Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

THREE FOR THE MONEY

Looking down from the elevation of its main control tower, the latest CN push - button freight yard, complete except for a period of training for its operating crew, looked just like what it was, a marshalling yard for faster rail shipments. The miracle of automation was being demonstrated by two men who sat at the grey control board switching freight cars. These were given a shove at the crest of a hump and rolled by gravity with hardly a whisper of sound until they barely touched a string of cars being made up on one of several classification tracks in use that afternoon for training purposes.

Symington Yard in Winnipeg, one of four which will eventually be in operation, is the third to go into CN service. Others are the yard at Moncton fanning freight to the Maritime Provinces and another serving the industrial maze of Montreal. Fourth in this sophisticated chain of advanced communications and rail facilities is the hump yard on the fringe of Metro Toronto, still in the construction stage.

I made a special request through the proper channels while I was in Winnipeg for permission to see Symington Yard, named after a director who served on the CN board for 20 years. I knew it was in the final stages of construction when signals from tower-to-ground to - switcher were being tested and I was particularly anxious to see the whole operation before the huge fan of tracks - 62 - (108 miles in all) was filled with inbound and outbound trains.

Not only boys of all ages are fascinated by trains; we gals get a kick out of railroading too. Especially when the magnitude of this operation impresses on one's imagination the fact that most of the necessities of life are moved by rail. Every domestic commodity from a bag of beans to the family car, whether in raw form or the manufactured article, is at some stage tagged by a railway waybill.

WOMEN HAVE STAKE TOO

Even the most elementary thinking on the subject, and most feminine reasoning when it comes to freight is strictly elementary, can realize that more rapid handling servicing and storing will cut to a fraction previous classification time. The wheat that leaves the prairies for eastern mills, or the onions that board freight cars in Holland Marsh, Ontario, destined for prairie stews, can be handled cheaper and more efficiently by these new electronically automated push - button freight yards.

At Symington Yard 6,000 freight cars per day can be serviced, sorted and sent on their way. To speed and co-ordinate operations, six systems of rapid communications are being utilized by yard personel - radio, telephone, teletype, television, walkie - talkie and loud speaker paging. I watched them all in effective use. I even saw a mechanic change a set of steel wheels on a diesel engine in less time than it takes me to remove the nuts on the hub of my car to change a tire.

Ultra modern from the tip of its main control tower to the last consideration for working personell, Symington Yard is the reflection of our times, the constant demand for greater efficiency and better facilities for creating time by saving it.

SCHOOL TELEVISION

Some of the teachers and students of this county are still dubious about the value of the School Television programs offered the Grade IX students.

The students and teachers of North Isle Madame High School who have been fortunate enough to follow these lessons at a kind neighbor's house do not share these ideas. Here are some of the questions which arose in the minds of the students who, failing to find a reasonable answer by themselves, sent them to the Science Teacher, Mr. Kennedy: (1) A liquid has a definate volume but takes the shape of the container. A solid has a definate shape and a definate volume. Nevertheless, when we pour flour in a container it takes the shape of the container. Should we conclude that flour is a liquid? (2) When we put pieces of glass or pieces of paraffin wax in a container, they retain their shape.. Therefore they are solids. This is contradicted in "Chemestry for Secondary Schools", where we are told that glass and wax are fluids. How can we explain this? (3) According to the Kinetic Theory of matter, all matter is composed of tiny particles continuously in motion. The speed of the motion is increased by heat which causes solids to change to liquids and sometimes some particles of a solid escape giving us an example of sublimation. However, we never saw wood melting nor the fridge in our kitchen get smaller on account of heat. Nor did we ever see rocks melting. Are these exceptions to the Kinetic Theory?

To these questions which appear simple to experienced teachers, Mr. Kennedy gave a clear answer during a telecast. This oral lesson was further implemented by the following letter which we wish to bring to your attention.

Dear Students,

Thank you very much for your very kind letter. It is most encouraging to find that a useful service is being provided by these lessons. The lifeless eye of television camera does not give much encouragement.

You will have noticed that I dealt partially with your enquiries in a recent review lesson but it might help if I enlarged slightly by letter.

With regard to solid / liquid state, the particles of any substance such as flour are still solid particles. The fact that they may be rearranged relative to on another and placed in different containers makes no difference in so far as the real particles of solid are concerned. Each particle re-

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Remembrance Day is in the offing. It seems as good a time as any to mention a couple of books that deal with World War I, that vast, brutal, bloody conflict which was to end war forever (ironic laughter in the wings from the Kaiser, Hitler, and Joe Stalin).

The Guns of August by Barbara Tuchman, is a fascinating account of the incredible events of the first month of the Kaiser's War. Old sweats and history buffs will read it with deep interest.

The war is almost ancient history to the youngsters of today. Their grandfathers fought in it. When I was a kid, it was very recent, very real. Most of my numerous uncles had been privates in the Canadian army. As a boy I used to come across souvenirs in our attic: belts containing the inscription "Gott Mit Uns"; a German spiked helmet; an Iron Cross, second class; a water canteen made in Munich.

This book reversed some of my ideas, confirmed others. Somewhere in my reading, over the years, I had picked up the idea that the stories of German atrocities in Belgium were largely based on Allied propaganda, and fanned by the hot winds of patriotism blowing in 1914.

Apparently I was wrong. Mrs. Tuchman, writing coolly and objectively almost 50 years later, quotes chapter and verse to reveal that the German high command deliberately pursued a policy of terror in an attempt to enjoy a quick victory.

The town of Andenne was burned to ashes and 110 persons shot, not by rioting, drunken soldiery, but on the order of the commanding general. At Tamines, 384 civilians were shot. At Dinant, 612 men, women and children, 50 of them taken from church, as it was Suhday, were cut down by machine guns. The campaign of murder, arson and pillage culminated in the sack of the ancient Belgian city of Louvain, where the university, with its world-famous collection of books, was burned.

The Germans failed to learn then the lesson that terror breeds resistance faster than it quells it. Thirty years later, they were up to the same tricks, and with the same excuse—that the victims had brought it upon themselves by their stupid ingratitude and their stubborn opposition to German "law and order."

However, I was not wrong about another idea I've held for a long time—that most generals should be in straight jackets. This book merely confirms my opinion. Not that it needed much confirming, with General Walker egging on segregationists in the south, General Montgomery sounding off on world affairs, of which he apparently knows next to nothing, and various other old generals writing books in which they explain that they were right and all other generals were wrong.

A book like this one must be written from time to time, to time, to blow away the smokescreen thrown up by the changes and counter-changes of retired generals more concerned with their place in history books than with the truth.

The Guns of August reveals ineptitude, stupidity, timourousness and viciousness in high places. But it also illuminates the flashes of the human spirit contained in such words as valor, honor and herioism, in such deeds as gallant Belgium's stand against the bully Germany, and the dash to the Marne, when the taxis of Paris carried straight to the front the men who turned the tide.

Early casualties foretold the sickening slaughter that was to follow. In the month of August, 1914, France lost almost 300,000 men. Later, some battles were to kill 50,000 in a day.

If this meat is too strong for you, try the other book on the same war. Called Three Cheers for Me, it is written by a Canadian, Donald Lamont Jack. It's corny in spots, but hilarious in others. The last chapter, rescribing the wedding night of the hero, a Canadian airman, is one of the funniest things I've ever read. (No Mum, it isn't sexy.)

Perhaps The Guns of August will make you despair of mankind. Don't Read Three Cheers for Me and restore your faith in the theory that the human race is the only one worth being in.

Even if you have a hole in your running shoes.

ILLEGAL DRIVING IN N. S.

Approximately 10 per cent of the driving public neglect to renew their operators licences during their birthmonths, consequently about 20,000 Nova Scotia motorists drive illegally at one time or another during the year, a Department of Highways spokesman said last week.

The system of issuing operators licences during the applicant's birthmonth was introduced in Nova Scotia in January, 1960. Prior to this, licences were issued effective during the fiscal year – April 1 to March 31.

The change in issuance procedures only concerns motor vehicle operators. Renewal of chauffers licences still is required by year-end, December 31, and motor vehicle permits by fiscal year end March 31.

The new system of issuing operators licences has proved very satisfactory, the spokesman said. It has enabled the Motor Vehicle Branch to expedite service on the issuance of permits and plates; alleviate, to a great extent, congestion and disfribution problems during certain peak periods of the year, and has provided a more equally distributed work load for the branch employees.

The Motor Vehicle Branch handles an average of 560,000 transactions per year including issuance of operators and chauffeurs licences, plates, transfers and inquiries. These transactions are increasing at an average of five per cent a year.

Of this total, there are approxametly 220,000 persons who are licenced operators in the province. Under the new system the operator's licence expires at the end of the birthmonth but may be renewed at any time during the birthmonth. Ten per cent of those required to renew neglect or forget to do so.

However, the spokesman said, a good number of these errant drivers obtain their licence the fillowing month and the majority of the remainder renew during the month of March when applying for motor vehicle permits. Other licences are renewed following police action and conviction in municipal and county courts on charges of operating a motor vehicle without a licence.

During the two fiscal years from April 1, 1960, to March 31, 1962, close to 2,700 persons were convicted of this offense. A great majority of them had failed to renew their licences.

Since most of the licences are

Voters to Decide

Now that legal notice has been given, and duly advertised, to comply under the regulations of the Liquor Control Act of this province. A poll will be held in District No. 1, Arichat; District No. 4 Louisdale and District No. 7, St. Peter's; on Tuesday, October 30th, when voters will decide whether the are in favor or against the issuing of of Licenses to established proprietors in the districts where voting will take place.

On page 4 of this issue you will find an advertisement sponsored by the Innkeepers Guild, soliciting a YES vote on October 30th. The Innkeepers of this province during recent years, have strongly urged the Licensing of Hotels and Restaurants in the province, under the Liquor Control Act and have been granted such privileges, providing a YES vote was given by the voters in the area where such licenses were issued. All license holders must comply with the regulations of the Liquor Control Act of the province.

Several establishments in the province are operating quite successfully under this law, which is strictly enforced.

Some years ago we voted in favour of Commission Stores in the Province and although in some instances the purchasing of liquor and beer may be abused, however, taking a broad view of the present sysem, it appears that it serving a better purpose than under tho old N. S. T. A.

We are inclined to support a YES vote for licensing of Hotels and Restaurants and feel that this will help bolster the tourist trade in this area. If this legislation operates successfully elsewhere in the province, why not give it a try here.

The price of power is responsibility for the public good.

CANNON PUXLEY TO VISIT ST. JOHN'S PARISH, ARICHAT

Born in England in 1907, Cannon Puxley was educated at Eton, where he became Captain of the Oppidans and Chairman of the Eton Society. Proceeding to Oxford, he won two Exhibitions at Brasenose College, and upon graduation won a Commonwealth Fund Fellowship for research in Economics at Yale, where he took his M. A. and wrote a book, "A Critique of the Gold Standard", published in 1933.

In June 1932, Canon Puxley was married in Toronto, his bride being Mary Sedgewick, daughter of Mr. Justice George H. Sedgewick of the Supreme Court of Ontario a native of Middle Musquodoboit. Together they set sail for India as missionaries of the Church Missionary Society of Great Britian, and for the next 8 years Dr. Puxley was professor of Economics at St. John's College, Agra, during which time he wrote two more books, "Agricultural Marketing in Agra District" (1935), and "Christian Land Settlements" (1940).

Canon Puxley served in the Indian Army from 1940 to 1946, retiring with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He then returned with his family to Canada, where he entered Trinity College, Toronto, for training in theology. He was ordained deacon in the Church of England in Canada in 1947, and put in charge of the Mission of Roches Point in the Diocese of Toronto being ordained priest in 1948. In October, 1949, he became General Secretary of the Student Christian Movement of Canada, which office he held until his appointment as Seceretary of the Departments of Overseas Missions and Evangelism in the Canadian Council of Churches, in July, 1953.

In September 1954 Canon Puxley became President of the University of King's College, Halifax, Nova Scotia, in which office he was formally installed as Canon of All Saints' Cathedral, Halifax. In May 1955, Trinity College, Toronto, awarded him the degree of Doctor of Divinity (honoris causa).

Since coming to King's he has continued to travel extensively. In 1956 he was invited to direct an international seminar in Bavaria under the auspices of the World University Service of Canada, and toured Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union for a month with a hand picked party of 8 Canadian students. In May - June 1959 he was invited as President of Canada's oldest university, to an Inter-American University Conference at Quito, Ecuador, and visited also Colombia and Venezuela in connection with King's proposed Latin American Institute. Later that summer he was visiting Lecturer at St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, England, and again spent some time in Western Europe. He was again in England for a short time in the spring of 1960. He was selected as one of the four delegates of the Anglican Church of Canada to the Third Assembly of the World Council of Churches at New Delhi, India in 1961.

Canon Puxley, received honorary D.C.L. (Doctor of Civil Law) at Acadia University this summer.

(Canon Puxley will be the speaker at St. John's Church, Arichat, at the 11 a.m., Service on Sunday, November 4th., and will also be the speaker at St. George's, Cape La Ronde at 3 p. m., and at Holy Trinity, Port Hawkesbury, at 7 p. m. the same day.

POPPY CAMPAIGN 1962

If ye break faith with us who die
we shall not sleep,
though poppies grow
IN FLANDERS FIELDS.

At present members of the Canadian Legion and their Auxiliary, as well as Cadets are calling on the people of Richmond County to wear a POPPY.

You will ask why should we wear a poppy?

Here are some of the reasons:

1. Why should I wear a poppy? When you wear a poppy or display a poppy wreath, you honor the war dead and you help the living?

2. How do I help the living?

Your contributions provide quick help for needy veterans and their dependents.

3. Does any veteran or dependent get Poppy funds help?

Yes. In fact 75 per cent of all cases involve veterans who are not Legion members.

4. Can Poppy money be used for anything else?

No. The Legion's constitution sresses that funds must be held in trust. They are subscribed to by the public. They are held in a bank account separate from that of the branches, and cannot be used for any other purposes than to help veterans who need help.

5. How much should I give?

We suggest that you give according to the dictates of your conscience. You might remember that the cost of all the things the poppy funds provides is much higher today than it used to be. Therefore it takes more to do the same job.

Help the Canadian Legion in the Sale of poppies.

renewed in the months following birthmonths, at the end of the fiscal year and through pressure from the police and courts, there is little, if any, loss in revenue to the province, the spokesman said.

The public has had more than two years to become accustomed to the new procedure. When the system was inaugurated, the public was informed through the press each licence contains the date of expiry for the bearer's information and all stationary used by the Motor Vehicle Branch carries a notation regarding renewal requirements. In the past, a certain amount of advertising has been used to bring to the attention of the public the new requirements.

On the other hand, the spokesman pointed out, the 90 per cent of the public who do not forget or neglect to renew their operator's licences do so during the first few days of each month, a practice which would be wise for the remaining 20,000 to follow, he suggested.

Each person is urged to check his or her operator's licence to ensure that it is valid in order to avoid any personal inconvenience the spokesman concluded.

PAINTING NOTRE DAME CHURCH

For the past few weeks Notre Church has been receiving a new coat of paint to its massive towers and indeed looks very attractive. This beautiful edifice was once the Cathedral of the Diocese and is we believe one of the largest or the largest church of wooden structure in the province.

Very Rev. A. P. Poirier, pastor, is to be congratulated for the manner in which he keeps both the exterior and interior of the church in such excellent condition.

The painting is in charge of Ivan Shaw, who has little difficulty climbing the high towers of this church and has on several occasions performed the same task at Notre Dame Church.

FROM CLARK'S HARBOR

Sam Nickerson, of Clark's Harbor Shelburne County, was a weekend visitor at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Nickerson, of Pondville. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Stoddard also of Clark's Harbor.

The Nickerson's are prominent lobster and fish buyers on the South Shore. Austin has been buying lobsters in this area for the past several years and during the fall and winter months are engaged in this industry on the South Shore.

CONTRACTOR FOR NEW SCHOOL

The MacDonald Construction Company of Bedford, have moved in their equipment to build the new High School here. At present excavation of the site is now underway and if the weather holds good the building should get underway sometime in late November.

CELEBRATES 98th BIRTHDAY

One of our oldest residents of Isle Madame, George Mauger, of Cape LaRonde, celebrated his 98th birthday on October 17th at the home of his nephew John Mauger and Mrs. Mauger, with whom he is residing.

Friends and relatives of the aged gentleman called on him to extend congratulations and good wishes. He is still quite alert and has an excellent memory for a man of his advanced age.

A well-known wood worker and wheelwright during his lifetime, he operated a large mill where he manufactured window frames and sashes as well as building complete spinning wheels. He had a steady market for these wheels in Newfoundland and no doubt many are still in existence today. His trade mark was embedded in the frame and read George Major, Cape LaRonde. He made these spinning wheels outright at his mill including the iron work. Mr. Mauger's work shop was completely destroyed by fire some years ago. Miss Anne Jane Mauger, who resides with her niece, Mrs. M. J. Bourinot, Arichat, is a sister to Mr. Mauger.

May he enjoy continued happiness and good health.

CARD OF THANKS

The following Card of Thanks, was to appear some weeks ago, but was mislaid from our copy file:—

The family of the late Mrs. Newman Boudreau, of Boudreauville, wish to express their sincere thanks to kind neighbors and friends who helped in anyway during their sad bereavement and to those who sent Mass Cards, Sympathy Cards and Messages of Sympathy.

Special thanks to Rev. Father MacDonald, Rev. Father Doucet, Rev. Father Murphy; also to the nursing staff of St. Rita's Hospital, Sydney; to C. A. Boucher, of Arichat.

To one and all we are deeply grateful.

Also the Petit de Grat choir and the assisting choirs of Arichat and West Arichat we are most grateful for the service rendered.

Signed by the husband, sons and daughters of the late Mrs. Newman Boudreau.

Alex Marchand

Councillor Alex Marchand, of Louisdale passed away at his home on Saturday after a long illness. He was highly regarded in Louisdale and beyond its borders, having represented that district for 25 years in the Municipal Council and was at the time of his death a member of the Municipal School Board. He was very courageous and notwithstanding very poor health he attended the sessions of Council and also attended meetings of the School Board.

Alex in politics was a Liberal and nobody could doubt that. He was a strong supporter of the party.

In Louisdale and the district in general he was interested in the welfare of its people and worked hard to improve their lot.

In recent years the late Mr. Marchand conducted a mobile clothing business and was well-known by his many patrons both on the mainland and on Isle Madame.

His death has caused widespread sorrow in the community, where he spent the greater part of his lifetime and the mourners by the hundreds who came to pay their last respects and offer condolence to the wife and family, is ample proof of the esteem held for the deceased.

The late Mr. Marchand was a devout member of St. Louis Church, Louisdale and a faithful member of the Laurence Kavanagh Council of the Knights of Columbus.

To the wife and family we extend our sincere sympathy in the passing of a loving husband and father.

We look forward to fuller report of the funeral from our Louisdale correspondent.

Miller Marchand

Miller Marchand, a well-known and highly regarded citizen of Louisdale passed away at the St. Anne Hospital here on Sunday. The late Mr. Marchand was in his 85th year and was ill only a short time, having suffered a heart attack.

He was a very industrious man and only up to few years ago retired from active work. He was a well-known trapper in his early life and also engaged in farming. He leaves to mourn his death besides his wife a large and devouted family.

The funeral which was largely attended took place from St. Louis Church, with Rev. Father Girrior as celebrant at the Mass. Burial was in the church cemetery where the service was conducted by the pastor.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the wife and family tains its own shape. After all, each boulder in a pile of large rocks is a solid and remains a solid even if the boulders are rearranged. It is just a matter of scale.

The distinction between solid and liquid is rather difficult where amorphus substances are concerned and I would find it difficult to draw a definite line. Sometimes glass is described as an extremely slow - flowing liquid or as a supercooled liquid, sometimes as a solid or a solid solution. In the review lesson, I mentioned pitch. A lump of pitch may be cracked into positions by means of a hammer yet, if the lumps are piled together and left at ordinary temperature for a year or so, they will begin to flow together again.

Where melting is concerned, wood does not melt when heated because it contains within itself substances which break down chemically before melting temprratures are reached. This would happen also with coal which, of course, is merely fossilized wood. Some forms of stone would melt or partially melt - metal ores might give up the metal, the volcano produces molton rock in the form of lava, the .glass furnace produces glass from sand.

I am really quite enthusiastic about being able to help the smaller schools where difficulties of both staffing and supply of equipment make adequate teaching of all subject almost impossible. This is far more exciting to me than the use of the programmes in large schools where specialist teachers are quite capable of doing the whole job unaided. Of course, do not misunderstand me. Even in a small school such as yours, my efforts are quite useless without you and your help. I shall be most interested to learn how your class progresses, of ways in which I can make the course more useful to you, and of any special problems which I may be able to solve for you.

Yours very sincerely,
Robert Kennedy.

CREDIT UNION DAY CELEBRATIONS

A letter from Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker was proudly displayed recently in several thousand credit union offices across Canada. It salutes the country's 2,700,000 credit union members on the third Thursday of October.

Extending his greetings for this special day, the prime minister comments that the expansion of credit unions in Canada affords strong evidence of the worthwhile functions that are being performed by them."

In the expansion noted by Mr. Diefenbaker, Canadian credit unions last year extended their membership to an additional 200,000 people - a 6% increase; increased their savings by 12.3% - another $147.6 million; and boosted their assets by 13.3%, or $169.6 million.

The prime minister's greetings and goo dwishes to credit union people were sent to the Canadian office of the Credit Union National Association (CUNA) in Hamilton, Ontario, and CUNA mailed a facsimile to each of the country's 4,600 credit unions.

Robert Ingram, CUNA's Canadian manager, says the growth of credit unions across the country since January suggests a record year in the movement's development. By the end of 1962, he predicts, there should be more than 3 million Canadians enjoying the thrift and loan services of credit unions they own and operate themselves.

Even with normal growth, credit union assets should exceed $1.65 billions by year's end, and members' savings should reach the $1.5 million mark. Money loaned to credit union members, Mr. Ingram points out, comes from the savings of other members.

Besides contributing to the Canadian economy by encouraging thrift and providing low - cost loans, credit union people here have helped to extend this self - help program to many other countries. Through membership in CUNA, the international credit union body, they share in a world extension program that is currently aiding groups in more than 80 countries to develop their own credit unions.

Earlier this year, credit union people in Saskatchewan raised $14,500 to develop the credit union movement in Tanganyika. The project originated to celebrate the silver anniversary of the credit union movement in Saskatchewan. Credit union leaders there described it as a fitting way to give thanks for the benefits they had received from the movement, by helping to extend it to an area where it was greatly needed.

Olaf Spetland, CUNA's World Extension director, who suggested the Tanganyikan project to Saskatchewan, says the emerging African nations particularly need credit unions, both for their economic services and the democratic training they provide. This kind of help is vital to the development of Africa, says Septland, and even a little help now will be far more effective than aid given in a few years time.

Joseph Mutayoba, of Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika, is currently in Saskatchewan studying the organization and operation of credit unions, and will go to CUNA's international headquarters in Madison, Wisconsin, for further training before returning home to work to develop credit unions throught his country.

An Open Letter To Voters:

You will be asked on Tuesday, October 30, 1962 to Vote on the Question: "Are you in Favour of the Sale of Liquor for Consumption on premises licensed by the Liquor License Board?" When the votes are counted, either of one of two possible results will follow:

If the majority votes YES, applications submitted by established proprietors who meet the exacting standards of the Liquor License Board will be brought before a well advertised public hearing after which one or more may be approved.

If the majority votes NO, the Sale of Liquor by the glass will be denied the general public for at least three years.

In the best interest of citizens in Numbers 1, 4 and 7 we solicit your YES Vote on Tuesday, October 30th.
