Ottawa News Letter

By
HON. R. H. WINTERS
Minister of Public Works

Dear Mr. Editor:

This letter is being written just after I returned from the ceremonies connected with the laying of the cornerstone of the Ralston Building in Halifax last Thursday. The structure was named in honour of the Col. the Hon. James Layton Ralston, a great Nova Scotian and Canadian, No name could be more deserving of the honour.

It occurred to me after I was assigned the Department of Public Works about three years ago that we were missing oppotunities to enrich the history of the Canadian scene by not giving significant names to some of our larger public buildings. Accordingly the Government now names some of our Federal buildings after outstanding men whose contribution to Canada merits some recognition. We endeavour to exercise discretion and select names which bear some important relationship to the community concerned.

The 2 3-4 million Ralston Building in Halifax was the first to be named under this policy. Other examples are the Lapointe Building in Riviere du Loup, Quebec, named for the former Minister of Juctice, and the Gray Building in Nelson, B. C., named for a Victoria Cross winner.

I like to think that the Ralston Building will be just as much a monument to the former Defence and Finance Minister as is the statue of Joseph Howe, that great Nova Scotia leader of the 19th century, which stands in the grounds of the Province House. It is a departure, perhaps, from the traditions of monuments in statue form, but it represents a functional tribute that will keep the name Ralston before the people of Nova Scotia for generations to come. As such, it is a fitting tribute because Mr. Ralston's services to his country were of the highest merit. As one writer has said, he was one of the "giants of his generation" in Canada.

Here in Ottawa we had another ceremony this week. It signalled the reopening of the Library of Parliament, nearly four years after it was gutted by flames. Buildings have a way of becoming entangled in human affections and this was particularly true of this old library. It had survived the fire of 1916 which destroyed the Parliament Buildings. It was overcrowded, ornate and very Victoran, but the public was deeply saddened in 1952 when its inside was so severely damaged. An excellent job of restoration has been done. As someone has written, it now ranks as "the most modern Victorian building" anywhere, because its architectural atmosphere has been well preserved.

In Parliament itself, debate continued at a brisk pace. The House spent a day considering a Bill which I introduced to amend the Navigable Waters Act. Since before Confederation our navigable waters have been zealously protected and the Governmnt is anxious that the legislation which reserves their use for the trade and commerce of our country is kept as up-to-date as possible. In some respects it was out of date when viewed against our present day, fast-moving development. The volume of applications has reached a point where long delays were encountered in processing them. Changes were needed and Parliament approved them.

Yours sincerely,
ROBERT WINTERS
Ottawa, Canaaa.

THE BRAVEST BATTLE

The bravest battle that ever was fought,
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the fields of the world you will find it not;
It was fought by the Mothers of men.

Mark Fortieth Anniversary

Two senior members of the Diocesan clery celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their ordination as priests. Right Rev. Msgr. Patrick Joseph Nicholson, P. A. Vicar General of the Diocese and president emeritus of St. Francis Xavier University, was ordained at Toronto June 29, 1916.

Right Rev. Msgr. Alfred Boudreau, D. P., Dean of North Inverness, was ordained the same day at Arichat.

Msgr. Boudreau

Msgr. Boudreau was born in 1893 at Pondville, Arichat, the son of Albert Boudreau and Marie Barbe Fougere.

He was educated at the convent school at Arichat and at St. Anne's College, Church Point, gaining his bachelor's degree at the latter in 1912.

He entered Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax the same year, and was ordained in 1916 at Arichat by the late Archbishop Morrison. After two years as Assistant at St. Joseph du Moine, he was transferred to North Sydney in 1918.

In 1821, Msgr. Boudreau was appointed pastor at Petit de Grat. For the next 32 years he labored unselfishly in that parish on Isle Madame. His qualities were recognized in 1950 by his appointment as Dean of Richmond County.

In 1953, he was named pastor of St. Michael's Margaree and appointed at the same time Dean of the North Inverness Deanery.

A kindly and gracious man, he was not long in winning the hearts of his new parishioners.

Last year, the Holy See raised him to the dignity of Domestic Prelate with the title of Right Reverend Monsignor.

Friends in his native Isle Madame and thoughout Cape Breton will join in wishing Monsignor Boudreau many happy returns.

THINK THIS OVER

When you think unkindly toward the man you work for —when your heart is full of resentment and your head full of revenge—stop and take a personal inventory.

There are always two sides to a situation. You are not all wrong; and if this be true, it is not reasonable to assume that the man you work for is not all wrong?

No person on earth can do good work with a single head full of malice and two hands that are closed like fists.

PUBLIC HEALTH

The government of Nova Scotia is to be congratulated, says "The Wolfville Acadian"' on another step forward in its programme of Public Health, a step which should do much to encourage sufferers from Cancer to seek treatment and expert advice in combating their disease.

Geoffey Stevens, Minister of Public Health has announced a new policy to assist cancer patients in obtaining advice and treatment at the Nova Scotia Tumor Clinic and the Victoria General Hospital. This new policy will enable suffers from the disease who are unable to pay the cost of transportation to and from Halifax where the main diagnostic and treatment facilities are now available. In certain cases costs of transporation will also be paid for an attendant, if considered necessary, to accompany the patient to the treatment centre.

FERRY'S FIRST DAILY ROUND TRIP

History was made Tuesday in the transportation of passenger traffic by water between Nova Scotia and United States when the MV Bluenose made it's first daily round trip between Yarmouth and Bar Harbor, Me.

With the arrival at 2.30 p.m. of the Canadian National Railways luxurious car ferry with 519 passengers, 138 cars, four trailers and nine trucks the first trip of the daily Summer operation from Bar Harbor was underway.

In slightly over an hour all vehicles and passengers had passed through the customs. For the outgoing passage to Bar Harbor the Bluenose had 255 passengers, 66 cars and one truck. Observers who watched the smooth working operation by ticket clerks, customs and other terminal staff were loud in their praise to the efficient manner in which the ferry was unloaded and reloaded with a minimum of confusion.
