Winners Declared In Bicentenary Essay on Responsible Government

Two young ladies from widely-separated places in the province, both named Ann—Miss Ann Picketts, Grade X, studying at the Truro Senior High School, and Miss Ann Smith, a Grade VIII student at the Saint Ambrose School, Yarmouth—have been declared winners of the Provincial Bicentenary Essay Competition.

News to this effect has just be released by the Honourable W. S. Kennedy Jones, Q. C., Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, and Chairman of the Bicentenary Committee of Representative Government which sponsored the Provincial $3,000 Essay Competition.

"This Competition attracted approximately 10,000 entries", said Mr. Jones, "and it follows, accordingly, that the two young ladies in question are deserving of the hearty congratulations which they will be accorded, not only by those in their home communities, but also by all the communities of the Province. The essays written by these young ladies were a credit to them, and they form a splendid contribution to the commemoration of the Bicentenary of Representative Government in Nova Scotia."

Miss Picketts, a daughter of Reverend and Mrs. W. C. Picketts, 61 Alice Street, Truro, was declared a winner of the Senior Class "A" Bicentenary Essay Competition, open to students of Grade X, XI, and XII, who wrote on: "Canada' First Parliament—Nova Scotia, 1758: It's Significance After 200 Years."

Miss Smith, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, 13 Carol Ave., Yarmouth, was declared the winner of the Junior Class "B" contest, open to students of Grades 7, 8 and 9, who wrote on the topic: "Representative Government — How Canada's First Parliament Began in Nova Scotia, 200 Years Ago."

As a result of winning the Bicentenary Essay Competitions, these young ladies will have the distinction of being guests of the Province of Nova Scotia at the Bicentenary Session of the House of Assembly, scheduled to be convened in Halifax on October 2nd, next, and at which they will represent the 160,000 school children in the province.

In addition to winning the Gold Medal and the $50 cash award for the Senior "A" Class Competition in Colchester County, Miss Picketts will be awarded the Provincial Prize of $50, and in addition, will be presented with an Illuminated Scroll, in which will be outlined the record of her achievement.

Miss Smith, who won the Gold Medal and a $30 Prize in the Junior Class "B" Competition in Yarmouth County, will also qualify for the Provincial Award of $50, and the presentation of an Illuminated Scroll.

The Illuminated Scrolls will be presented to these young ladies on October 2nd, upon the occasion of their visit to Halifax.

The Bicentenary Competition, which attracted a record number of approximately 10,000 entries, was conducted under the direction of R. A. Simpson, Supervisor of of Publications, Department of Education, and Chairman of the Bicentenary Essay Competition," said Mr. Jones, "and a great deal of the credit for the success which has been ashieved is due to the personal attention which Mr. Simpson gave to this Competition. The Competition, furthermore, was actively supported by the Province and, also, by others the various school inspectors of who acted on the various panels of judges. The Bicentenary Committee is very appreciative of the co-operation which it has received from these several committees, without whose assistance the Competition would not have been successfully prosecuted."

The Provincial Grand Award Panel of Judges was composed of: D. C. Fraser, Inspector of Schools for Pictou County, New Glasgow, Chairman; B. C. Silver, Inspector of Schools for Halifax County, Halifax; G. G. Lent, Inspector of Schools for Inverness County, Port Hawkesbury; Dr. H. E. Feavyour, Inspector of Schools for Cumberland County, Parrsboro; and C. E. Edwards, Inspector of Schools for Annapolis County, Bridgetown.

The Essay Competition provided for the presentation of First, Second and Third Prizes, of Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medal Awards, in each Class Competition, in each county, as well as provision for the awarding of three Honourable Mention Awards in each Guest Speaker At N. S. Weekly Newspapers' Assn.

HON. M. S. LEONARD, Minister of Education for the Province of Nova Scotia, while addressing a semi-annual meeting of the members of the Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers' Assocation, held at Halifax recently made the following complimentary remarks in the course of his address:—

CONTRIBUTE TO HISTORY

"You people are also chroniclers of your times," he told the gathering. "You are contributing to history.

"Centuries from now people will pick up today's paper and though they may poke fun at the layout and style, nevertheless, you still have a great duty to perform."

The minister stressed the need for accuracy and fairness by members of the press.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING

Resolutions recommending to the provincial government that the Industrial Estates Act be reviewed with a view to providing assistance to established businesses and also that the provincial government publish a synopsis of recent legislation to acquaint the public with legislative changes, were passed recently at the semi-annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association.

The meeting presided over by the Association's first female president, Mrs. Edith Wallis of Digby, was held in Halifax.

* * *

BERWICK ENTERS

A business meeting held in the afternoon approved an application from the Berwick Register for membership in the Association.

The dinner meeting, chaired by Mrs. Wallis, heard speeches by Cecil Day of the Liverpool Advance, current president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association; William Telfer, managing director of the CWNA, and Dan P. Wallace, director of travel and information for Nova Scotia.

Major speaker of the evening was the Hon. Malcolm S. Leonard, provincial minister of education.

Mr. Leonard traced the history of the early newspapers in Nova Scotia and pointed out that such papers, though primitive in design and layout, served as chroniclers of the times.

Mr. Day thanked the minister for his speech and also suggested to the association that the annual meeting might be held at Digby "in honor of the first lady president."

Mr. Justice Hall Dies At Halifax

Mr. Justice Lormier Hall, a member of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court Bench for close to 27 years and Attorney General of the Province for five years, died last Monday at the V. G. Hospital in his 82nd year. He had been in ill health for some time.

Mr. Justice Hall was the father of Mrs. Robert L. Stanfield, wife of the Premier of Nova Scotia.

The well-known jurist enjoyed a long and distinguished career as a lawyer and as a judge as well as in the political field, which he first entered in 1910. He served as provincial leader of the Conservative party for a time.

Two years ago, the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society paid tribute to Judge Hall's record on the bench at a testimonial dinner in honor of his Silver Jubilee.

Born in Melvern Square, Annapolis County, July 28, 1876, Mr. Justice Hall was the son of the late Reverend William Edward Hall and Margaret Barss Hall. He was educated at Acadia University where he received his Bachelor of Arts and at Dalhousie University, where he graduated in Law.

Mr. Justice Hall, made many judicial visits to Arichat and we always enjoyed friendly chats with him while accompanying him to the boat en-roue to Mulgrave. this Strait of Canso sea voyage was always enjoyed by the late Judge Hall. His knowledge of Arichat in the early days was most interesting having made visits here during his college days.

We knew Judge Hall personally and shall always cherish the memory of this eminent and beloved Nova Scotian.—Editor.

St. Peter's High School News

By LORENA BETHEL

During the week of May 11th, the capital of Nova Scotia was the scene of the Dominion Drama Festival. Throughout the Dominion, drama groups gathered to display their skill.

During the same week, another group presented to the public, its first performance of the season. Perhaps of less significance to the Dominion, but certainly of importance to the community of St. Peters, was the presentation of the annual St. Peters High School play. The cast of the three act play, "The Man from Nowhere", consisted of:—Isabel Oliver, as Anne Royce, the heroine, who jilted Henry Holt, (Henry Robertson) in favor of "The Man from Nowhere," (Kenzie MacDonald); Lovedy MacDonald, as the boarding mistress, looks with scorn on the romance of the elderly Miss Prim (Doris LeBlanc) and Professor Holms (Wilfred Forgeron). Throughout the play her patience is taxed by the brainless Swedish maid, Hilda (Lorena Bethel). As the play progresses, Mr. Graydon, the bank manager (Walter Proctor) finds himself faced with bankruptcy, until the criminal is captured by Mr. Cox, the detective, (Christopher MacLeod), Dora Pry, a business girl (Bell King) is thankful that her $20.00 has been recovered.

The play progresses rapidly until the final act when "all ends well", as every good story should.

Preceeding the play, songs were sung by the high school chorous.

During a medley of popular songs the audience was entertained by the dancing of Isabel Oliver and Michael Forbrigger.

At this opportune time, St. Peters High School wishes to extend to the public, their thanks for the enthusiasm shown for their efforts, and hope that next year they will again have the privilege of entertaining their many loyal friends.

We heard a nice remark the other day when a motorist said: "Isle Madame and the Bras d'Or Lakes were the most scenic spots he had visited in a long time. The Cairn marking the spot at St. Peter's where Nicholas Deny's made history was a source of interest to this motorist. More of these markings should be placed at historic points throughout the county.

THE DAY'S WORK

To live as one designed to be a man!

HAS ROLL OF BANKNOTES THE SIZE OF A WATERMELON

Khotso "the rich medicine man" of Kokstad, is almost a legendary figure in East Griqualand, reports the "Sunday Times", Johannesburg. Everything about this portly middle-aged Basuto, reads like a fiction story.

It is told how every year, Khotso attends the Kokstad (Cape Province) show to see the latest model American cars. He chooses the most expensive one on display, and pays for it in cash from a roll of banknotes the size of a watermelon.

Khotso has two palatial houses near Kodstad. One is in the Native township just outside Kokstad. It is painted white. White-roofed with glass-enclosed verandah and tall white chimneys, it is surrounded by a white wall and white gates. His other house is used as a "training centre" for medicine men from tribes throughout the area. As many as twenty Natives at a time attend Khotso's courses.

He makes regular trips into the Native Reserves to visit his people, and has built up a wide following in East Griqualand and Basutoland.

"WHOEVER TALKS ABOUT THE SNAKES, MUST DIE"

For a long time Bantu living on the farm "The Rest" near Estcourt, Natal, did not tell their employer about a number of pythons in the thorn bushes on the farm. Then this month when a 13 foot 7 inch python was shot on the farm by Mr. Hennie van den Berg, they admitted that there were a number of the reptiles there.

They believed that whoever talked about the snakes would surely die, and anyone who killed them would go mad.

The skin of the snake was sent for curing and tanning, and will be used to make handbags.

ONE OF THE FAMILY

"We in Britain have never pictured ourselves as the tourist's Mecca. We urge pepole to 'Come to Britain' of course—with pictures of Guards in Bearskins standing outside Buckingham Palace and even with shepherds guarding their flocks against dramatic clouds piling up over the South Downs. And we do know that lots of people come and have a look at our national monuments, but then, when you come to Britain, we've never thought of you as tourists—you're one of us. You're at home — in the family."

Wynford Vaughan Thomas speaking in a BBC programme for Australia.
