honeymoon trip to Antigonish.

They will take up residence in Halifax where the groom is attached to the RCAF.

We wish the young couple a long and happy wedded life.

HERE IT IS!

The Furnace that removes its own ashes!

Now you can enjoy the financial advantage of heating with coal and be completely free of the chore of shovelling coal and carrying ashes. Following intensive research by Bituminuous Coal Research, Inc., Dosco engineers have perfected a radically-different type of domestic furnace which makes heating safer, cleaner, cheaper, than ever before. It is unsurpassed for comfort and convenience and actually pays for itself in fuel savings.

Check these features!

NO ASHES TO CARRY — Ashes are automatically carried by vacuum to a canister inside or outside the house.

ABSOLUTELY CLEAN — It is impossible for ash or dust to enter the furnace room.

ECONOMICAL — Cuts at least 20 per cent from the cost of operating a hand-fired furnace, with relatively higher savings over other types of heating systems.

SAFEST YET — Automatic feeding assures a steady heat and only a small amount of coal is in the furnace at any time.

FULLY AUTOMATIC — Feeds itself and rejects the ashes without any demand on you. Thermostatically controlled.

The New Dosco Furnace will be demonstrated in your district soon — be sure to see it

Purchase and installation of Dosco's new furnace can be financed through a Home Improvement Loan available under the National Housing Act. See your Bank.
