SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

GONE WITH HIS GUITAR

This column will be made up, for the most part, of excerpts from letters from my son. The first one was found, in the bread-box, one morning a couple of weeks ago.

I'd sat up until midnight with Hugh, convincing him that for financial and political reasons, his ambition to spend a couple of weeks in Quebec, on his own, was foolish.

The letter read "Dear family: this is not a suicide note. By the time you read this, I will be sailing along the highway towards the midnight sun (or noonday moon). I'm off to where 'the grass grows greener still.'

"Don't think that I've run away from home. I'm a little too old for that and anyway the idea's revolting. I may be disillusioned and be back on my doorstep by dinner hour, but if everything goes as I plan, I will spend the next two weeks in Quebec, learning French and discussing crucial topics with fiery French radicals. I know you think I'm a romanticist and will probably wind up in jail or hospital, but believe it or not, I'm quite capable of handling myself away from home.

"Now, don't dare send the Mounties after me. I'd be so embarrassed I'd run away from home for good. Besides I have my supply of heroin with me. Have yourselves a swingaroo at the convention."

There was more to the letter, but that was the gist of it. You can imagine the ensuing scene.

His father was ready to horse-whip him, or call in the police and charge him with something-or-other.

His mother was ready to have a good cry, cut him off wthout a cent, or run down the highway in her bare feet, calling after him.

His kid sister was interested but not impressed. Her comment was, "What a dope;"

Then society intruded, as always. What will the neighbors think if he comes home in a police car? What will the neighbors think, and ask, if he doesn't come home at all? Why did he do this to us? Has he no gratitude for all we've done for him? And so on. Kim merely repeated, "What a dope!"

People are tough. We cooled off, we realized there wasn't a sensible thing we could do about it, and we went to the convention. But not before we'd done some checking, and found he'd cleaned out his bank account, taken his guitar, and, to his mother's extreme mortification, absconed with only two clean shirts.

Back from the convention, we received two letters, Excerpt: "Two really friendly ladies drove me from Kingston to Ottawa and bought me a sandwich and milk-shake. I insisted on paying, of course, but they told me just to do the same for somebody else some time."

Excerpt: "I am going to Grand' Mere, Quebec, to spend a couple of weeks with a French family. I met the boy at the station in Ottawa. He is 19, his name is Michel, and he's going to U. of Montreal in the fall."

Excerpt: "I am staying with the Ricards. He is a painter (in houses). Mrs. Ricard is 40 and rather pretty, a bit taller than her husband and doesn't speak a word of English. They are all extremely friendly and hospitable. At first, I could not understand a thing. They have an accent which pronounces mere, mire, and soeur, sire; moi is moee and Toi, Tooee."

Page 4 and 5 of this letter are missing. P. 6 begins, "Just like you, Mom," which is driving my wife crazy.

There's a lot of other stuff, then: "Last night, Michel and I double-dated with one of his girlfriends and her sister (they are both really cute-. We went to Shawinigan for a band concert. There were about three times as many boys as girls and they all stood 'bumper to bumper' on each side of the path while the couples walked between them. Soon it started pouring, so we went to a dance."

Well, the kid's getting some sense. He knows enough to get in out of the rain. There was a little message on the outside of the envelope of his last letter.. It was the least literary thing he'd written. It said, "Please send $10."

When the whole thing started, I was ready to send him to jail for 20 years. Instead, I sent him the 10 dollars.

COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Only two Municipal Elections were contested in Richmond County. One in Dist. 1, Arichat, and the other in Dist. No. 2, taking in the Head of Arichat Harbour, Barrachois, Pondville, Rocky Bay and Cape Auguet.

In District No. 1, Councillor J. Emile Benoit was opposed by Simon J. LeBlanc, a former Councillor for the District. Mr. Benoit was elected by a majority of 32.

In District No. 2, Deputy Warden, J. Harold LeBrun was opposed by Joseph Marchand of Pondville. Mr. LeBrun was elected by a majority of 22.

Isle Madame now has six Councillors and the Mainland with no change, having 11 Councillors.

The following are the newly elected Councillors:

Dist. No. 1, J. E. Benoit, Arichat, elected.

Dist. No. 2, J. H. LeBrun, Arichat elected.

Dist. No. 3, Joe LeBlanc, D'Es-

N. S. Information Office Opens at Montreal

ADDRESS BY GERALD DOUCET

HON. G. J. DOUCET
Provincial Secretary.

Mr. Minister, Mr. Sauvageau, Ladies and Gentlemen:

When my colleague, the Honorable Minister of Trade and Industry, asked me if I would accompany him to Montreal to be present at this official opening, I was delighted.

I was delighted because it gives me an opportunity to emphasize what the Province of Quebec and the Province of Nova Scotia have in common.

We share many things.

Delving back into history, it transpires that we share with you a heritage that spans more than four centuries. We share with you the honor and traditions that can come only with age. With you, we share a preponderance of two truly great cultures, those of the English and those of the French.

When mention is made of the French in Canada, one is inclined to think of the Province of Quebec, but I am sure that many of you here will know of the history of Nova Scotia, which in the latter days of the 16th Century was known as the land of Acadie.

You may know too, something of the early history of Acadie and the French who settled it. They came from the French provinces of Normandy and Brittany, from Berry and Poitou in the very early 1600's, and they founded the first European colony north of Florida. The name Champlain is as much a part of history of Nova Scotia as it is of Quebec. What may not be so widely known is that the Indian word "cadie" – from which Acadie was derived – became in English "plenty of".

Although mention of the word "plenty" provides me with an ideal opportunity to tell you of the bounties of my province, I would rather that you took advantage of our Information Office here, for that is one of its prime functions.

Instead, I would like to extend to all of you an invitation to visit our land of pleanty. It will provide you with an opportunity to compare the traditions and cultures of our population with those of your own.

Although any time is good to visit my province, perhaps you would find it most revealing to discover it during the Spring and Summer when social and cultural activities are particularly numerous and well organized, with every ethnic group contributing to an atmosphere of wholesome rejoicing.

We in Nova Scotia are particularly proud of our ethnic origin, not only the Acadian French, but English, Scotch, Irish, and German, and we are equally proud

FAREWELL 6167!

What does a railway buff look like? Apparently like any ordinary bloke except for a gleam in his eye and unbelieveable fortitude. I saw some 900 of the clan, mostly members and friends of the Upper Canada Railway Society on a recent drizzly fall day. Crowded in 18 coaches with standing room only in the baggage car, they traveled from Toronto to Huntsville. The attraction was said to be the riot of color at that time of year in the leaves of the hard maples and birch that abound in this area of the Muskoka Lakes. If the truth were acknowledged, most of the passengers had taken the trip to pay a last tribute to the CN's old 6167, a venerable steam engine headed for the scrap heap.

For the second time this year I was greeted with a 'sold out' declaration when I requested a ticket for this excursion. It would appear that a very large segment of our population is acquiring the 'travel by rail' habit. Stranded in Vancouver without a reservation this last summer wasn't too hard for me to take. I was sure, sooner or later there would be another train headed east with space for me to repose for the three day and night journey. 6167, however, may never turn another wheel.

It seemed important to me to find another means of transportation so that I could take part in the tribute to the past. It landed me on the bridge that spans the CN tracks on the main highway just as the old lady, huffing and puffing and being urged by locomotive 6218 rejuvenated for excursion purposes, came over the horizon.

A GALA SIGHT

Practically the entire population of Huntsville was there to greet train and passengers. The streets of this lovely, craggy town were never more crowded with humanity, even in the height of the tourist season, than on that Saturday afternoon. And Nature, even in a weepy mood, put on a pageant of color that stirred awe and admiration, especially among those railway enthusiasts who had travelled from the 'deep south' and other heavily populated areas of the United States to attend this wake for the old engine.

After the first excitement of the run-past for camera addicts and the tape recorders and when the human squeals of pleasure was over, most of those aboard tramped up to the lookout, or commandeered cars to take them to spectacular points of vantage which abound in this area of Ontario.

I visited Marjorie Demaine in her home on nearby Vernon Lake. I had read in one of our national

He gets cash before delivery

Every day local branches of the chartered banks extend credit so that businesses can fill orders, take on contracts weeks or months before payments start coming in. Companies come to them also for market and credit reports, assistance in handling payments, payrolls, collections, foreign exchange, letters of credit — whatever banking help they may need to keep men at work, goods flowing to market in Canada or abroad. Only the chartered banks are equipped to give this all-round financial service, so essential to doing business today.

THE CHARTERED BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

Through 5,650 branches, all across Canada, the chartered banks bring full-range banking within the reach of everyone.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

THE GROWTH OF CO-OPS

I see where one small-town citizen wrote to the editor to complain that the Co-ops are practically taking over in that town. In my own lifetime, I have seen remarkable growth in the Co-op movement, and if it continues at the present pace I doubt that there will be any independent merchants left by the time my son is my age.

While it may be true that Co-ops are run by clever men, I wonder if they are that much smarter than their private competitors. I doubt it. It seems to me it is the tremendous advantage they have been given by the taxation authorities that has accounted for their exceptionally rapid growth.

If I were a young man looking for a career, I would be very tempted to get into this business, at the top management level. I know of no other business which offers a greater chance to succeed. How, indeed, can a Co-op fail when it pays taxes at such a low rate while competitors are paying up in the 50% bracket?

Another big advantage, of course is the declaring of patronage dividends, but not paying them out to the members; instead the money is used for expansion, sometimes without interest, sometimes for long periods of time. Any good businessman or farmer, able to get such interest-free loan capital,, could certainly grow by leaps and bounds.

The Co-operative principle is an excellant one. It started with a desire of good people to help each other. It pays local municipal taxes without complaint. I believe that it ought now, if it is to continue to be a highly-principled operation, undertake to pay its full share of the cost of running the country.

The burden of taxation is an onerous one these days. It seems unfair that powerful formations of capital, such as the big Co-operatives, who do business with all-comers, should escape paying normal taxes in line with those of other companies.

If they would see fit to pay their share they would lighten the load on all other tax payers.

100th. ANNIVERSARY OF THE N. S. FREE SCHOOL ACT

Provincial schools will mark the 100th anniversary of the Nova Scotia Free School Act Nov. 6 with exhibits, dramatic productions, displays, and a history album contest.

Exhibits will illustrate the development in the communities through 100 years or free schools, and will be constructed with the assistance of specially prepared kits sent to the schools by the Department of Education.

The contest for history albums will have four divisions- - grades 1—6, grades 7—9, grades 10—12, and rural or one-room schools. It calls for a history of the development of education in the local community with written and illustrated material, assembled in album form.

Entries will first be judged by counties, and then on a province-wide basis. The county prize-winning albums in the first three categories and the three best entries in the rural school category from each county will be judged for provincial awards.

Free schools came to Nova Scotia in 1846. In that year, a bill providing for free schools supported by assessment or subscription was brought before the Nova Scotia Legislature by Premier Charles Tupper.

Plans for the Nov. 6 celebrations were made by a Free School Centenary Committee comprised of officials of the Department of Education and Provincial Archivist Dr. Bruce Fergusson. Deputy Education Minister Dr. H. P. Moffat is committee chairman.

Many Hunters

This season many visitors from the U. S. A. and other parts of the Province, are hunting for the elusive deer in Cape Breton.

Here again hunters should be reminded to use great care while hunting and endeavor to leave the woods before dark, as a night spent in the woods this time of year, could prove uncomfortable and in many cases disastrous.

If you are not acquainted with the territory where you are hunting, we suggest you engage a guide.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Home and School Sponsor Show

The Arichat Home and School Association sponsored a show in the Arichat District High School Auditorium, when Fulbert Boudreau and his orchestra and the T. R. Ranch Boys provided two hours of entertainment on Sunday night.

This musical show was well received by a large audience from all over Isle Madame.

The Home and School Associations in this County, are providing a noble service in helping to sponsor various projects in the interest of Education, and every support should be given them.

Visitors To Town

Ernie Nauffts, accompanied by Eugene Snell, both of Dartmouth, and Jim DeWolfe of Heatherton, were visitors here at the home of Mr. Nauffts' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bourinot.

While here the men did some hunting and were successful in taking home three deer.

New Residence

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Boudreau and family have moved into the residence formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Samson.

Mr.Boudreau , who purchased this property from Mr. Samson, will operate his Barber Shop business in this dwelling.

We wish Joe and family every success and happiness in their new home.

From Halifax

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Amey and family were motor visitors from Halifax, during the week-end. They visited at the home of Mrs. Amey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Melanson, West Arichat, and also at the home of Mr. Amey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Amey, Pondville.

Phil is employed as a steward on the passenger train, "Scotia" on the Halifax-Montreal Service.

From Thorburn

Ed. Stewart, the veteran well-driller of Thorburn, N. S., was a business visitor to Arichat during the week.

Mr. Stewart is now drilling wells in the Lochside vicinity, and the outfit is in charge of Ken Wood of Mulgrave.

Mr. Stewart is a very reliable well-driller and in the past several years has being engaged in well-drilling throughout Cape Breton Island and the Mainland of Nova Scotia.

Interceptor In Port

The R.C.M.P. Interceptor, Capt. Bill Mott, was in port on Monday.

Capt. Mott has a long and notable record in the marine section of the R.C.M.P., and previous to the police service taking over this patrol duty, Capt. Mott was a member of the Preventive Service of the Canadian Customs, and in conversation with him, we were happy to learn that he was a ship-mate with Seaforth Burton of this town, now retired in Victoria, B. C.

Court House Renovated

The front of the Court House has been renovated during the past summer, with new windows and pillars being repaired, also newly shingled, together with a fresh coat of paint the building presents a new look and now attracts much attention by tourists and visitors to Arichat.

Repairs to the Court House was much needed and whoever is responsible for bringing this matter to the attention of the Council, is to be complimented, and every Councillor who supported the recommendation of the committee of Public Property is to be congratulated.

The work on the Court House was performed by Donnie Melanson, a carpenter from West Arichat.

From Lancaster

Joe Richard of Lancaster, N. B. the sister city of St. John, was a motor visitor here in his new Mercedes car, the latest and most up-to-date model, he recently purchased in St. John.

While here, Joe was a guest of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Richard.

Joe is a veteran runner and during the summer took part in many road and track races in various parts of the Maritimes. He is the holder of many trophies, and we believe the most treasured one is the Trophy he won in Arichat some years ago, in a 3 mile road race.

A veteran of World War II, Joe had the honor of being Canadian Army Champion in his weight class while serving in the European theatre of war.

Joe also competed in the Boston Marathon, and in the first race finished 29th over an entry of several hundreds.

It was nice seeing Joe and we enjoyed his stories relating to the many races in which he competed. Joe is a very modest sports man and always speaks highly of his competitors in these races, which once again reminds us that it "Takes a good man to win, but a better man to lose."

Joe is employed by the C. N. R. out of St. John.

Bank Building Nearing Completion

The Royal Bank Building here is nearing completion and looks very attractive indeed. This new building will add greatly to the appearance of the town.

We are looking forward to giving more publicity to this new building when the official opening takes place in the near future.

Mr. Kevin Browne is the Manager of the Arichat branch, and we are sure both Mr. Browne and his Staff are looking forward to occupying the new up-to-date offices.

NEED FOR IMPROVED HOUSING FOR THE AGED

Need for improved housing for the aged and long-term care facilitates for the aged physically ill in Nova Scotia was urged in a brief presented to a Senate Committee by Welfare Minister James M. Harding, today.

The sixty-page report, which outlines findings of a four-man committee set up in May to study problems of the aged and ageing in the province, says Nova Scotia's needs are acute.

The brief calls for careful review by the federal government of the proposed Canada Pension Plan, and for ammendments to the present Unemployment Assistance Act. Both should be reconsidered from a regional basis with a view to providing Nova Scotia with more equitable cost-shared public assistance programs. Present application of the Unemployment Assistance Act in Nova Scotia, the report states, works "a hardship on provincial programs, not only for the aged, but for all needy persons."

The report also calls for increased income tax exemptions and tax assessment consessions tor the aged, involving all levels of government.

A special division should be created within the federal and provincial departments of Welfare to study the needs of the aged and ageing, according to the report. The Division would carry out research and provide consultive services to other groups and organizations involved in planning for the aged.

A continuing education program designed to acquaint the public with problemms facing the aging, and the services now available to meet their needs is urged. The program would serve to create public understanding and public acceptance of the aging and their requirements.

The report calls for voluntary organizations and groups to "become more concerned about the aged and work more actively with local welfare councils in a systematic approach towards the solution of the problems of the aged."

Also urged is the provision of aged, to provide counselling and organized social agencies for the referral services for them.

The brief, which deals in detail with the historical, economical and sociological problems of the aged and aging in Nova Scotia was prepared by Special Committee on Aging secretary Mary Lou Courtney. Miss Courtney was released from her job with the Maritime School of Social Work to undertake the study.

Other committee members include Mr. H. R. Banks, assistant director of Old Age Assistance, Mrs. Ruth Blue, Supervisor of Social Assistance and Mr. George Matthews, Social Assistance Consultant.

During the period of the study, briefs were presented to the committee by 16 organizations and levels of government across the province.

Miss Courtney and deputy welfare minister F. R. MacKinnon accompanied Welfare Minister Harding to Ottawa to present the province's submissions to the Hon. David Croll, chairman of the Senate Committee set up to study the problems of the aged and aging in Canada.

that our people maintain the traditions and cultures of their ancestors.

Our French heritage, for instance, extends to many areas of the province. On Isle Madame in Cape Breton Island, the majority of the people are of French descent. Cape Breton Island itself is believed to have been given its name by Basque fishermen shortly before the voyage of Columbus. Arichat on Isle Madame, one of the oldest villages in Nova Scotia, is a favorite place for artists and photographers.

The province's oldest Acadian dwelling is preserved in its original condition at Metaghan on St. Mary's Bay in the heart of the Claire Acadian region. The interior of the house is constructed entirely of wood and many of the original furnishings and appointments are still in evidence.

We have the oldest social club in North America, "L'Orde de Bon Temps" which was founded originally by Samuel de Champlain as a means of lessening, perhaps, the rigors of winter at Port Royal on the Nova Scotia shore of the Bay of Fundy.

I could go on talking about Nova Scotia, "Canada's Ocean Playground", and the reasons why it is winning more friends each year, but I would rather you discover its many charms personally.

So we invite you to become a member of L'Orde de Bon Temps. To qualify, we ask only that you visit us, that you enjoy your visit, that you remember us with pleasure and that you return often.

DIARY OF A VAGABOND

magazines about the stair carpet she embroidered. It had seemed so fantastic in print I wanted to see this amazing creation with my own eyes. The small black and white cut which appeared in the magazine with the text could hardly do justice to Miss Demaine's endeavor. Depicting the history of the Demaine family, it is embroidered on chicken feed bags in jute twine. The colors are exquisite and the quaint primitive figures tell the story of this family, so well known in the area, from the earliest settler to the two brothers and their talented sister who now reside on the farm.

Miss Demaine is also a correspondent for the local weekly newspaper, the Huntsville Forester, she acts on the Sisted Township Fair Board, is hostess during the summer and hunting season to many guests who repeat their visits year after year, and is a photography hobbyist who has had a number of her colored pictures chosen for reproduction on postcards. More than 500 people have called to see the carpet since it made print. Most are registered in her guest book and will be reminders of a summer season when leaves have fallen and tourists departed.

FLANDERS FIELDS

In preparation of the CBC radio series Flanders Fields, Gregory Clark recalls, to broadcaster Frank Willis, the days of the First World War. Clark was one of those who witnessed the period of the war from the first enlistments in 1914 to the entry of the Canadians into Mons on Nov. 11, 1918, and he is one of 600 interviewed in this first person narrative of the Canadians who fought in that war. Flanders Fields, a 17 - part series begins on the CBC radio network November 11, marking the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the Great War.

POST OFFICE TO ISSUE NEW 8 CENT STAMP

The first 8 cent stamp produced by the Canada Post Office since 1946 will be issued on November 18th according to an announcement made by the Honourable John R. Nicholson, Postmaster General.

The new stamp is intended to replace a former 7 cent stamp made obsolete by a recent increase in air mail rates to the United States. In addition to facilitating prepayment of air mail letters, the stamp will be used for parcel post and for first class letters weighing between one and two ounces for delivery within Canada.

The Postmaster General said that the design of the stamp is a re-working of the seven cent regular released on March 11, 1964. The only change is in the numeral seven which has been replaced by an eight. The central feature of the design is a modern intercity jet aircraft taking off from a Canadian terminal.

Since the air mail route change went into effect on July 15th, the Post Office Department has provided an overprinted stamp with the seven defaced and eight printed above it. Supplies of this stamp will soon be exhausted and the new eight cent issue will take its place.

DON'T BE A MURDERER

We could have thought of a more pleasant title by which to warn hunters about accidents in the woods this fall. No, if you'd shoot another hunter it's not likely you would be charged with murder. In fact, you would probably get off lighter than if you would rob a man of a few dollars, or steal his car, or operate a still.

Yes, we could have thought of a more pleasant phrase. But we got to thinking about the beautiful autumn weather, the trees ablaze with golds and reds and purples, and underneath the crackle of dry leaves in the rich forest bed on a frosty, sunny morning.

And in this early paradise a man with a gun.

A careless man with a gun—a stupid man with a gun—a criminal man with a gun.

He could commit a kind of murder on this early autumn morning. He could shoot another man instead of a deer. It has been done many times in other autumns with anguish and heartbreak for all concerned. So, you with a gun, please don't do it this year.

Don't shoot another man in mistake for a deer! Death is so final— at least on this earth. Don't be a murderer!
