SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Just some random thoughts this week. I'm too depressed to wright a regular column. It's been snowing for 22 days, the temprature is 12 below, and some sadist has sent me a copy of the Miami Herald. The Old Lady is down with the 'flu and as genial as a cobra. My old aching back is back, and aching. So here goes.

I'm a staunch supporter of royalty, but I'll go along with the British press in the latest verbal spanking it has given to Princess Margaret and young Tony whats-his-name. It was bad enough to take off for a Caribbean holiday, leaving behind not only a two-months-old baby but some 50 million half-frozen, browned - off Britons who couldn't afford the trip. But when Tony came back with his usually well-slicked hair converted to a mass of curls by a permanent, it was enough to make a fellow go "Ugh!"

Do you know something I'm sick and tired of? I'm sick and tired of reading articles about the enlightened new leaders of black Africa, fighting to free their downtrodden black brothers. From what I can gather, many of these enlightened leaders are pure thugs, whose first act when they gain authority is to purge all opposition.

Somehow, newsreels of skulls being cracked by clubs, even though the skulls are black and the arms swinging the clubs are just as black, don't fit into my ideas of freedom and democracy. Or do two blacks make a white, these days?

Speaking of democracy, the present picture of pre-election bribery in Canada is a pretty one, as the three major parties dangle old-age pension increases of varying amounts. I wonder how concerned they would be about a pension increase if nobody over 70 had a vote?

As far as old-age pensions go, I'm a raving socialist. I'd Increase the pension and lower the age limit. But I can't quite stomach the sudden interest in the old folk when there's an election in the offering. Perhaps the old system of a dollar and a drink of whisky for a vote was more honest.

Across the land, teachers' federations and school trustees are squaring off for their annual bout of name-calling. What is at stake in the battle? Higher standards of education? Better schools and equipment? Hotter lunches? Nope, just money.

As a taxpayer, I wish those teachers would come to their senses, and realize that they are supposed to be dedicated, sort of like ministers, and stop wanting to be as well paid as other professional people. If we increase their salaries, mark my words, they will only get big ideas, and go out and spend every cent of them.

As a teacher, I can only add that money isn't everything. But until I have everything— and the prospect is dim— I'll take some of that money for the time being.

Don't ever let your kids start taking music lessons. Not if you ever want to hear some home - made music. There are three taking piano lessons in my family. The other day, while I was shovelling snow, I figured out that they have more than 20 years of music lessons among them. And do you know that there's not one of them who can sit down and play a tune if you ask for it? They've either just finished a piece and have already forgotten it, they're just "getting up" a new piece and can't play it yet. Buy your kid a mouth organ.

About domestic pets. You can have them, and if there weren't ladies present I'd tell you exactly what you could do with them. We have a smart cat and a dumb dog, and between them, they're cutting deep into my allotted span.

Recently the cat went off and lived in sin for a few days, creating anguish in the home. Saturday, the front doorbel rang. A little girl stood there, crying. "Your

Presentation to J. W. Corbett

On the eve of his departure for Inverness, J. W. Corbett, our local branch Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, for the past eight years, was honored by members of the Kavanagh Council of the Knights of Columbus, and other friends from Isle Madame and other parts of the County, when a presentation was made to both, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett.

Angus Rankin, Past Grand Knight, acted as Master of Ceremonies and performed his duties in a very creditable manner. Mr. Rankin spoke highly of Mr. Corbett, and said that the Council appreciated his services and that he would be greatly missed by his brother Knights.

Before the presentation, Mr. Bob MacIntyre, of New Glasgow, entertained the gathering by singing many favourite selections. His wife accompanied him at the piano.

Mr. MacIntyre is an accompished singer and during the evening he led in a happy sing-song, with many taking part.

Mr. Rankin called on Rev. Fr. Conrad Gerrior, Chaplain of the Council, who made the presentation to Mr. Corbett, on behalf of the Kavanagh Council. Father Gerrior, spoke of the fine qualities of Mr. Corbett, both as Manager of the Royal Bank and as a valued officer of the Kavanagh Columbus Council. Father Gerrior said that Mr. Corbett was always ready to help in all worthwhile projects.

In closing, Father Gerrior extended good wishes to Mr. and Mrs Corbett.

On receiving the gift from his brother Knights, Mr. Corbett expressed his appreciation on behalf of his wife and family, and said, that they would always cherish the time they spent in Arichat, and remarked that most of his family will always look upon the historic town as their home.

The second presentation was made by M. J. Bourinot, of Arichat, who in a brief address expressed his pleasure

HOW MANY HAVE A BANK ACCOUNT?

Chances are they all have/Because nowadays practically everybody is a bank customer. And they go to the bank so often and for so many reasons: to deposit savings, arrange a loan, buy or sell foreign exchange, purchase money orders . . . In fact, Canadians seem to use banking services more than the people of any other country/The chartered banks, for their part, do their utmost to make each branch a friendly, efficient centre for every kind of banking service.

CONTAGIOUS CLUBITIS

Everyone belongs to a club these days. Joining is a virus that has swept the country from shore to shore. Farm lads and lassies are susceptible from an early age when they are bitten by the 4-H bug, an effective immunization against juvenile delinquency. Pre-adults, city bred, have found the coffee club fever a heady one while listening to sentimental folk ballads nasally sung to the twang of guitars. Father join a golf club and mother at her bridge club gambles .25 a corner weekly with the "girls", trumping their aces while forgetting to sluff her short suit in a slam bid. Clubbing seems to be the answer to our social need. Perhaps it lends a feeling of security in these troubled times.

Clubs can also be breeding places for ideas, places of mental stimulation, for whenever two or more celebrities rub elbows, sparks of inspiration are sure to fly. One such organization is the Celebraty Club on Jarvis St. in Toronto.

Smoke hung in a smog over the heads of several dozen members the day Harold Morrison, of the CN's Department of Public Relations invited me to have luncheon here in one of his favorite haunts. I had complained of a seasonal mental inertia and he offered to explode a few ideas for me to nibble on.

As I poked a fork among peas and "Boeuf au Vin", I learned a little about the Celebrity Club. Within a stone's throw of CBC's studios in downtown Toronto, it rather reminded me of a temple. Not for its religious influence on its members, but because it is a daily mecca for working members of the arts and has a four - floor eminence.

We started on our luncheon prowl in the basement regions searching for a familiar network personality ! had been assured frequented this lair. The men all looked like regular business types in neat dark suits or tweed jackets and flannels. Although there was the odd bearded individual meandering from one table to another in cheery salutation. Where were the artists I expected in turtle neck sweaters, a harried look and left-over makeup?

WHEN PR's GET TOGETHER

Harold Morrison, among ofthr accomplishments, was a CBC script writer before his foray into the field of railway public relations. He fitted comfortably into these surroundings, hailing, as we entered, another PR type, Frank Duckworth. This is the person who must be given credit for an original idea he put into action recently, when his firm introduced a new cake mix. The modern version of an old time recipe, he chose Old Fort York, on the shores of Lake Ontario, to whip up the first batter in century old utensils and baked the cake in a brick oven somebody's ancestor probably considered her pride and joy. He was abetted in this accomplishment by Peter Styrmo, who is in charge of the Fort and has an appreciation of original ideas.

Duckworth let little grass grow under his feet after this successful venture before he approached the CN with another promotional idea for serving the spicy delicacy aboard CN diners. With their heads together, I learned how PR types cook up ideas over a plate of goulash in a celebrity atmosphere.

While the ingredients of an idea bubbled between them I searched again for a glimpse of a national celebrity. I was almost ready to concede all had eaten at an earlier hour when June Dennis walked up to Duckworth and asked him to sign his membership card. "She works here?", I gasped. "Sure," replied Morrison, "that is how the Celebrity Club is run.. ..by celebrities. It was started by two famous broadcasters, who believed such a club would fill a need as a meeting place for show biz personalities and related arts, and it is managed by members of the profession."

June Dennis visits thousands of homes each weekday morning via AUDIO, a radio program with a longevity record. Her voice is as familiar to me as that of my own mother. She is

MR. GALBRAITH EXPLAINS

John Kenneth Galbraith is often a comfort to those who like to picture our free enterprise economy as a "mess" or worse. Whenever he criticizes some North American institution, the leftist press quotes him with delight. The other day Mr. Galbraith did some explaining which put the record straight.

He pointed out that the Unied States has the world's oldest system of universal primary education, and the world's most diverse and imaginative and in many respects the most highly developed system of secondary education. He said, "American colleges and universities were the first in the world to make higher education a democratic right, and until they did so university education has always been the privilege of a minute intellectual, aristocratic or financial elite."

He said he did not feel at home saying all these fine things. In his own lengthy writings he had not acknowledged them. His reason was that criticism is the engine of change. One had to knock to improve. "Nor was it considered entirely wise to ad-

ST. PETERS HOME AND SCHOOL

At the February meeting of the St. Peter's Home and School Association, tribute was paid to the late Dora Baker. Mrs. Paul White, who expressed the loss to the Home and School Movement of this inspiring leader, closed with the reading of the Association's honor roll of members who have passed on during the years since it was first organized. This was followed by a two minutes' silence.

An explanation of activities that Home and School helps to support was read by Mrs. A. D. MacDonald.

In observance of Founders Day, pupils of Grades V, VI, and VIII read excerpts from minutes of the St. Peter's Association dating back to its organization meeting in 1945. Pupils participating were as follows: Marion MacLeod; Joyce MacDonald; Mimi MacKenzie; Theresa LeBlanc; Pauline Theriault; Sally MacKenzie; Jessie Adams; Jo Ann Gillis; Coleen Morrison; Diane Dickson; Dannie Campbell; Patsy Bissett; Danny Digout; Peter Digout.

Presentation of a Home and School Charter was made to Mrs. Paul White, first President of the Association. Mrs. White, who is also a life member of the Provincial Federation, in turn presented the Charter to Mrs. Katherine MacRae, President of the local Association. Names of the Charter Members were read by Mrs. White.

Mrs. MacRae advised the meeting of the revised requirements governing the Home and School Merit Plan. It was reported also that transportation by a Municipal School Bus, beginning with the March meeting, would be arranged for members living at a distance.

Convenor of the Founders Day program was Mrs. A. D. Rankin. Credit also goes to Mrs. Rankin for a delicious birthday cake, and to Mrs. H. Pattie, who decorated it so artistically.

NEW LOUNGE FOR NOVA SCOTIAN

A new lounge has been opened in the Canadian National Railways' Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax. Called the Chart Room, the longue takes its name from the 22-foot-long reproduction of charts used by Champlain and Cartier which decorates one wall.

The new longue is part of the multi-million dollar extension and improvement program being completed in the hotel. Its opening follows new liquor legislation introduced by the Nova Scotia provincial government.

NO HAPPY MEDIUM FOR TAXPAYER

It appears there never was a happy medium for the taxpayer, in the olden days and the same applies to this modern day and age. however, George Washington sympathized with the taxpayer even as he recognized the need for taxes, according to World Book Encyclopedia. In his Farewell Address, Washington lamented, "....no taxes can be devised which are not more or less inconvenient and unpleasant...."

much more glamorous off camera than on, which is intended as a compliment because most guest panalists, as she often is on "Live a Borrowed Life," look more like models than interesting career women.

The world of radio, TV, script writers, producers, actors, personalities who plug commercials and the boys behind the scenes who by some miracle make all programs come out even, lost none of its romance because I discovered these people were not endowed with an obvious aura of creativity but are just ordinary Joes like the rest of us, doing a job they have chosn as their life's work. It is the odd few who THINK they are celebrities who strike one as being "characters".

dog stole my mitt." He'd snatched it and run. I spent the next twenty minutes wallowing about the back yard, in snow up to my navel while that mutt danced, just out of reach, the mitt in his mouth. I finally fell flat on my face, and he laughed so hard he dropped the mitt and I was able to grab it.

There. I feel so much better after these ill-tempered remarks that I think I'll make a pot of tea and take some to the Old Girl, who's wheezing for attention in the next room.

Presentation Made To J. W. Corbett

at being chosen to make the presenation to Mr. and Mrs. Corbett, and said that ample proof of the high regard, held for the popular couple, could be seen by the large number present on this occasion, to express their good wishes.

In presenting Mr Corbett, with an envelope containing a cheque on behalf of his many friends on Ise Madame and other parts of the County, Mr Bourinot said, that this gift was presented in token of the esteem held for both, Bill and Phyllis, and in closing wished the popular couple and their family every happiness in their new home at Inverness

Mr. Corbett, extended his sincere thanks to everyone, for their expressions of kindness.

Very Rev. A. P. Poirier, Pastor of Notre Dame Parish, Arichat, spoke in glowing terms of Mr. Corbett and family, and said that this family were valued members of his church, and that they would be greatly missed in Arichat.

He also stated that Mr. Corbett was always ready to help in community affairs, and his work in that respect was much appreciated by everyone.

After a very enjoyable evening a sumptuous lunch was served by the ladies.

OF MANY THINGS

mit that anything was right.'

I admire Mr. Galbraith for making this explanation. Perhaps he will give a lead to many of us who, in an effort to get improvements in our system, have been inclined to knock it too hard and to praise it too seldom.

We are lucky that we have a free system, open to change instead of a blue printed plan imposed upon us from above. We are fortunate that we are free to criticize and thus to power the engines of change. What we ought to take into account, however, is that in neglecting to mention the many virtues of our free North American institutions, we may harm them irreparably. Our enemies are attacking them all the time, and if we join them in the attack, our institutions could crumble.

Let us then admit more often that there is a great deal that is right and good and even wonderful about our free system! Perhaps we ought to make that acknowledgement every time we have a brickbat to throw.

Twelve - year - old Michele Finney (left) and Howard the talking Turtle are two new personalities who have made a mark with young TV viewers this season on CBC-TV's Razzle Dazzle. Letters are coming in to the show at the rate of more than 5,000 a month. Howard loves mail. The only thing he doesn't like is the mention of turtle soup -- that's enough to make any talking turtle withdraw into his shell.
