SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Man's Worst Madness

Great strides have been made in the twentieth century toward the conquering of disease. One after another, typhoid, smallpox diptheira, polio and whooping cough have been knocked on the head. And the medical people are hot on the trail of cancer.

That's why it's so discouraging to realize that while today's medicine-men have had their noses glued to a test-tube, a little virus that at first seemed harmless, has sneaked around behind them, spread with the stealth of spilled maple syrup, and is now resulting in an epidemic of appalling proportions.

Worse still, there is no drug that will kill it for it is not a physical ailment but a mental aberration. Already this highly contagious mania has hit so many people that it's not likely anything will stop its ravages of the race except the radio-active fallout that will stop everything one of these days.

Its symptoms are unmistakable able, its victims easily discerned. When under an attack, they will: suddenly leave work in the middle of the afternoon; miss the funerals of close relatives; skip meals, though they love their victuals; desert their loved ones at all sorts of odd hours; inexplicable recover from pain or illness that would have them moaning in bed, in the winter. Oh yes, this disease is most prevalent in summer, as polio was.

This mental illness to which I refer, of course, is that ancient and honourable state of mind - it's not a game and don't ever think it is called golf.

Don't snort, gentle reader. Perhaps you have thus far escaped the anaconda coils of this serpent-like sport but you're not safe unless you're over 90, bed ridden, and the relatives are sitting around wishing you'd hurry up and die.

Just the other day I was sitting on a bench at the 7th tee. An elderly man came up, playing with two others. He let them go on without him, and collapsed beside me. "Played whuff six holes today." he wheezed triumphantly. "Had a whuff heart attack two weeks ago, whuff. Gotta take it easy. Played whuff three holes yesterday. I'll make whuff nine tomorrow."

Golf used to be a game for rich people and a few professionals. It was associated with country clubs, snobbery and social climbing. But something has happened in the last decade, and we rabble have stormed the barricades and infiltrated the fairways. Go out to a course any day and you'll see a butcher and a baker, a printer and preacher, a hair dresser and HOTEL KEEPER, HURLING THEMSELVES WITH UNANIMOUS VIGOUR AND INACCURACY IN THE GENERAL DIRECTION OF THE BOUNCY LITTLE FIEND OF A BALL.

Old ladies who should be home knitting garments for grandchildren sweat happily around the course, hacking divots as big as dishpans. Attractive young women who should be sitting around at a beach or bar, just looking beautiful, putting languidly about in long, tanned legs and short, tight shorts. Thereby wrecking the concentration of old codgers, who are distracted into slicing $1.50 balls into the rough, after spending $300 in lessons to get rid of that slice.

Oh, I know. The whole thing is ridiculous. "What could be siller," I used to say before the virus entered my veins, than walking around hitting a little ball with a stick". I stilll think it's crazy, a mere obession. And the day I break 100, I'm going to throw away my clubs and start living again, which will probably be about the same day I'm elected president of the Women's Institute.

Diary of a Vagabond by Dorothy Barker

Some Substitute!

Cathy is a Brownie with big, blue eyes behind horn rimmed glasses. She has the earnest approach of most youngsters her age towards all functions be they school, church, home or social. Cathy takes the responsibility of being a good citizen very seriously and any suggestions quite literally.

This explains why I was as surprised as 15 legitimate young mothers were at my being initiated as a substitute mother, at a ritual effectively called a "Mother and Daughter Cook-Out". his was the closing ceremony of Girl Guide and Brownie seasonal activity in our town. It was also Cathy's first affair of this sort and she believed her Guide Patrol leader when she warned all the small Brownies they must have a mother in tow when they gathered around the camp fire.

I could hear the sob in her high pitched little girl voice when she had telephoned asking if I would substitute for her mother who had to be away on the date chosen. "I can't go if I don't have a mother who had to be away on the mother",she informed me and I, loving this small neighbor very much, rose to the occasion. Cathy gleefully told me I was to bring nothing but myself to the big do, "and remember to wear your slacks", she cautioned.

Site chosen was the ol' swimmin' hole deep in a natural wooded glen. When we arrived Guides were digging deep holes and building three fires in true Scout fashion beside the gurgling brook. Brownies lugged wood with the gusto of lumberjacks and the black flies and mosquitoes quickly took over every inch of my epidermis from my ankles to the tip of my head.

A First For Us Both

Cathy spread a ground sheet for us to sit on and opened her parcel of goodies, four hamburger patties and a bottle of coke, a roll of aluminum foil and a can opener. She heaved a happy sigh as she informed me she had not been able to find where her mother kept the flavored salt. "Do you mind eating your hamburger without seasoning?" she wanted to know. No, I didn't mind eating it raw either after our method of wrapping four hunks of ground meat in aluminum foil and tossing them into the white ash of the fire, proved it takes more than heat to produce a tasty 'burger.

Cathy whispered, "when are they going to pass the buns?" and whispered back, "never, we should have brought our own." By this time I was scorched in front, smoked like a herring, with charcoal smudges making my eyes look like two holes burned in a and my knees caked with mud after I slipped into the creek trying to retrieve our one bottle of tepid coke put there to cool. I envied the mothers who had been through these ropes before and bug spray and folding garden chairs for their own comfort. They also had equipped their bairns with forks food and sufficient were certainly the novice element hat evening around the camp fire. She learned the hard way how she should provide for a mother-daughter spread, as her leader had cautioned her she must.

I forgot about the insect bites, the greasy meat patties we ate with our fingers, the gas pains, created by trying to drink bubbling carbonated beverage from a bottle. It was worth my stiff knees and sore back just to see the admiring look Cathy gave me every once-in-a-while when my cracked falsetto joined a chorus of "Michael Row the Boat" or "You Can't get to Heaven in a Railroad Car." At that moment, I knew the only way I'd ever make it would be on all fours!

Evidently I was a success. Cathy told her father in an elated account of our adventure that her substitute mother could sing all the songs, repeat the Guide's prayer, play all the games and cook the best hamburgers she had ever eaten. It takes so little to make a child happy.

NEW CABINET POST

Honourable Gerald Doucet
Provincial Secretary

In the recent changes in the Cabinet of the Stanfield Government, Mr. Gerald Doucet, M. L. A., for Richmond, was appointed to the portfolio, of Provincial Secretary.

Mr. Doucet was elected to the Provincial Legislature for Richmond County, at the last general election in October of last year, defeating Earl W. Urquhart, Leader of the Liberal party in Nova Scotia.

The Record joins with Mr. Doucet's friends in congratulating him on this very important appointment and wishes him every success.

'SPEED' ISN'T ALWAYS 'FAST'

"One sure sign of an amateur driver is his ridiculous and highly dangerous antics to try to get ahead of every other car on the road," said the Canadian Highway Safety Council. The Council is promoting nationally a summer vacation campaign called "Slow Down and Live".

"This type of driver either ends his hysterical dash in a wreck, usually involving other people and other vehicles, or finds himself one or two positions ahead of the place he left the line of traffic. Either way, he gains nothing "the Council said.

Speed, claimed CHSC, is a variable thing. In darkness, fog or heavy rain, with slippery pavement, 30 miles an hour could be too fast. When CHSC advises motorists to "Slow Down and Live", it is not advocating a crawling speed which, it claims, is often more dangerous than the legal limit since it goads others to try to pass perilously or ruffles tempers to the danger point.

"Use common sense, "the Council advises. "You are never compelled to drive at the posted speed limit. On the other hand, don't dawdle when you can drive safely at that speed."

ACADIAN FESTIVAL

YARMOUTH HERALD

CHURCH POINT — The tenth annual Acadian Festival will take place from August 7th to the 15th this year. First started in 1956 when it was suggested by the department of Trade & Industry, tourist department to organize something different and typically Acadian in scope. the Festival has continued throughout the years in putting the French Acadian area, the Municipality of Clare in Digby County, on the map and bringing in many thousands of persons to this area.

JOYFUL CELEBRATION

The Festival is a joyful celebration of the return of the Acadian people to the province of Nova Scotia where they have made their home in peaceful coexistance with their English speaking neighbors. Great changes have been made since 1768 when Joseph Dugas first set foot on the shores of St. Mary's Bay in the vicinity of Belliveau's Cove following a long trek through the timberlands from Annapolis Royal afoot, leading a horse upon which sat his wife and one child, carrying all the family belongings.

EIGHT THOUSAND

The Acadians of Clare now number approximately 8,000 and the Municipality of Clare extends from Weymouth to Beaver River, a distance of over 40 miles. The peaceful homes of the Acadians form numerous villages between these two points. So close are the villages that one cannot tell where one village starts or terminates and the main highway is commonly called the longest main street in North America. Most villages extend a distance of two miles or more and the villages on the main highway are: St. Bernard, near Weymouth, Grosses Coques (large Clams), Church Point, Little Brook, Comeauville, Lower Saulnierville, Meteghan River Meteghan Centre Meteghan, St. Alphonse and Salmon River. Beautiful churches may be found at St. Bernard, Church Point, Saulnierville, St. Alphonse and Salmon River. Meteghan has no official church following a disastrous fire several years ago when its church was destroyed. Services there are being held in the parish hall, which has been transformed for religious services.

LARGEST IN CANADA

Perhaps the most visited churches in Clare are in St. Bernard granite church and St. Mary's R. C. church at Church Point with its 200 foot steeple and is called the largest wooden building in Canada.

This year's festival is expected to be officially declared open-for Clare at the Acadian Ball to be held on August 7th at the Clare District High School, starting at 3:00 p.m. with Fred Armstrong, federal member for Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare crowning the Evangeline and Gabriel of the Festival, who will be selected from a group of over 40 couples representing various clubs, associations and businesses of Clare.

GARDEN SHOW

Monday is an open day. Tuesday,, August 11th, will feature a flower show sponsored by La Jardiniere Garden Club of Meteghan which will be held at the Clare District High School with doors being open to the public in the afternoon and evening. A tea will be served from 3 p.m.

Wednesday is also an open day. Thursday will see the annual Festival banquet held at St. Ann's College main dining room with Hon. Gerald Doucet, provincial secretary expected to be the guest speaker and will also be attended by both provincial and federal representatives of the respective governments.

HANDCRAFTS SHOW

Friday, August 14th, is reserved for a special program of demonstration in handcrafts at La Vielle Maison, the Robicheau museum at Meteghan. La Vielle Maison is an old Acadian Home with antique furnihings which is open to the public during the month of August. Most of the window panes in the windows are the original windows and the glass is not as perfect as the modern window panes of today. The original wood and coloring has been maintained.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Saturday, August 15th, is an Acadian religious feast day, it being the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary and religious services will be held in all the churches in the Municipality of Clare. In the afternoon, a special water sports-program will take place at Journay's Lake near St. Bernard. There will be a boat parade, boat races water-skiing, games and a chicken barbecue served on the grounds. This will terminate a week long Acadian Festival.

Later Mr. Latimer left for P. E. Island where he and Mr. House spent a few days. Returning to Arichat they left for Sydney on Friday evening via the Bras-d'Or Lakes and before returning to Sydney spent a day in Baddeck.

It was nice seeing Ted who operates the Speedy Propane Gas Company in Sydney and is a very enthusiastic yachtsman. The "Argonaut" has taken part in many races in Cape Breton and will soon enter the race from Sydney to Ingonish and return. Last year the "Argonaut" finished first over the course to Ingonish, but came in second on the return to Sydney.

THE PASSING YEARS

100 YEARS AGO

Some person broke into the telegraph office at Arichat and carried away a desk containing a considerable sum of money. A reward has been offered, but no clew (sic) to the robber has as yet transpired. (Halifax Reporter)

(The above item was taken from the Chronicle-Herald; and the contents of this item does prove that Arichat had a telegraph office a century ago.

We will have to contact our historian, Dr. C. A. Herbin, to find out when a telegraph office was established in Arichat. We can tell you however, that the telegraph office was taken from here only a few years ago. Editor)

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

ON BEING A CANADIAN

I have listened to many wordsmiths on the subject of being a Canadian. Last month, I attended the Symposium at Winnipeg, held under the auspices of the Canadian Centenary Council, which discussed" Awareness of Canada." While I disagreed with a number of things that were said, I believe the meeting was a useful one, because it made us all do some hard thinking about our country.

The difficulty with Symposiums is that they attract men and women who love words, and when the talk begins to roll there is a tendency to forget the real things, and even to miss out on the spirit that pervades this land. Intellectuals, strangely enough, appear to concentrate entirely on problems and are sublimely unware, when the speeches end, that they've ground their mental gears on fluff and failed to mention the big important things at al.

How can one be truly aware of Canada without recognizing the job our industries did in war time, and are doing today, in one of the toughest competitive markets in history? Yet at the Symposium, industry was rarely mentioned. Canadian awareness is mighty skimpy if it does not include an understanding of the fabulous job Canadian farmers have been doing, yet agriculture was hardly mentioned. Railroads - -you wouldn't have know they existed, in spite of the fact that they are in the throes of a mighty struggle under management more bold and imaginative than ever before. These job-makers on whom so much of our culture depends must have been somewhere off in the wings like Broadway angels, but the wordsmiths were oblivious to them.

I would like to see another Symposium, conducted with the same skill but featuring on the panels some of the men and women of Canada who are the doers, and on whom our destiny depends. A Western rancher, a Nova Scotia apple former, a railroad president, a banker, an industrialist and storekeeper. They may not be quite as articulate as the men who spoke at Winnipeg, but there'd be excitement inherent in the things they would talk about.

The Canadian Centenary Council conducted its Symposium with commendable skill. But its panelists were disappointing. Let's have another one, equally well organized, but with a set of panelists drawn from those who really make the news and set the pace in Canada.

From Buffalo, N. Y.

It was nice seeing our good friend, George E. Morrison of Buffalo, N. Y., when he paid us a friendly visit recently.

Accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Morrison, of River Tillard, and Frank Burns, an old friend and neighbor of George's, who is now residing at Sydney, with his son, Walter Burns.

George Morrison is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Morrison Sporting Mountain.

Not so many years ago, George was seriously injured in Buffalo, N. Y., which necessitated his retirement. We are happy to report that George is enjoying good health, notwithstanding his disability, and his genial disposition is ever to the forefront and is company is a joy to his many friends.

In our course of conversation he spoke kindly of the late D. A. Sutherland, a faithful scribe to the "Record" columns for many years and his human interest stories will long be remembered.

George always cherished the little note written by D. A. S. after his wedding, and had it tucked in his wallet, as a memento to the memory of his old friend D. A. S.

We copied the item and are happy to republish from "Sporting Mountain Echoes."

"Greetings signed "Teddy and Connie" recently reached us from Niagara Falls, the popular honey moon resort for either side the boundry line, and we knew they were prompted by our good and steadfast friend, George E. Morrison.

May the matrimonial sea prove free from the treacherous mine fields and lurking submarines with which war-zoned waters were rife, and there be no call for protecting Conveys till this bridal-bark finds peaceful anchorage in the ultimate haven of life."

MRS. ANNIE BRIDGMAN

The death of Mrs. Annie Bridgman, in her 90th year, occurred in New Glasgow on Thursday, July 16th.

For the past several years Mrs. Bridgman resided with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, of Boylston, Guys, Co., and previous to that made her home with a daughter and son-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. George Bickley.

Mrs. Bridgman resided in Arichat for ten years at which time her late husband Rev. William Bridgman, was Rector of St. John's Parish, and it was from here, where the Reverend gentleman went into retirement, and both he and Mrs. Bridgman took up residence in Granville Ferry, Annapolis County.

On the death of Mr. Bridgman, some years ago, Mrs. Bridgman took up residence with her daughter and son-in-law, Rev. Mrs. George Bickley who was then Rector of an Anglican Parish in Halifax.

The late Mrs. Bridgman was a native of Stromness, in Scotland, and is survived by one son, William Campbell, of Boylston, from her first marriage and a daughter (Parnell). Mrs. George Bickley from her second marriage, another son, George Campbell predeceased her a few years ago.

During the ten years Mrs. Bridgman made her home in Arichat, both Parishioners and friends in the Community were always welcome at the Rectory, and her kindness and hospitality won for her the admiration of everyone.

We were closely associated with the Rev. and Mrs. Bridgman during their sojourn here and as a Warden of St. John's Parish, at that time, we found in the late Rector and his good wife, a most co-operative couple, in the work of the Parish, and were always ready to share in the joys and the sorrows of all.

The funeral took place from the residence of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Campbell to St. Mark's Church where the Rev. Fernald Wentzell, of Canso, officiated both in the Church and grave side. Interment in the Church cemetery.

Rev. and Mrs. George Bickley, of Kingston, Ontario, were in attendance at the funeral, also a grandson, David Campbell of Dartmouth and a friend Miss Marlene Green also of Dartmouth.

In attendance from here were; Ronde; Mrs. Leighton Amey, of Pondville and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall J. Bourinot of Arichat.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the members of the bereaved family.

MANY CHANGES IN PROVINCIAL CABINET FOLLOW MINISTER'S RESIGNATION

Trade and Industry Minister Manson has resigned and Premier Stanfield has added five new members to his cabinet, bringing it to 14 members—probably the largest cabinet in the history of Nova Scotia.

In addition, the Premier has appointed existing cabinet members to new portfolios—Welfare Minispost and Hon. E. D. Haliburton to ter Jones to the trade and industry the fisheries post, both vacated by Mr. Manson. Mr. Manson will retain the legislature seat of Cape Breton West he has held since 1956.

The new appointments are as follows, with the five newly appointed ministers listed first.

Dr. Thomas J. McKeough (Cape Breton North)—Minister of Municipal Affairs.

I. W. Akerley (Halifax County - Dartmouth) Minister of Agriculture and Marketing.

James M Harding (Shelburne)—Minister of Public Welfare

Gerald J. Doucet (Richmond)—Provincial Secretary

Donald R MacLeod (Pictou Centre)—Minister without portfolio.

Hon. W. S. K. Jones (Queens)—Minister of Trade and Industry (formerly Public Welfare and Provincial Secretary).

Hon. E. D. Habiburton, Minister of Fisheries and of Lands and Forests (formerly Agriculture and Marketing and Lands and Forests).

Hon. Layton Fergusson, Minister of Labor (formerly also held Municipal Affairs).

Six Unchanged

Hon. G. I. Smith remains Minister of Finance and Economics. Hon. R. A. Donahoe, Attorney General and Minister of Public Health Hon. S. T. Pyke, Minister of Highways and of Public Works. (No change.) Hon. Donald Smith, Minister of Mines and Hon. George A. Burridge, Minister without Portfolio. (No change.)

Premier Stanfield retains the portfolio of Education.

The changes ends months of speculation that Mr. Manson would resign from the trade and industry post—to which he recently added the new portfolio of fisheries.

The Premier's announcement of the resignation said it was for "personal reasons".

SEEKING INFORMATION ON PULPWOOD PRICES

Arrangements are being made by the Royal Commission on Pulpwood Prices and Marketing Practices to hold sittings at central points in the Province to enable pulpwood producers and others interested to present their views to the Commission. It is expected that these meetings will be held next month.

Such is the information which has been provided by R. J. MacSween, ,who is acting as a one-man Commission to inquire into matters relating t the marketing of pulpwood in Nova Scotia.

"The Commission", said Mr. MacSween, is now studying written submissions filed by pulpwood buyers, and producer organizations, together with data received from other sources. It is felt, however, that since the market for pulpwood is a matter of vital importance to a large proportion of the rural population of the Province, an pportunity should be given those concerned to discuss their problems with the Commission in person. Details of time and location at which these hearings will be held will be announced later.

Mr. MacSween was unable to say when the work of the Commission would be completed, but he expressed himself as being satisfied with the progress made thus far. He was highly appreciative of the co-operative which the Commission is receiving from companies, and producer organizations, as well as from Government Departments, both provincial and federal.

SKYVIEW CARS FOR — SCOTIAN AND OCEAN

Canadian National Railways has announced it has acquired ten glass-topped passenger lounge railway cars to meet an increasing demand for accomodation on its mainline trains.

Included are six "Skyview" cars – a type that combines sleeping and lounge accomodation, the lounge section at the rear featuring a partially glassed roof – destined for service on the Ocean Limited and Scotian. CN's crack Maritime trains running between Montreal and Halifax.

Also being acquired are four "sceneramic" double-deck cars – glass roofed over the entire length and accomodation 68 "travelview" seats for coach passengers in addition to a downstairs lounge with facilities for light meals and refreshments. The "Sceneramic" cars will be operated on some runs of CN's twin transcontinentol trains, the Super Continental and the Panorama, through the Rocky Mountains.

They will be the only full-length glass-topped railway passenger accommodation in Canada.

The cars have been acquired from the Milwaukee Road, and will be decked out in CN's distinctive colours before going into service. The "Sceneramic" cars will make their first runs in about a month's time, while the "Skyview" sleeper-lounge cars will go into service in the late fall after refurbishing in CN shops.

Pierre Delagrave. CN's vice-president, passenger sales and services, said the additional cars "will harmonize well with the comfortable equipment already in service on these mainline trains and will complement the attractive new lounge cars for both coach and sleeping car passengers which were introduced last fall.

Medicine's Newest Lifesaver

One of the newest and most exciting advances in the world of medicine is described in a July Reader's Digest article. In a half-dozen or more hospitals around the world deathly ill patients in ever-increasing numbers are being restored to life and health with the use of high-pressure oxygen.

Patients are wheeled into big, room-size pressure tanks. Great steel doors clank shut; pressure within the tank is hoisted two to four times that of the normal atmosphere. Then, through masks, body tissues and fluids are drenthe patients breathe pure pressurized oxygen. Within minutes ched with the life-sustaining gas.

Results are dramatic. Sickly, dying "blue babies" turn a healthy pink and are enabled to withstand surgery impossible only a few years ago. Pressurized oxygen is equally dramatic in the treatment of a growing list of deadly medical challenges -- certain severe infections, shock after injuries, carbon-monoxide poisoning.

Professor Ite Boerema of Amsterdam was responsible for the development of the therapy. Word of his work spread and high-pressure oxygen now has been used successfully in other countries with remarkable results.

The therapy has made possible corrective surgery on frail infants born with faulty hearts. It has been used effiectively against gas gangrene -- a grim infection against which antitoxin and antbiotics are virtually helpless -- and it has saved the lives of heart attack victims.

Doctors are finding that high-pressure oxygen is a potent weapon against carbon-monoxide poisoning. "We now know." Sir Charles W. Illingworth of the University of Glasgow, "that any patient suffering from carbn-monoxide poisoning who arrives at the hospital alive can be saved within one hour." The Glasgow group has even constructed an ambulance equipped with a high-pressure oxygen tank to transport carbon-monoxdie victims.
