SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

There's something gruesome in the interest everyone has these days in being annihilated. Some people are so absorbed in the whole business that I swear they'll be disappointed if no bombs fall.

I've just finished reading a pile of Grade 12 essays. More than a third of them dealt with some aspect of nuclear warfare. If those kids knew half as much about the subjects on their course as they do about radiation fallout, there'd be no stopping them.

They are morbidly interested in the monsters to be created by mutations among the post-atomic generations. They talk casually about the dosages of strontium 90 and iodine to be released by the bombs.

They are fascinated by fall out shelters, and write long and frightening lists of the equipment they should contain. One lad, as nice a teenager as you'd come across, warned, in all seriousness, that shelter supplies should include a gun, for the purpose of mowing down any outsider who tried to join the inmates.

You can't blame the youngsters. Listen to the conversation next time you're out playing bridge, or drinking beer, or whatever you do at your parties. That plump, gentle wife and mother at the next table will be reeling off the number of millions who will be killed in the first attack. That portly, jovial church warden across from you will be saying that we ought to drop it before they do.

I'm not frightened by all this. I'm bored. I'm sick to death of uniformed prattle about world politics from people who think Marx is a TV comedian. I've had quite enough half - baked lectures on nuclear fallout from people who couldn't even combine hydrogen and sulphur and come up with a stink bomb.

What I can't understand is why everybody's so concerned. Why do we sit around like ghouls at a garden party licking our lips over the horrors to come? Are we scared or something? You'd think nobody had ever been killed before, violently and painfully. You'd think no other civilization had ever perished before.

Surely you're not worried about leaving this world suddenly, Jack? Why, all I've ever heard you do is complain. Business is terrible. Your wife nags. Your hemorroids are acting up. You can't do a thing with your kids. The government's taxing you to death. The salt is ruining the body of your car. You're working too hard. You haven't thrown a decent rock in the last two bonspiels. I'd think you'd be glad to be out of it all.

What's that? You don't want to die? Life is sweet and warm and beautiful and you love your wife and kids and business is picking up and your bottom's better and the government could be worse and the old car,s had it anyway and you like work and you just curl for the fun of it? Well, why didn't you say so?

And what about you, Ethel? You haven't stopped moaning since you were married. You've nothing to wear. Nobody appreciates you. The furniture is shabby. Those kids are driving you crazy. Jack's never home at nights. You're a nervous wreck. The house isn't nearly as nice as Mabel and George's You're losing your looks. And the church is always after you to bake pies. I'd think you'd be happy to abdicate.

How's that again? You wouldn't trade the whole sordid mess for a mink coat, a model's looks and figure, a mansion with servants, as long as you can stick around for a few years? Stop whining, then. Enjoy, while you're still with us.

Really, I don't see what we're all so alarmed about. For the Darwinians among us, nuclear war will be an interesting application of the theory of survival of the fittest. For the unregenerate

GOVERNMENT PROJECT AT LOUISBOURG

R. S. MacLellan, M. P. for Inverness - Richmond, announced recently on behalf of National Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale that a contract had been awarded to Stephens Construction Ltd., Sydney, N. S., for the immediate construction of 10 staff houses at Louisbourg, N. S. These will be occupied by key personnell on the federal program announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last summer for the partial restoration of the Old Fortress of Louisbourg. The restoration program is likely to be from 10 to 12 years' duration, Mr. MacLellan said.

The houses are all pre-cut wood frame construction and single storey, with 3 bedrooms, poured concrete foundations and full basements. Three houses will have a floor area of 1,120 sq. ft., and the remainder will be 1,220 sq. ft. Stephens Construction Ltd. was low bidder for the $133,300 contract.

Mr. MacLellan said that the decision was made to construct these residences because it was desirabl to locate the planning and supervisory staff as close to the project as possible. Living accommodation was not already available in the Louisbourg area.

Excavating for the construction of the houses and the water and sewer installations is being carried out by the federal government staff on the Louisbourg restoration program. The remainder will be done by the contractor, with construction scheduled to commence immediately. This project will provide additional and much needed employment in the area, Mr. MacLellan said.

APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED

K. F. Browne has been appointed Manager of the Arichat Branch of The Royal Bank of Canada, succeeding Mr. J. W. Corbett who has been named Manager of the bank's branch at Inverness. Mr. Brown comes to his new post from North Sydney, where he has been stationed for the past three years.

THE CHARTERED BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

THE TALE OF A TIRED POSTMAN

Early in the afternoon of December 20th I met our postman trudging up the hill on Kennedy Street West in Aurora, Ont., loaded to his chin with mail to be deposited in the group box assigned to all residents further along the street. He had an harrassed look and shouted to me as I approached, "What you doing at your house, running a contest of some sort?"

It appeared that most of his burden was for me. Cards from readers of the Vagabond, resident all over Canada, from one coast to the other. The expressions for good fortune and continued inspiration for the column in the New Year were most gratifying. But perhaps more so were the various comments on the type of column each well - wisher preferred. There were cards which requested more about the three bairns (now four), my house and antique yen, Buffy the kitten and my escapades, about which one nice person wrote, "we have them, but few of us realize there is material for a funny story in the experience".

All writers like to feel they have a mission, that their writing efforts contribute something to the reader's pleasure. Comments such as this one written on a card picturing a train laden with good wishes mean such a lot. "Write more travelogues. All of our family has learned so much about Canada through your column. We are all becoming very train travel conscious."

NEW FRIEND FOUND

But the biggest surprise of all was a letter from Baie Comeau, Quebec. The world shrank several more inches as I read, "Through your columns 'Diary of a Vagabond', I have come to know you -- you've talked about your antiques, your recently adopted kitten 'Buffy', your garden and plants, your sons and loved ones, some of the interesting people you've met, the places you've visited not to mention the many historical angles in your adventures across Canada. You seem to have a wonderful understanding of people. And didn't you cover the Queen's visit across Canada a couple of years ago?"

This (until now) young, unknown woman has read the column in a New Brunswick weekly since it was created in 1959. Born 22 years ago and raised in Baie Comeau, she will venture into the big outside world at my invitation to be my guest for the winter. Ambitious and talented she plans an advanced secretarial course. Actually I am the one who will benefit. Never having had a daughter, I am exited at the prospect of this companionship.

APPEAL FOR ALL AGES

Another satisfying letter was one forwarded to me by the editor of the Shelburne Coast Guard. It was from a woman who, at the date of writing had celebrated 90 birthdays. In the letter she was requesting back copies of the Diary of a Vagabond and intuitively remarked, "I've been interested for some time in Mrs. Barker's column, who I think must have been a weekly editor in her younger days". Not so much younger, my dear lady, the memory of that exciting period in my life is still very vivid. Her letter made the New Year and my stint of a column each week worthwhile for in commenting on past columns she remarked, "she saw so much of nature, the many colored trees, lakes big and small, mountains, etc., etc. -- I'm a nature lover and watch from my window. My hospital bed is wheeled over to the window each day ----".

Poor tired postman, if he only knew what joy he carried for me in his canvas pouch on that blustery day as the year faded. And now as this 12 months of 1962 gets away to a fresh new start I'd like to wish editors of all weeklies in Canada and their readers, prosperity and much peace of mind. My ambition is, that my contribution to their reading pleasure will continue to measure up to their expectations.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

Some years ago the philosopher Overstreet, gave us his maturity concept. It has no doubt helped many individuals on the path to progress, and has done a good deal to improve education. Nevertheless, it is true that an immature tendancy still prevails in the world.

Overstreet said that human beings are born irresponsible. At the outset, he claimed, there is nothing that the helpless infant can do for itself or for anyone else. In a very real sense, said the philosopher, "the world owes it a living."

But the child is supposed to progress toward self-help. "The toddler that fumblingly begins to learn how to dress itself is in training for emotional and social maturity. Year by year, as helplessness turns into strength, the sound human being takes on a responsibility commensurate with his powers."

This concept, that as we grow we should take on additional responsibility, and cease to ask the world to wait on us,is not at all popular.

Instead, immature men continue to seek ways to avoid individual responsibility. Political parties which

The ice at the Arichat Rink was hot, Sunday past, when Petit De Grat and Harbour Boucher battled to a 2-2 tie.

The fast action started early in the 1st period resulting in Ludier Boudreau of Petit De Grat banging in the first goal. The checking then became a bit closer, and with 9 minutes remaining in the period, Alzior Marchand rushed in and scored, giving Petit De Grat a 2-0 margin.

Shortly after, Harbour Boucher retaliated with Ed, Bonvie driving one past Phil Boudreau to put them on the score board.

SECOND PERIOD— As in the first period, the checking was close, and both teams were playing very well. However, at the 9 minute mark, Claud Boudreau was penalized two minutes for cross - checking. Petit De Grat, now one man short displayed fine hockey in weathering the penalty.

At the 14 minute mark, Donnie Boudreau of Harbour Boucher, picked up a two minute penalty, for tripping, and they, too, proved their skill in penalty killing. The period ended scoreless.

THIRD PERIOD— The 3rd period had all the traits of the previous two, but with 3 minutes remaining in the game, Marshall Hassin of Harbour Boucher picked up a pass at the red line and rushed in alone to tie the score.

The Officials for the game were: Gil Morin, of Arichat, referee in chief; Hogan Burke of West Arichat, linesman; Johnnie Fougere, of Harbour Boucher, linesman.

INSPIRED DOCTOR

"My motrer, it seemed to me as a boy, had a tapioca fetish. The beastly stuff was served up as a third course far too many days a week for my liking. There were tears and tantrums and spankings and eventually, after a really sensational tapioca crisis, the doctor was sent for. He poked a thing with a light on the end of it down my throat, and then came out with the most inspiring words I've ever heard 'The boy has a slight malformation of the gullet; nothing serious - but don't force anything lumpy down him'. As 'anything lumpy' embraced not only tapioca but also rice, sago and porridge, this particular medico went down in the book as far as I was concerned as on a par with Pasteur, Lister and Curiee.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

MRS. OLLA MAUGER

Mrs. Olla Mauger, in her 77th. year, passed away at her old home in Cape La Ronde, on Saturday, January 6th.

The late Mrs. Mauger, had been in poor health for some time and took up residence with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mauger, Cape La Ronde, at the old homestead, one month before her passing.

Early in the Fall, Mrs. Mauger suffered a paralytic stroke, and although in ill health, she was always cheerful and delighted to see friends and members of her family, all of whom were forever in her thoughts. Her passing will be deeply mourned and whose memory will be cherished for many years to come.

The late Mrs. Mauger's husband predeceased her 39 years ago, and at the time of his death, she was left with a large family, and her courageous and Christian spirit was admired by everyone. Her kindness and hospitality will long be remembered.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from St. John's Church, on Monday afternoon, Jan. 8th., with the Rev. Wm. Dye, Rector, officiating in the church and at the grave.

Favourite hymns of the deceased were rendered by the choir with Mr. A. O. MacLean, of St. Peter's, presiding at the organ.

Her six oldest grandsons were pallbearers:- John LeVesconte, St. Peter's; Lloyd Bourinot, Arichat; Philip Amey, Pondville; George Mauger, Kevin Mauger and Wayne Mauger, all of Cape La Ronde.

The large number of floral offerings and cards, attested to the esteem in which the late beloved lady was held.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of C. A. Boucher, Funeral Director of Arichat.

She is survived by four sons and three daughters. Warren of Arichat; Fred, Lloyd and John all of Cape La Ronde; Mrs. M. J. Bourinot (Ina), of Arichat; Mrs. John LeVesconte (Ada), of St. Peter's and Mrs. Leighton Amey (Bertha) of Pondville. One sister, Mrs. George Foster, (Alice Latimer), of Saugus, Mass. From St. Peter's

We were pleased to have a visit from our good friend, W. D. Morrison, of St. Peters recently.

We entered the Municipal Council at the same time as Mr. Morrison in 1940 and served 18 years with him. We both retired from Council at the same time.

During our long term of office we sat together on the Finance Committee for a few terms and found in ex-Councillor Morrison a man devouted to duty and whose fairness won for him the respect of the Council.

LOCAL RINK POPULAR

The Arichat outdoor rink committee are deserving of much praise, for their efforts in the making of good ice surfaces, during the past several weeks.

The idea of hot water flooding is proving most satisfactory, and here, Lorenzo Boudreau has constructed tanks and other apparatus in use for this purpose, which only takes minutes to provide suitable ice.

Eddie Power, the president of the Arichat Athletic Association, is very active in the work of the rink, and Arnold Pursey, the caretaker, is also doing a good job looking after the ice surface and the many other chores that go into the operation of an outdoor rink.

Every effort should be made by the citizens of Arichat, to support the community rink, and by so doing, provide good, clean outdoor sport, for their children.

Attend Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. Murray F. Cossitt, accompanied by Mrs. Melvina Dicks, all of Sydney, attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Olla Mauger, of Cape La Ronde, at St. John's Church, here.

All these expressions of sympathy are much appreciated.

from Primary to Highschool grades benefit by having a trained guidance teacher who will foresee problems that might arise and help the individual pupils with those that have developed. Miss. Cunningham stressed the point that the choice of career or occupation should be left with the pupil after he has been helped in studying the fields open to him in relation to his abilities, qualifications, etc. Choice of a trade rather than university training does not mean a pupil has less intelligence, but merely that he has certain abilities that indicate he can do better work in a certain field.

Miss. Cunningham was thanked by Mrs. MacRae for her interesting and informative talk. A social hour followed, with members of Lakeslde association, guests of the St. Peter's association.

offer to devise a system in which the State replaces the parents and provides a living for each citizen can count on a large following. Dictators reach power because of the immaturity of the citizens, who are all too willing to hand over responsibility to the leader.

Why do we remain immature? I think it is because the joys of maturity are not understood and extolled, while the comforts of immaturity have been over sold. It is true that the journey to maturity is no picnic, that one gets bruised, and sometimes frustrated and tired; but the satisfactions of growth and development, when understood, more than compensate for the hurts of the struggle.

One may attain a great degree of maturity without becoming rich or famous. A person may reach it at the lowest point in his career, when others mistakenly deem him a failure. But the individual, no matter how dire the difficulties he faces, knows that he has reached maturity if he can accept himself and the events around him and keep trying with all his capacity to live a full and rich responsible life.

sinner, there's still time to do something about it. And for the rest of us good Christians, it will merely mean that we all get to heaven that much sooner.

Personally, if this is any consolation to you, I haven't the slightest intention of digging a hole in the ground and crouching there with my family, like four terrified moles. In the first place it's not a dignified way to meet death, should it come. In the second place, I have better things to do.

And in the third place, I fully intend to live to the age of 90 and expire peacefully in my own bed, my last conscious act being an attempt to pinch the bottom of my special nurse. If this interferes with the plans of either Khruschev or Kennedy, they're just going to have to change their plans.
