Motor Trip to the Guysboro Shore

We had the pleasure of accompanying our brother and his wife on a motor trip to the Guysboro Shore recently. Taking the paved highway at Monestary, you soon enter Boylston and if you want to enjoy a good outing and partake of your picnic lunch, a short distance from this pretty village, you will find several picnic tables nestled on an island shaded by tall firs and spruces—a rustic pedestrian bridge connects the main highway to the island—another smart piece of work performed by the Department of Hghways, for the benefit and enjoyment of summer tourists. On this island can be found fire-places and fresh water from a pump placed over a spring.

We headed for Guysboro and thence down the Chedabucto trail to Canso and if a motorist is in search of beauty here is where you can find it. At several points you can get a glimpse of Isle Madame from the scenic highlands where you gain this vantage point.

On the return we took the shore road from Boylston and after motoring a short while we came to Port Shoreham and it was at this point we became more interested, because, here was the birthplace, of our good friend, Charlie Bruce, general superintendent of the Canadian Press and where his mother and sister still reside—we noted the names on the mail boxes while en-route and coming upon the name of W. H. Bruce, we presumed this must be the old homestead of the Bruce family. We made our way to the door, where we met Miss Bruce and her beloved mother. At the time another daughter from the U. S. A., was vsiting her old home.

Words cannot express our pleasure of meeting Charlie's mother and sisters—we were told that Charlie was down earlier in the summer and might possibly be back again later in the season. Mrs. Bruce who is 93 years old, was the most delightful person we ever met. A former school teacher she possesses an active and alert mind. Her husband a highly respected resident of Port Shoreham, passed away some years ago.

The pretty Bruce homestead, overlooks the waters of Chedabucto Bay and we can well realize how Charlie Bruce, who is a lover of nature, puts so much expression into poetry and into the novels he has written and which have gained so much renown throughout Canada.

"The Canadian Printer & Publisher", under the caption: — "Personality profiles", has the following to say about our good friend:—

CHARLES BRUCE is something of rarity in the news business: a newspaperman who writes poetry—good poetry—and fiction on top of his full-time job. He is general superintendent of Canadian Press in Toronto.

A Nova Scotian, reared close to the land and sea, he finds it easy to reconcile poetry with newsgathering. From poetry, he claims, the newsman can learn to appreciate the different shades of meaning of words, while "the newsman's endeavour to observe and to catch the meaning of what great many modern poets to write he is looking at would help a more understandable stuff."

Bruce has published six volumes of verse (and one novel, The Channel Shore) culminating in his last collection, The Mulgrave Road, for which he received the Governor General's Award in 1951. His first book of poems, Wild Apples, was published in 1927, the year he left Mount Allison University with a B. A. and a year's experience of running the college paper. (He shrugs off his university studies with a few abrupt phases, but it is harder for him to dismiss the Honorary D.Litt., with which the university honored him seven years ago.)

Almost the whole of his working life has been spent with Canadian Press. He joined CP in 1928, talent-scouted after a year's reporting on the old Halifax Morning Chronicle. He made steady progress: New York editor; night editor, Halifax; Toronto editor until the outbreak of war. Then New York superintendent, followed by a two-year spell as acting general superintendent, in Toronto while Gillis Purcell (new general manager) was serving overseas as press relations officer with the Canadian Corps.

Bruce saw overseas duty in 1944 when he was posted as superintendent to London, Eng., to cover the European fighting. War came uncomfortably close to him in the battle of Arnhem as reported on the dropping of supplies to besieged paratroops. His plane was winged by an enemy fighter and crash-landed. He was missing for 24 hours.

With the coming of peace he returned to Toronto, to a permanent post as general superintendent.

For CP staffers his ideas on copy handling are set out two to three times a year in Copy Talk, a manuel which he founded 10 years ago. He tries to keep his hand in with occasional editorial writing — mostly features although he reported on the Newfoundland loggers' strike last winter fir CP.

In his 53 years, 32 of them as a newsman, Bruce has watched a lot of history in the making. His latest book, The Township of Time (to be published this fall by Macmillan) traces a Maritime family from 1870 to the present day. It isn't a novel, he says, rather "an exercise in continuity ..I don't write about history though just people."

Although he has been settled in Toronto since 1945 he goes back to the Maritimes whenever he gets the chance, to indulge in his favorite recreation, walking—and looking and thinking. His wife, Agnes, comes from Vancouver. Two of his four sons are following the newsman tradition. Alan is in the CBC newsroom; Harry works in the press gallery for the Ottawa Journal.

Bruce's pleasure reading is mostly whodunits and history. Currently he is reading all he can about a group of Loyalists who left Flordia after the American Revolution to settle in and around his native village of Port Shoreham on the eastern shore of Nova Scotia. Recently he bought two elegant tomes of their domestic and legal documents, but he can't yet find all the time he needs for study."

At Hadleyville, where our late mother was born, we visited the Anglican Church there, we believe one of the oldest on that shore. We noted where our great grandfather, Robert Carr, granted the land for the church and cemetary.

We called on our old friend, Councillor Wentworth Hadley, and were happy to meet him and his family. Wentworth like many other old fishermen on that shore are well and favourably known in Arichat, when they engaged in the herring fishing out of this port some years ago.

A man always has two reasons for doing anything—a good reason and the real reason.

Robert S. MacLellan, M. P. Supports Amendment Re-Sale Of Obscene Salacious Literature

OTTAWA—Mr. Robert S. MacLellan, (M. P. for Inverness-Richmond) speaking recently in support of the amendment introduced by Justice Minister Davie Fulton to the Criminal Code respecting the sale of obscene and salacious literature, referred to the amendment as "a provision whereby we are going to be able to clean up the obscene literature in the nation." He said, "We all agree that we want to clean up this obscene literature. I feel that the Minster has brought forth a provision which is going to do the job very well."

The amendment, which was passed on second reading, adds a new section to the portion of the Criminal Code which deals with the sale and distribution of objectionable publications.

Under the previous law offensive literature could only be removed from newsstands upon the conviction of the vendor, after a criminal charge. The practical effect of this method of dealing with the problem was very much nullified by the fact that any merchant so charged was bound to protect his name in the community by securing defence counsel and fighting the charge, if necessary, into the Appeal Courts.

Since the benefit of the doubt is awarded to the accused, magistrates were reluctant to enter convictions unless the material which the accused had offered for sale was obviously obscene. Understandably there were wide differences among magistrates as to the interpretation of the word "obscene".

The new section provides that "any publiication a dominant characteristic of which is the undue exploitation of sex, or of sex and any one or more of the following subjects, namely, crime, horror, cruelty and violence, shall be deemed to be obscene."

It is expected that this will remove many arguments as to whether or not a publication is offensive and widens its application to include "crime comics".

Air Cadets At Summerside, P. E. I.

AIR CADETS RETURNED TO SUMMERSIDE AFTER NINE YEARS

July 6th, was a big day for some 250 Air Cadets as this was the commencement of the Air Cadet Summer Camp at Summerside, PEI. Squadron Leader H. E. Boman, CD the Air Cadet Liasison Officer from Maritime Air Command at Halifax, and Wing Commander EW Rhuda, CD met the planes and welcomed the first cadets and acompanying officers to land here after nine years.

During the day 13 squadrons arrived by air, bus and private motor car. These squadrons formed the first of four camps and the first group of the 48 squadrons of 1000 cadets to be taken care of during the eight weeks. In the camp we had three squadrons from New Brunswick: Fredericton, Salisbur, and Petit Rocher. From Nova Scotia: Yarmouth, Middleton, Truro, Tatamagouche, Kennetcook, Milford, Stellarton, Trenton and Petit De Gras; while Prince Edward Island was represented by the Charlottetown squadron.

The squadrons that arrived spent two weeks of training, and while all were accompanied by personnel from their home squadrons, yet the actual work of caring for the boys was done by the regular camp staff comprising some 44 officers and regular force personnel. The camp was under the direction of Wing Commander Rhuda, who brought to this camp many years of experience at cadet summer camp.

The cadets were reshuffled into three main camp squadrons —NEPTUNE; ARGUS; and LANCASTER—and this association will get the boys to make friends and lose the identity of the home squadron. Their programme consisted of swimming and artificial respiration, drill, films, special courses for the NCO's and a full sports programme of a variety nature. There was ample time for recreation of bowling, visits to canteen, escort trips to places of interest on the Island. Time was set aside each day for visits to the chapels. In addition the cadets were given a full medical check up and a keen eye kept on their health during their stay here at camp.

The majority of these cadets had never been at summer camp, and for all cadets it was their first sight of Summerside. When they landed they were eager to observe the surroundings and many had maps with them. They soon observed that Summerside station is situated on a narrow neck of land in Prince County on the Western half of the Island. The nearest town of any size is Summerside with a population of 6,500, situated about 4 miles east of the station. Charlottetown, the capital is situated about 40 miles east of Summerside. This, the smallest of the ten Canadian Provinces is 140 miles long and from four to forty miles wide.

Plans for this RCAF Station at Summerside were originally drawn up in April 1940 and construction started later that year. The Station opened officially on 25 January 1941. Various operations have been carried on here over the years, and at present the function of the station is the training of aircrews for service with the Maritime Reconnaissance squadrons under Maritime Air Command.

On Tuesday the regular cadet programme started when the cadets were aroused at 6.30 and off to breakfast at 6.45. During the morning they were welcomed by Group Captain J. E. Creeper, DFC, CD the station commander who explained the function of the Summerside Station. Squadron Leader Bowman announced the squadron officers and introduced them along with their assistants. Wing Commander Rhuda introduced the heads of each department and briefed the cadets and the care of the valuables, care of clothing, mail procedures, and called for co-operation from all to try establish new records. Squadron Leader Smeaton, the RC Chaplin, and Flight Lieutenant Quigg, the Protestant Chaplin welcomed the boys and outlined their programme of instruction and vespers. These vespers started the first night at approximately 9.30 and 10.30 it was time for lights out and by this time there was many tired little heads as the first day was indeed full of various activities for so an important commencement.

FAMED EDUCATOR DIES IN ANTIGONISH AGED 77

(Antigonish Casket)

"Monsignor Moses Michael Coady died at St. Martha's Hospital late Tuesday afternoon, July 27, following a final illness of less than six weeks.

With his passing the Diocese loses perhaps its best known figure. His leadership of the Extension Department and its program that came to be known as the Antigonish Movement brough him world acclaim. His contribution to the Church was unique; his work in adult education unsurpassed.

He was 77 years of age and had been in what might be called active retirement.

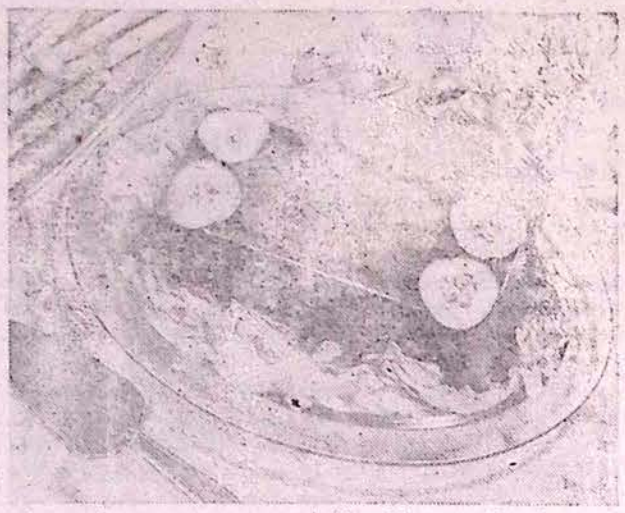

His death marks the passing of the last of the great triumvirate of the St. F. X. Extension Department. His partner in the spread of the Credit Union Movement. A. B. MacDonald, predeceased him in 1952 while his kinsman, teacher and inspiration, Dr. J. J. Tompkins died the year following.

He is survived by one brother, Joseph, Margaree Forks and four sisters, Mary Ellen, Margaree Forks; Sister Josepha, S. C., New Aberdeen; Mrs. John MacEachern, New Aberdeen and Mrs. John Angus MacKinnon, St. Rose, Inverness County.

Consommé Salad Stars at Summer Meals

Star performer at any summer meal is a jewel-like gelatin salad. For hearty rich flavour, start with condensed consommé as the base. This meaty broth contains gelatin which makes it a natural for these jellied specialties. Add chopped meat and vegetables to the consommé (along with more gelatin); and let the refrigerator take over. One bite and you know how good a salad can taste.

A basic recipe for Consommé Salad can be made with either chopped chicken or tongue. Both make delightful summer suppers.

JELLIED CONSOMME SALAD

1 envelope unflavoured gelatin
1/3 cup cold water
1 can (10 ounces) condensed consommé
2-4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup diced tongue or chicken
½ cup minced cucumber
2 tablespoons sliced, stuffed olives
1 hard cooked egg, chopped

Soften gelatin in cold water; then dissolve over hot water. Add consommé and lemon juice; chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in remaining ingredients. Rinse a 1-quart mold or loaf pan with cold water (for decoration, arrange slices of tongue or chicken in bottom of mold so they form a pattern on top of jellied salad). Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp greens. 4 servings

SOUP SCOOPS GRAVY GLORIFIES SANDWICHES

When there's roast meat left from dinner, plan double deck sandwiches for the next day. Glorify the sandwiches with hot gravy (using 1 can of beef gravy). For each sandwich, place a slice of meat between 2 slices of toast and top with more meat. Pour hot brown gravy on top. Each can contains 1¼ cups beef gravy, enough for 3 or 4 sandwiches. Garnish sandwich plates with cold crisp celery, carrot sticks and pickles—a real meal.

SOUP SANDWICH SPECIAL

For a picnic table treat, try this sandwich idea. Butter about 16 slices of white bread. On half the bread slices, spread the contents of 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup. Top with 1 cup flaked tuna (6-ounce can, drained). Cover with remaining bread slices. Serve a green salad with sour cream and cottage cheese dressing. Makes 8 to 10 sandwiches.

FROM MONTREAL

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daigle daughters, Carol and Audrey and son, Charles of Montreal; also Mr. and Mrs. William Brommell and Willie Diagle, also of Montreal, were vacationing at Petit de Grat, recently at the home of their uncle, John Fortune.

A call from Charlie Daigle, was much appreciated as this was the first time in 39 years that he had visited his native Arichat. A son of Mrs. Marie Daigle of Montreal and the late Joesph Daigle, teacher, of Arichat, Charlie visited many of his old schoolmates and was much impressed with the improvements on Isle Madame since he left here nearly forty years ago. A visit to the Booth plant at Petit de Grat was much appreciated.

Before returning to Montreal, the party will visit an aunt at Margaree and if time permits will tour the famous Cabot Trail.

Charlie is employed with Canadair in Montreal and we were happy to learn that his mother and members of the Daigle family are in good health and that the family are all profitably employed in Canada's leading city.

Mr. and Mrs. George have returned to Murray Harbor, where they will take up residence. We wish Lester and Blanche every happiness in their new home.

Mr. James MacLeod, is a veteran of the war of 1914-18 and was wounded in action in France resulting in the loss of a leg. It was nice meeting Mr. MacLeod and his family and the cheerful disposition of this old veteran, made our heart feel glad that we had the opportunity of meeting him and the whole party from the "Garden of the Gulf".

From Point Michaud

Mr. and Mrs. Kennie MacAskill of Point Michaud, son John MacAskill and two nice children, Alvin and Deloris of Grand River, and Mrs. L. A. Foster, of Lincolnville, Me., a sister to Mr. MacAskill, were motor visitors here during the week.

Kennie is proud of the new road to Point Michaud, built by H. H. Latimer Contractor, of Truro, whose reputation as a road builder is recognized throughout the province.

It was nice seeing the MacAskill's and we looking forward to visiting them before the summer is over.

R. S. MacLENNAN, M. P. SUPPORTS AMENDMENT

But the most important provision of the amendment is that it allows a warrant to be issued by a judge, upon the oath of any person that has reasonable grounds for believing any publication to be objectionable, requiring the seizure of the magazines or publications outlined in the warrant. A summons is then to be sent to the merchant, inviting him to show cause "why the material should not be adjudged obscene and destroyed.' The magistrate or presiding judge may then render a judgment as to the character of the material in question, without any charge being laid against the vendor. It is further provided that no charge may be brought against the vendor as regards the material which is subject to the court's ruling without the consent of the Attorney General.

Mr. MacLellan, in his remarks in the Commons, commented, "Now we have a section which will allow the municipal authorities to go out and gather up literature that is salacious, and not the proper type to be circulated in the community, without the storekeeper being charged. This section will help to eliminate the opposition of the merchant, who will not come into court and battle to protect his name because his name is not before the court."
