Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

COMMERCIAL CASTLES

A writer for "Time" magazine used a suitable phrase recently when he described CN's Bessborough Hotel as "barional". At least three of the railway's hostelries have this romantic air; these include the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton and the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa.

All three have magnificent settings. Each has a river flowing by it. In their architectural majesty, each watches over the city it serves and is a landmark. This is especially so on the prairie horizon where they can be seen for miles, like old world castles.

There the similarity to anything old ends. Within, they are as modern as tomorrow. The Macdonald has a new wing and the Bessborough and Chateau have been undergoing extensive redecorating and refurnishing.

I have two sensations when I stay at these Hotels. When I am greeted with flowers in my room and a basket of fresh fruit sitting on an immaculate linen serviette with a silver fruit knife for peeling such as I found when I arrived this summer from Vancouver and checked in at the Bessborough, I feel very VIP. Or when I register at the Fort Garry and am ushered into a bed-sitting room complete with Danish Moderne lounge, attractively upholstered chairs and TV that really works though the change in moderate, such luxury makes me feel I actually have money in the bank and a safety deposit box crammed with stocks and bonds.

I am a hotel buff for I spent most of the years during two world wars resident, or as a guest, in hotels. Perhaps that is why I appreciate what is being done to modernize these stopping places. No more carpeting with rambling garnish red and green patterns that jump at you when a bell boy opens the door of your night's lodging. No more skinny drapes hanging like strings at the windows as was the pre-war fashion. Broadloom in muted design now carpets all rooms, and fabrics of easily cared for dacron or nylon make the windows in all CN hotel rooms look very large.

SOMETHING OLD,
SOMETHING NEW

If designers went truly modern in The Bessborough and created the cocktail lounge as a semi-circle within the handsome dining room area, they left the huge old porcelain bath tubs in the Fort Garry's double accommodation rooms. These have become quite famous among visitors to Winnipeg. It would have been sheer sacrilege to replace them with modern equipment. This is the one place in my Vagabonding where I can soak right up to my neck, and I love it.

Pure delight in any journey is accommodation. Every traveler has his own favorite type. I am one of those persons who appreciates doormen, bellboys, the porters who look after my luggage and see that my laundry and cleaning are cared for. I like the rustle of well - starched aprons as the maids wheel their equipment carts along the corridors. But most of all, I glow with the candelight when I dine in fine restaurants like the Beaver Club in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel or watch from my room ships come down the sound when I stop at the Nova Scotian in Halifax.

Yes, there is a sence of romance of refinement, of excellent service in these hotels that all adds up to pleasure and that's what customers are willing to pay for. With the world on the go as it is these days I tip my chiffon bonnet to the CN. Spending money on refurbishing is like casting bread upon the waters. It is not an extravagance; it is an investment. Today's public is not satisfied with "good enough". Its members demand the best for their money.

Sugar and Spice

By Bill Smiley

Do you like autumn? I do.. For me, it's the epitome of all that's best in Canada. You can have your spring, glorious spring, with its drizzles and its mud and its chilling winds. You can have your summer, with its particular pests—tourists, bugs, visitors. And you can most definitely have winter in its every possible aspect. Just give me about six months of that September-October weather, and you couldn't drag me out of this country to the island of Bali.

I know that, according to the rhythm of nature, fall is supposed to be a time of dying, of melancholy, of shrivelling on the vine, of prepairing for the deep, dread, sleep of winter.

Maybe Canadians are just contrary, but they don't react in the way they're supposed to at all, in the fall. Instead of carefully preparing for winter, drawing in their horns and going around with long faces, they bust out all over as soon as that first nip is felt in the morning air.

* * *

Perhaps they're just fooling themselves, but Canadians act as though they love the fall. They come to life. They bustle. They form committees, make plans, have parties. They even start going to church. Perhaps it's just a last hysterical fling, a frantic escape from reality, with the grim prospect of six months' winter ahead, but they certainly burn with a clear gem - like flame while it lasts.

Where is the sober householder who should be chinking up the nooks and crannies, putting on the storm windows, getting in his fuel supply, and battening down all the hatches for the bitter voyage that looms ahead?

I'll tell you where he is, on his day off. He's standing in ice water up to his nipples, trying to catch a rainbow trout. Or out on the golf course, so bundled with sweaters he can hardly swing. Or he's sitting with a noggin, watching the football game on television. That's where he is.

And where's the guidewife who should be knitting woolen socks, putting down preserves and canned meat, airing the flannelette sheets, patching the family's long underwear, and quilting a quilt?

I'll tell you where she is. She's on the phone talking about what she's going to wear to the tea. Or she's off in the car to attend a wedding. Or she's out playing bingo. Or she's taking in an auction sale. Or she's sitting around with her feet up, watching the afternoon movie. That's where she is.

It must shake our pioneer ancestors rigid to look down, or up, from their present abode and see us preparing for winter. About this time of year, grandfather was killing a beef, shooting a deer, salting down a hog, making apple cider, stacking vast piles of firewood and hustling his wheat to the mill.

It must rot his celestial socks to look down and see his grandson hunting deer for a holiday, buying his pig pre-cooked at the meat counter, and laying in his fuel supply by picking up the phone and calling the oil dealer.

And what about Granny? In her day, fall was the time when you worked like a beaver, making sausage, spinning wool, putting eggs away in waterglass, filling the root cellar, making candles and soft soap.

She must do a little quiet cussing, in the shadow of her halo, when she sees her granddaughter facing up to rigors of winter: racked by the dreadful indecision of whether to buy a home freezer or a fur coat; torn by the dilemma of whether to have the cleaning woman come once or twice a week.

But, of course, that's looking at only one side of the situation. Grand-daddy didn't have to worry about anti-freeze, atom bombs, income tax or payments on the car. He didn't need suppositories,diets and a new tail-pipe every time he turned around.

And Granny didn't have to cope with a kitchenful of machinery, kids who were smarter than she was, and the late movie. She didn't need sleeping pills, cigarettes or psychology.

Say, come to think of it, those WERE the good old days. They didn't have much, but what they had was their own, not the finance company's No auto accidents, no acholics anonymous, no aspirn. Let's stop worrying about the hardships of our pioneer ancestors and get back to sweating over our own neurotic chaos.

Mr. and Mrs. Renie Mury, Halifax are vacationing here at their summer cottage.

PRICES

I shudder every time I see the clouds. Big plump prairie crops look so vulnerable to hail. Already one close friend has been hailed out.

Fear of a crop failure would not be quite so bad if prices were not advancing. Yet there is every indication that many products will have to go up in price.

It is no use for shoppers and government to hope that prices will remain stable, while at the same time doing everything to assure that they won't. We all know, if we have had any business experience, that price increases must follow increased costs of doing business. When taxes, fees, and cost of materials go up, prices must follow – or there will be no business and no jobs.

The upward pressure on prices these days is being exerted constantly. No one seems to worry about how much the government spends; in fact, everybody seems to be pressuring governments at all levels to spend more. This spendiug finds its way into our price structure. Taxes are part of costs.

Provincial governments proved this point when they increased the price of imported liquor in their stores. They had to increase the price, because their own cost was increased. Yet these same governments can't seem to understand that milk, bread, butter and other essentials are in the same position – when costs increase, prices must do the same.

These increases do not appear to bother young people who are able to get pay to match the trend. They are a tragedy, though, for the man that retires. He has worked hard for hard money; now he must see it softened daily, so that it buys less and less. He is robbed by the very people who ought to be protecting the value of his dollars. Sometimes he is party to the theft, because he, too, has been urging or at least encouraging governments to spend and tax, tax and spend.

ST. PETER'S ROYALS WIN 3rd SUCCESSIVE INT. BASEBALL CROWN

St. Peter's Royals won a third successive Richmond County Int. League Championship by whipping Riverside Aces 9 — 7 and taking the best of three series two games to one. The first game of the series also won by the Royals, 11 — 4 had earlier been declared no contest by league executives following protest by the Aces. Riverside came on to win re-scheduled contest by a score of 2 — 1 and lost the second game to the Royals by a score of 7 — 2.

St. Peter's had to come from behind a 5 — 0 deficit to win and come up with three runs in the 9th inning to salt the game and a 3rd league championship away in as many years.

Little Tony Burke pitched clutch baseball and after the third inning held Riverside in check while his team mates were busy overtaking the Ace's early lead.

Members of the St. Peter's team are: Bill MacDonald, cf; Noddy MacDonald, ss; Bunter MacEwen, 1st b; Kelvin Digout,3rd b; Danny MacMillian, 2nd b; Phonse Cotie, rf; Linny Sampson, lf; Leonard Digout, rf; M. Carter, c; Wayne Ross, p, c; R. Cotton, rf; Tony Burke, p; Gordon Stone, p; Todd Wambolt, Manager and Coach.

Following the win, the Royals were presented with Branch 47 Canadian Legion Trophy and later attended a party given in their honor by the local sports club.

The St. Peter's club which has dominated the league since its organization is expected to join senoir ranks next season.

THERIAULT — BOUDREAU

Our Lady ot the Assumption Church, Arichat, was the scene of a lovely fall wedding, when Marie Anne, daughter of Mrs. Emma Boudreau and the late Mr. Colin Boudreau of Pondville, became the bride of Paul Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Theriault of Arichat. Rev. A. P. Poirier performed the double - ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Ernest Paon of Pondville, and looked charming in her gown of nylon net and lace, decorated with iridescent sequins and simuated pearls, long pointed sleeves and floor - length bouffant skirt. Her shoulder - length veil was held in place by a crown of iridescent sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Joan Landry, a cousin of the bride was bridesmaid. She wore a street - length dress of light blue peau de soie, with headpiece of matching nylon net. She carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations.

The best man was Ralph Theriault, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Marbro Restaurant.

For travelling, the bride chose a soft wool suit of tan with matching accessories.

They will reside in Arichat, where the bride is presently on the staff of the Arichat School.

We join with their many friends in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

FROM U. S. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LeNoir, of Bear Mountain, N. Y., were recent visitors to Cape Breton and were guests at the Richmond Motel. They were accompained by Freddie LeNoir and Mrs. Robert LeNoir all of Braintree, Mass., all descendents of the promenent LeNoir family.

During the days of Iron men and Wooden ships, the late Cassimere LeNoir and his brother operated a large ship outfitting business here, as well as owned and commanded their own ship out of this port.

The old stone forge owned by the LeNoir family and later by the late Charls Malzard, is an old land mark, and efforts should be made by the Tourist Bureau of the Province to have this old forge restored.

The LeNoirs visited Mrs. Sylvania Malzard, from Shelburn, who is at present visiting at the home of Laura and Ralph Cutler.

LeBLANC — FORGERON

A very petty wedding was recently solemnized in Notre Dame de l'Assomption Church, Arichat, uniting in mariage Edwina Lucille youngest daughter of Mrs. Sabina Forgeron and the late Mr. Narcisse Forgeron of Arichat with Gaston Thomas LeBlanc, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. LeBlanc of West Arichat. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. P. Poirier, Rev. A. Doucet being present in the sanctuary.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Leo Forgeron and looked charming in a street - length white taffeta over nylon net dress, on princess lines, bouffant shoulder veil and short lace gloves. She carried a bouquet of red roses and a white prayer book.

Miss Sylvia Stone, a friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was gowned in a pale pink taffeta dress and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Arthur LeBlanc. The ushers were David Forgeron and Aubrey LeBlanc.

The church was tastefully decorated with a profusion of multi-colored gladiolii.

The mother of the bride wore a floral blue all silk dress with accessories to match and a corsage of white roses. The mother of the groom wore a three-piece beige woolen suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

After the ceremony, a reception took place at the Knights of Columbus Hall, West Arichat, where luncheon was served to over sixty guests. The bride and groom's table was tastefully decorated with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and assorted fall flowers of various colors served to decorate the hall. Graces were recited by Rev. A. Doucet and the toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. A. P. Poirier and fittingly answered by the groom. The cutting of the wedding cake took place in the usual manner.

After the reception, the bride and groom left for a wedding tour to different parts of the province. On their return they will reside in Halifax where the bride is employed in the new Royal Bank of Canada Branch in the Lord Nelson Hotel. The groom will resume his last year of studies at the Nova Scotia Technical College.

The out of town guests were Miss Alma LeBlanc, Halifax; Miss Clarisse LeBlanc, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. William Corbett, former manager of the Royal Bank of Canada branch, in Arichat, and now residing in Inverness; Mr. David Coaps of Lahave, N. S.; Mr. Rene Forgeron and Mr. Leo Forgeron, both of Halifax.

To the strains of the wedding march, the bride entered the church with her father, by whom she was given in marriage.

The bride looked lovely in a floor length gown of white embroidered organza over taffeta with long sleeves ending in points over the wrists and a shoulder length veil. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Carol DeBaie and Darrell DeBaie, sister and brother of the groom acted as attendants. Ushers were Avery Young, and Phil Amey brother of the bride.

The young couple spent two weeks at the brides home where a reception was held in their honor.
