Judge A. H. MacKinnon Makes Dedication Speech at Unveiling Remembrance Cairn to Angus L.

Dedication address delivered by Judge Alexander H. MacKinnon, Antigonish, during unveiling ceremonies — Macdonald Cairn — Port Hastings, September 24, 57.

"Mr. Chairman, Honored Guests Ladies and Gentlemen:

"We come together today to recall the memory and to unveil a Cairn of Remembrance to one of the most beloved and respected men which it has ever been the great lustre of this Province and Country to produce—to one who achieved so much interest of all, not the least of which was the inspiration he gave to Nova Scotians for a more complete life culturally and materially—to one whose name will ever stir, like a pibroch, the hearts of his grateful countrymen.

"I am deeply honoured and highly sensible of the great privilege extended to me this afternoon; but frankness compels me to admit that here are many others, who were closer in political and professional association with our late Premier, who could do greater justice in paying the tribute which his memory so rightfully deserves. My only consolation is the knowledge that in the future more stately memorials than this humble Cairn will be dedicated to his honoured memory, and then there will be opportunity for the rendering of more adequate and deserving tributes.

"The original settlers to this land came for many and varied reasons, but all may be summed up in one word, freedom. Freedom from despotism. Freedom from landlord tyranny. Freedom of religion and freedom to satisfy a great thirst for education. Not the least among these peoples were the French who were to become so identified with the soil and history of this Province that they assumed the name of Acadians. The Scots who came to find release from landlord tyranny and to escape the severe strictures placed upon them after the failure of the 1745 uprising under Prince Charles Edward Stuart. The Irish who came to seek freedom from oppression, and freedom in all those things which, by nature and heritage, they so proudly cherish.

"From these sources came the late Angus L. Macdonald. His father, Lewis Macdonald, was descended from the proud and reverred Macdonalds of Kinloch Moidart, one of the foremost branches of the great Clan Ranald, descended from the noble line of Lord of the Isles, and his mother, Veronica Perry, a most remarkable woman whose veins mixed the blood of the three great races, Acadian, and Irish. Her mother was a native of Tipperary, Ireland.

"It was a fortunate combination on both sides—none better—none braver—none truer. There was in it an inheritance of courage, of manliness, of imperishable love of liberty, and of unifying adherence to principle Qualities that were to be exemplified so strikingly in the life of the late Premier.

"All settlers in this new land experienced hardship and distress, but here all were engaged in a common struggle and there was a common sympathy and hearty co-operation which lightened the burdens of each; and this is a very different hardship, different in kind, influence and effect from what we conceive the word to mean today—which is a ceaseless and humiliating hardship that every day is forced to contrast itself with neighbouring wealth on which it feels a sense of grinding dependence. The hardship of the early settlers was to them no hardship at all. To them it was wealth in independence, with the boundless possibilities of the future always opening before them. No person ever grew up in this area in earlier years where a home raising, harvesting, barn raising or even a milling frolic was not a matter of common interest and helpfulness, and had any other feeling than that of broad minded, generous independence and contentment.

"In such an atmosphere did the late Premier commence life and it left its indelible mark of honourable independence and respect for the rights of others, as it also marked many other youth of that time who became eminent leaders in the religious, business and professional life of our Province and Country.

"No worthy man feels anything of shame in looking back to early struggles with adverse circumstances, and no man feels a worthier pride than when he has conquered the obstacles to his progress. The late Premier's youth presented no hardships which family love and energy did not overcome, subjected him to no privations which he did not cheerfully accept, and left no memories save those which were recalled with delight, and transmitted with profit and with pride.

"The late Premier was fortunate in attending an excellent school at Port Hood, to which town the family had moved from Darnley. When he completed the high school for a brief term at a school-house situated not far from here on the other side of the Strait, at East Havre au Boucher. Teaching here, at times, entailed walking from the school to his home at Port Hood, a distance of over thirty miles. This was not regarded as a hardship, however, for he was more than welcome in any house along the route, and with his great capacity for friendship it gave him an opportunity to build up what was to become a great wealth of warm and enduring associations.

"Enrollment at Saint Francis Xavier University followed, and here he distinguished himself scholastically and as a skilled debater. After graduation with honours, he returned to the University as a lecturer. Following the great conflict which swept the world in 1914, a Highland battalion was being formed in Cape Breton to make up a part of the Nova Scotia Highland Brigade under Col. Allison Borden. The call was irresistable and the late Premier became a Company Commander in that famed military unit. After fighting gallantly, he suffered severe wounds which continued to effect him for many years afterwards. A large number of surviving comrades-in-arms still warmly attest to his ability and bravery as an officer, as well as to his inspiring friendliness.

"After an honourable discharge from the army, the late Premier entered Dalhousie Law School, from which institution he graduated with honours. He remained at Dalhousie as a part-time lecturer while assuming the duties of Assistant Deputy Attorney General of Nova Scotia. Later he became a full time lecturer, then Professor of Criminal Law at the Law School. So distinguished was his record as a professor that he was granted a fellowship at Harvard University, where he gained the coveted degree of Doctor of Juridical Science. His life to this period shows perseverance, self-reliance and self-sacrifice, qualities which had achieved for him a conspicuous and brilliant success. The large majority of us would have regarded such achievement as eminently sufficient for a whole life's work, but not with Angus L. Macdonald. His life of achievement was but beginning.

"In speaking of the influence which govern the actions and attitudes of a man,on one that can help immensely or detract immeasurably is the influence which flows from his family, as well as from his companion in marriage. The late Premier was most fortunate in having beneficial influences from both sources, and to his widow, the charming, gracious and intelligent lady who is to unveil this Cairn, no small share of credit should be extended for encouragement and inspiration in times of difficulty and doubt; as well as in times of success and triumph.

"The conclusion of Judge MacKinnon's, brilliant dedication address will appear in our next issue.—Editor.)

REMEMBRANCE DAY

(The following splendid message is sent out by the President of Branch 150, Canadian Legion, Petit de Grat and the Record wishes to congratulate him on his efforts and at the same time heartily endorse the poppy campaign.—Editor.)

On November the 11th Canadians all across the countrywi will stop work and remember the men who were killed in wars. Some 3000 cities, towns and villages will participate in observing Remembrance Day by parades to Memorials. There at these memorials members of the Legion, Army, Navy, Airforce and other services will stand in silence as they remember more than 100,000 Brave Canadians who were killed.

That is why November the 11th is called Remembrance Day.

On that Day Everybody wears a poppy, a reminder of the blood-red flower which grew in the fields where many of these men died. Much of the fighting was done in a place called Flanders. This was during the war of 1914-1918. During the war of 1939-45, the beaches of Dieppe and in Italy and Normandy, men and boys died fighting for freedom.

One thing that all we living Canadians have to ask ourselves, is if we would be enjoying the same privileges and pleasures, had these men not paid for it with their lives. If you will answer your own question the answer will without doubt be NO. That is why on Remembrance Day everyone should wear a poppy. These grew on the graves of so many soldiers of the first war, thus became a symbol of true Remembrance.

So wear a poppy and stand in Silence on Remebemrance Day. When we wear a poppy we are in effect saying "thank you", to those brave men who paid for our todays with their Future.

Hon. G. I. Smith, Minister Highways Announces Snow Removal Program

The Department of Highways will spend $2,360,000 on its snow removal and ice control program during the coming winter, it was announced by Highways Minister G. I. Smith on the 16th inst. This program includes snow plowing, ice control by chemical methods, sanding of highways and the provision of snow fences in certain locations where they may prove effective in reducing snowbanks and drifting during severe storms.

Expenditures last winter reached a total of $2,188,700 which was $445,700 or over 25 per cent more than the previous year's expenditures under the former administration. This year the sum allotted for the program has again been increased by $191,300 over last year said the Minister, and it may be reasonably expected that this material increase in the sum allotted for the purpose, together with careful planning, will enable the Department to provide a substantially improved service.

"A considerable number of enquiries have been reaching me from many sources," said Mr. Smith, "and it therefore seemed appropriate that a statement should be made disclosing the Department's plans insofar as that could reasonably be done at this time."

Referring to the $2,360,000 estimated for the program during the coming winter, the Minister cautioned that the amount now being spent on snow removal and other parts of the program forms a very substantial part of the total expenditure of the Highways Department, and "it should be realized that every additional dollar spent on snow removal means that much less available for summer maintenance and maintenance improvement work."

Ice control, said the Minister, has become an important part of the winter program. Experiments were conducted during the past winter on two twenty-mile sections of highway to determine the effectiveness of salt as an ice control measure. This winter it is proposed to use salt on Route No. 2 from the New Brunswick border to Halifax and on Route No. 4 from Truro to Sydney. The experiments conducted last winter indicated that salt loses its effectiveness as an ice control measure during periods of extremely low temperatures. It will therefore be necessary to use sand on the above mentioned highways when such temperature conditions prevail.

Sand will be used on the remainder of the trunk highways and as was the case last winter, the Department will endeavour to provide the best possible service on these highways within the available resources. Further trials in the use of salt will be carried out on various parts of the highway system.

The use of sand on county roads will of necessity, be limited to the extent that this service was provided last winter, the Minister stated. Some difficulty is bound to be encountered in connection with ice on roads in this category Mr. Smith continued, but it must be recognized ha it is utterly beyond the resources of the Department to provide ice control measures on every road throughout the province.

The program proposed for the coming winter said Mr. Smith, is the result of an extensive study on which members of the engineering staff have been continuously engaged since last July. This is the first time in the history of the province that such a study has been made in a realistic attempt to design a practical program to facilitate the safety of traffic on our highways under the extreme conditions usually experienced during Nova Scotia winters, he said.

The Minister emphasized that the greatly increased allocation of funds for the winter program indicates the government's desire to do everything that the financial resources of the province will permit. "No one can predict what actual conditions we may have to face," he said, "and while a com-

MAKE SURE WHAT YOU'RE SHOOTING

Every year hunters leave hundreds of animals maimed by wounding as a result of careless shooting. Worse, every year, a number of humans find themselves shot in mistake for animals.

Carelessness? Sure. But maybe bad eyesight too.

What do you do when you go hunting? Do you make sure you are wearing the right glasses, that are kept clean and in good condition—not all scratched and battered? Are you sure you can distinguish colors quickly and accurately?

If you have passed a routine eye test that said you had 20-20 vision it didn't mean your eyes were perfect for every purpose. It only meant that you could see a letter of specific size and density at 20 feet.

Maybe your focussing isn't what it should be. Or maybe you don't have good side vision. Maybe you wear unsuitable dark glasses when you go hunting.

Take the advice of the Canadian Association of Optometrists and before you go hunting, have your eyes examined. The right glasses and the right sun glasses for your particular needs will be recommended.

You may get a bigger "bag", avoid wounding hapless animals and, above all, you may save the life of some other hunter who is depending on your eyes for his safety.

Credit Union Banquet A Great Success

International Credit Union Day was fittingly observed by one hundred credit unionists and friends of the Richmond County Mainland Credit Union Chapter who attended a banquet and dance in the Johnstown Macarine Barracks, Thursday, October 17. Mr. James Campbell, Principal of Johnstown Academy, was toastmaster. In spite of the influenza bug, representatives from all credit unions of the chapter attended to hear Father D. E. MacDonald, Parish Priest, of Iona. Father MacDonald was one of the key figures in the organization of the Mainland Credit Union Chapter and took a very keen interest in its activities. He served as zone director of Nova Scotia Credit Union League for a number of years prior to his posting to Iona.

In his usual congenial manner, Father MacDonald gave a very interesting and thought provoking address. Paying tribute to the Mainland Credit Union Chapter, Father MacDonald said: "Of all the Credit Union Chapters in operation in the province, your chapter is the outstanding one in the promotion of the work of credit unions, in the exchanging of ideas and in the field of education." It is the basic principle of democracy that governments should leave to individuals be responsibility to do what they can for themselves—citizens have an obligation in this respect. Individuals can provide for themselves the institutions necessary to take care of their financial needs, the credit union is the instrument through which you can solve your credit needs and help your neighbor solve his. The work of credit unions in this part of the world should be an inspiration for others to join our ranks and to urge us on with greater zeal and determination to do the job that remains to be done."

Mr. Urbain LeBlanc, St. F. X. Extension Department, gave a brief report on credit unions. He stated that the six member credit unions of the chapter had a total membership of over 1,000 with savings totalling $124,000 —of this amount $90,000 is out on loan. In Nova Scotia there are 196 active credit unions with over 54,000 members having shares and deposits of approximately ten million dollars. We have over four thousand credit credit unions in Canada with close to two million members who have accumulated three quarters of a Billion dollars in savings. In celebrating International Credit Union Day we join with 11,499,000 credit unionists in the western hemisphere who have saved over three and three-quarter Billion dollars. Credit Unionists can justly be proud of their own CUNA Mutual Insurance Company whose 3 Billion dollar insurance coverage makes it the fastest growing insurance company in the world. In closing the report, Mr. LeBlanc read quotations from President Eisenhower's Credit Union Day Message and to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Credit Union Day Greetings.

Father Morley, Parish Priest, Johnstown, moved a vote of thanks to Reverend Father D. E. MacDonald for his inspiring address and to the ladies of the Johnstown C. W. L. who served the delicious banquet.
