Ramblings In The Past

BY OLD TIMER

After a number of years of independent existence, Cape Breton was finally annexed to Nova Scotia in 1820, despite the violent protestations of the islanders. And from then on economic conditions on Isle Madame took a turn for the better. From simple fishermen, exploited by the fishing firms, the Acadians became builders and owners of their own vessels; navigators engaged in coastal, American, West Indies and South American trade. The once lowly semi-slave became the captain of his own ship, his crew generally consisting of his children and relatives. Hard working and economical, these hardy men of the sea transported the better part of the coal shipped from Sydney and Pictou to Halifax and other coastal ports in Nova Scotia and to the U. S.A. The larger vessels carried dry fish to the West Indies and Brazil. On the return trip they brought back textiles and staple goods from the U.S.A., coffee, molasses, salt and rum from the West Indies and Brazil Some of the inhabitants remained fishermen, but owning their own boats and fishing for themselves.

Most of them now owned small farms, but as the men were away from home most of the time, it devolved upon the women to take care of these. Besides caring for their homes these hardy women tilled the soil, planted, reaped, tended the cattle and sheep, sheared the latter, carded and spun the wool, knitted and wove their own clothing. Numberless families wore only clothing that had been fully made in the home from the raw materials to the finished garment.

Thus due to the industry and thrift of this group of inhabitants Arichat gradually prospered to become in the middle 1800,s tha commercial center of eastern Nova Scotia and Cape Breton. Its large deep water harbour could hardly accomodate the fleet of sailing vessels which returned to port in the fall after furrowing the oceans of the world.

The shores of the harbor echoed to the sounds of the hammer, saw, adze and caulking mallet; piers were busy with vessels outfitting, loading or discharging cargoes. Scarcely a day passed that vessels did not arrive from or leave for foreign ports. Arichat was indeed a busy port, reachng its peak of activity about 1875.

It was during this period that outside interests established themselves in Arichat. The names of Chandler, Cutler, Frehill, Byrne, Campbell, Lewis, etc., became prominent in the export and import business. The local men were more interested in shipbuilding and ship owning. The names Boudrot, LeBlanc, Terrio, Forest, Ganion (Gagnon), Gerrior, etc., dot the pages of the shipping registry.

It was also during this period that:

John LeBrun started his modest business at the head of the harbor (1863). It is the only firm of the busy days of Arichat which still continues to do business under the original name (LeBrun).

The Township of Arichat was created with the priviledge of electing its own representative to the House of Assembly in Halifax.

The first Court House was built in Arichat (in the 1830's). The present one was built in 1848.

Arichat became the seat of municipal government for what was to become the County of Richmond. The meetings of the General Sessions were held in the first Court House. The first session of the municipal council, as at present constituted, was held in the present Court House in 1849. The offices of prothonatory, registrar of probate, registrar of deeds, municipal clerk and municipal treasurer were all located in Arichat. They still are.

Arichat was made a Port of Registry (1841).

The first Post Office was built. The present one was built in the early 1900's.

Small businesses flourished, to the number of about 50. These included blacksmith shops, cooper shops, sail loft, harness shop, photo salon, laundry, etc.

Two banks were doing business in Arichat.

The ownership of a vessel or business might depend on the turn of a card at "burlong", the favorite gambling game of the inhabitants.

Places of refreshment for the thirsty came into existence. At one time there were no less than three bar-rooms and a tavern doing a thriving business. This despite the fact that most of the sailors who went to the West Indies managed to bring home a "demijohn" of rum. By the way, at that time you could buy a half pint of draught whiskey for 15 cents. Does that make your mouths water, old timers?

TEA AND TRUMPETS

MARY PEATE, who combines mother and housewife duties with writing and announcing, intersperses her own brand of comedy into a weekly half hour of recordings on Tea and Trumpets. Mary, who started to write for CBM, Montreal, in 1954, now writes for Tea and Trumpets and Now and Then, two programs heard on CBC's Trans-Canada radio network. During the informal Tea and Trumpets, she discusses a variety of topics of interest to women.

Annual Meeting Societe St. Pierre

The annual meeting of the Societe St. Pierre was held recently at the Knights of Columbus Club Room at West Arichat. Delegates attended from the counties of Antigonish, Inverness, Richmond and Cape Breton. In the absence of the President, Right Rev. A. Boudreau, P. P., Margaree, presided.

Reports were given on the activities of the Society during the year. Fifteen students were at universities under scholarships of the Society. These scholarships are usually to the amount of $250, and are interest free until the student begins to earn his living. One student is taking a business course at the Halifax Business College; another student, a girl, is taking a course in Domestic Science at Drummondville, Quebec. One student was at Agricultural College in Truro, and the balance of the students were at St. F. X. in Antigonish, at St. Joseph's University in New Brunswick, and at St. Anne's College at Church Point.

The meetng voted a grant of money to defray expenses of a committee which will travel to Church Point to meet with a committee from that area to seek ways and means of improving the program of studies in the bilingual schools.

Plans were made at this meeting for the annual campaign for funds.

The Nominating Committee brought in as a slate of officers the following:

Honorary Member: Most Reverend G. L. Landry, P. P.' New Waterford.

Honorary President: Dr. J. G. Cormier, Sydney.

President: Jean Roland Au-Coin, Grand Etang

Vice-Pres: Rt. Rev. A. Boudreau, P. P., Margaree

Secretary: Louis Philippe Chiasson, Cheticamp

Treasurer: Mrs. Yvonne Poirier, Cheticamp

Spiritual Director: Very Rev. A. P. Poirier, P. P., Arichat

Director of Publicity: Dr. R. J. Chiasson, Inspector of Schools, St. Peters.

Directors were named for the dfferent centres as follows:—

Inverness — Edmond Burns, Grand Etang

Cape Breton County — Tassien Boudreau and Arthur LeBlanc, Sydney

Richmond: — Rev. A. Doucet, P. P., West Arichat and Antoine Samson, Little Anse.

Antigonish-Gusyboro: — Rev. P. Baccardax, P. P., Pomquet

The final report of the Treasurer indicated that the last campaign for funds had been successful, and that the students who had completed their University courses were beginning to repay their loans to the Society. Thus with repayments of former students, and the financial campaign, it is hoped that the Society the coming year will be able to help more students than it has in the past. It is always a cause of great regret to the Society to have to refuse giving any help to a needy student because of lack of funds.

"Old Timer" Finds The Answer

Editor Richmond County Record,
Arichat, N. S.

Dear Sir:— About two weeks ago I was mackerel fishing with Tommie Boudreau and his son Paul. I was using a fly rod with lure and they were using mackerel jigs. After the trip I wondered why and when the mackerel jig was first used.

By a strange coincidence last night I was leafing through an old book loaned me by Miss Lizzie MacDonald, and lo and behold here was the information I was seeking

The earliest mackerel fishing was done by "bobbing". A lead sinker about two inches long, and shaped like a pea pod, was attached to a line with a foot long ganging and a hook. The whole was secured to a bobber, adjustable to the depth at which you wanted to fish.

In 1816, Abraham Lurvey of Pigeon Cove, Mass. decided to eliminate the sinker and ganging. He simply ran the lead around the shank of the hook and thus the mackerel jig was born, unchanged to this day.

Strange coincidence. Oh yes, did I get any mackerel? I sure did. I hooked one hundred of the tinkers.

Sincerely,
The Old Timer.

Arichat, N. S.

WEDDING

DIXON —LEJEUNE

The Immaculate Conception Church of West Arichat was the scene of a lovely summer wedding when during Nuptial Mass, Rev. Fr. Doucett united in marriage Mary Regina LeJeune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphie LeJeune of Port Royal and Constable David Roy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dixon of Halifax.

To the strains of the wedding march the bride entered the church on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. She was regal in a street length dress of nylon net over satin. The bodice was embroidered with sequins and simulated pearls, and long sleeves tapering to points over the wrists. Her veil of tulle illusion fell in graceful folds from a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses intermingled with fern and satin streamers. She wore a strand of cultured pearls with earrings to match, gift of the groom.

Miss Jean Young attended the bride, wearing a street length dress of aqua taffeta with matching bolero. She wore a matching hat of aqua chiffon, matching mitts and carried a nosegay of white and yellow roses.

Donald Forgeron attended the groom as best man. Immediately following the ceremony a breakfast was held at The Arichat Hotel to a large number of guests. A toast was proposed by Rev. Fr. Doucett and responded to by the groom. After breakfast the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to various points of interest throughout the province.

They were the receipients of many beautiful and costly gifts.

For going away the bride chose a mint green suit with white accessories to match. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

They will reside in Halifax.

We join with their many friends in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

ALEX J. BOUDREAU

The passing of Alex J. Boudreau, at the age of 76 occurred at his home in Boudreauville, recently. His passing was quite unexpected and came as a shock to his wife and family.

A life-long resident of Boudreauville, the late Mr. Boudreau, was highly regarded in the community.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter and two sons: Mrs. Benedict Boudreau, (Martha), of Boudreauville and Ulysses and Adolph Boudreau both of Boudreauville.

Also one sister, Mrs. Andrew Thibeau, of Stephenville, Newfoundland, survives.

We extend sympathy to the bereaved wife and family.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Alex J. Boudreau, of Boudreauville, wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their many friends for their kindness during their bereavement, for Mass and sympatahy cards, floral offerings and assistance. Special thanks to Dr. Winter; Rev. Father Murphy, the choir and organist; pallbearers and C. A. Boucher, funeral director.

50th. WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IS MOST HAPPILY OBSERVED

On the evening of August 31st., 1960 Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. MacLean, West Bay, N. S. were surprised, on returning home after visiting with their son and daughter-in-law, to find that the family had prepared a turkey supper in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

The couple were married on September 7th., 1910. The anniversary celebration was held a week early so that all the family could attend.

The room was tastefully decorated with flowers and streamers. The table was centered with a beautiful three-tier anniversary cake. A basket laden with gifts which included many golden dishes and a purse of money was presented to the happy couple.

An address, on behalf of the family, was read by their son, Staff Sergeant Charles Junior.

Later in the evening some friends and relatives arrived to offer their congratulations. For entertainment slides of Newfoundland, Cape Breton and New Brunswick were shown and enjoyed by all.

After a delicious lunch was served, all dispersed to their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. MacLean continued happiness for many more years.
