Hold Annual Inspection Air Cadet Squadron 678

The Annual Inspection of the Petit de Grat Air Cadet Squadron 678, took place at the Parish Hall in that community.

The Reviewing Officer in attendance, was Squadron Leader Aitkins of the R. C. A. F. Station, Summerside, who was accompanied by the following personnel; Flying Officer- Fletcher; Flying Officer-Campbell and Flight Lieutenant-Thomas Flemming, all of the Summerside Station, P. E. I.

In attendance at the Inspection were:- Mr. Stevenson of Sydney, chairman of the Nova Scotia Air Cadet League, also Medical Officer, Dr. C. A. Herbin, of the local squadron.

The Squadron under the command of Flight Lieut. Edwin Power, was inspected by Squadron Leader Aitken, who was highly impressed and in his remarks congratulated the officers and the civilian committee under the chairmanship of Vincent Boudreau and Peter Boucher, Narcisse Thibeau and Godfrey Marchand.

The training Officer, Lieut. Adrian Burke, was unable to take part in the inspection, due to a recent operation, however, he was in attendance. His work has been outstanding.

Lieut. Percy Jollymore was in charge of No. 2 Flight and carried out his duties in a creditable manner.

The Petit de Grat Squadron was awarded an efficiency shield, and was presented by Squadron Leader Aitken to Flight Lieut. Power, on behalf of the Officers and personnel of the Summerside Station.

Flight Lieut. Power extended his thanks on behalf of the Officers and Cadets of the Squadron.

Lieut. Leon Landry, who is in charge of equipment, has performed a very splendid service to the Squadron, and on inspection was complimented on his work.

The Squadron band is making rapid progress and added greatly to the March Pass, when several band selections were played. Fulbert Boudreau is deserving of credit for the part he is playing in training the Cadet band.

After inspection the visiting Officers viewed handicraft work in the basement made by some of the members of the Squadron.

Later in the evening a banquet was held at the Arichat Restaurant and was greatly enjoyed by the visiting Officers and invited guests. Flight Lieut. Power, was master of ceremonies, and called on Squadron Leader Aitken, who gave a nice account of the work of Air Cadets, and thanked the Officers of the local Squadron for the hospitality received by him and the other visiting Officers.

Mr. Stevenson of Sydney, Chairman of the Nova Scotia Branch of the Air Cadet League, was also called upon, and in his address complimented the Officers and Cadets of the Petit de Grat Squadron, for a very fine showing. He was also much impressed with the Cadets, who took part in recent competitions at Sydney, and looked forward to an even greater effort next year.

Mrs. Stevenson accompanied her husband on the trip and was in attendance at the banquet together with Mrs. Percy Jollymore, wife of Lieut. Jollymore.

Dr. Herbin, Medical Officer of the Squadron, welcomed the Inspection Officers to Isle Madame.

A dance at the Parish Hall, Petit de Grat, followed the banquet, and was well attended. Fulbert Boudreau and his Orchestra provided the music.

CARDINAL LEGER VISITS NOTRE DAME PARISH

The recent visit of His Emminance, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, was a notable occasion to the historic church of Notre Dame, Arichat, one time the Cathedral Church of the Diocese of Eastern Nova Scotia.

Clergy and laiety from all over Cape Breton and many parts of the Diocese on the mainland were in attendance. Although Cardinal Leger's visit was a brief one to Arichat, the memorable occasion was witnessed by several hundred people who gathered at the big cathedral, where His Emminance was the celebrant at the Mass of the Blessed Sacrament.

Very Rev. A. P. Poirier, pastor of Notre Dame, extended a message of welcome on behalf of the parish of Notre Dame to His Emminance.

A beautiful photo of Notre Dame Church, was presented to His Emminance by Edwin Power, on behalf of the parish as a memento of his visit to Arichat.

A banquet at noon was held in honour of Cardinal Leger's visit, when Clergy and other guests were present.

His Excellancy, Most Rev. Bishop Power, of the Diocese of Antigonish was in attendance at this very important event and later the same afternoon, was accompanied by His Emminance Cardinal Leger to Antigonish, where the Cardinal was awarded an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws from St. Francis Xavier University at the Convocation Exercises.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

There's something missing in my life this spring. I've been feeling restless and unfulfilled lately, and didn't know what was the matter. But I've realized what it is. I'm lonely for my old house.

Since we moved here last September, we've lived in a rented place, and while it's a good house, it hasn't the character of the old place. There's nothing falling down, or heaving, or torn up. Everything is as neat, tidy and uninspiring as the exterior of a shoebox.

Other years, about this time of year, I'd be excitedly planning all sorts of repairs, renovations and improvements, as I walked around my haggard half-acre. Once the fever of the trout season had abated, I'd make a tour of inspection, usually on a sunny Saturday in May.

First, I'd check the ruts in the lawn, made by the coal truck. Depending on what kind of a winter we'd had, these crevasses ran from a few inches deep to more than a foot. I'd measure their depth with a practised eye, shake my head admiringly at the skill of the truck driver in hitting the softest spot in the lawn, and mutter, "If a fellow just had about a truck load of fill and some grass seed. . ."

Then I'd mosey around to the back and check the clothes-line. The Old Lady used to give me quite a bit of trouble over that. About four times each spring, she'd haul me into the backyard, wave hysterically at all the fine, sturdy, upright clothes-lines of our neighbors, and point, speechless with rage and shame, at ours.

It wasn't the rust that made her so mad. It was the way the line gently sagged in the middle, as soon as she put anything heavier than a pair of panties on it. Pole at the far end was rotten, and kind of leaned toward the house, letting the line down to about two feet off the ground. And every May, I'd look at it and murmur, "If a fellow could just get hold of a good, straight, cedar pole about 15 feet . . ."

Then I'd poke around into my patio and look at my shingles. They fell down there when I had the new roof put on, seven years ago. Each spring, I'd kick them over, so they'd dry on the bottom. I always figured that when they were well dried, I'd tie them in bundles and sell them for kindling. "If a fellow could get 10 cents a bundle for them, even . . ."

Then I'd turn over a few spadefuls of earth in my garden, I had dug that little plot, the whole four square feet of it, six years ago. It wouldn't grow carrots or radishes or green onions but it produced some of the best fishing worms you ever saw— those skinny, red ones that the trout really go for. "Say, you know, if a fellow started breeding these things seriously . . ."

Satisfied that my worms had wintered well, I'd give the cedar hedge a routine check. When we first moved to the old house, it was about twelve feet high. Every spring, I tried to figure out a way of trimming it. And every spring it was a foot higher. Then the maples and spruce started growing up through the cedar, and it was so pretty I just let it go. It must be twenty feet high by now. "But, if I wanted to thin it, I'll bet I could get some good timber out of there . . ."

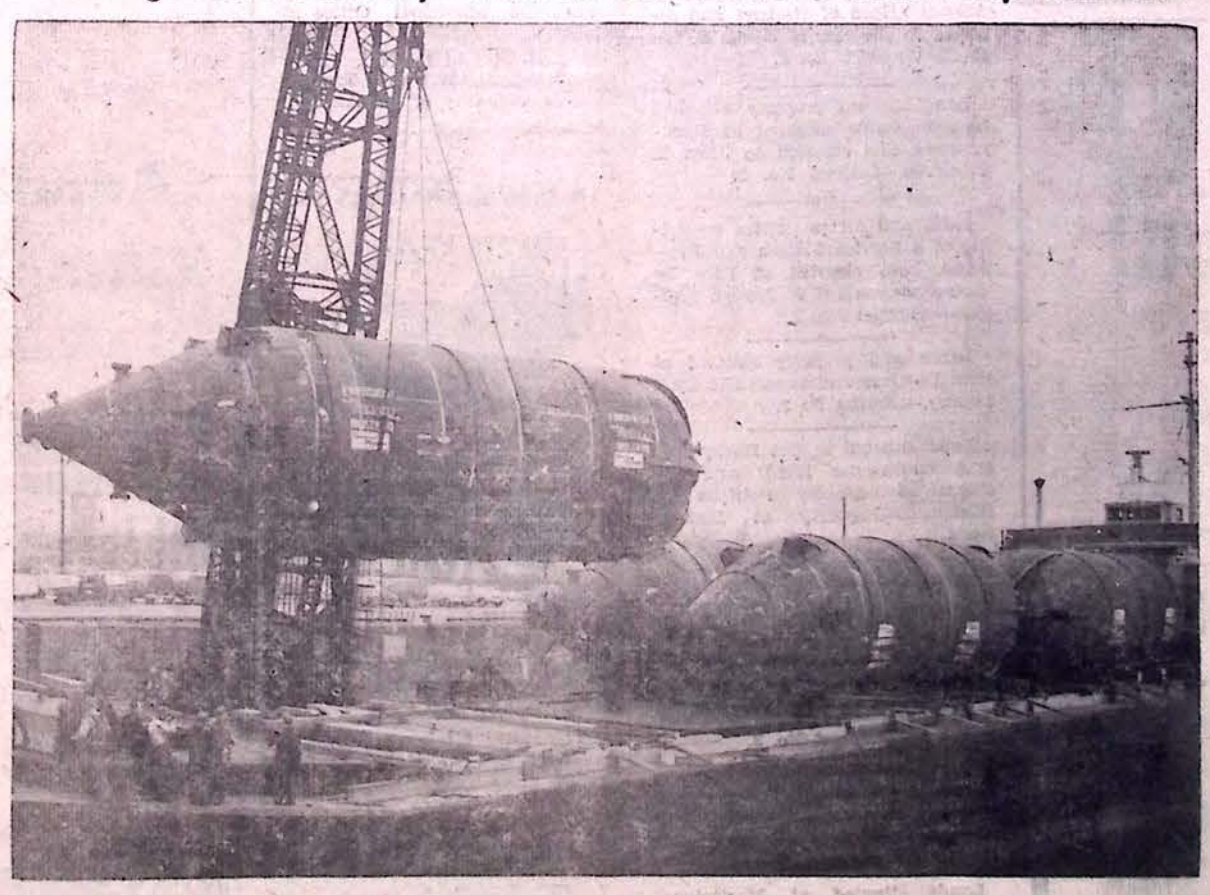

Next part of my annual inspection was the cellar. I'd go down there ready for anything. And that's just what I'd find in it— anything from a beaver pond to potatoes right out of the cellar floor. I used to pick up a shovel, move some ashes from here to there, then get absorbed in restuffing the broken window with a burlap sack, and finally, head upstairs, mumbling, "If a fellow could just get somebody to take those ashes out of there . . ."

There were dozens of other jobs to plan:- painting the trim; putting up that section of fence the kids knocked down three Hallo-

By AMBROSE HILLS

THE LAWN CUTTER

The young lad came to the front door. "Could I mow your lawn for you, Ma'am, for the Summer months?"

He was a bright-looking lad, about 14, in blue denim trousers and a bleached-out work shirt.

The lady of the house had three sons of her own, but something about the young lad was appealing.

"Where do you live, boy?" she said. Her purpose, which he was quick to realize, was to make n estimate of how badly he needed the lawn-mowing job.

"In Winnipeg," he said.

"That's nice, she said, somewhat baffled; but because she was a persistent lady she probed again. "Your father--what does he work at. . . . I mean--"

"Lady," the boy said, I just want to cut your lawn."

"I was just trying to figure what to pay you," she sighed. "You know-- depending on how much you need the money."

The young lad took a look at the lawn. "It's worth a dollar-- I wouldn't take no more. A dollar a week to mow and trim it. . . it's a small lawn. It's what it's worth," he emphasized.

The boy's grammar might have been improved, but his idea was sound enough. He wanted to be paid what the job was worth, not a penny more nor a penny less. It was a business bargain, not a charity case.

He didn't get the job, though. The lady, somewhat huffed, said, "well if you don't NEED the money, my own boy can cut the lawn. I was just-- I was ready to be kind."

The boy grinned, shrugged. "Sure. But I don't actually need the money that bad. I just wanted the job."

That's the way the story went. The wife told her husband about it that evening, and she was still a bit put out. The boy made her feel nosey. Her husband told it to me. He said he thought it might have made good material for the column, especially if it had turned out that the boy was from a poor family in dire need of money. However, he had done a bit of checking, and the boy didn't need the money at all--- they lived only a few houses down the street and his Dad was a substantial construction contractor with plenty dough. So, my acquaintance said, it wasn't much of a story.

As you can see, I thought it was a darn good story, and it makes a point that needs to be made these days. I don't ask my barber how much money he has before I decide what to pay him. He tells me what his price is and I'm free to pay it or go shaggy. I like it that way; and I hope there are a lot of teenagers like the lawn cutter, no matter where they live or what their fathers do, who feel the same.

Mrs. Frank Landry

Mrs. Frank Landry, a highly respeced resident of D'Escousse, passed away at her home recently, after a lingering illness of several months.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pitts of D'Escousse, she was engaged in the teaching profession for some years.

Gladys as she was familiarly known by her many friends, was always of a cheerful disposition.

She was a devout member of St. Hyacinth's Church from where the funeral was held, Monsignor Boudreau was celebrant at Requiem Mass.

The funeral was largely attended which attested to the esteem in which Mrs Landry was held.

She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, three daughters and one son.

To the bereaved family, we extend our most sincere sympathy.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Samson of D'Escousse and relatives of the late Rev. Father W. A. Boucher, wish to extend thanks to all the kind people of the North Side and throughout Isle Madame, for the many expressions of sympathy extended in the passing of the late beloved pastor of St. Hyacinth's Parish.

Special thanks to His Excellency, Bishop Power of the Diocese of Antigonish; to Monsignor A. Boudreau, and all other Clergy of the Diocese. Also, to C. A. Boucher, Funeral Director.

WEDDING

BABIN—STONE

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Notre Dame Church here, when Very Rev. A. P. Poirier, united in marriage, Lois Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Stone, of this town, and Cites Babin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Babin, of West Arichat, on May 13th.

The bride given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor length gown of white lace over nylon and carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaid was her sister, who wore a ballerina length gown of pink lace over nylon. Arlene George, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard George, was flower girl, and wore a blue dress of lace over nylon.

The groom was supported by Gaston LeBlanc, of West Arichat.

A wedding reception was held at the K. O. C. Hall, West Arichat, to over a hundred invited guests, after which the happy couple left on a honeymoon tour through the Annapolis Valley thense to Yarmouth, where they embarked on the M. V. Bluenose to Bar Harbour, Maine, and enjoyed sight-seeing in that beautiful Vacation Land.

The bride is on the office staff of St. Anne's Hospital, and the groom is employed as office engineer by Cape Tide-water at the Stora Mill site.

The Record extends best wishes to this happy young couple for many years of happiness and prosperity.

ARE YOU READY TO HELP CANADA COUNT?

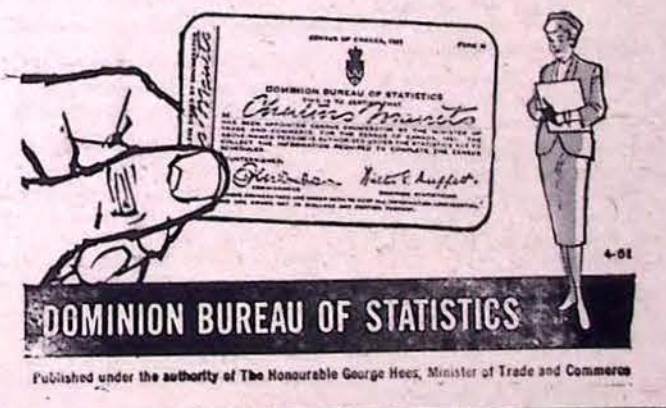

When the Census Taker calls please be ready with the answers he needs

Every household in Canada is being sent a list of questions the Census Taker will ask. Please study it and be prepared to answer all the questions or leave the answers with someone who will be at home when the Census Taker calls.

What will you be asked? Questions such as: what is your age and schooling; are you employed and what is your exact job title; how many hours do you usually work each week; in how many weeks did you work for wages or salary in the last 12 months; what were your earnings in the last 12 months?

All information is kept strictly confidential and by law is not available to any private organization or person, or any government department or agency other than the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Census is interested only in totals accumulated for all parts of Canada.

When the Census Taker calls, welcome him with your co-operation. Everyone will benefit when you help Canada count!

and was ordained to the priesthood September 15, 1907 by Bishop John Cameron.

On October 1, 1907 he was appointed assistant at St. Anne's Parish, Guysborough. Then on December 1, 1907 he was posted to St. Hyacinth's Parish, D'Escousse as pastor. He held this position until August 31, 1959, when he retired in D'Escousse.

FATHER BOUCHER is remembered as a kindly and good priest who demonstrated a deep-rooted interest in the welfare of his people.

He is survived by one brother, Simon Boucher of Arichat.

weens back; putting new panes in the storm windows: tearing down the leaky drain pipes. Each of them took careful, accurate figuring on time involved, and money for materials.

And you know, I miss all that. There's something about that good, old spring tour of inspection that is vital and satisfying. It just makes you want to get right at things and plan them. After years of planning, this year I feel like a gentleman farmer without a farm. I never got around to doing any of those jobs around the old place. But if I say it myself, there was nothing wrong with the plans.

The results of his research are passed on to listeners on two weekly radio shows: Movie Scene, Saturdays on the Trans-Canada network and Music From the Films, Sundays on the Dominion network. He is also a regular contributor to Audio and Assignment, both on Dominion network.

How do I save?

If there's a fool-proof way to save, I've yet to hear of it. But one thing I do know. The "Royal's" 2-Account Plan makes saving a whole lot easier. Try it: use a "Personal Chequing Account" to pay household and other bills...

and keep your Savings Account separate—an account reserved for saving only. The plan works. Because when you have two separate accounts you can curb that natural urge to dip into savings; you actually see your savings grow.
