SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

IT WOULD BE HEAVENLY!

What would you like to find, most, when you go to heaven? Let's assume, for one wild, exhilarated moment, that we're all going to get there.

Some people would plump for a meeting with loved ones. This I can never understand. It's like a fellow who has served a life sentence waiting to be greeted by the warden when he hits the pearly gates.

Others, sad souls, would be overjoyed if they could "just be happy." Not me. Being happy all the time would be a real drag. I thoroughly enjoy being miserable on this orb, so that when something good happens, my pleasure is intensified.

Quite a few, who suffer from physical ailments, would be satisfied with peace and comfort. The insomniac imagines days and nights of solid slumber. The arthritic dreams of being able to scratch his opposite ear without feeling as though his arm was being severed at the shoulder by a red-hot iron.

Flat-chested girls would settle for a mammoth bosom. They forgot that none of the rest of us would be interested.

Some chaps I know would be perfectly happy to leave anytime if they could count on a golf course with emerald fairways and velvet greens, 18 holes a day in which they sliced not, nor did they hook, and a good game of poker at the 19th, with the bar handy.

Many sober citizens I know would be happy in heaven for ever afterwards, if they could be guaranteed (and get it in writing) that their wives (or husbands) would be in the other place, permanently.

Alcoholics would not only be in heaven, but the seventh of the same name, if their crock runneth over, perpetually, and somebody else was looking after things.

A few millionaires, once they had admitted they couldn't take it with them, would be serene in a place where there were no taxes, no labor movements, no wages to pay, and nobody asking them to donate to something every 12 minutes.

My personal fantasy is a simple one. I'd go like a shot if someone would promise me, unconditionally, a dark, swirling trout stream, impregnable to invasion by women, telephones and other nuisances.

I can see it now. Swift, deep, crooked, ending in a vast, silent, mysterious beaver pond, loaded with lunkers. I can hear it: the exciting mutter of a small dam just around the bend; the splosh of a startled frog; the sudden, heart-stopping take off of a disturbed partridge, the whack of a beaver tail.

However, since my chances of getting to heaven are just about as slim as my chances of a personal trout stream if I did get there, I guess I'll settle, on Opening Day for my old haunt, the Secret Place Where The Big Ones Are. Not a soul knows about it, except me. And the 900 noisy characters who have heard about it since last year.

Heaven, thou art distant, yet,
I would work like heck to get
There, if thou could condone
A stream for me- and me alone.

NOVA SCOTIA POWER COMMISSION

L. F. Kirkpatrick, General Manager of the Nova Scotia Power Commission, announced today that effective May 1, a new domestic all electric rate will be introduced and a reduction made in the existing commercial all electric rate.

The new rates have been made further to promote electric heating for domestic and commercial customer's in the Commission's territories.

For homes where electricity is the only form of energy used for cooking,, water heating, home heating and operation of appliances, a monthly 10 per cent discount will be applied to regular annual billing.

Applying this discount to electric heating only will mean a reduction in electric heating costs of about 15 per cent.

The commercial all electric rate is amended to eliminate the minimum monthly average cost per kilowatt hour of 1.75 cents. This will allow the purchase of electricity at the last block rate of 1.5 cents per kilowatt hour.

"The addition of electric heating and its practical application to the Nova Scotia market will support the coal industry of the province. Any additional electrical energy used for electric heating will be supplied by coal fired thermal generating stations," said Mr. Kirkpatrick.

"The new rate changes will make the unit cost per kilowatt hour for electric heating comparable with those charged by other utilities across Canada," he said.

Customers will receive the new rates on an application basis only.

SABIN ORAL VACCINE TO BE DISTRIBUTED THROUGHOUT NOVA SCOTIA

Children in some parts of Nova Scotia will receive their first dose of Sabin oral vaccine May 11 the Public Health Department announced today.

The exact date and time for each community will be announced locally, said Dr. D. G. McCurdy, Administrator of Consultation Services.

The clinics are open to children from one to 19 years of age and will be held in the local schools and community centres. Parents must sign a consent form which can be obtained from the schools.

Since this age group is usually most responsible for spreading polio the Provincial Health Department urges parents to support the province-wide campaign. Even though a child has received salk vaccine it is still necessary for them to receive the oral immunization.

"Oral polio vaccine gives them more protection and stops them from becoming carriers of the polio virus," said Dr. McCurdy.

"Children protected with the polio vaccine develop excellent immunity to poliomyelitis and do not become carriers."

Endorsed by the Nova Scotia Medical Society, the Sabin oral vaccine will be administered in two doses- - one to be given between May 11 and 23, and one in the fall. The vaccine is the simplest form of immunization. It is taken in the form of a lump of sugar or from a spoon.

The Sabin oral will be available only at these clinics. Use of the vaccine has been approved by the federal government and by medical groups.

More than 70,000,000 people in North America have been immunized against polio with Sabin oral vaccine.

Parents are urged to contact their local health unit or their family doctor for additional information concerning the date and time of the clinic in their area.

Diary of a Vagabond by Dorothy Barker

A GREAT WHITE FATHER

My first and, to date,, only meeting with Dr. Crowell, was last summer after we had tracked him down from his workshop in Fredericton, New Brunswick, to bungalows atop a craggy promoncraft rooms housed in attractive tory in Fundy National Park.

Dr. Crowell is a fortunate human being because he has seen his dreams come true, which is more than most of us can boast about. With a thatch of snowy hair and keen humorous eyes, it is not hard to picture him as a white father to the Indians. Certainly one of his attributes is his faith in the scattered tribes of the once proud Indian race and their potential artistic and industrious ability .

But I am ahead of my story. Dr. Crowell started out on his adult career with the ambition to be a manual training teacher. Then he decided to be a plant pathologist and obtained his degree in science at Harvard University.

He had to work his way through college by many times accepting manuel labour at menial wages. When he became a professor at McGill University he saw many students slugging their way through to their educational goal as he had done. He conceived the idea of having them work in his basement to produce wooden ware articles which were sold in a Montreal department store.

Recognition of a Need

The dean of agriculture heard about the project and suggested Dr. Crowell organize a hobby club, with McGill contributing equipment for ten persons. There were 88 members the first year. It grew in membership so fast it was considered necessary to engage a teacher capable of instructing in leather and wood-work. Dr. Crowell's hobby club turned into a full-fledged university department and he was invited to forsake his scientific career and take charge.

Under his guidance literally hundreds of young people were trained at MacDonald College in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que. during the war and many to teach handicrafts to service personnel of the three armed forces.

In 1946 Dr. Crowell was offered the position of provincial handicraft director for New Brunswick. Since then, he has developed his dream of making handicraft instruction available to any interested persons at a reasonable fee. His craft program at Fundy Park is known from coast to coast and in many of the United States of America. Whole families learn to create at the classes he has planned and provided with the very best instructors. For a dollar a day plus the price of materials, father can make a salad bowl, mother can learn to weave a place mat and the children lace leather wallets, key cases or slippers.

The success of this program and the one he heads in Fredericton in an old army barracks, proved a gratifying experience for this man of vision. He never comes to the end of his ambition, however, to provide not only pleasure in crafts for this fellow man, but the training required to learn.

MEET LABOUR MINISTER'S CAPABLE SECRETARY

(The following article was taken from the Ottawa Journal and is a fitting compliment to this native of Antigonish town. Miss MacDonald, better known to all as "Annie Laurie," is a sister of Matron Louise MacDonald of the R. K. MacDonald Guest House.)

"MEET ANNIE LAURIE MACDONALD, MR. MACEACHEN'S GIRL FRIDAY"

By Richard Jackson
of The Journal

Labor Minister MacEachen, wise old staff hands around Parliment Hill will tell you, is a lot smarter even than most "outsiders" figure him for, which is pretty smart indeed.

One of the staff's measures of the man and his sure instinct for The Hill and its ways, was that he knew exactly where to go to find a secretary that made him the envy of the Cabinet.

She's Annie Laurie MacDonald, and she probably knows more about Nova Scotia—which is a very handy thing for Mr. MacEachen, since he is "responsible" in the Cabinet for that province —than any of its MP's for she's been around longer.

Miss Annie Laurie was a school teacher on both Cape Breton and mainland Nova Scotia when the late J. R. Kirk, Liberal M. P. for Antigonish-Guysborough for four Parliaments and 18 years first brought her to Ottawa as his secretary in 1939.

For those nearly 20 years she perhaps more than any other secretary, came to be almost the constituency's "alternative MP's".

Friends, and those who know, say she just about ran the riding for her MP. He sat in the House, and she kept the constituency home fires burning.

She got to know all the "contacts," which is trade-talk on The Hill for all the folks back home whom an MP has to keep sweet or at least reasonably content if he hopes to hang onto his job here in the Capital.

They're mainly Scots down there,and she got to know which MacDonald was related to which other MacDonald, and, perhaps even more important, which spelled his name with the lower case or the capital "D".

She got to know them and their birthdays and the dates of their wedding anniversaries and all that other seemingly trivial but ever-so-important personal stuff out of which re-election so often is fashioned.

And she got to know all this not only in Antigonish-Guysborough, but in neighbouring Inverness-Richmond where she had taught school, had a thousand friends, travelled, holidayed and generally made herself at home.

So when Allan MacEachen wanted a secretary who really knew the riding, he walked down the Centre Block hall to the Hansard index where Miss Annie Laurie MacDonald had been working

J. R. Kirk was retired by election defeat in the '57 upset campaign. —Antigonish Casket.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

PRIDE OF COUNTRY

I travelled by train last weekend and was delighted with the new streamlined service, the food, and the prices. I doubt that any other country can touch Canada for modern transportation.

Indeed, I doubt that many other countries can touch us in a variety of ways. In the lounge car on the train I was on, I saw a young fellow reading a little magazine called Quick Canadian Facts. He told me his father had been transferred and was moving his family from Sarnia to Winnipeg, so the boy was studying the facts about Manitoba, and he obviously liked what he found.

"It's a pretty good country all around, don't you think?" I said to him, making conversation.

He agreed that it is. He said that he and his chums had motored through the United States that summer, and while he was impressed by the friendliness of the people, he came home more proud than ever to be a Canadian. He wasn't quite sure why, but he thought it was because Canadians, in spite of our small population and our rather poor climate are more demanding. "For example," he said, "if Canadian trains gave us poor service as we had on one train ride we took in the States, they'd complain to the management. Americans seem to be too ready to be satisfied with second best."

He went on to say that he felt Canadians were now more enterprising than Americans. "They used to be great individualists down there," he said. "According to our schoolbooks, they were inventive and they were rugged individualists. I think they've lost a lot of that. They seem to think their prosperity depends on who is President or who is elected to Congress. I believe they depend on Washington a lot more than we depend on Ottawa."

Naturally, I was pretty pleased with the boy and what he said. He was obviously proud of his country, and I agreed 100% with his observations about the U.S.A. They don't have the zest that made them great in the days of the Clipper Ships. Perhaps if we keep our zest, we'll top them one day and become the nation with the highest standard, instead of the second highest living standard in the world!

The meeting adjourned early, due to the Speech Festival being held at 8 p. m. in the school.

The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Cloake.

After the meeting, the kitchen shower gifts were opened and displayed.

"That's all very fine, O'Connor, now tell me, have you seen anything of a sunken ship?"

"How can you say I never treat you to a meal? I treat you to all your meals!"
