PAUL C. DOYLE OPENS LAW OFFICE IN HIS NATIVE ARICHAT

Paul C. Doyle, B. A., B.Ed., LLB., above, Barrister, Solicitor, Notary, Etc.' announces the opening of an office in Arichat for the practice of law. His office will be in the residence of his father, Mr. E. C. Doyle.

Mr. Doyle attended Arichat High School, obtaining his grade XI and XII. He then went on to St. F. X. University, from where he graduated in Arts in 1950, majoring in Economics and Political Science. He obtained his Bachelor of Education Degree from the same University in 1955. From 1951 to 1958 he taught high school in Nova Scotia, Alberta and British Columbia. He has been Principal of Point Tupper School in Richmond County; Principal of St. Ninian Street School in Antigonish and Supervising Principal of Schools in the Town of Port Hawkesbury. During those years he had been active in Home and School work and served as President of the South Inverness Local of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union.

He entered Dalhousie Law School in 1958, graduating in Law in May of 1961, and was admitted to the Bar of Nova Scotia in November.

At St. F X., Mr. Doyle took part in debating, model parliaments and the Xavian Weekly. At Dalhousie Law School, he was an active member of the model parliaments and was a leader of a political party. He also acted as speaker of the Dalhousie Arts and Science Model Parliament last year.

Mr. Doyle has many interests. Many will recall when Paul drove his father's horses in ice races some years ago. He is an avid reader and plays bridge and golf. His hobby is woodworking and in his father's home can be seen cupboards, furniture and libraries he has made. For the last few years he has had a sail boat and would like to see more small boats on Arichat harbour for sailing and fishing, and eventually a small yacht club for those who enjoy being on the water.

The Record welcomes Mr. Doyle to his native Arichat and wishes him every success in his chosen profession.

Wildlife Conservation

A decline in the number of moose and deer in some provincial wildlife sanctuaries will require new conservation measures, Clarence Mason, director of conservation for the department of lands and forests said today. Mr. Mason said the removal of 61 deer from the Chignecto Sanctuary this year was a first step in that direction.

"Any given area of land will only support so much wildlife. The animals cannot be pyramided in numbers on a permanent basis above the level of the range to sustain them. In some areas moose and deer have eaten themselves out of house and home.

"As a result of this opinion we have just completed the experiment of removing some deer from the Chignecto area. Last spring there were several hundred dead animals found. It was decided to remove some of the animals on the assumption that it would be better to kill them and eat them than to count their skeletons next spring."

This project represents the first tangible effort at managing surplus numbers of big game animals in a sanctuary in Nova Scotia.

For some years the Canadian Wildlife Service has been permitted to take a certain number of elk in Banff National Park and the herds have continued to grow. This selective technique of managing game areas has been implemented in certain areas of the United States with beneficial results.

Game management has always moved slowly with emphasis on preservation of the ranges where big game feed.

Mr. Mason said the Tobiatic Sanctuary was well established in 1926 and at that time was well stocked with game. The 200 square mile area was isolated from any pressure by illegal hunting and was patrolled by rangers.

Part of the area was systematically logged and cut over during the ensuing years. Normally this produces a substantial crop of food for moose and deer, providing fire does not follow cutting operations. This sanctuary had ample food conditions for supporting large numbers of big game.

"In spite of the fact that the area was well stoked with game at the time it became a santuary it probably now contains less moose and deer than any other comparable area in the province.

"The Liscomb and Waverley sanctuaries tell a similar story," Mr.Mason said.

"It is our hope to develop public thinking along the lines of appreciating the fact that harvests of wildlife are sometimes greatly beneficial to the species involved.

"However much we may love to watch these graceful animals and no matter how valueable the hunting of them can be from the standpoint of recreation and pure human enjoyment, it sometimes becomes necessary to adopt methods of management that will not be fully approved."

WINTER

Cloud shadows on the landscape lie,
Where trees are stark against the sky,
With no bird on the bough;
A wistling wind whips down
As Autumn wanes and once the glen,
again,
Old Winter's with us now.

Yet there's a tingling tonic rare;
That comes on Winter's bracing air,
Which oft dispels our ills;
And there is beauty where the glow
Of sunset lights the early snow,
Along the ancient hills.

New B-A Terminal

Britsh American Oil's newest marine terminal has been completed near Port Hawkesbury, Nova Scotia, on the southwestern tip of Cape Breton Island. It will supply petroleum products to the nearby mill of Nova Scotia Pulp Limited and will provide improved service for other customers in the Cape Breton area.

The million dollar terminal on the Strait of Canso is capable of berthing ocean tankers up to 710 feet long, with draft of 36 feet, and displacement of 40,000 deadweight tons.

The terminal, which initially has storage capacity for 245,000 barrels of product, features docking facilities of unusual design.

The wharf is in three separate sections, each with a reinforced concrete deck supported on steel "H" piles. Ship loading and unloading equipment is mounted on the centre section, at the end of a 1,000-foot walkway carrying two pipelines from shore. Mooring posts are on the outer sections, connected to the loading deck by catwalks.

The wharf was designed to allow for addition of four more pipelines and possible future expansion into deeper water to accommodate supertankers requiring a depth of at least 45 feet.

Dissel fuel, stove oil and gasoline stored at the terminal are pumped into tank trucks through six-inch lines to a high-speed loading rack. Bunker fuel is pumped through a four-inch line to the loading rack and through a 3,200-foot line of the same diameter to the powerhouse of the nearby mill of Nova Scotia Pulp Limited, which has contacted for daily deli-

Some of the trees went as far afield as Texas and Florida. Biggest shipment of trees in the Maritimes -- about 600 carloads -- came from the Chaleur area of New Brunswick. Lunenburg County in Nova Scotia came next. Most of the 550 carloads shipped thro

C. W. L. Meet

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, was held in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, on December 10th at 3 p.m. ,

The meeting opened with the recitation of the League prayers by Rev. J. J. MacDonald, Director, followed by the reading of the minutes which were approved.

There were no correspondence.

The Treasurer reported that she had $116.02 in the Bank.

All convenors reports were read and approved and seconded by Mrs. Hubert Boudreau.

Proceeding to old business it was decided from the floor that the "Travelling Basket" would start to travel around the parish after the holidays. Then Mrs. Leon M. Landry, of the fund raising committee, introduced a chest of silverware which had been donated by Mrs. Andrew Boudreau, for sale of tickets towards the church funds.

The Vice-President then asked for volunteers to take charge of the card games for chickens and live turkeys to be held in the hall on December 10th. Volunteers were: — Mrs. Fulbert Boudreau, Mrs. Stanley Samson, Mrs. Bertie LeBlanc, Mrs. Lawrence L. Samson, Mrs. Lawrence W. Samson, Mrs. Delia Landry.

Mrs. Lawrence L. Samson, (Social Action) was asked to take charge of used clothing that had been brought in the Vestry and distributed to the needy in the parish and the remainder to be sent to Fr. Webb in Sydney for charitable organizations.

Mrs. Godfrey Fougere and Mrs. Amedee Boudreau were named to help with the work

After a short discussion from the floor on Study Clubs Father MacDonald explained the importance of Study Clubs in the parish and that they could do us a lot of good and make us understand our religion better.

One Study Club has already been organized at the home of Mrs. Bortie LeBlanc and seems to be very interesting.

Father McDonald brought up the matter of building an out-door (crib) for Christmas and called on the mmbers to help and that it would show that the parish was commerating the birth of the Christ-child, in a most fitting manner. This work was accomplished and to those who helped, a hearty thank you.

The meeting was adjourned by the recitation of the Act of Conseceration by Rev. Father MacDonald.

Mr. Theriault for many years was lightkeeper on Jerseyman's Island and retired some years ago.

From Canso

Capt. Morgan Tapper, of the Rubert Brand II out of the port of Canso for the British Columbia Packers, spent Christmas here with his family.

It is always nice seeing the genial Capt. Tapper, who is a veteran trawler skipper.

In Port

Capt. Sam Rideout of the trawler, Gene Fletcher and Capt. Walter Keeping of the Red Diamond V, sepnt the Christmas holidays here with their respective families.

Both Capt. Rideout and Capt. Keeping hail from Newfoundland and have been fishing out of Petit de Grat, for the Booth Fisheries for the past several years.

Winter fishing is a hazardous and rugged occupation and trawlers out of Petit de Grat, make long runs to the Grand Banks and encounter bad storms,, more especially ice conditons in zero weather coating their ships like icebergs. It's all in the days work for the hardy skippers and crews. May they be rewarded with bountiful hauls.
