NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

CAPE LA RONDE NEWS

Mrs. Lennox Mauger, was a delegate to the Anglican Diocesan Synod, of Nova Scotia, representing St. John's Parish. She accompanied Rev. W. E. Dye, to Halifax where the Synod Sessions were held at the new Diocesan Centre.

Mrs. Norman Smith, the former Carrie Olsen, of Ridgeway, Ont., was a motor visitor here the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Mauger.

She was accompanied by her son Christopher, of the Royal Canadian Navy; also Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, of Welland, Ont. Before returning Mrs. Smith and party visited another son of Mrs. Smith's at Camp Gagetown, N. B., where he is stationed with a unit of the Canadian Army.

Carrie's friends and relatives were happy to see her and glad to know that she is now fully restored to health.

Fred Mauger and John Mauger, were business visitors to Truro, where John purchased a tractor.

Mrs. Helen Fleet, of Halifax was a visitor to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mauger over the week-end.

We were happy to see Helen.

Kevin Mauger has purchased a truck and both he and his brother, Frank are busy hauling pulp to Mulgrave. Good luck, boys.

Lobster fishermen at Rocky Bay and Poirierville have suffered some losses of traps in the recent heavy storms which lashed our shore line. Drift ice prevented fishermen from setting on the opening date and it now appears that the catch will be small in comparison to other seasons.

Several parishioners of St. George's Church here, attended the service of Induction of Rev. W. E. Dye, and Dedication Service, of the new Holy Trinity Church Hall, at Port Hawkesbury, where the Rt. Rev. W. H. Waterman, Bishop of Nova Scotia officiated at the Services.

HOLY TRINITY HALL DEDICATED

Several parishioners of St. John's Church, Arichat and St. George's, Cape La Ronde, attended the dedication service of Holy Trinity Church Hall, in Port Hawkesbury recently and also the induction of the Rev. W. E. Dye, Rector of St. John's Parish.

Both the Induction and the Dedication was conducted by the Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, Bishop of Nova Scotia.

Several Clergy from the Deanery of Cape Breton and also from the Deanery of St. Georges, were in attendance.

Archdeacon F. H. Holborow, of Christ Church, Sydney assisted the Bishop at the service.

The Wardens of St. John's Parish. Warren Jones and M. J. Bourinot and the Wardens of Holy Trinity Congregation: Malcolm MacMillan and Cyril Yates were present at the presentation of the keys of St. John's Church. Warden Bourinot made the presentation on behalf of the Parish and in obedience to the Mandate of the Bishop of the Diocese.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Prosser, of St. Mary's Parish, Glace Bay, whose address touched on the duties of a priest in a parish. He spoke highly of Rev. William Dye, who is a native of Glace Bay and a former valued member of St. Mary's Church.

Following the service a reception was held in the spacious basement of the hall, when the ladies of Holy Trinity Women's Association assisted by members of St. John's and St. George's W. A., served a lobster salad to a large gathering present.

MEETING TO ORGANIZE A FIRE DEPARTMENT

A meeting to organize a Fire Fighting Department for Arichat and Isle Madame Districts, took place in the County Hall, on Wednesday evening and was presided over by Paul Doyle.

In attendance at the meeting was Fred C. Thompson, Deputy Fire Marshal of Sydney, who outlined in a very comprehensive manner the methods used in organizing a Fire Department and the requirements of the Board of Underwriters in regard to proper equipment so as the territory served could enjoy a lower rate of premiums on fire insurance.

He also outlined the smaller organizations of protection in a community and how some assistance could be given within the jurisdiction of the Department of Lands and Forests, in respect to loan of hose.

Also present at the meeting were Hubert Short, District Forrester, for Cape Breton and Richmond Counties and John Landry, Chief Ranger for Richmond County. Both these officials spoke on the subject and outlined fire fighting methods employed by the Department of Lands and Forests, in conjunction with local Fire Departments.

It was felt by some present that the most feasible means of financing such a project was through a direct levy of the districts so served by this proposed Fire Department.

Others felt that funds should be raised on a voluntary basis to purchase and maintain such equipment. The chairman Mr. Doyle upheld this view and pointed out how similar organizations in Cheticamp and Margaree were maintained by this method.

J. H. LeBrun, stressed the importance of Fire Fighting equipment that would meet the requirements of the Fire Marshal's Department and that of the Board of Insurance Underwriters, to thus provide a lower rate of fire insurance for both dwelling and commercial coverage. Mr. LeBrun also spoke on behalf of the Board of Trade and presented proposals previously aired at Board meetings.

After a lengthy discussion Very Rev. A. P. Poirier presented a resolution which was seconded by Mr. E. C. Doyle, that a committee of five be appointed to survey the Isle Madame Area, in respect to views of residents of the various districts and hold meetings in such districts and report back to a general meeting their findings in respect to financing such a needed project.

The following members of the committee were appointed: Edward LeBlanc, Wilbert Stone, George Samson, Paul Bonin and Paul Doyle.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

In trying to decide who was going to win this election, I was completely bamfoozled by reading the newspapers and the political commentators. Do you know something? Those birds don't have a clue. After a lot of hedging, a barrage of "ifs" and "buts," they invariably conclude that the Government will be returned "with a reduced majority."

About eight times out of 10 they can't help but be right, because the Government is always in the favoured position of the champion taking on the challenger. And when they are wrong, it's quickly forgotten in the general hullabaloo.

These prognosticators are not something new. They have been braying like jack-asses ever since Confederation. And they are just as pompous, just as isolent and just as often wrong today as they were then.

* * * * * *

I discovered this when I decided to compare today's election campaigns with those of a half-century ago, and dug up some old newspapers for the purpose. I learned something else — that elections, like life in general, have become a lot more complicated and confusing in the past 50 years. And, like life in general, they've lost a lot of their fun.

Our fathers knew perfectly well whom they were going to vote for, and all the speeches and slanted newspaper stories wouldn't have budged them an iota. But that didn't mean they weren't going to enjoy every minute of the campaign, argue the issues hotly, and try to squeeze a little patronage out of the local party boses, even if it amounted to only a couple of drinks of free whiskey.

Politics in those days combined the noise the unpredictability and the excitement of an Indian potlatch, an Irish wake, and a French shivaree.

* * * * * *

In every small town, there was a Grit newspaper on one side of the street and down the block, on the other side, a Tory newspaper. They vied in hurling insult, slander and libel at the opposing party and each other. They contained such sprightly remarks as: "The editor of our esteemede contemporary, the Recorder, has obviously been slavering at the same trough as some of the other hogs who swallow the slop thrown to them by the gang of thieves ensconced at Ottawa. His latest editorial is a masterpiece of misinformation, plain falsehood, and downright depravity."

Around election time, in those days, every male had a cigar, the women were at home looking after the kids, where they belonged, and the bars were lined three deep with enthusiastic political experts.

Nobody went around asking plaintively, "Well, is there any real difference between the parties?" as they do today. Of course there was a difference. The Tories (or the Grits) were ruining the country and that was all there was to it. Everybody knew what the issues were You were either for Reciprocity or against it, even though you weren't too sure what it meant.

* * * * * *

Fifty years ago, a speech was a speech. When you'd driven 18 miles with a horse and buggy to hear it, anything shorter than an hour and a half was a personal insult. And there was nothing namby-pamby about the sentiments expressed. The speaker revealed personal knowledge of Government graft, scandals and corruption that would curdle your blood. He didn't say it right out, but he implied that his worthy opponent was an habitual drunk, a known woman-chaser, and had insanity in the family.

And the politicians' promises in those days were a lot more interesting than they are today. They didn't talk vaguely about social welfare and promise an increase in this,a raise in that. They gave you something concrete, like a new dock, or a post office—something you could see.

Remember what Sir John A. did when he was trying to induce B. C. to join the new confederation? They said they'd join if the Government would guarantee a wagon trail to the west coast. Sir John said, in effect, "Wagon trail, hell! I'll build you a railroad in 10 years!" And he did.

I can't help wondering what the old-time politician would have thought of today's campaign, with its giggling coffee parties, its colorless candidates, its scarcity of clean-cut issues, and its complete lack of those basic elements of any election — cheap whisky, strong cigars, and a decent scandal.

EILEEN HENRY VISITS RICHMOND COUNTY

(We note in the "Around Town and County" column of the 'Antigonish Casket", where our good friend, Eileen Cameron Henry, author of this weekly contribution was in River Bourgeois recently and relates her experience as follows.—Editor.)

"WE LIKE DOGS, but the other day a dog scared the wits out of us. We were sitting in the car at River Bourgeois when a sleek black dog came along the highway. Having nothing better to do we rolled down the window and said, "Hello dog, are you a good boy?"

Well it turned out to be a girl dog, and before we had the words out of our mouth the nice, sleek, black dog had leapt from the highway and was sitting on our lap while the words were still filling the air. Just how she managed to do the leap we don't know, but for a moment we didn't know whether we had bitten off more than we could chew, or whether the dog had.

Finally she settled down, nosed around and ate chocolate. And we got out of the car. It took some coaxing to move the lady, but in the end another chocolate got her on the pavement."

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

WOMEN ON THE JOB

I suppose the fact that next Monday is election day reminded me that one of the issues trumpeted up and down the hustings has been whether unemployment is inevitable in our ever increasing labor force, or curable by some dynamic legistation.

It also reminded me that there have been those who have recommended that women be fired from the jobs they fill. This, they claim, would make room for men who are jobless..

An instance of women at work was brought to my attention the other day. In Quebec Province, where the old Napoleonic Code is being changed to allow women more rights of their own, there is a rather romantic story about a group of widows who, in 1955, were left with family businesses on their hands. They had but two choices—to sell or run things for themselves. They sought advice from a men's organization on St. James Street, Montreal, La Chambre de Commerce. Encouraged to stick with this entirely new venture for them, they set up an office in the same building as the men, joined La Chambre and today they number 250 "femmes membres."

MONTREAL CAREER WOMEN

Among them is Mme Yvette Rousseau who, besides running a printing business, lectures, at the University of Montreal on the subject of "French Canadian Women in Business." Another career woman in our bilingual province is head of personnel in one of Montreal's largest department stores, Dupuis Freres. She is Mme Paul Tremblay and her background includes a mother who thought the thing for her daughter to do, if she must work, was to volunteer as a hospital aide. Her father belonged to the old school of strict parent who did not think it was ladylike for a girl to play tennis or even drive a car.

Then there is Mme Andre Vennat who has two grown sons and is running a family enterprise. This she has done since 1944 and when she looks back on the many difficulties that confronted her, she rejoices in the progress women today have made in overcoming the prejudices of earlier generations.

These Montreal women, besides their business careers, have a busy program. They have set up committees to study tourist promotion and the integration of new Canadians.

This emergence of our French Canadian sisters from the shadows of the restrictive Quebec civil code into the light of their earning capacity proves if nothing else that women have a contribution to make to the national economy through the positions they hold.

WOMEN AND THE FRANCHISE

Women do, for all their business ability, have one great weakness. They have not taken their franchise very seriously. They allow too many excuses to keep them from the polling booths on election day. This pertains to the housewife as well as the woman in business. I was completely floored the other day when, in discussing election trends with a young business woman of my acquaintance, I asked her if she was registered. "Oh yes, but I don't know much about Ontario politics. I don't want to vote for someone I don't know.' When I informed her this was a federal election not a provincial one, she countered with the query, "Is voting compulsory?"

This young woman is a native born Canadian, 23 years old and a senior matriculant with four years business experience in positions of great responsibility. Yet this is all she knows about voting privileges of our democracy.

If your name is on the voting list and you are over 21 and of sound mind, for goodness sake get out and VOTE next Monday.

Household Hints

by Joan March Worden
Director, Pine Cleaner Information Center.

There's nothing quite like a closet. We all wish we had "just one more"—and yet the ones we have often turn into unsightly catchalls. Here's a closet checklist to get your spring and summer clothes off to a neat, clean start.

1. Take everything out of the closet: This may seem obvious—but many of us make the mistake of trying to reorganize a closet one section at a time. Result: jumble. Instead, empty the closet until there's nothing left but the skeleton.
2. Give it a bath: Closets, like clothes, start out the spring with a wintertime feel and odor. If you sponge your closet with a pine cleaner solution, it will smell as fresh as a spring morning.
3. Sort out clothes: This should include a "throw-out" as well. Remember if you haven't worn a dress this year, chances are you won't wear it next year either. So banish clothes which have spent the season on hangers—instead of on your back.
4. Put away: Store winter clothes in garment bags. Be sure to include a pine mothproofer-deodorizer in the storage area.
5. Switch over: When you hang spring and summer clothes in your pine-clean closet, try this "filing system." Divide the closet—a multiple skirt-hanger will do the trick.

This way, suits and other short clothes will hang on one side; dresses, robes and coats on the other. You'll be surprised what a difference this makes in your closet "neatness quotient." (Hint to wives: If you're trying togetherness with your husband, use this trick to make a "his" and "hers" closet behind one door).

If you tour the closet shop in your favorite store, I'm sure you'll find even more clues to a neater closet.

CANADA'S PRICE DAM IS BURSTING

AND OUR POCKET BOOKS WILL SUFFER!

The Dollars Go Down And Prices Go Up

DEVALUED, THE CANADIAN DOLLAR HAS DROPPED TO 91 CENTS ON THE INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE.

EVERYTHING WE BUY ABROAD ALREADY COSTS US 13% MORE.

PRICES HAVE INCREASED IN FOOD -- CLOTHING -- IMPORTED CARS -- FARM EQUIPMENT

THE SAME AMOUNTS OF IMPORTED GOODS PURCHASED IN 1961 WILL COST US $700 MILLION MORE IN 1962.

AIR TRANSPORT COMPANIES FLYING PLANES INTO CANADA WILL INCREASE THEIR PRICES BY NINE CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

BEEF PRODUCERS CAN SELL THEIR BEEF FOR AMERICAN DOLLARS--AND WILL EXPECT THE CANADIAN HOUSEWIFE TO PAY THE EQUIVALENT PRICE.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES -- CANNED AND FRESH -- ARE ON THE RISE.

TEA AND COFFEE HAVE ALREADY JUMPED IN PRICE.

WHEAT WILL BE SIMILARLY AFFECTED -- THIS MEANS INCREASED BREAD PRICES.

YOUR NEXT CAR WILL COST FROM $100 TO $500 MORE.

Let's put a stop to the mismanagement of our National Finances by the Diefenbaker Government.

Vote LIBERAL June 18

Restore world confidence in Canada

Inserted by the Nova Scotia Liberal Association

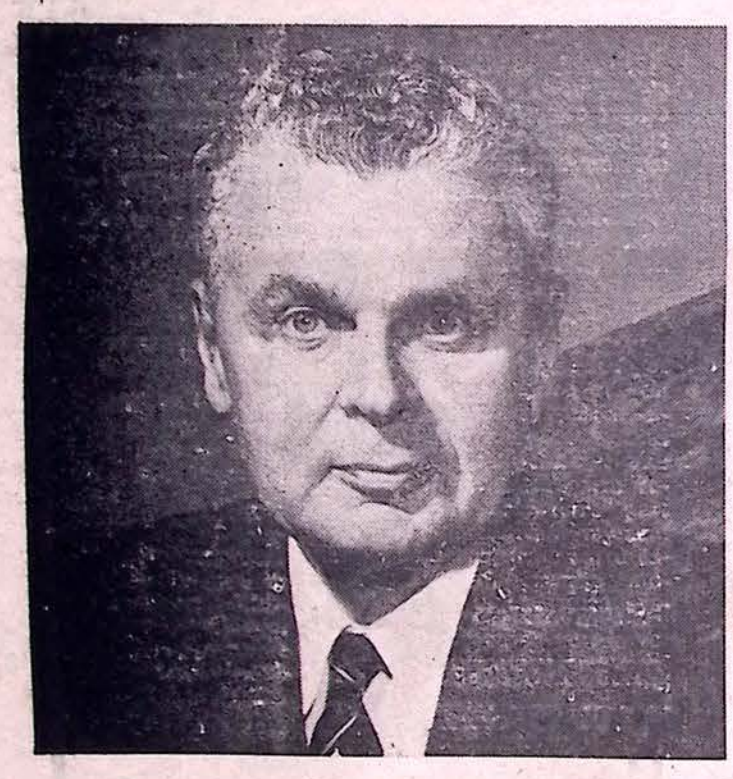

See what your vote has done for Nova Scotia!

Here are some of the results you helped bring about in 1958 by supporting the Diefenbaker Government and your Progressive Conservative candidates.

They promised a better deal for Nova Scotia —now just look at the figures on this page. The first fair deal Nova Scotians have had in years!

There is more to be done—but your Progressive Conservative members have made a good start. By continuing to work together with a Government led by John Diefenbaker, Nova Scotians can be assured of fair shares in the continuing growth and expansion of Canada.

Keep the team intact! Support good government and, in the best interests of all Nova Scotia, vote for your Progressive Conservative candidate on June 18.

The man for all Canada

Dollar signs of Progress and Achievement with a Diefenbaker Government

The facts speak for themselves—here is the record of the fair deal policies you voted for in 1958—compared with the dismal record of the Liberals when they last held power only five years ago.
