Rev. Father A. Doucet's 25th. Anniversary

Solemn High Mass, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, West Arichat, commorated the 25th Anniversary of its beloved pastor, Rev. Father A. Doucet, to his ordination to the priesthood, which took place on Sunday at 10.30 a.m.

He spoke in glowing terms of Father Doucet's service to the Church and to the parishioners where he labored for the past twenty-five years, first as assistant at L'Ardoise, where he served for two years, thence to Mount Carmel, New Waterford as Assistant. In 1943, Father Doucet was appointed pastor of West Arichat Parish.

Very Rev. Father Poirier, while making announcements in connection with the West Arichat Parish made kindly reference to Father Doucet's Silver Jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood.

The regular monthly meeting of the Arichat Club, Knights of Columbus, was held in O. L. A. Convent Hall with the President, J. H. LeBrun in the chair.

Reports from the Chairmen of various Committees were read and adopted. The Chairman of the entertainment Committee announced that St. Peters Council, Port Hood, were the winners of the Beauvien Trophy and repeated Grand Knight Chisholm's statement "that the forming of the Arichat Club helped greatly in making this possible."

The President then called upon two members of the Club who read an excellent salutation and presented Rev Father Doucet, Chaplain of the Club, with a purse, in honor of his 25th anniversary of is ordination to the priesthood. Father Doucet very capably replied to the presentation and thanked the ier then spoke, mentioning Club. Very Rev. NEW MURPHY PLANT FINEST IN MARITIMES

THIS modern building is the new home of Murphy's Limited and its parent company, J. & M. Murphy Limited, the oldest wholesale Dry Goods firm in Halifax. The opening of this 40,000 square feet building on Howe Avenue, marks yet another milestone in the 84 year history of this fine Maritime business whose Murphy work clothes have a reputation second to none across Canada.

There was a time when you could guess what a fellow did or where he lived by the cut of his clothes. If you came into the city from the farm, your clothes showed it - - they marked you out as a "country cousin". But it's not that way today and that well-dressed man-about-town sitting next to you in the restaurant may just as well be from Middle Musquoidoboit as from Montreal.

And two people who helped bring about this happy sartorial state of affairs - - in the Maritimes at least - - were John and Michael Murphy.

Arriving in Halifax in 1874, from County Wexford, Ireland, the two Murphy Brothers took over the Dry Goods Wholesale business of P. Power & Company and settled down to the business of providing Halifax ladies, children and gentlemen with the finest and latest fashions in clothing.

There were 21 other wholesale houses in Halifax at that time and competition was brisk; but not too stiff to prevent John and Michael from increasing their custom so that when they died within a year of each other around 1895, John's three sons took over management of a thriving business.

Until that time the firm of J. & M. Murphy, Limited, had confined its operations mainly to the Halifax market with one outside salesman covering Cape Breton. But it soon became evident that there was a large market outside the city and the firm applied itself to expanding beyond the city limits. Soon the whole of the Maritimes were being covered by Murphy salesmen, making mens and women's outerwear, underwear, hosiery, hats and babies layettes available to people in even the most remote places.

Then in 1928, J. & M. Murphy took another unique step - - becoming manufacturers as well as distributors. This work clothing manufacturing division began in a modest way in a barn at Windsor Junction. Six second-hand machines made up the plant and they produced about $3000 worth of goods the first year.

But small though this beginning was, it was proven a success by the publics' appreciation of the fine quality of the clothes produced - - fine quality combined with fair prices. By 1941 the clothing division had become Murphy's Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of the parent company.

Today, J. & M. Murphy stands as the only Wholesale Dry Goods firm in Halifax. Of its 21 competitors in 1874, none remains today to see the opening of the new Murphy building with its 100 modern textile machines and 70 operators.

In all the new plant houses 140 employees, including office staff, salesmen and factory operators.

The new building is air conditioned throughout and contains a fine showroom displaying the thousands of fine lines. A large warehouse enables Murphy's to give immediate delivery on everything they handle, from battleship linoleum to baby layettes.

Another big feature is the customer waiting room which is equipped with a desk and telephone for customer convenience. A large paved parking lot adjoins the building.

And all this growth, from a two man venture to a 140 employee business has come about because of the Murphy family's faith in the future and devotion to the service of Canada's Atlantic Provinces.

Sporting Mountain Echoes

Date of writing is June twenty-ninth, and it is a typical summer day on these sun-kissed slopes.

All nature around and about us is at its best, and when Municipal Clerk, E. C. Doyle and General Assessor, Joseph Mury, had occasion to visit Sporting Mountain the other day, they duly appreciated it all.

These worthy citizens of the shiretown favored us with an extended social period.

Since forwarding our last echoes we had a series of motor parties to our little domicile by the roadside, but having regard to space we shall pool them. They comprise Mrs. Michel Kyte, her son, Charles and daughter-in-law with their little family trio and the junior Mrs. Kyte's sister, Mrs. Sampson; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrison, Mrs. Vitus Burke and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alex Burke with their respective families all of River Tillard; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sutherland and family of Sydney Rover; and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Canning and family of the Steel City, accompanied by Mr. Canning's mother whom we had occasion to be glad to meet.

The Rev. J. Parker Matheson recently visited this section of his charge and we were sorry indeed to note by the Post-Record that the reverend gentleman was since obliged to undergo an emergency operation in the City Hospital in Sydney.

Mr. and Mrs. Cederic Sampson were guests at the LeBlanc home on Wednesday night.

Leonard Cook transferred a few loads of lumber from Seaview during the week.
