Chairman of Cairn Unveiling Ceremony

Angus R. MacDonald, M. P. Delivers Opening Address

This afternoon we are assembled on the shore of an island whose recorded history flashes near five full centuries into the past. We have come together to honor a great Christian gentleman whose biography constitutes a glowing chapter in that history. During this program we unveil a cairn not only to remind us always of Angus Lewis MacDonald, but also to encourage every generation with the gallant story of the boy from Dunvegan who rose, through no worldly advantage but simply through unusual gifts of character and personality, to grace the highest council chambers of this land.

This was a chieftain whose clan was not merely the Celt, but all of Canada—nay, even all of humanity. He drew the threads of integrity, loyalty and love from the tartan of his Gaelic heritage, and wove them in the loom of his public career into the political patterns of this province. In the annals of a province distinguished for its contribution of statesmen to the Canadian community the name of Angus L. Macdonald shall always shine with a special splendor.

Happy is the land that bears the sweet burden of his monument. Glad the hands that raise a cairn to remind generations yet unborn of the inspiration of a life which knew no principle but the service of his fellowmen and the enoblement of their lives. His life will always be to us a convincing evidence of the generous and great gifts with which God can grace the man made to His own image and likeness.

When the Nova Scotia Association of Scottish Societies was formed a few years ago it represented a group of some twenty or more individual associations, established within the Province. The Nova Scotia Association has sponsored two major projects: The Scottish Village and the Cairn of Remembrance. When the passing of Angus L., was announced in 1954, none were more bereaft than were the members of the Nova Scotia Association of Scottish Societies. The Cairn Committee, dedicated to the building of a memorial that will be a fitting tribute to the memory of a truly great man, worked for many months on various designs, materials and sites. Finally the contract was let for the cairn which will be unveiled this afternoon.

As chairman of the committee I extend a cordial invitation to all of you to participate in this afternoon's programme when we honor the memory of the late Premier Angus L. Macdonald.

Hundreds Gather For Unveiling

OF MACDONALD CAIRN

PORT HASTINGS, C. B. Sept. 24, 1957—A true Gaelic spirit, symbolic of the traditions upheld and cherished by the late Premier Angus L. Macdonald, prevailed here today at the unveiling ceremony of a huge stone cairn erected to his memory through the efforts of the Nova Scotia Association of Scottish Societies.

In a simple, yet touching ceremony, Mrs. Agnes Macdonald, widow of the late Angus L. Macdonald, pulled silken cords releasing a tartan blanket covering a bronze plaque which paid tribute to her departed husband.

The kilt and sporan, balmorals and bonnets predominated among hundreds gathered at the site of the cairn, on he Cape Breton side of the great Canso Causeway, or as "Angus L." fondly referred to it, the "Road to the Isles."

In his opening remarks, A. R. MacDonald, M. P., (Antigonish-Guysborough) and chairman of the cairn committee referred to the late Premier as "a chieftain whose clan was not merely the Celt, but all of Canada—nay, even all of humanity. In the annals of a province distinguished for its contribution of statesmen to the Canadian community the name of Angus L. Macdonald shall always shine with a special splendor.

"Today we unveil a cairn not only to remind us always of Angus Lewis Macdonald, but also to encourage every generation with the gallant story of the boy from Dunvegan who rose, through no worldly advantage, but simply through unusual gifts of character and personality, to grace the highest council chambers of this land."

Attorney General of Nova Scotia, the Hon. Richard A. Donahoe, representing Premier Robert L. Stanfield who was unable to attend the historic occasion due to the Atlantic Premiers Conference in Charlottetown and who sent his deepest regrets to Mr. Macdonald, the chairman, paid high tribute to the character of the late Premier, who he said "had been the pride of all Nova Scotians and whom all admired. "It would have warmed his heart," said Mr. Donahoe, "if he had been here today in this Scottish atmosphere, in sight of the Canso Causeway, to see so many paying tribute to him. I hope that through this memorial his memory will live in the minds of generations to come."

A Gaelic tribute was paid Mr. Macdonald by the President of the Nova Scotia Association of Scottish Societies, Stephen J. MacKinnon, Antigonish.

The pipes and drums of the First Battalion Black Watch of Canada from Camp Aldershot marched as they played a selection of Scottish numbers.

In his dedication address Judge Alex H. MacKinnon, of Antigonish said: "We come together today to recall the memory and to unveil a Cairn of Remembrance to one of the most beloved and respected men which it has ever been the great honour of this province and country to produce —to one who achieved so much in the interest of all, not the least of which was the inspiration he gave to Nova Scotians for a more complete life, culturally and materially — to one whose name will ever stir, like a pibroch, the hearts of his grateful countrymen. A highly placed Scot, remarked after his untimely passing, that Angus L. Macdonald was the one man who had the necessary qualities and ability to unite the Scots of the world. I can conceive of no finer tribute coming out of Scotland, for in over two hundred years there was only one other man who came close to doing so, Bonnie Prince Charlie, it can be truly said of while performing the task he Angus L. Macdonald that he died loved best, serving the people of his native province."

Honored guests included, in addition to Mrs. Macdonald, Angus L. Macdonald, Jr., Oonagh Macdonald, Rev. Mother St. Veronic, C.N.D., Dan Lewis Macdonald, Lt. Governor Alistair Fraser, Rev. M. E. McLaughlin, Port Hastings, Col F. L. E. P. Clifford, Halifax, John P. Hart, Warden of Inverness County; Major C. I. N. MacLeod, Sydney; Mayor Hugh Gillis, Port Hawkesbury; W. F. MacKinnon, M.L.A., Antigonish; Clyde Nunn, M. L. A., Antigonish; Colonel Sutherland Brown, Halifax; A. J. MacEachen, M. P., Justice Wm. MacDonald, Commander MacGillivray, HMC Dockyard, Halifax.

The Dunvegan Gaelic Male Chorus from the birthplace of Mr. Macdonald stang Gaelic selections and Mrs. Alice MacEachern of Creignish sang a solo, a favorite of the late Premier, the "Isle of My Heart."

DEDICATION ADDRESS

The dedication address delivered by Judge Alexander H. MacKinnon, of Antigonish, during the uveiling ceremonies — Macdonald Cairn — at Port Hastings, will appear in our next issue.

Nova Scotia's Government Announces First Directors' Meeting of Crown Co., Industrial Estates Limited

HALIFAX Sept 25:—At 3.30 p.m. in the Red Chamber of Province House in Halifax, the Hon. R. L. Stanfield, Premier of Nova Scotia today announced the establishment of a crown company, Industrial Estates Limited, whose aim will be to encourage the promotion, expansion, diversification and development of industrial activity in the province.

Describing the purpose of the newly formed company, Mr. Stanfield said that Industrial Estates Limited will in the course of its operations acquire lands in Nova Scotia with a view to developing suitable sites for industry. It will provide for such industries the necessary services such as power, water, sewage and roads. It will build factories for lease or sale. It will lend money for the purchase of machinery and equipment. It will assist by all means at its disposal any suitable industry in any or all phases of its operations where such assistance is deemed advisable or necessary.

The premier said that there could be no real conflict of purpose or duplication of effort between the crown company and the government. The company will operate as an autonomous corporation and, subject only to general policy provisions held to be in the public interest, will be free to deal in all matters affecting internal administration, staff appointments and other administrative responsibilities.

Industrial Estates Limited, the premier continued, will devote itself to the development of natural resources and for attracting heavy industry to the province would remain with the government. Far from any resulting conflict, Mr. Stanfield foresaw a very real and earnest spirit of co-operation.

It is part of the terms of the agreement that Industrial Estates Limited will not knowingly assist in the establishment of any industry which will endanger any similar industry now existing or operating in Nova Scotia.

Summarizing the undertakings of the Nova Scotia government with regard to the company, the premier made the following points.

The government will make an interim advance to the company for initial organization and administrative functions. It will assist the company in any undertakings requiring government authority, such as special agreements with cities, towns and municipalities, etc.

The government will present to the Legislature the annual budget of the company and report to the Legislature on the company's activities through the government's representative on the Board of Directors, the Hon. Z. A. Manson, Minister of Trade and Industry.

In answer to questions from attending newspapermen, Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Manson, Minister of Trade and Industry, gave further details about the new company.

Asked whether any similar organization had been set up and operated successfully in other parts of Canada or elsewhere, Mr. Manson said that several such companies had operated in Great Britain. These had achieved considerable success.

The company with which he was best acquainted was the

Comm. MacKinnon In Charge Security Royal Visit

We were pleased to read in the daily press where our good friend, (D. A.) Tony MacKinnon, Assistant Commissioner of RCMP headquarters in Ottawa, will be in charge of security arrangements, during the visit of Queen Elisabeth and Prince Philip to Canada on October 12-16.

We were initiated into the ranks of the preventive service, of the Canadian Customs in 1929 by Tony MacKinnon, who at that time was 2nd in command to the late Chief Angus Young, of North Sydney.

We saw Tony MacKinnon, in action on more than one occasion and admired him for his courage and devotion to duty.

When Mr. MacKinnon joined the RCMP back in the early 20's we knew that he would some day be promoted to a high rank in Canada's noted police force and glad we are of his success.

Commissioner MacKinnon is a brother to Judge A. H. MacKinnon of Antigonish.

Add ¾ c. lukewarm water and 1 tsp. salt. Add, all at once, 3½ c. once-sifted all-purpose flour and work in with the hands; work in 3 tbs. soft shortening. Industrial Estates

North East Trading Estates, established in North East England Colonel Methven, general manager of this company for more than twenty years, had undertaken the survey of Nova Scotia and upon Col. Methven's report the present operation was based.

Other points brought out were that the object of the new company was to assist the industry of this province, not harm it. This was the reason that the company would not knowingly assist in establishing an industry which will endanger any similar established industry in the province. There was no direct connection between Industrial Estates Limited and the Nova Scotia Industrial Development Corporation. Cooperation with APEC would be welcomed and close liason maintained.

On the subject of whether factories would be built prior to interest being shown by prospective new companies, the premier said that this would be a policy matter for the Board of Directors. No specific projects were as yet under consideration.

INVESTIGATE HABITS OF CORMORANTS

An investigation of the food and habits of cormorants, especially on the Eastern Shore, was carried on during the past two summers by the Nova Scotia Department of Lands and Forests in cooperation with federal fishery authorities.

In order that stomach contents might be examined, cormorants were collected on St. Mary's river, Guysborough County, Moser's River, Halifax County and neighbouring lakes. Cormorant food was also collected at various nesting colonies, scattered along the coast from Lunenburg county to Canso. All the food collected in either way was promptly preserved in formalin solution, and indentification of food items was made by scientists of the Fisheries Research Board.

The food of these birds was found to consist chiefly of fish of no economic value. Nearly half of it was made up of cunners, often called sea perch. Other kinds of fish identified in the food were sticklebacks, herring, minnows, yellow and white perch, winter flounder, golden shiner, smelt, sculpin and gunnel, or rock eel.

Herring, including gaspereaux, made up 8.5 per cent of the food and smelt formed 2.4 per cent. No salmon or trout was found, although the low water of the past summer made conditions particularly favourable for capture of such fish in the rivers.

The information about cormorant food thus obtained in Nova Scotia is generally similar to results of such investigations that have been carried on in Quebec.
