SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

I look forward with the keenest anticipation to the annual church drive for funds. Every year I volunteer as a canvasser, because the experience provide a capsule commentary on human nature concise but comprehensive, and I enjoy every minute of it.

Like everything else, the "drive for funds" has been elevated. Just as the caretaker has become a Superintendent of Maitenance, the battle of the bucks has assumed the disguise of a Sector Project, or Visitation, or an In-Gathering.

But the victims aren't fooled. They recognize you the minute they open the door, just as readily as you penetrate the Hallowe'en garb of the neighbor's little girl, the minute she says, "Twick or tweet, Mr. Smiley, I bet you don't know who I am, I'm Mary."

There's nothing new about the church needing money. I'll lay odds that St. Paul was telling potential Christians to put up or shut up a couple of housand years ago, nearly. And he probably got the same answer then.

Such as: "Well, we've had a lot of expenses this year, with the new house"; and "It seems the church is always looking for money and "We donate pretty heavy to other charities y' know"; and "Seems to me that preacher has a pretty good thing, free house and all"; and "I ain't gonna sign no pledge"; and a hundred and forty others.

As civilization has become more complicated, the need of the church for money has become greater. Maintenance costs were low, I understand, in the catcombs. Light, heat and insurance didn't amount to much, and the rector didn't need a car allowance, and the telephone and the organ weren't invented yet, and Sunday School supplies consisted of a stick and some sand.

Then the Christians make the mistake of moving to such inclement climates as that of Britain, and that was the end of the infinitesimal budget, they had to move indoors and promptly walked up to the ears into a morass of carpets and new roofs and stained glass windows and furnaces and seats and baptismal fonts and choir lofts and such.

As if that wasn't enough, along came the crazy socialistic idea that pastors and their families should eat as well or nearly as well, as the rest of us. Ever since, most churches have been staggering along in sorry financial condition.

When I was a boy, the problem was dumped in the pastor's lap. If he wanted to eat, he preached. Some of most fiery sermons I heard in my youth were those based on the need—nay, the duty—to give more than two-bits a week to the church. The minister would work himself into a regular paroxysm on the subject, while his flock just sat there and looked at him, coldly.

After this system proved an utter flop, and the faithful proved as bloodless as stone, the new method came into its own. It has turned out to be immensely successful. Church revenues have sky-rocketed. Unfortunately, what with inflation and the like, church expenditures have managd to stay ahead of revenues, until it now costs as much to operate a fair-sized church as it did 70 years ago, to operate a fair-sized town.

Today's campaign is highly organized. The male pillars of the church and a few d o u g h t y f e m a l e s, are wheedled to serve. There are training sessions, which are a cross between a sales meeting and a pep rally, for these volunteers. Tremendous enthusiasm is aroused. This is fanned into a veritable flame by a special speaker, who tells the canvassers how to crack the hard nuts.

Everybody agrees that if everybody else gave what he should, thechurch would be rolling in greenbacks. The list of church members is produced. It is huge. It looks as though there'll have to be an addition built to the church, by the time the campaign is over. About here the minister tries to point out that it is missing member's soul we are after, not his roll. But nobody pays any attention.

When the volunteer canvassers are in a fine frenzy of unselfish inspraton, their own commitment cards, or pledge cards, are handed out to them, if the chairman is on his toes. Everybody de-

Prominent Sydney Man Passes

We were saddened to learn of the passing of W. T. Lynch, of Sydney, one of the best known and respected ctizens of that city, died at St. Rita's Hospital recently at the age of 85.

Mr . Lynch was born in St. Jacques, New Brunswick. In 1901 he moved to Sydney to establish the city's first wholesale and retail bakery business which is still in operation today and proudly bears his name. During his more than 60 years in Cape Breton, the deceased was continually actively concerned with the developmnt of his adopted island-home and contributed generously of his energy and ability to the advancement of its industrial area.

Always avidly interested in progress and service to the public, his business experience in this city covered such widely-diversi-endeavours as the manufacture and distribution of of biscuits and confectionery; the ownership and management of the Cozy Corner Restaurant; the establishment in 1918 of the first plant in Cape Breton for the commercial manufacture of ice-cream, which plant he afterwards sold to his late brother, P. J. Lynch; the establishment in 1928 of the Fireproof Building Block Company which manufactured the first fireproof cinder blocks east of Toronto; and the operation of Lynch's Nova Kitchen for the manufacture, canning, and sale of oven-baked beans, plum puddings, and various other home-prapared foods.

It was however, with the baking trade that the name of W. T. Lynch was most closely identified. In his more than sixty-years' connection with the bread business, during part of which time he owned and operated plants in Halifax and Stellarton besides the parent Sydney establishment, Mr. Lynch earned the esteem and respect of employees and colleagues alike, many of whom regularly gave him the title of "Bread King." He introduced and perfected many aspects of the baking trade and is gnerally considered to have produced the first commercially wax-wrapped bread in Canada.

Mr. Lynch was a devout parishioner of Sacred Heart Church. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, a charter member of the Sydney Rotary Club, and was generally active in various other church and civic organizations. In his early years in the city, he serveed as alderman in Ward 2 and was also a member of the Sydney School Board.

Besides hsi wife, the former Sadie MacMillan, he is survived by five sons: James, Co-opeerative Insurance Agent, Antigonish; Donald, President and General Manager of Lynch's Bakery, Sydney; Rev. Joseph, Parish Priest, Trenton, N. S.; Rev. Terence Director, Marian Boychoir Institute, Antigonish; Vaughan, Sydney; one daughter, Mary, also of Sydney; and one sister, Rev. Sr. St. Elizabeth of the Rosary (Susie), Montreal. Two brothers, James and Pat, and three sisters, Mrs. Tom Cozzolino (Emily), Mrs. Tom Tobin (Mary Anne) and Mrs. Hugh MacAdam (Nora) predeceased him.

We were personally acquainted with the late Mr. Lynch and our observations of this fine Christain gentleman was well founded and left us the richer for having met him. At one time he took us through his bakery and one could readily detect that he knew this business thoroughly. The worthy Lynch family who are left to mourn the death of a beloved father are well and favorably regarded. Many will remember the kindly and beloved Rev. Father Lynch, when he was curate at St. Peters Parish, St. Peters. Anothter son Donnnie the President and General Manager of the firm, is also well-known in Richmond County and Cape Breton Island and will continue to uphold the Lynch name as the family bakers in Sydney during the past

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

A BROCHURE SPELLS ADVENTURE

Circumstances shape all our destinies, but it isn't often that a brochure proves to be the secret key that opens a door to adventure for a small boy.

When the family arrives at my house for a visit, the first thing the chidren do is rummage through my papers looking for canary newsprint on which to draw or type their inspirations on this old rattle trap machine. It is their chief amusement while their elders chat.

Among the papers piled high on my desk in a CN Maple Leaf Tour brochure, outlining the trips available for the coming summer. It was while their parents and I were catching up on family news recently that Ricky let a holler out of him. "Dad look, here's a 20-day package tour to California and the Seattle World's Fair. Gee, Ii takes in Disneyland too, a trip across Canada by train and a boat trip from Victoria to Seattle. Can we go dad, please?"

Father of the brood multiplied the price of the tour by five and then remembered a move the family has in prospect to a new town. "'Not this year, son," he replied.

I will be taking this trip plus several western Canaplus several western Canadian side trips in search of copy for this column. So I stuck my neck out and offered to take Ricky along. This was fine up to a point. My trip must commence late in May or early in June. There was an obsacle called "school" in Ricky's way. I suggested his parents approach his principal and see what could be done to persuade him to allow Ricky to leave school earlier than the closing day. "Impossible", said the youngster's practical father. "Could be," said his more optimistic mother, who volunteered to call on the principal.

By this time I was building a sales talk for her to give Ricky's schoolmaster. What an opportunity for a child to learn about Canada as well as viewing "The World of Tomorrow" which is what the Fair is projecting. Lads and lassies his age will be living in that world and for them a preview is more than valuable. It will stimulate their imagination, develop their appreciation of what lies ahead and foster pride in our western way of life.

Principal Co-operates

I needn't have gone to such lengths to have his mother convince the principle. He was sold on the idea as soon as it was mentioned to him. Fortunately my first born grandchild is not stupid His grades are in good shape and a month lost at the tail end of a school year will not affect his standing.

The principal made one stipulation. Ricky must not be told about his good standing but rather warned that he must work hard in order to make good marks in the May tests.

"He could become very lazy between now and the end of May if he thought his present grades could carry him through" was the sound advice the principal gave Ricky's mother while at the same time giving his consent to an eary leave of absence.

"As a matter of fact," the principal remarked, " I wish all my pupils could have this same advantage. It just so happens that western Canada will be their chief study assignment next year. Ricky will not only grasp the immensity of this great Canadian area, he will experience it first hand. Lucky boy."

Am I lucky? What an adventure for me to watch a young mind drinking up this trip like a sponge. I only hope my feet last out! Comfortable accommodation is a boon, but in the long run it's the old pedal extremities that will take the beating on the thoroughfares of a World's Fair and the maze of a child's paradise, Disneyland. Knowing the Barker heritage of an inflated curiosity, I don't expect my 11-year-old travelling companion will miss much.

TWENTY TIPS TO TRIM YOUR INCOME TAX

Tips to help cut your income tax are offered by John Dalrymple in April issue of Libeerty magazine.

1. You can deduct legal expenses from your income, if you have to sue your boss for wages.
2. Cou can make up to $300 a year, tax free, for your services as a volunteer fireman.
3. Lou can't deduct your wife's salary as business expense, if she works for you in business.
4. Claim medical expenses that exceed 3% of your net income, or claim the standard $100 deduction, and save your medical receipts until next year.
5. Tuition fees you pay for a child can be deducted from his earnings—not yours—but it may enable you to claim him as a dependent.
6. If your daughter is a Nurse in Taining, don't consider her income from this work when calculating whether you can claim her as a dependent.
7. Income from a bock, movie or play can be considered income over the years it took you to write it, and tax can be paid accordingly.
8. Claim $500 for a dependent no longer eligible for Family Allowance.
9. Confine financial killings to your casual sideline enterprises or they'll be considered taxable income.
10 You can deeduct regular union fees from your income, but not initiation fees or special levies

492 Richmond County High School students attended Career Confernces at St. Peter's and West Arichat recently.

The Conference, arranged by a committee of High School teachers headed by Mr. A. J. Saulnier, Inspector of Schools, provided an opportunity to the pupils to hear four out of ten occupations discussed.

The Conferences were held concurrently, with lecturers at the morning sessions at St. Peteer's alternating to West Arichat in the afternoon, and vice versa.

Each consultant was introduced by a teacher and thanked by a student. The success of the Conference was apparent by the enthusiasm of students and teachers. An evaluation project will follow the conference in schools participating, namely: Arichat; West Arichat; Petit de Grat; D'Escousse; Louisdale; River Bourgeois; Walkeerville-Evanston; St. Peters; L'Ardoise and Johnstown.

ARICHAT HOME AND SCHOOL

The regular monthly meeting of the Arichat Home and School Association was held at the O.L.A. Convent on Tuesday evening.

The meeting opened with reading of the creed by the President, followed by reading and adoption of the minutes and the roll call.

Correspondence consisted of a letter from Mrs. Martin Boudreau, Secy.' of the School Board, stating that a Music Teacher would be hired by the Board as soon as one was available.

The Very Rev. A. P. Poirier contacted Inspector Saulnier and made inquries concerning Regional Library for Richmond County.

Mr. Saulnier stated that if the new school was built in Arichat, they would have their own Library.

Moved by Mrs. Charles Gordon and seconded by Mrs. Gallant that a vote of thanks be sent to Eastern Bakeries of Sydney, for the lovely birthday cake donated to the Home and School. Motion unanimously adopted.

It was moved by Mrs. C. Gordon and seconded by Mr. Amable Boucher that $10.00 be forwarded to the Founder's Day Contribution.

The Very Rev. A. P. Poirier stated that this gift was presented in token of the esteem held for both Mr. and Mrs. Corbett and in appreciation for their services rendered to school and community affairs.

Mrs. Corbett extended her sincere thanks to everyone for their exprssion of kindness.

Mr. Saulnier was unable to attend the meeting due to transportation difficulties.

Supervising Principal, Sister Amedee, teacher in Arichat for a period of fourteen years gave a very interesting talk on the Founding of the Home and School.

The following is a text of Sister Amedee's talk:—

"We are gathered this evening for a birthday party, the occasion being the 10th Anniversary of the founding of our local "Home and School."

Many of us can recall the eventful evening when a group of interested parents and teachers met to hear the inspiring message of an adult ducation worker, Mr. Clifford Edwards, a local boy who has distinguished himself in the field of education.

To the poneers of the movement in Arichat, to the executives who over a period of 10 years have fostered the principles of "Home and School", we say "Thank you for your continued interest." Nor can we forget those whom the Master called to their eternal reward during that lapse of time.

"Founder's Day" does not narrow to a local group. It is province-wide, it is country-wide, it is world-wide. Nova Scotia boasts of the first Parents' Association founded at Baddeck by Dr. and Mrs. Bell in 1895. The Provincial Federation is 26 years old while the Canadian Federation has 35 years of existence. The name "Home and School" was adopted in 1916.

The organization prospered because its first structure was laid upon four strong these is FAITH which provides the ignition spark of any worthwhile endeavour. The Founders knew that only Loyalty could keep the flame of FAITH burning brightly. Thus the second cornerstone of Loyalty was laid. SERVICE is the practible expression of FAITH and LOYALTY and the outward sign of the life and vitality within. In their wisdom, our Founders, therefore, made SERVICE the third cornerstone in the building of "Home and School."

FAITH was our fathers guiding light, LOYALTY kept that light burning. SERVICE translated FAITH and LOYALTY into action. But our Founders wanted their structure to be, not merely steadfast and strong,

TIPS TO TRIM YOUR INCOME TAX

to build up a strike fund.

11. If someone gave you some "tax-free" income and offered to pay the extra tax it will cost you, then you pay income tax on the second amount too; also on the third, fourth, fifth and so on.

12. If you are separated, agree with your spouse which children each of you will claim as dependents. You can't both claim the same child.

13. If you divorced your wife last year, you now loose your family as tax exemptions, but you can deduct alimony payments from your income.

14 A small Christmas bonus from your bocs isn't taxable, unless your boss claims it as a deductible expense on his income tax.

15. Let your boss reimburse you for car and entertainment expenses. Don't accept a regular sum for business expenses or you'll pay tax on it.

16. If you left one of the armed forces during the year, you can claim personal exemptions on income received as a civilian, only in proportion to the number of days last year, you were in the service.

17. Don't declare any board paid you by a relative or friend, unless you are running a regular boarding house.

18. Money made on the sale of your home isn't taxable, unless you "dabble" in real estate.

19. If someone gave you a big gift, make sure you don't have to do anything for it, or the tax department will consider it taxable payment for your services.

And right there, though not too many realize it, is the climax of the entire campaign. Oh, it runs its course, like a spent rocket returning to earth. The canvassers are blessed on Sunday morning, they have a lunch after the service, and they go out in pairs, determindly clutching their cards and leaflets.

To their amazement, as the figures are tallied, they learn that the campaign has been a complete success. She's gone over the top. How come Because they, and their fellow-canvassers, carried away by the spirit, temporarily, had increased their own donatons enough to make the total, before they ever went out. But it's good fun, good for the soul, and good for the church. So I'm looking forward to next year's campaign.

C. W. L. MEET

The sum of $4,954.87 had been raised, which was donated to a fund for the remodelling of the parish church, was realized from raffling of articles, donated by parishioners; another source of income was from suppers being served in the parish hall, card parties held in homes, "travelling basket" from house to house and pantry sales.

Correspondence was then read one being from Sacred Heart Program and one from Mrs. Anne Goodwin; also two thank you cards, one from the family of the late Mrs. Eva Jollymore and one from the Joshua family.

Turning to unfinished busibusiness, some pictures of the Christmas Crib on display was much appreciated by the members and it was decided we should have them for sale as a souvenir in the homes. It was also decided that Bingo for articles would be hed in the parish hall.

Mrs. Fulbert Boudreau volunteereed from the floor to give the names of women to help with the Bingo for the month.

The President then asked the chair ady of the election of officers for her report and reported that the same slate of officrs had been recommended

It was then moved that the same slate of officers be reappointed for the year 63-63.

The President called on Mother D'Emmanuel to say a few words and read an article from the League Magazine about the leaders of C. W. L. She also congratulated the leaders of the Council for their good work.

Rev. Father J. J. MacDonald then commended the different conveners to take an active part in the work and to continue to improve their efforts in the future. He also stated hat a statue of Our Lady in our meetings and to obtain special medals for members.

The meeting adjourned with the recitation prayer of Our Lady of Good Council..

—Publicity Convener.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Gus Bouchard who passsed away, April 18, 1960.

The month of April came with regret,
It brings back a memory I shall never forget,
You fell asleep without goodbye,
But the memory of you will never die,,
It's lonesome here without you, Gus,
How sad the weary way.
For life for me is not the same
Since you were called away.

Lovingly remembered by friend
Johnny Stone, Arichat, N. S.

but beautiful as well; thus the fourth cornerstone was that of TOLERANCE tolerance of race, creed and of thought.

We who follow the footsteps of the Founders can hope to carry on in the real spirit of "Home and School" only by constant exercise of our "FAITH, LOYALTY, SERVICE and TOLERANCE.

May the Heavenly Father, friend of little childrn, unfold to us day by day, the true meaning of education. May He impress on all parents and teachers the divinity of their callng, and lay deep in the heart of every child the ambition to learn and to know."

After the speech Sister Amedee directed a few interesting games which were enjoyed by all.

In celebation of Founders Day, and the 10th Anniversary of the Founding of our local Home and School, ten candles were lit on a delicious birthday cake donated by Eastern Bakeries, tasty sandwiches were supplied and all present enjoyed a social evening.

The meeting adjourned on motion of Sister Anthony and seconded by Mr. Amable Boucher.
