SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

I WISH YOU SAFETY

As I drove the long tired road home Sunday night, I began to realize why so many fellows of my age are cracking up.

The old lady was sitting there, talking as though word-rationing was going into effect at midnight. The radio alternated between shouts of some group noisier and nausiouser than the Beatles, courtesy of my daughter, and the smug announcements of the disc jockey, who broke in every few minutes to tell us with triumph of another fatality on roads or water.

After 17 years, I've given up trying to do anything about my wife's talking jags. After 13 years, I've abandoned all hope of improving my daughter's taste or temperament.

But by George, I still have some love for my fellow man.

Once a year, whether I like it or not, I publish some safety hints on hunting, driving, trying to get along with women, or a similar perilous undertaking, strictly in the public interest.

For example. When canoeing, never kneel in the bottom of the thing. It's too hard on the knees. Use a long-handled paddle, and paddle standing up. That way, you can jump if she rolls over. If you're merely a passenger, stand in the bow, so that you can warn of rosks, large turtles or waterfalls.

If you're boating with an outboard motor, don't be afraid to display a little panache. Always approach a dock straight on and at top speed. At the last conceivable moment, cut your motor and swing the tiller hard over. Some day you might cut the tiller and swing the motor, but who wants to live forever?

Never take life jackets when you go fishing. You're liable to trip over one of them, and fall overboard, while innocently walking up to the bow for a cold beer. If you insist on taking lifejackets, tie them to your tackle box. Fishermen are a drug on the market, but good tackle is expensive.

Speaking of fishing, don't look around before you wind up to cast. It's considered a slur on the agility of your companions. It's up to the other guys in the boat to keep an eye, that is.

Never swim where there's a crowd. You went on your holidays to get away from people, remember? Pick out a nice lonely spot and dive in.

It's old fashioned, but best way to teach kids to swim is to throw them off a dock. It can be embarrassing if you can't swim yourself, and they refuse to float.

About fires. Never scatter sand and water on your bonfire when you leave. Maybe the next fellow doesn't have a match to start his own. This is known as common courtesy because it's so common.

You have to use a little common sense to get your barbecue charcoal going, too. We've tried a couple of those commercial fluids, but there's not enough action. What I do now is give the charcoal going, too. We've tried a coumower gas. Then everybody hits the deck. I stand away back and hurl lighted matches at the thing. It may not be the status way to do it, but it sure as hell gets that charcoal going.

Well, that's about it. Just follow these safety hints, and you will never have any more worries about summer. Or anything else.

Free Dental Care For Children Under 12

More than 1,000 school children in the rural areas of Nova Scotia received free dental treatment last year. For 600 of this number, this was their first visit to a dentist.

The Dental Heallth Division of the Public Health Department of Nova Scotia provides this free dental service to school children under 12 years of age. The objective of the program consists of two segments – the Mobile Dental Units and Dental Hygiene service. The Mobile Dental Units are three-ton trucks, fully equipped for dental work with a qualified dentist and assistant. These trucks travel to rural areas of the province where there are no dental facilities.

For many of the children the mobile unit is their first introduction to dentistry. Each child is given at least 45 minutes of dental service.

"It is wise to teach children dental education early. The sooner children learn good dental habits, the better chance they will have for a lifetime of good dental health", says Dr. W. G. Dawson, director of the Dental Health Division.

According to Dr. Dawson, "decay is the greatest cause of premature tooth loss in children. To help prevent this, parents are responsible to see that their children have proper diet which includes plenty of wholesome chewy foods. Don't let your children over indulge in concentrated sugars and starches, especially between meals. Instead, keep fresh fruits, celery, carrots, or whole wheat bread and butter on hand as snack foods."

The Dental Health Division of provides preventive dental service to pre-school and children in the elementary grades in the larger village and small town schools The dental hygienist visits these schools periodically cleaning children's teeth and giving fluoride topical applications in areas without a public water supply.

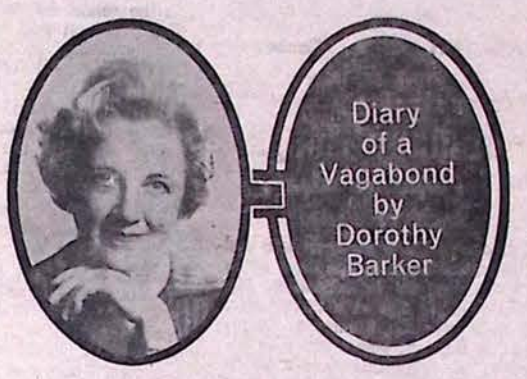

"Since only one of every four Nova Scotians receives the benefits of fluoridated water these fluoride applications are a great help in reducing tooth decay. Fluoridation will reduce further dental cavities by two-thirds in children's teeth if they have been able to drink fluoridated water during their growing years," says Dr. Dawson.

During 1963 more than 13,500 children visited the dental hygiene clinics. These children received: a dental examination, tooth cleaning, instruction in proper care of the teeth and in all but a few instances, topical fluoride applications.

"The dental hygienists are providing an excellent service to the school children of this province but in order to carry it out more effectively more dental hygienists are needed" says Dr. Dawson.

Currently there are seven dental hygienists employed with the Dental Health Division. Students having good scholastic records can apply for bursaries from the Department of Health in order to assist them in obtaining a diploma in Dental Hygiene.

Around the World on a $2 Ticket

Around world atmosphere and the audacious progress of emerging nations are in colorful contrast with the pious evidence of various religious beliefs, housed in spectacular settings. They are all competing for attention with commercial giants -- whose budgets must have staggered under the cost of their New York World's Fair expenditures. If the skyline of New York city is evidence of architectural genius and blatant modernity, then the horizon of Flushing Meadow Park, home of this year's World's Fair, reflects the imagination, color and native ingenuity of the peoples of Europe, Asia and the South American countries. Pagoda, temple, shrine and market stalls should transport Fair goers into a suspended sense of excitment, travel and instant education.

To Mention a Few

Japan has always greeted the prospects of exhibiting at a World's Fair with boundless enthusiasm. This year's "House of Japan" and chiselled by native masons from Shikoku, who came to the United States with the country's sculptor-designer Masayuki Nagare. The structure is stark and beautiful and within its walls is one of the Fair's most impressive exhibitions of a country's inventiveness and progress.

Most colorful is Thailand's Buddhist Shrine, sparkling in its gilded cast iron glory, entirely imbedded with bits of colored glass and wood.

Almost surfeited with the eye appeal of Republican China's lacquer red Pagoda pavilion, or the artistic perfection of the Polynesian market place, the sound of an Irish brogue broadcasting Irish surnames, from O'Sullivan to McCartney and all the Fitz's, musically lures crowds through the pavilion sponsored by thispart of the British Isles. A thin little man with the lilt of leprechauns in his speaking voice, sits at a loom weaving Donegal tweeds amidst a display of Irish metal sculpture, Waterford cut glass and cermics of unusually artistic distinction.

These are a few of the 50 nations at the New York World's Fair who have created an authentic atmosphere of their native environment. My $2 entrances fee took me around the world in an entranced state of wonderment and appreciation of this reflection of man's creativity, aspiration and ambition. It's all there for the tourist to see and enjoy fifteen minutes by subway from the heart of Manhattan Island. Canadian National Railways recently announced there was a complete sell-out of its first sponsored tour in early May. Now there are increasing booking for the months ahead. Fair tours are an exploration bonanza for families planning their 1964 vacations.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

BACK TO RADIO?

I'm one of those ancients who can remember back to the days when there was no broadcasting. My first "listen" was at a Chautauqua tent, in Manitou, Manitoba. Everyone in the tent was allowed to file up to the front and have a headphone held to one ear for a few seconds. All I heard then was a series of whistles and screeches. . . perhaps some early Beatle group?

Only a few years later, a chum and I were sitting up until the late hours trying to catch Little Jack Little.

When I went teaching, I bought a small crystal set on which I could hear Earl Hill and his Capitilians. They were wonderful, and I imagined all sorts of glamorous surroundings in which I thought they played.

Later, as a radio announcer myself, I learned that the surroundings are about as glamorous as an institution. Nevertheless, I loved the broadcasting business, and often wished that my voice had been good enough to go on the big time. My voice was heavy, and too much exposure to it must have been a wearying experience to listeners. . .but since radio was new and glamorous there were no complaints. In fact, I even had plenty of fan mail, which I loved.

All the while, however, I was writing, for print. The radio words were gone in the air, but print was substantial and I kept plugging away at it. I knew in my bones that radio, though powerful, would never supplant the printed word.

The printed word has a magic of its own.

Then TV came. Now the airwaves are full of music, talk, and pictures! I often wonder what will be next. Certainly one day in the not too distant future, your daily paper will be printed in your home on a machine that picks it up from the air.

Today. people are going back to radio. One can listen and read at the same time. TV is a very powerful selling tool, but often so strident it drives one away from it. Radio is coming back into its own as a family companion along with a book, magazine or newspaper.

It is wonderful that these means of communication have come along and ended the great hush that must have encompassed the world in the old days. But let us also hope that no dictator, such as Hilter, is ever able to use them for his purposes. Let them concentrate on entertainment and news, delivered by free men who do not have to fear the censorship of politicians.

SCHOOL GROWS

Nova Scotia's fisherman's training school in Pictou give Nova Scotia fishermen instruction in navigation, nets and gear, engines and cooking.

Arichat District High Closing

The first closing exercises of the new Arichat District High School were most successful and was a red letter day in the historic town, where a large attendance practically filled the spacious auditorium of the new school.

The students and teachers entering the auditorium presented a colorful scene, with the girl students dressed in white gowns with caps and school colors, while the boys wore black caps and gowns with the school colors.

The principal and teachers followed wearing black caps and gowns and school colors of blue and white.

The chairman and master of ceremonies was Warden Byron S. Langley and with the singing of "O Canada", opened the ceremonies which followed.

Warden Langley gave a very nice address and outlined the construction of the new school.

He expressed his good wishes for a successful future to the students and said that the new school should prove to be the beginning of an era in education for the district wherein it will serve.

Speakers taking part in the exercises were:— Monsignor Boudreau of D'Escousse; Rev. A. Doucet of West Arichat; Very Rev. A. P. Poirier of Arichat; Rev. Wintrop Fish of Arichat; Inspector Belliveau, Gerald Doucet, M.L.A., Richmond.

Monsignor Boudreau gave a very interesting address in French and stressed the need to keep alive the French language and culture. He pointed out many valuable lessons to the graduating class on Bi-lingual and Bi-cultural topics which confront our country in this present day and age. He urged the students to continue to aim for higher education.

Very Rev. A. P. Poirier presented the students with Certificates and also presented the Awards.

Jerry Doucet, M. L. A. for Richmond, gave a very fine address and spoke highly of the teachers and congratulated the students on their Graduation and wished them every success in their future endeavors. Mr. Doucet stressed the importance of education in this day and age.

Inspector of Schools, Mr. Belleveau, spoke in both French and English and outlined the educational program for this County.

He congratulated the teachers and students of the Arichat District High School.

Rev. A. Doucet and Rev. Winthrop Fish, were also heard in brief addresses.

Michael MacNeil, the efficient Principal of the new school, gave a very brilliant address, and in speaking directly to the Graduates, left them a message that was of the utmost importance for their future. Mr. MacNeil's sincere approach to education at the Arichat District High School, will be, we are sure the beginning of greater success in the years to come, under his guidance and that of his Staff of teachers, all of whom are to be congratulated.

We were in attendance at the Graduation Exercises and we regret that space does not permit at this time to elaborate on this successful event.

GUEST SPEAKER AT CLOSING EXERCISES

Clifford R. Edwards, Inspector of Schools for Annapolis and Digby Counties, was the guest Speaker at the Closing Exercises of the new Arichat District High School.

Inspector Edwards, a native of Arichat, where he received his High School Education, both at the Old Academy and O. L. A. Convent, and later graduated from Acadia and Columbia Universities.

His address to the Students was a most convincing message and speakng in both French and English was most appreciated by the teachers, students and the large audience present.

Mr. Edwards' wide experience in the Education Field in this Province has won for him the highest respect both from the School level and that of Adult Education, having been a Director of the latter in the Province.

Inspector Edwards' instructive and at times humorous remarks, was well received by all who had the pleasure of hearing this noted Educator.

Inspector Edwards is much interested in Bi-lingual and Bi-cultural development in the Province and is doing much to promote a mutual understanding between the English and French speaking peoples of the Province, and having graduated in French from Columbia University speaks well of Mr. Edwards' efforts in having obtained his degrees in this language not so many years ago.

Inspector Edwards spoke of his early education in Arichat and made special mention of his teachers, Rev. Sister St. Fermin and Rev. Sister St. Amedee and also gave Special Credit to his late parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Edwards, to whom he said he owed so much.

Known as "12 men who loves to sing," the Carl Tapscott Singers are heard each Sunday night on CBC radio. Leader of the popular choir Carl Tapscott (lower left corner) started his career as church organist and then served as choral director of the Royal Canadian Navy Show in this country and overseas.

FIRE FINDING DEVICE DEVELOPED

A device which will pin-point the source of fire in a smoke-filled room has been devised by the Japanese government fire research institute.

Fighting fires in warehouses and other large buildings is complicated since the smoke often obscures the source of the fire and firemen are unable to operate effectively.

Researchers discovered that infrared rays from a fire source will penetrate smoke much more effectively than visible rays. Using lead sulfide as an infrared detector, the institute was able to develop a compact detector unit which has been used with great success.

In one test, a candle in a smoke-filled room could not be seen by the naked eye at a distance greater than 10 feet. The new detector, however, was able to spot the candle at a distance of more than 60 feet.

The unit is now being mass-produced for distribution to the nation's firefighters.

NEW DEVICE TO HELP TRAFFIC WEARY DRIVERS

Tokyo police are experimenting with a device which, it is hoped, will give an accurate indication of the problems and diversions faced by the driver in traffic.

Developed by the National Research Institute of Police Science, the device is housed in a converted sedan. On its roof, the car carries an all-angle camera. Fitted in side are devices for measuring brain-waves, pulse rate, eye-ball movements and respiration rate of the driver.

As the car cruises along a particular route, the camera films traffic movement and surrounding environment such as billboards, neon signs, etc. While the driver's mental and physical reactions are recorded. When analysed together, the device should give a reliable guide to the effects of traffic conditions on a driver's system.

The device is sometimes sent to the scene of accidents and other traffic mishaps to see if a reason for the accient can be determined which would not be noticeable by normal observation.

If the device proves valuable, similar units will be placed in operation in other cities.

SEEKS TITLE SHOT FOR—MACDOUGALL

Boxing promoter Frank Marsh announced yesterday that he is attempting to arrange a second title fight for his August 1 boxing card at Miners Forum in Glace Bay.

Marsh said last night that he has applied for a sanction from the Canadian Pro Boxing Federation to match "Rocky" MacDougall of Whitney Pier against Carl Baldwin of Toronto for the Canadian featherweight title.

Marsh said that he is hopeful of having the match sanctioned as present Canadian titleholder Davie Hilton of Saint John, N. B. and Sorel, Que., has been inactive in the featherweight division for the past number of years and is said to be well over the division limit of 126 lbs.

Baldwin is rated the number one contender for Hilton's title while MacDougall is ranged second.

The fight would be the semi-final event on the Tyrone Gardiner-Fernand "The Bull" Chretien Canadian lightweight title match.

MacDougall has been training regularly following completion of the school year. The popular Pier native is considered one of the up-and-coming prospects in the area on the strength of his performances to date.

He is noted for his quick actions and the ability to cut loose with an explosive right that is his main offensive weapon.

Promoter Marsh expects an early decision on his application for the title scrap.

GARDINER SLATED FOR TITLE DEFENCE

Boxing promoter Frank Marsh of Sydney annunced yesterday that he is planning to stage a Canadian lightweight title fight in Cape Breton on August 1.

Marsh said that he has met with present division titleholder Tyrone Gardiner of Sydney River who has agreed to meet either of three fighters proposed by Marsh and sanctioned by the Canadian Pro Boxing Federation. Promoter Marsh said that offers for a chance at Gardiner's title were made to three fighters who are highly rated in Canadian Pro Boxing Federation listings.

They include Willie Williams of New Victoria now residing in Boston, Davie Hilton of Saint John, N. B. and Gene Chretien of Toronto, Ont.

Williams scored a 10-round decision over Gardiner in an over-the-weight, non-title fight at Miners Forum recently.

The promoter said that a site for the fight has yet to be decided upon although he indicated that it would be in the industrial Cape Breton area.

The fight will mark Gardiner's first title defence since winning the title with a fourth round TKO win over Marcel Gendron of Quebec City, Quebec last Fall.

Gardiner has returned to his regular training program at Venetian Gardens. Stable mates "Rocky" MacDougall and "Bobo" Bonaparte are also in training and may be featured on the forthcoming card.

Marsh expects to have plans finalized by the end of the week.

YOUR RED CROSS IS ALWAYS ON THE JOB

TRAFFIC SAFETY RAILROAD CROSSINGS

Drivers do unbelievable things at railroad crossings. Some pause for an instant when they see flashing red lights, then zoom across the tracks without a glance in either direction. Others are gate crashers. Most of the grade crossing accients involve local drivers who are familiar with the crossings. And more than a third of the accidents reported every year to the American Interstate Commission occur at crossings where some form of protection is provided. Automatic gates and flashing lights won't save you if you aren't alert and cautious. So always look for the round railroad advance warning sign and the crossbuck. When you see it, slow down and look both ways. You can't tell how fast a train is coming, so it's foolish to try and beat it across. After the train passes, look both ways again. Another may be coming from the opposite direction. Your eyes, your ears and your head should work together at every railroad crossing.
