Pope Pius XII is Laid to Rest Under Basilica Near Tomb St. Peter

VATICAN CITY — With awesome ceremony the Roman Catholic Church Monday committed Pope Pius XII to eternal rest near the tomb of St. Peter.

The giant bells of St. Peter's Basilica tolled a dirge as the body of the Pope encased in three coffins, was lowered into the massive stone foundations of the Basilica.

Twenty-two cardinals of the church, among hem Paul-Emile Leger of Montreal, sat with bowed heads as the eulogy was read by Msgr. Nicola Metta, chosen by the cardinals for that task.

The decision to place Pius XII near hte burial place of St. Peter was a quick one, made by the cardinals, and announced Monday.

Before that it had been expected that the Pope would be placed near the original burial place of Pop Pius X, whose saintHood he proclaimed May 29, 1954. Pius XII had expressed a desire to be buried in that place. Selection of the new resting place close to the church's first pope was seen as an additional mark of esteem for Pius XII.

Fishing Trip to North Cape Breton

(The following taken from the Hant's Journal, Windsor, N. S., is of interest and gives one an idea of the vastness of the Cape Breton wood very seldom explored by sportsmen, however we are disappointed that the lakes and streams in the area explored contained very few fish and that the headwaters of the Margaree one of Cape Breton's noted rivers brought the best catches. This expedition has revealed that far away streams produce no big catches of trout. Here is the story.—Editor.)

"On a visit to Cambridge, at the home of Mrs. Simm's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. James Simm, of Florence, Cape Breton, told of a week Mr. Simm spent travelling through Cape Breton woods during his holidays. There is no record of the area having been explored before except by surveyors.

After a careful and thorough study of maps printed far back as 1879-1884 by a U. Fletcher, surveyor for Department of Crown Lands, maps now out of circulation, Mr. Simm, accompanied by Charles Welch, Dan Carew, all of Florence, entered the woods at Wreck Cove on the third day of August.

Stopping to fish at all likely streams and lakes, the men made their way across barrens and woods by compass. The first fishing was done at Indian Brook, then Wreck Cove Lakes, Eisborne Lake, and other unamed lakes and streams. The best trout were found at the headwaters of Margaree.

After seven days of travel the men, who entered the woods at 5.30 on Sunday morning, came out at the beginning of the Margaree, at a settlement called Big Intervale. They had hoped to meet a bear but the only game sighted was one deer and five partridges.

Back in Florence interest in the trip was keen. Friends and strangers alike called to ask Mrs. Simm if she had had any word from the men. Relief was felt by all when eventually the men returned safe and sound.

Washed Up By The Sea

(Wolfville Acadian)

Brought into the Acadian Office on Tuesday was a glass jar found on Sunday high up on Delhaven beach by a resident of Westwood Avenue.

It is an old coffee jar and the lid was sealed with wax. On being opened it was found to contain a sheet of paper, on which were printed the words and music of a song.. Written on the margin of the sheet was the following:

"Four years ago I began sending my songs to sea searching for a publisher. Whenever one is found far away it makes news. Will the finder please write and tell me where it was found or take it to your favourite newspayer. Thanks."

"Furthest reported finding of one to date was off the Azores, 800 miles off the coast of Portugal. Save this copy, it may be a collectors item some day. Set adrift at Wollaston, Mass. USA, 13th July 1858 at 8:30 p.m."

Whether the sender is a good composer or not we do not know, but he certainly is an enterprising advertiser.

POPULATION GROWTH TO CAUSE BUSINESS BOOM IN NEXT DECADE

The recession of 1957-58 will shape up in history as a brief interruption of a long uptrend; during the 1960's, expanding population will touch off the greatest business boom of modern times.

So predicts the financial exper Sylvia Porter in the October issue of Reader's Digest. Mrs. Porter, whose financial analyses are printed in more than 200 daily newspapers, says the boom of the next decade will be propelled by an exploding population's vast need for everything from hairpins to houses, and by a dazzling variety of new products being created in industrial research laboratories.

"The long-term trend of prices is upward, and a price rise averaging two to three percent a year will be considered 'mild'" she writes, in the article, "Now Is a Good Time to Buy."

In the meantime, she says, a period of temporary recession is a good time to borrow money, buy or built a home, buy farm land around large cities, and bar gain hunt for big purchases: autos, appliances, house furnishings and the like."

"If you shop wisely," she writes "you can get some very real price concessions. If you are waiting for and looking for much bigger price cuts, you are, in effect, waiting for and looking for a chaotic depression—and this is no going to happen."

The article is condensed from Life.

CANADIANS POLITE SAYS TRAVEL HELPER

Moncton — Canadians generally are a courteous people. That is the opinion of a Moncton woman who for the past 12 years has been dealing directly with the travelling public.

Mrs. T. E. Steeves in charge of the YWCA Travellers Aid Bureau in the busy Canadian National Railways station at Moncton, says her work brings her in contact with all types of men, women and children.

"Generally speaking," she said "we find the travelling public very courteous although we do have to conend with the occasional crank."

In providing this public service the YWCA has the close cooperation of the CNR.

Describing her work as "most interesting and satisfying" Mrs. Steeves said: "We are called upon to assist in many ways—from finding accommodation through our room service to locating the friends and relatives. We do our best to help everyone and for the most part we are successful."

In addition to the Moncton bureau other Travellers Aid posts in the Maritime provinces are maintained in the Canadian National stations at Halifax and Saint John.

Good Crop at Duke of York

J. J. Latimer and Mrs. Latimer have left for their home in New Glasgow after spending the past summer at the Duke of York Cranberry Meadow.

The veteran cranberry operator is the most successful grower of cranberries in the Province of Nova Scotia and the crop this year and every year is proof of his ability in this particular industry which dates back to over fory years after his discharge from the army in 1917, without a crop failure.

This modern meadow was established over 60 years ago and at that time wooden flood dams were erected to hold back the water for flooding purposes. Not so many years ago Mr. Latimer constructed new dams of concrete wih modern flood gates on both ends of the meadow.

During the picking season nearly fifty pickers were employed on the meadow for a month.

The quality of the berry grown on the Duke of York Meadow is of the highest and commands a ready market.

The Cape Cod berry entering the Province from the USA hamper the sale of local berries as well as the market price. Mr. Latimer was obliged to store a large portion of his crop in cold storage at Trenton.

The September meeting was called to order by the President Anthony Samson on Friday Sept. 19, at 8 o'lock.

The officers having been appointed from last year made everything in order.

An important item was the selection of officers and other members to attend the Training Course at Arichat.

Secondly a group of seven was named to go to the Fall County Council at Point Tupper.

It was decided afer some discussion that ten of the members should each donate a cake and have a bingo game to raise money for Cod Liver Oil Capsules, taxi, etc. This would be looked after by the social committee.

After an enjoyable evening the meeting adjourned by singing the National Anthem.

Meeting held in October was opened by singing 'O Canada', and it was very encouraging to see many new members.

After a talk on "Why Belong to Home and School" by the Education Convener many other matters of interest came up such as the continuation of the adult sewing class and the possibility of organizing night classes.

It was decided by the meeting to purchase a sewing machine.

Brief reports were given from both the Training Course at Arichat and the Fall County Council a Point Tupper.

After adjournment the members took part in a short game of cards for various donated prizes.

AUGUST FISH LANDINGS MARITIME PROVINCES

The fish landings recorded in the Maritime Provinces during the month of August amounted to 91.3 million lbs. with a landed value of $3.7 million, hte Department of Fisheries and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced on the 22nd of September. When compared with the month of July, August landings were 10.1 million lbs. higher, with an increase in value of $668,000.

Groundfish was hte only fish category which registered a decline in landings during the month of August; the net change was 6.4 million lbs., representing a drop in value of approximately $141,000. Pollock and flatfishes contributed most to the decline, in volume approximately 5.1 million and 2.8 million lbs. respectively. Hake was the only species which showed any substantial increase in landings, almost 3 million lbs. over July.

Pelagic and estuarial species, mainly herring, showed an increase of approximately 15 million lbs. over landings recorded in July. Swordfish landings in August were .6 million lbs. higher than those of July, while mackerel, almon and other species in his group all demonstrated declining trends.

There was also an increase in the landings of molluscs and crustaceans in August, about 1.8 million lbs. above July. Most of this increase was accounted for by lobster landings, which coincided with the August opening of the lobster fishing season in some sections of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Maritime fish landings for August of this year were below those of August, 1957 by 12.0 million lbs., which continued the trend repored in July. The seasonal pattern, however, was similar in both years, with August landings about 10 million lbs. higher han those of July in each year.

The accumulative landings to the end of August, 1958 were 437 million lbs., about 20 million lbs. below those of 1957. This is little more than would be accounted for by the decline in landings in July and August. The accumulative value to the fishermen for the same period was higher than that of last year by about $120,000.
