Restoration in Cobourg

There is a town in Ontario that can do a bit of name dropping with a resounding thud. It can also lay claim to another distinction. At one time in its varied history it was the Hyannis Port of Canada. The combined wealth of its summer residents added to that of its well - heeled natives would rival the legend of President Kennedy's family millions.

Cobourg has had many ups and downs as changes in name. First called Amherst by its little clutch of settlers, later dubbed Hamilton Village, then Bucksville and finally incorporated in 1850 as the town of Cobourg in celebration of Princess Charlotte's marriage to Leopold of Saxe Cobourg, the lakeside corporation is learning to merge its two identities; tourist paradise and industrial potential, with equanimity.

Two CN ferries used to dock daily with a cargo of 28 freight cars and often as many as 1,000 passengers, holidayers from Rochester, New York, across Lake Ontario. They swelled the merchants' coffers and delighted in beach and park facilities which, to this day, are the pride of all the town residents.

The ferries had their day, Highway 401 by-passed the town, the influx each summer of American millionaires dwindled and Cobourg faced another chapter in its metamorphosed career from one of the oldest settlemenst in Canada to its present population of 10,100.

It can now boast of having one of the finest harbors made accessible to ocean traffic via the St. Lawrence Seaway. This has attracted several excellent industries well aware of rail and water shipping facilities. Cobourg's town hall is not only the home of its municipal offices and council chamber, but is unique in two other respects. It has a deepwell courtroom patterned after the one in Old Baily, London, England, and an Opera House, complete with two Royal Boxes. Many of its old homes are being restored by enthusiastic residents well aware of their heritage of antiques, which are being regularly found in the exciting search of local antique shops and at auction sales.

Visionaries who planned the restoration of the ancient town hall and carried it out even to the use of old, authentic Georgian colors used in paint and upholstrey fabrics, hope that the CN's steam engine tour which landed 700 holidayers in Cobourg last May, is portent of planned tours from Toronto and Montreal.

Famous for its Air

They boast of the statistic that Cobourg has the second best air in the world, heavy with that relaxing stuff called ozone. They want to show off the birthplace of movie star Marie Dressler, now a famous restaurant; the house where Katherine Cornell was married and which later became a girls' school called Hatfield Hall.

In a tour of the town would be included the Presbyterian Church where Beatrice Lillie sang and her sister and mother played the organ. Tour members would learn that the poetess Carrie Munson Hoople was born in a house that stands forlornly on a huge lot waiting to be demolished before a shopping centre can be erected. They would be told that Cobourg once entered a craft in the America Cup Race. Called the Countess of Dufferin, the sailing ship was entirely built in Cobourg.

Burwash, Nelles, Edgerton, Ryerson, Ryrie, Lampman and Sifton, names that weave a golden thread in the industrial, merchandising, literary and sports life of Canada, all played an important part in Cobourg's history.

C. W. L. Meet

The monthly meeting of the St. John the Baptist Parish Council of the Catholic Women's League was held at the Parish Hall at River Bourgeois at 2:30 p.m. on November 4th. The attendance was small owing ,no doubt to the weather. The meeting, presided over by the President, Mrs. C. W. Boyd was opened with prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed on motion of the Secretary, Marie A. Boyd seconded by Mrs. John Landry. The Report of the Treasurer showing a balance for the month of October of $116.00 was read by Marie Boyd in the absence of the Treasurer, Mrs. Walter Fougere, and passed on motion of Miss Hilda Burke seconded by Mrs. Victor Burke. It was then announced that a regional meeting would be held at Petit De Grat on November 14th. beginning at 2 00 p. m. and plans were made to secure transportation for all those wishing to attend. It was moved by Miss Hilda Burke that a sale of used and new clothing, combined with a pantry sale and bingo in the evening, be held on Nov. 24 This was seconded by Mrs. J. H.

NOVA SCOTIA LIBERALS NAME EARL URQUHART AS LEADER

EARL W. URQUHART

Earl W. Urquhart, 41 - year-old MLA for Richmond County, was elected leader of the Liberal Party of Nova Scotia, by defeating Halifax lawyer Gordon S. Cowan by a margin of 11 votes.

Mr. Cowan who polled 303 votes to Mr. Urquhart's 314, immediately moved to have the election of Mr. Urquhart unanimous, at the party convention called to elect a successor of Dr. Henry D. Hicks, who submitted his resignation following his defeat in the provincial election of 1960.

The newly - elected leader, who first entered the Legislature in a by - election in 1949, told delegates he would visit "every city, every town, every village and every remote community in Nova Scotia." In a "Liberal crusade for better and brighter days for Nova Scotia.

Mr. Urquhart's nomination was moved by Peter M. Nicholson, MLA for Annapolis West, who said the party needed a man of proven ability to attract voters. He said Mr. Urquhart had won each of his elections since entering politics in 1949.

It was seconded by Mary Gillis of Antigonish, a Niece of the late Hon. Angus L. MacDonald.

Mr. Cowan's nomination was moved by Alisdair Graham of Antigonish, who described him as a man of broad education and experience, capable of meeting the challenges of economic and social change in Nova Scotia. Mr. Cowan was MLA for Halifax Centre from 1956 until his defeat in 1960.

It was seconded by Eric Balcom former MLA for Kings North.

In accepting the leadership, Mr. Urquhart said "I am fully prepared to accept the responsibility and to discharge it with all the energy and with all the ability I possess."

Referring to his earlier remarks concerning the need to provide Nova Scotia with better policies in industrial, economic and social fiields, he said "I intend to pursue these goals and I intend to reach these new horizons with your help and your support."

The Liberal Party, he had said in his nomination speech, must continue to be a party of reform.. "a party of new horizons"....with much to be done in attracting industries, expanding existing indus-

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Can anyone tell me why women are so fierce about money. As Brutus said, I pause for a reply. No answer? Well, then, can anyone tell me why women are so absolutely clueless about perfectly straightforward handling of the lovely stuff? No answer. I knew there wouldn't be.

For years, I handled the money in ou rfamily, and everything ran smoothly. A couple of years ago, yielding to some mad whim, I agreed to turn over the family finances to the Old Battleaxe, and since then, we have endured fiscal chaos.

The trouble is, she panics. I used to solve the problem of bills by putting them all in my hip pocket and letting them age for a while. She gets half a dozen bills and goes into a tizzy.

She spreads everything out on the table: pencils, sheets and sheets of paper, bills, bank book. She adds everything up six times. She subtracts debts from bank balance bursts into tears and hurls charges such as "Nicotine addict" and "alcholic" at me.

Every time we have a financial crisis — that is about once a week —it turns out that the only way we can stay out of debtors prision is for me to give up the weed and the malt.

And every time I have to point out carefully and patiently that we little sinners ar ethe only thing that keeps this country from going on the rocks.

It's not the big sinners who support the schools and hospitals and pay for all those new docks and post offices and missiles without warheads and inconclusive elections. Heck, I could keep a mistress or two, gamble heavily, declare a phony bankruptcy — do everything but commit murder — and the government wouldn't take a nickle in taxes. No, it's the wee sinner, with his deck of fags and his box of beer, who pays the shot.

This simple economic truth, however, rarely diverts the old lady from her tantrum. She threw a dandy when she came home yesterday, after spending a week away from us.

She was sore as blazes at all of us when she left, over something or other, and she wasn't home twenty minutes, the kisses and hugs were scarcely culminated, when she blew up again.

She had left me a detailed note. I was to pay the interest on the mortgage, be sure to pay the hydro bill and get the discount, put so much from account A into account B to cover such and such, see the bank about renewing our demand note on the T. V. set, be sure to put the right change in the milk bottles, because the pup licks the milk off the top and the pennies fall into the leaves, rake the leaves, put out the garbage, pay my insurance premium, see that the kids had a bath, and not watch the late movie.

I was sort of busy while she was away. After all, I had to cook dinner for three each night, organize a trip to the city for my Grade 11 kids to see a play, canvass for the YMCA drive, and watch the late movie without somebody hollering at me to come to bed.

Besides, it was my week to entertain the Friday Afternoon Club, a perambulating organization for tired teachers, at which they let off steam and take on fuel.

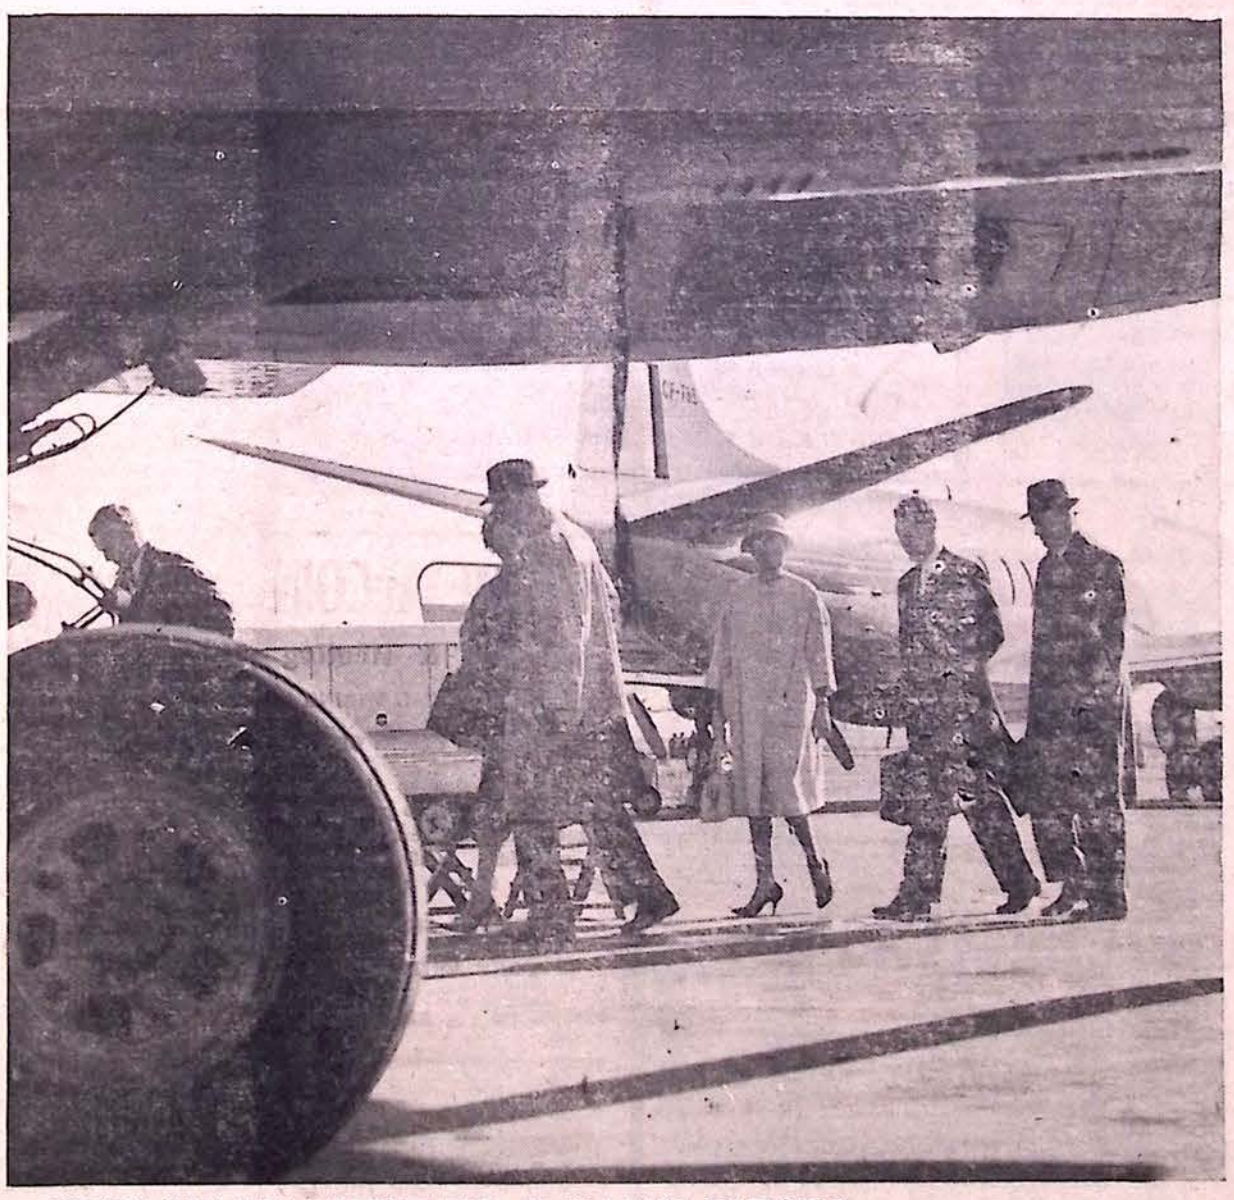

I did get the garbage out. At least, my son did. He's still scared of women. He's only fifteen. But I didn't pay much attention to the rest of the instructions. In fact, the note containing them was misplaced. That is a word I like. I didn't actually lose it, but I could not find it.

To cut everything short, and to put it so simply a child could understand it, I collected $141.78 from my students for tickets to the show, picked up $49. 50 on the YMCA canvass, issued a cheque on either account A or account B for $270 to cover the cost of the tickets, spent either $14 or $24 of the Y money on groceries, bought some beer fo rthe Friday Afternoon Club out of either my ticket or canvass money, and made my own donation to the Y out of the milk money.

You should have heard the screams. You'd think I'd run off with a belly - dancer, or lost my job or failed to use a deodorant, or committed something equally heinous. She was just about ready to call in the Mounties.

One of these days, I'm going to put my foot down over these financial crises of ours, and if it does not sink right to the kneee, there'll be some changes made. Or something.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

AUSTERITY HAS HELPED

Because it was absolutely necessary, the Canadian Government reluctantly adopted austerity measures. Those measures have helped to increase employment. Our foreign exchange reserves are in better shape. Our economy has improved at a faster rate than that of the U. S. A.

Isn't there a moral to be drawn from this?

There is, of course. It has shown that what many economists have been saying is true: we needed to quit living beyond our means. Once willing to do so, our furture strength is assured.

However, it is unlikely that policontinue thse e necessary meaticians of any strlpe will want to sures very long. They prefer to spend freely and tax heavily. Common sense is not the most popular quality, they feel.

They may be wrong. In my opinion, there are many voters who would back all moves to reduce expenditure and get our budget balanced. They know that only by self - discipline now can Canada build a solid and prosperous future. They have seen powerful nations such as Britain lose economic strength through overspending, through attempting to provide for the citizens comforts that the citizens were not, as individuals, prepaired to earn. Every Canadian with a touch of horse sense has known for a long time that our spending spree could not go on forever wtihout a day of reckoning.

A pump that must be primed is not good enough. There has been too much pump priming in Canada. We surely have learned our lesson. We have faced facts and reformed, to some extent, our tendency to over-spend. Have we the gumption to stick with it until we can afford the affluence we have been affecting.

MRS. FELIX SMITH

The death of Mrs. Felix Smith occurred at the home of Miss Valerie Goyetche on Friday, Nov. 2nd, she was 80 years old. Mrs. Smith was predeceased by two husbands, the first was Alexander MacRae and the second was Felix Smith.

After living there for some time, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their son Jimmie moved to Seaview where they bought a farm. They later bought a home in River Tillard, where they lived until after Mr. Smith died. Jimmie, then moved to Ontario, and Mrs. Smith who had been failing in health for some time, moved to St. Peter's and then to Miss Goyetche's where she was cared for until her death. She is survived by three sons from her first marriage: Alex P. of Cleveland, Rich Co.;Clayton and Jack of Toronto, also a son Jimmie in Toronto, from her second marriage. Also surviving are two brothers, Frank and George of Sydney. A sister, Barbara (Mrs. Frank MacInnis) predeceased her six months ago. Her son Jimmie, who with his wife had been down from Toronto to visit her some months ago, arrived down for her funeral which took place from the United Church at St. Peter's on Saturday, Nov. 3rd, at 2;00 p.m., with Rev. Mattinson officiating.

STELLA MARIS HOME AND SCHOOL ORGANIZED AT RIVER BOURGEOIS.

A "Home and School" for River Bourgeois, was organized on Wednesday November 7th when some 40 interested citizens met at the school at 8:00 p. m.

Present at the meeting besides local citizens was Mike MacNeil of Louisdale School, organizer for the County; Dennis Britten of L'ardoise School, President of the County Council and Mrs. Paul White, Treasurer of the Council.

Mike MacNeil was nominated chairman for the evening and K. Cosman was nominated as secretary.

Dennis Britten, President for the County Council, was then asked to say a fe wwords about Home and School. In his talk, Mr. Britten said that he believed in, and worked for the organization, not only because he liked children, but that in them he saw the future leaders, not only of the Community or the County, but of the Province and probably of the Country and as such they deserved the best possible training that could be given to them. However, children, he said, cannot be trained by teachers alone nor by parents alone but are influenced by all those in authority. "Fund Raising", which he said many people think is the main purpose of a Home and School, is really only a minor part of tt's program. The Organixation's main object is to get parents and teachers together so that they may work for the greatest possible good of the children. In union with the ohter Home and School Organizations in the County and Province many things may be accomplished for the good of the children.

It was then moved by Stanley MacPhee, seconded by Mrs. Leo MacPhee that a nominating committee be named by the chair to bring in a slate of officers to fill the following positions: — President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and Chairman for the cimmittees; Program, Social and Membership. Motion was carried and the following were named on the nominating committee: Mrs. Leo MacPhee and Mrs. Leo Digout, who brought in the following names to fill positions:

President, James Richard.
Vice-Pres., John Landry.
Secretary, Kennie Cosman.
Treasurer, Mrs. Stan MacPhee.

The following were appointed to preside over the various committees:—

Program—Miss Leona McDonald
Social—Mrs. Leo Digout.
Membership— Mrs. Fred Digout

It was moved by Walter Fougere seconded by Mrs. James Richard that these officers be installed. Motion was carried.

James Richard then thanked the meeting for appointing him Chair-

ARICHAT HOME AND SCHOOL

The monthly meeting of the Arichat Home and School Association was held at 8 p. m., Nov., 14., in the Convent hall; the number attending was fifty.

After prayer and the reading of the minutes, various reports were heard. Mrs. Laura Hearn reported on the Fall Council: "The erection of new schools at Arichat, Petit De Grat, St. Peter's and Johnstown prevents the Municipal Sscool Board from contributing to playground equipment..The much discussed T. V. programs were explained as being on trial. For that reason the board did not deem it wise to purchase sets for the schools..The physical fitness program was discussed. All agreed to the need of it, but the drawback is the lack of funds...."

Mrs. W. George, convenor for the ways and means committee reported on the Hallowe'en party an dsocial. The gross receipts were $104.01 with net profits of $76.71. Teachers and parents expressed thanks to the committee for the entertainment provided the children. Mrs. L. Boudreau, Health Convenor, reported having ordered 14 bottles of capsules and having a little cash on hand.

Very Reverend Father Poirier gave a most interesting report on a brochure issued by the department of Labor. The conditions required for admission to the trades school were outlined. The speaker stressed the facility for non- academic youth to become useful in society by learning a trade. He quoted from "The School Board Newsletter" of September; Granted that the teacher and schools are in every sense adequately fitted for the development and education of children wherein lies the explaination of many failures in our schools ....Teachers can, and do, exert a worthy influence on the thinking of young people. They are not, however, any substitute for a sound and sensible home influence"....Then came a thought - provoking question addressed to youth: "Do I desire, with the best of my effort and ability to make progress and to maintain the good standing of my school....?"

New business was then attended to. The first item was the presentation of Mr. Gracie, Chairman, of cash prizes to winners in the contests sponsored by the Educational ABC's of Canadian Industry: Lena Marchand, Robert LeBlanc, Betty Ann Boucher, Alice Madden, Paul Joyce, Dolores Boudreau, Claire DeCoste, Aurine Marchand and Edith Binet. Two prize winners no longer in attendance are Mary Corbett and Genora Landry. An award of $25.00 was presented to the Principal for the good work of the school as a whole.

Discussion followed regarding the exchange of Christmas gifts among the school children. It was felt that such an exchange promoted friendship. The grades involved and the value of the gifts were decided upon. The next meeting of the Home and School was set for December 11, with a lunch and a visit from Santa Claus. The meeting also voted for money to give the children a treat at Christmas.

The educational part of the program consisted of a short informal talk by Sister M. Florentine on the needs of every child....love,security, acceptance, faith, control, guidance, protection, and independence. The speaker illustrated these points by mean of incidents taken from everyday life.

The Principal stated that marks have gone up in Spelling and Arithmetic since the monthly results of tests are published in the local newspaper. She also displayed the art material bought with the prize money awarded the school.

A most enjoyable recreational program followed. A brain teazer in arithmetic was followed by a drawing contest with lights out. The winners were Mrs. Norma Stone, Miss Francis and Aurine Marchand. A sing-song closed the program. Conducting the various songs were Mr. L. Gallant, vice-president, Mr. Norman Samson, vice - principal, and Sister M. Florentine.

When the meeting adjourned, everyone felt that the evening had been a most enjoyable one. The secretary reported 38 paid members.

WEST ARICHAT HOME AND SCHOOL

The regular monthly meeting of the Acadiaville Home and School Association was held in the School on October 29th., with Mr. Cites T. Babin presiding. there were thirty four members in attendance. The meeting opened with a prayer by Rev. Sr. Marie Sainte Achille, Superior, Les Filles de Jesus.

After hearing the minutes of the last meeting read by the secretary the meeting heard reports from and the report by the treasurer, the various committees.

Mr. Stanley Digdon gave a report on the dances sponsored by the Home and School during the past summer, emphasizing that they had not been very successful mainly because of the adverse weather conditions which persisted throughout the summer. When the question of continuing the dances was raised, Sr. Adeline pointed out that it would be bad policy on the part of the Home and School to organize dances during scholastic year because many young students attend these dances, and this is to be discouraged not encouraged. The meeting decided to keep dances out of the Home and School program, until the summer.

It was decided that the card games would be held again this winter, and a committee consisting of; Mrs. Raymond Bona, Mrs. Edward Starkey, Mrs Donald Melanson and Mrs. Gaston Fougere was appointed to operate these games.

The playground Project, the associations major project for the year was also brought forward for discussion and a committee consisting of Mr. Gerard Boudreau, Mr. Clancy George and Mr. Conrad Poirier was appointed to make inquiries and arrangements for the levelling off and the possibility of obtaining equipment for the school grounds. To build funds for this project, the association decided to present an Adult play later on during the winter. Work on this play is to begin in early January, under the direction of Sr. Adeline, principal of the school.

The matter of adult courses was also brought to the attention of the members.

After the business meeting, a panel discussion on teacher specialization was enjoyed. The panel, moderated by C. T. Babin, consisted of Sr. Adeline, Mr. Gerard Boudreau and Mr. Conrad Poirier. The principal explained why teachers were teaching special subjects in classrooms and grades other then their own and further discussion brought out the advantages of specialization with regard to the pupil as well as the teacher. An outline of High School courses available at Acadiaville School was given, pointing out the more important subjects.

After the discussion, members adjourned to the teachers' room where coffee and donuts were served.

tries such as coal and steel, in bettering social welfare. "Our municipalities need attention, rural areas need good highways," he said.

"The Diefenbaker-Stanfield team must go." he said, "our slogan must be join the Liberal crusade for better and brighter days for Nova Scotia."

About 1,400 persons were in the Halifax Forum for the convention —628 registered delegates occupied the convention floor.

Mr. Urquhart polled exactly half the votes of the registered delegates. However, only 617 votes were counted as three were spoiled and eight delegates apparently did not vote.

Mr. Urquhart was educated in the local school at his home in West Bay and at the Provincial Normal College, taught school for a time before joining the RCAF in Word War Two. He served as an instructor in the air force and then in the spring of 1945 joined the army as a volunteer for Pacific duty. However, the end of the war in the Pacific came before the Canadians had gone into action.

Following his discharge, Mr. Urquhart worked as assistant manager and later as manager of the Moncton Flying Club.

He entered Dalhousie University in 1946 and graduated in law in 1950. During his law school years he won both the Angus L. MacDonald award and the Viscount Bennett shield for debating.

He entered politics while still a law student and won the Richmond seat in a by-election in 1949.

He held the seat in successive elections in 1953, 1956 and 1960.

He was named Liberal Whip in the Legislature by the late Premier Angus L. MacDonald and served in the same post under Premiers Harold Connolly and Henry Hicks.

In 1961, following the defeat of the Liberal leader in the previous general election, he was named House Leader of the Liberal party and became official leader of the Opposition.

He has continued to make his home at West Bay, where his mother, the former Hughena Ferguson still lives. His father, William Angus Urquhart, died in 1954.

Unmarried, he has three brothers — Donald, a West Bay mink rancher; Bill, a member of the Sydney police force and Neil, assistant jailer at the Cape Breton County Jail.
