HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 6—With January, the first phase of an adtation of hospital insurance in Nova Scotia, the government has appointed a Hospital Insurance Commission to administer the scheme, it was announced today by Hon. R. A. Donahoe, minister of public health.

The new commission will have as its chairman, Halifax and Amherst barrister, R. MacD. Although the commission's term of office expires at the end of 1959, the present one-year term may be altered to provide for future appointments on a staggered basis as the plan approaches the end of its first year of operation, said Mr. Donahoe.

In commenting on the appointment of the Hospital Insurance Commission, Mr. Donahue said that the task facing this commission "is a very challenging one, but I am confident that it will now effectively carry out the sound planning done by the former commission."

"To support the new commission's efforts to get everything in readiness for the introduction of hospital insurance in Jauary, the first phase of an administrative organization is now complete," he added.

POET'S CORNER

If any little deed of ours,

If any little song of ours,

And set the echoes ringing.

That's Phil on top of the piano, and he and his nine sidemen take advantage of a break, to clown and "bat around a few ideas for an arangement. Appropriately, the group is called "Nimmons 'N' Nine," and is heard in concert "live" on CBC radio's Trans-Canada network eevery other Tuesday night. "Shocked" By Low Salaries

The following Canadian Press despatch appeared in the Cape Breton Post early in the week. The Record agrees with Mr. Hayman that salaries of Municipal Clerks and Treasurers has been too long unnoticed for these officials who receive very little encouragement from the public for their faithful service.

HALIFAX (CP) — Halifax accountant G. E. Hayman said recently he was "shocked" to learn salaries of municipal clerks and treasurers were so low.

Mr Hayman, a partner in the accounting firm of Nightengale Hayman and Company, told a meeting of municipal officers "it certainly is not the money which attracts and holds you to your positions.

"It is a tribute to your honesty and integrity that the record has been so devoid of scandal....the salaries should be substantially increased."—Cape Breton Post.

Taking On Pulp At Mulgrave

Mulgrave — An Italian ship is in port loading pulpwood and another ship is in the stream in the busy operations here.

Due shortly is the Swedish freighter Teliagorthorn, which will load a simple shipment of pulp for testing in Sweden by a company interested in establishing a pulp mill in the Canso area.

The above despatch is very encouraging and with ships loading pulp at Mulgrave during the past several months, leaves one to believe that pulp is in this area and that a pulp mill seems to be pointing more and more to becoming a reality.

We predict that a pulp mill will be built along the strait shore before 1960.

Annual Meeting North Isle Madame Credit Union

Credit unionists from the community of D'Escousse showed interest in the business affairs of their credit union by attending the annual meeting of the North Isle Madame Credit Union which completed its 22nd year of operation. Treasurer James D. Britten presented a report that made members justifiably proud of their organization. Total assets as of September 30, 1958, were $24,325.

President Fred Mauger reported that for the first time in 22 years the members had saved approximately $2,000 for the year. He urged all members to familiarize themselves with the practical application of credit union principles and of the duties of the officers, in so loing, they would have a greater appreciation of the work done by these men and women. He also urged the members to foster the habit of thrift by saving regularly and systematically and borrow through their credit union.

Reporting for the Credit Committee, Harry E. McDonald stated that loans were made principally for home improvements, payment of hospital bills and paying for cars anl trucks. "The $19,500 loaned to members during the year and $16,450 repaid by the borrowers during the same period bears out the fact that these credit unionists are availing themselves of the loan service of this institution and are prompt in fulfilling their obligations", stated Mr. McDonald.

According to Mr. H. Connor, chairman of the Supervisory Committee, his officers had taken their responsibilities seriously and their accomplishments bear out this statement. Changes in loan policies had been recommended and put in force. Deliquency, though not serious at the beginning of the year, had been just about completely wiped out at the time the report was presented. As Mr. Connor put it: "The watchdog tactics showed good results at the end of the year."

The following officers were elected by the membership: Board of Directors—Mr. James Britten, re-elected; Mr. Philip Britten, elected. Supervisory Committee: Mr. Clancy Cordeau, re-elected.

The committee approved of the recommendation made by the Board of Directors that 3 1-2% dividend be paid on shares and $75. be placed in the educational fund.

Father John MacDonald, Administrator, D'Escousse and Urbain LeBlanc, St. F. X. Extension Department, St. Peter's, addressed the meeting.

CBC OFFERS FACILITIES FOR FUND RAISING DRIVE

HALIFAX, October 31 — At the request of the National Committee for the Springhill Disaster Relief Fund, the CBC has offered its full facilities in support of a fund-raising campaign.

H. G. Walker, CBC Director for Ontario and English networks, said that CBC is arranging to have announcements concerning the campaign made by CBC stars on Canadian produced programs.

Such announcements will be made on CBC programs as a public service until the objectives of the campaign are reached. W. J. Dunlop is coordinating network arrangements.

"We know that we can count on the full support of Canadian talent in endorsing this appeal for funds on their programs" said Mr. Dunlop," and such a campaign will reach all segments of the radio and TV audience."

J. N. Kelly of Toronto, who has been named national information officer for the fund raising drive said that this national radio and TV campaign has the full endorsation of the national committee.

"In having the campaign supported on many programs we will be able to reach a much wider audience than by setting up a single benefit show, which would reach the audience available at one given time", he said.

The radio and TV campaign began last Thursday.

John A. MacKenzie

By A. F.

News of the sudden passing of John A. MacKenzie, of 11 Linden Place, Bookline, Mass., was received here, with a sense of shock and deep sorrow to members of his family, and his many friends.

A painter by tarde, "Jack" entered the United States in 1939 with his bride, the former Miss Anna Ross of St. Peters, C.B., and during the nineteen years of service, he earned a reputation, and made many friends.

Accompanied by his wife, he had shortly returned from a vacation in Cape Breton, when he took a job on Jaejar Terrace, Boston. While at his work, he was stricken with a severe heart attack from which he succumbed twenty minutes later. He was 55 years old.

The remains were taken from the Undertakers Parlors to The Brookline Presbyterian Church, in Brookline, Mass., where service was conducted by Rev. A. L. MacMillan, pastor of The Scotch Presbyterian Church, Needham, of which the deceased was a devout member. The Church was filled to capacity, and the grief that was felt throughout the service, was conspicious on the faces of both young and old. Mr. Robert Gibb, soloist of The Scotch Church sang "My Jesus I Love Thee" and "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

The remains were then forwarded to the home of his sister, Mrs. Roy (Annie) Stewart, St. Peters, from whence service began at 2 o'clock p.m., October 15, and 2.30 p.m. in the United Church, with Rev. J. P. Matheson, pastor and Rev. R. A. Ross of United Church, Chatham, N. B., and brother of the surviving widow officiating. Rev. J. P. Matheson, sang very beautifully, "The Old Rugged Cross", with Mr. A. O. MacLean as organist. Other hymns were: "The Lord Is My Shepherd", and "What A Friend We Have in Jesus".

Pallbearers were: Alexander Morrison, Bergie Ross, Jack Pringle, William MacEwen, Roddie MacKenzie and William MacKenzie. Interment was in St. Peter's cemetery.

The collection of flowers that covered the grave bore messages of sympathy and was concrete proof of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Surviving besides his widow are four sisters: Mrs. Roy (Annie) Stewart, St. Peter's; Mrs. Willie A. (Sadie) MacRae, Whycocomagh; Mrs. Murdo (Amy) Mac onald, Glace Bay and Mrs. Finlay (Janie) Ross, St. Peters; also two brothers: Roy of Toronto and Jim of North Sydney.

Predeceased besides his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. A. C. MacKenzie of Cape George Harbor, C. B., is one sister, the late Mrs. Joe (Ella) Zellers, of Halifax.

May the sorrowing survivors, find solace in the unshrinkable fidelity of their many friends.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to all those who sent flowers and assisted with the funeral of my late brother, John A. MacKenzie.

True Sea Story Adrift in Open Dory 8 Days

Eight Days Without Food and and Water

During the years 1875 and 1876 there were numerous cases of fishermen getting separated from their vessels in consequence of thick fog setting in while at their trawls, most of whom were picked up within a day or two, before they had suffered greatly from hunger or thrist. In one instance two men were out six days before they were rescued, Patrick O'Neil and Frank Miller of schr. Tubal Cain of Gloucesteer, Mass, in October, 1875; but never have we recorded an instance where men have been eight days without food or water, as was the case of Capt. William Hines and John Foster, of schr. Eben B. Phillips of the port of Gloucester, the particulars of which are as follows:—

On the 18th of May, 1876, the two men left their vessel on Grand Bank early in the morning, to haul their trawl. It was not very thick at the time, but shortly after a dense fog shut in, and they were unable to find their way back. They drifted around all that day and night, occasionally rowing a little, but did not succeed in finding any traces of the schooner. On the following day the fog continued as thick as ever, and Capt. Hines thinking the vessel might be found by steering in a westerly course, headed their dory in that direction; but instead of going toward land they only got farther out to sea. For seven days and nights they continued to drift and row at intervals, the fog continuing very dense. Their sufferings for want of food and drink were most excruiating, and being thinly clothed they suffered considerably from the chilly wind which swept over them most of the time. On the morning of the eighth day the fog lifted, and much to the joy of the famished men, who had now scarcely strength to move, they discovered a bark in the distance. Both were so weak that they could hardly do anything to attract attention except by rapping on the gunwale of the dory. Knowing that it was their last hope of safety, they roused themselves to renewed effort, took to their oars, and after rowing a couple of hours, were discovered by those on board the bark, which hove to, and about half-past eleven that night they came up with her. She proved to be the Norweigian bark Collector, Capt. Holstein, bound for the Provinces. Capt Hines was able to get on board the vessel without assistance, but Foster was perfectly helpless and had to be lifted on board. They received the kindest treatment from the captain and crew, and by careful nursing soon began to recuperate. They had drifted one hundred and sixty miles from the Bank when rescued. The bark arrived at Dalhousie on the 5th of June, and on the following day the men were taken ashore and sent to St. John by the Norweigian consul at that place, he kindly paying their expenses. After stopping in St. John a few days with some of their friends, they were provided with free passes for Boston and arrived home in due season; and in time both men recovered from the terrible effects of their protracted exposure, which came so near causing them to die of starvation on the water—a fate which one fairly shudders to contemplate.

CANADIAN GIRL LIKES JAPANESE LIFE

A pretty Canadian girl has worn a kimono and had her first sukiyaki dinner — and liked them both. She is Sharon L. Drysdale, high school student from Chilliwack, B. Sharon said she found Tokyo quite different from what she imagined it would be like after seeing Japan portrayed in the film, "Sayonara". The crowded streets of the Japanese capital were in sharp contrast to the quiet of her home town, which has a population of 7,000.

ANTIGONISH SOUNTY NEARING QUOTA

Antigonish County, which reached 92.4 percent of its limestone quota as of November 1st, is well on the way to meeting its quota objective for the year, according to a report prepared in the office of C. A. Douglas, Director of Extension, Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro.

It now looks as if Antigonish County, which stands third in the provincial competition, may reach the 100 percent mark in th not-too-distant future. Two districts have already exceeded their quota — Colchester-East Hants, having reached 123.4 percent and Hants, 121.2 per cent. Two other districts which should soon reach their quota are Kings, which now has 84.4 per cent, and Lunenburg-Queens, which has recorded, 82.8 per cent.

Up to the first of November, the farmers of Nova Scotia purchased 41,447 tons of ground limestone, or 86.7 percent of the provincial quota of 50,300 tons.

COLD STORAGE FOR STRAWBERRY PLANTS

Otis Chute, R.R. No. 2, Kingston, started to dig virus-free strawberry plants this week. These plants will be placed in cold storage and held at a temperature of about 27—28 degrees F. until next spring. George Webster & Son, Cambridge, are also planning to dig and expect to put 100,000 plants in cold storage, also.

The use of these dormant plants reports Gordon Kinsman, Assistant Director of Horticultural and Biology Services, Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro, will be used for setting out new fields next season.

Normally, when plants are being set out early, there is no problem involved inasmuch as the plant in the nursery row will still be dormant.. However, if for any reason planting has to be delayed, probably on account of weather conditions, past experience has proven the value of plants taken out of cold storage. Plants that have been allowed to use part of their food reserve in coming into full leaf in the nursery row do not take the shock of digging, shipping, and transplanting nearly as well as do dormant plants that still retain all of their food supply reserve.

This is a comparatively new project, but it certainly is a project that is becoming increasingly popular.

FALL APPLICATIONS CONTROL LAMBKILL

Gordon Kinsman, Assistant Director of Horticultural and Biology Services, Nova Scotia Agricultural College, Truro reports that keen interest has been shown by many blueberry growers towrads fall application of 2, 4-D for the control of lambkill.

This interest has been whetted by the excellent results obtained in lambkill plots set out last fall by Don Palfrey, the department's weed control specialist. Lambkill, of course, is the No. 1 blueberry weed and one that has given blueberry producers no end of trouble. It is only within the last year that the department has been able to come up with anything promising toward killing it and not reaching blueberry growth.

If these fall applications work as well this year as they did on the original demonstration plots, set out a year ago, watch for a large increase in the use of this weed control method in 1959.

CHRISTMAS TREES MUST BE INSPECTED

Producers and shippers of Christmas trees, who have been in the habit of exporting Christmas trees to the United States, are reminded of the fact that trees destined for markets in New York State must carry a clean bill of health if they are to be admitted this year.

The other day, L. S. Hawbolt, Director of Extension, Department of Lands and Forests, Truro forwarded this office a directive issue by the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets, which, in effect, advised that: "....it will be required that all shipments of Christmas trees and cut boughs entering the State of New York, or being moved within the State, be accompanied by a valid certificate of inspection issued by a plant or nursery officer of the state or country of origin stating that the Christmas trees and..or boughs have been examined by him and that the shipment is apparently free from injurious insect pests, and plant diseases. In addition,....common carriers including shippers and producers of these commodities must not accept shipments at origin points for movement into New York State without valid inspection certification...."

Here in Nova Scotia, advises Mr. Hawbolt, the certification of shipments will be undertaken by an authorized officer of the Department of Lands and Forests. After examination of a representative sample of a shipment, an inspection certificate may be obtained without charge at the office of the local district forester.

Information on the new procecedure may be obtained from any of the district foresters in Nova Scotia, from Mr. Hawbolt, or from the head office of the Department of Lands and Forests, Halifax.
