NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Released By Nova Scotia Press Bureau, Halifax

Whilst cannon boomed from atop Citadel Hill, Nova Scotia's new Lieutenant Governor, Major the Hon. E. C. Plow inspected a Canadian navy guard of honor outside historic Province House, then entered its historic chambers and with the reading of the speech from the throne, officially opened the second session of the 46th general assembly, on Wednesday afternoon the 12th inst.

Implementation of a Hospital Care Insurance Plan the start of 1959 in the province; plans for an additonal mental health clinic for Cape Breton, and formulation of plans for establishment of other local mental health facilities; offering scholarships to encourage more students to enter the teaching profession; the recognization of the need for adequate surfacing of important secondary roads; granting to Nova Scotia Pulp Mill Limited to cut on certain Crown Lands; inauguration of a program of campground and picnic-area development, were among 65 items covered in the speech.

Mover of the address in reply to the speech from the throne was John M. MacDonald, (PC-Cape Breton North) and seconder was Hiram Thomas (PC-Kings West).

"It has been described as the greatest social security measure of this generation," said Mr. MacDonald of the hospital insurance plan "the legislation for which will be introduced" during the present session.

"Perhaps the most important achievement in our history," he said, referring to the convening 200 years ago of the first general assembly in Nova Scotia marking the establishment of responsible government.

He complimented Premier Stanfield for his efforts on behalf of coal mining communities (referring to the new policy of subventions of coal used in the Maritime provinces for the purpose of producing electric power). That the planning of a crossing of the Big Bras d'Or is well advanced was gratifying, said Mr. MacDonald, and the establishment of a Department of Labor trade school in North Sydney was indeed a benefit.

In seconding the address in reply Mr. Thomas reviewed the progress and non-progesss of the province. On the credit side of the ledger, he said "we have a free people living under one of the broadest forms of democatic government in existence, better education facilities for our children; better roads and transportation facilities; the great industrial areas of Cape Breton Island as well as Pictou and Cumberland counties, and social services for the protection of the aged, sick and those unable to work, including the unemployed."

Rising to adjourn the debate on the address in reply to the throne speech, Liberal leader Henry D. Hicks called upon the government to institute "more energetic measures "to deal with "the important and pressing problem of unemployment in this province."

Referring to the 200th anniversary, this year, of representative government, he said he was pleased the government had established a committee of three, representing all factions of the House, to see the historic event would be marked in a manner it so richly deserved.

Speaking on Friday, in a speech lasting more than an hour, Mr. Hicks criticized the government on several issues, including what he referred to as the "bad bargain in prices" with respect to the government entering into an agreement with Nova Scotia Pulp Limited, and finally moved a motion of non-confidence in the government on grounds the administration lacked appreciation of the growing unemployment situation and failed to provide programs to deal with unemployment and the plight of farmers and others normally deriving income from the sale of forest products.

Opposing Mr. Hicks' attack, Premier Stanfield said "unquestionably unemployment is higher in Nova Scotia than a year ago." Winter unemployment was a serious problem in past years as now, said the Premier, adding "the wonder is that with the credit policies pursued by the former Liberal government in Nova Scotia, there are not a great many more unemployed in this province today than there are.

CCF Provincial Leader Michael McDonald called for a joint federal-provincial program of public works as one measure to relieve unemployment. On the coal industry he said it was encouraging to note that in Nova Scotia the industry was more or less holding its own.

This weekly feature will be published during the present session of the Legislature.

Nurse-Teacher Staff Boasts Twin Sisters

(The following Canadian Press news item appeared a few months ago in the daily press and was not noticed by us at time of release, however our good friend, Charles Bruce, Superintendent of the Canadian Press, at Toronto, ran across this interesting bit of news at his office and kindly sent it along to us. The twin nurses referred to in this bit of news are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Martell, of Lower L'Ardoise.—Editor.)

QUEBEC (CP)—Student nurses at Jeffrey Hale Hospital here had their confusion compounded when twin sisters joined the teaching staff.

The charming 23-year-old twins are Joan and Jean Martell of L'Ardoise in Cape Breton, N. S. The identical twins graduated from high school at 16, and received their bachelor of science degree in nursing from St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N. S. They took nursing training at St. Martha's Hospital at Antigonish.

After graduation the girls worked for a time in Lethbridge, Alta., but the East was home and when an opportunity came to return, they accepted.

Jean is teaching Science, while Joan is assistant head nurse in Surgical Department.

Commenting on their age, Miss Kathleen Marshall, Director of Nursing, said she is not afraid to employ youth. An intelligent young person who is well trained and mature is a decided asset, she said.

Miss Marshall said the Martell twins fit those qualifications and top them off wth a deep sense of respect for their profession.

Highways Minister Cautions Use Of Secondary Roads

HON. G. I. SMITH, Q. C.
Minister of Highways

"The condition of all secondary highways throughout the province is giving grave concern," said Highways Minister G. I. Smith recently.

"As the direct result of the prolonged unseasonably mild weather, the secondary highways are suffering serious damage under traffic loads that normally would not have any serious adverse effect at this time of year.

"There is very little that the Department can do to overcome the effects on the secondary highways of the weather conditions we have experienced without causing still more damage to the road themselves.

"As Minister of Highways, I appeal to all operators of heavy vehicles to extend their co-operation in reducing loads wherever this may be possible or otherwise to conduct their operatons so as to minimize the damage to the roads and so avoid undue inconvenience not only to themselves but also to other users of the highways.

In the event that present conditions of weather, etc., continue, said Mr. Smith, it may become necessary to close some roads to certain classes of vehicles. "It is my earnest desire to avoid this procedure if at all possible. On the other hand, the possibility of continued damage of road surfaces must be given serious consideration and if necessary steps taken to halt the further increase in damage.

"The genuine co-operation of vehicle operators may obviate the necessity of more drastic action," said the minister.

Cederic Sampson made a good job of repainting the interior of the Seaview school house during the Christmas holidays

It was the proceeds from a series of successful socials after the bugles sang truce and the boys returned from World War One that made the amply furnished interior of our school house what it is today.

While in St. Peters Monday evening we were talking to Mrs. Willie McKay of The Points and were glad to hear good tidings of her good mother (Mrs. Annie McDonald of (Oban) who was a patient in a Sydney hospital in consequence of a severe fall.

Mrs. McDonald's many friends will be pleased to know that she is making a rapid and complete recovery at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon of Coxheath.

Anthony Konning has returned from an interesting visit to his native Netherlands and is enjoying a respite on the farm preparatory to resuming his usual employment in central Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stockley (Lillian Cooke) who resides in the McLeod home returned to Ingonish.

Thus another light is out in Seaview.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sutherland and Mrs. Sutherland's neice, Miss Margaret McKinnon who teaches in New Waterford comprised a motor trio from Sydney River the other night.

A local motor trio we were glad to see included Calder McDougall, Everett G. Hill and George Matthews of Grand Anse.

Calder McDougall was numbered among our exemplary pupils at The Points.

Hugh John Hill and Lloyd McRae had scaler James Boudreau, of St. Peter's up to their respective pulp piles Tuesday morning.

We had Cedric Sampson motor us to St. Peters, Monday afternoon and enroute home contacted the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrison; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. H. McDonald; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrison and Mr. and Mrs S. Burke.

On previous occasions with Bernard Konning we had called to see Mrs. Margaret Niccholson, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pate and Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell.

If our present morale stays with us Mr. Editor, you will hear from us again.

However, it will not be news when it is news, but echoes of news when it was news.

BASIC INDUSTRY

"What we, as farmers, must never forget, is that, as producers of the bread of life in its broadest sense, we form the very foundation of the great and complex structure of cvilization that man has built up. We must not be diffident about pointing out this elementary truth again and again, in order to ensure that farming achieves and maintains its proper recognition — economically and in every other way — in the eyes of the rest of the community."

—SirJames Turner, President of the national Farmers Union of England and Wales, broadcasting a New Year Message in the BBC Overseas Services programme "Land and Livestock."

THE WORLD'S THIRST FOR WATER

"It is a fact that the development of an efficient process for de-salting water could be as important to the world as the harnessing of atomic energy."

—Dr. J. Gordon Cook, a research chemist, discussing various methods of overcoming water shortage in the BBC's General Overseas Service programme "Science Review."

Short Courses At L'Ardoise And Petit de Grat

ST. PETERS, N. S. — A four evening short course sponsored by the St. F. X. Extension Department was held in the fishing community of L'Ardoise on January 13, 14, 15 and 16. The course featured four 2-hour evening programs with ninety minutes devoted to speeches and group discussions and thirty minutes devoted to entertainment — sing songs, folk dancing, etc. Topics discussed were Credit Unions, Fisheries and Eastern Co-Operative Services. Visitors and speakers included: Dr. C. J. Forest and John F. Sampson, Petit de Grat; John Chisholm, Merchant Bauer and Desmond Connor, Antigonish and Fathers George Topshee and Andrew Hogan, Extension Department, Sydney. It is very encouraging to note that a good representation of students and teachers from the L'Ardoise Consolidated School attended the course and took a very active part in the discussions as well as in other activities of the balanced programs.

Out of the discussions evolved projects for the Credit Union, Fisheries and Eastern Co-operative Services Commodity Groups. Action on these projects will take place following study by the boards of directors of the credit union and co-operative society. A date was agreed upon for the first meeting dealing with the E. C. S., project. A number of farmer-fishermen expressed their intention to go into farm production on a commercial basis so as to supplement their income derived from the sea — it is hoped that other fishermen in this community who were not present at this course will give serious thought to farm production, even for home consumption, and will feel free to attend these community group meetings for information, instruction and inspiration.

Not to be outdone by the fishing community of L'Ardoise, the people of Petit de Grat exemplified their nterest and determination to learn and to do things for themselves by attending a four evening short course held in the parish hall, on January 20, 21, 22 and 23. During these four evening sessions the topics of Fisheries, Women's Guilds, Eastern Co-operative Services and Credit Unions were discussed.

In spite of the inclement weather on Monday evening, fifty fishermen rallied to the meeting to hear Dr. C. J. Forest, P. P., and John Sampson, manager of the Fishermen's Co-operative, discuss with them the marketing program of the Isle Madame Fishermen's Co-operative. The second part of the evening's program was a discussion on the U. M. F. Organization, its by-laws, duties of directors, etc., chared by Urbain LeBlanc of the Extension Dept., Sydney, by means of a film and talk introduced the topic of Women's Guilds followed by Miss M. T. Doyle, Dept. of Health, who addressed the group on the topic of nutrition. A discussion period followed both of these talks. Miss M. Gillis, also of the Extension Dept., Sydney, was in charge of recrçation. On Wednesday evening Mr. John Chisholm, Antigonish, spoke on the E.C.S. Program to a capacty crowd from Petit De Grat and the neighbouring communities of Arichat, West Arichat and D'Escousse. Following a discussion period on the Eastern Co-operative Services, Mr. Clem Brennen of the Insurance Department of Maritime Co-operative Services, Moncton, introduced co-operative insurance.

The topic scheduled for the closing of the short course on Thursday night was credit unions and the meeting of the Isle Madame Credit Union Chapter. Inclement weather, however, prevented members credit union representatives from attending and the said meeting was postponed until February. Nevertheless, a representation of credit unionists and friends from the local cometer MacKenzie, Nova Scotia would be featured at the Febru- Credit Union League, Antigonish, introduce "Operation Impact." This program was very well retentatively agreed that expose ary meeting of the chapter. Also present at the meeting was Dennis AuCoin, manager of the Chetticamp Fishermen's Co-Operative, who spoke briefly to the group on the credit union as an integral part of the co-operative movement. Following his remarks the

Health Improved

We are happy to report that Rev. Father Boucher, pastor, of St. Hyacinth's Church, D'Escousse is again attending to his parochial duties, after being on the sick list recently.

Father Boucher last summer celebrated his fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the Priesthood and has served the greater portion of his priesthood, in the service of St. Hyacinth's Parish.

A few years ago a severe blow struck St. Hyacinth's Parish when their beautiful church was levelled by fire. Although a great shock to Father Boucher, at the time, however, this did not mar his spirit, as he at once began plans for the construction of a new and more modern church, which now sands as a monument of his efforts and that of his faithful parishioners. From this new church Father Boucher celebrated his fiftieth anniversary to the priesthood last summer.

May Father Boucher continue to carry on his parochial duties for many years to come.

RICHMOND COUNTY MEN STREET CAR MOTORMEN IN THE EARLY DAYS

From 1906 to 1909, Councillor John Doiron, of Port Royal, was a street car motorman, on the Boston Elevated and a recent story written in the Boston Traveller, brought to light the early days of the trolley cars of Boston. In one of the photos of the feature section Mr. Doiron can be seen at his post in the trolley car and in talking to him only recently, he informed us that the following Richmond County men were employed at the same time: Henry Stanford Rafuse, motorman, of Forchu and his brother, Herbert Rafuse, motorman, of Forchu; also Leslie Stevens, a car cleaner, of Forchu.

All these men roomed at 44 Fenton Street, Dorchester, Mass., in those early days, however, they meet from time to time and like to talk over their many experiences of half a century ago as employees of the Boston Elevated.

Here is what Ed Martin had to say in the introduction of his story of the Trolley Car:—

"Today's kids dream of wearing space helmets and sitting behind the controls of a rocket swishing toward the moon.

Their granddads nursed equally exciting dreams. Their aim was to be a motorman of a trolley car, especially the "open" trolley cars.

Most of the early cars were rebuilt horsecars. Electricity was a frightening mystery. Riders left their watches at home for fear they'd be magnetized.

Councillor Doiron informed us that back in those days motormen were piad 31 cents per hour.

He also told us that if a motorman completed a full year without any accidents, he would be presented with a $20 dollar gold piece, he had the distinction of qualifying during the years he was employed in this service.

To Glace Bay

Raymond LeBlanc, visited his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Charles LeBlanc, at Glace Bay, over the week-end, at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Harry Macneil, of that town with whom they are residing. We are happy to learn that Raymond's good parents and our very dear neghbors for many years, are enjoying good health.

Capt. Charlie as he is known by his friends, retired from the sea in 1929, returning from Vancouver, B. C., where he was in command of a large ocean going tug. In his youth he was engaged in the fur sealing industry and can relate many interesting tales of his adventures in the days of sailing ships. He also followed the trail to the Klondike Gold Fields.

could be used to make surplices for the altar boys. It was decided that a sewing gathering would be held at the home of Mrs. Elias Samson tn the near future.

A perpetual rosary wll be held on the first Saturday of the month from one to five o'clock in the afternoon. The list of members along with the hour to attend will be posted in the back of the church on the first Friday. A discussion followed on the possibility of having the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass celebrated in the afternoon at 4 o'clock, instead of the morning, during the lenten season. As our spiritual was not present it was decided that we would ask him if such could be possible. It was felt that a larger number would attend the Holy Sacrifice and partake of the sacraments daily.

It was moved and seconded that a social would be held on the next two Frdays preceeding lent.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

On the successful carrying out of the proposed projects into action will depend the success of these two short courses—surely the people have been motivated—the outcome, to a great extent, is in their hands.
