"NewFUNland"

This week I am going to take you in imagination across a strip of ocean from North Sydney, Nova Scotia, to Port aux Basques, Newfoundland, or NewFUNland as its ardent tourist bureau likes to popularize this newest playground for summer holidayers.

Because of a great influx of visitors the CN car and passenger ferries that ply this fringe of the Gulf of St. Lawrence often have to be augmented during the peak of the tourist season by other small freighters which usually service the little outport towns around this famous island. I am among those who like to think I 'discovered' the virtues of this rugged part of Canada as a place to spend a summer vacation. Actually, since the last world war, when many service personnel were stationed at Gander Airport, Newfoundland has been a mecca for fishermen and hunters. After the Armistice, those servicemen who have never returned to the lakes, streams and freshets of this province, have spread the word of its potentialities. Add to this the pride with which many natives boast about their island when they settle on the mainland or south of the border and you have the best promotion publicity possible.

Whatever it is that has been the advertising medium for promoting Newfoundland as a tourist attraction, it has worked beyond all expectation. When I saw the crowds of would-be passengers trying to board one of the ferries I clutched even more securely, my own reservation for the trip across. This is meant as a very broad hint, that if you have any idea about visiting Newfoundland during the summer months, it is never too early to make your ferry reservations.

It amuses me a little the type of propaganda in travel folders that first attracts my eye. It is not always the glowing account of the angling, scenic beauty or hunting facilities. For instance, hay fever is unknown in Newfoundland and there are no snakes or reptiles inhabiting the island. That last bit of information appealed to me especially, no doubt, because I am the daughter of Eve!

I agree with this phrase "here it is as if parts of Norway, Switzerland, Spain and Ireland had been put together to form the island." In parts it is rugged beyond description. There are deep fiords and crashing surf, softly running streams, ever changing shadows and color in hills and valleys and always the restless sea.

Newfoundland is not a land of posh motels, though St. John's does boast a fine CN hotel. For the most part it is still quite primitive. But that, to me, is its charm. It is unspoiled by too much commercialism. Though it has developed tremendously since confederation, its tourist industry is so new it hasn't caught up with itself. Aside from St. John's, Corner Brook and Grand Falls are delightful small cities, abustle with industry and new-born prosperity. But I must maintain this, a Newfoundland holiday is predominately for sportsmen.

Many Attractions

Rest parks for travellers are maintained in ideal locations. The coastal cruises by freighter are a glorious adventure for the photography hobbyist. Squid-jigging can be quite an experience and a trip to the jigging grounds can be usually arranged through any of the local fishermen.

If an unusual and completely new holiday experience is on your mind, then choose Newfoundland. There are two places in Canada I would not have missed in my travels for all the world. One is Churchill, Manitoba (of which I shall write during this review of holiday prospects), the other is this lovely gem in the Atlantic Ocean, Newfoundland.

REVIEWING 1964

Hon Robert L. Stanfield

As 1964 fades into the past and we look forward eagerly to the New Year, it is a pleasure once again for me to express to Nova Scotians and to all our friends and aquaintences best wishes for 1965.

It is an appropriate time to say a special word of greeting to those who have become residents of the province during the last 12 months and to those who soon will call the province home.

There has been a continuing entry of new industry to the province and apart from the obvious economic benefits, we are delighted that this has been accompanied by a number of people moving to the province from places near and far.

When we look back on the events of the year, we find much for which to be thankful but there is still much to be done to make life in Nova Scotia all that we would want it to be.

It was a year of progress for Nova Scotia; of advancement on many fronts, economic expansion and diversification; of improved prosperity for many of our people.

Few factors are more significant of provincial growth than that of new capital investment. In 1964 an estimated $253,700,000 was invested in the province, a raise of 3.3 per cent oves the 1963 figure. This encouraging trend should continue in 1965.

General business conditions continued in the encouraging trend of previous years.

During the first nine months of 1964, retail sales already were 6.9 per cent higner than the same period in 1963. From January to September, retail sales were $499,889,000 compared with $467,758,000 for the first nine months of 1963.

Cheques cashed in Nova Scotia clearing houses during the first nine months of the year ran 7.3 per cent higher than the same period of 1963. From January to September, bank clearings totalled an estimated $3,252,208, compared with $$3,030,485 the previous year.

Production, employment and income also showed gains.

Manufacturing, the province's leading industry, was running ahead of 1963 and could reach $500,000,000 for the first time in the province's history.

Although coal production was down for the first eight months of the year, elsewhere on the mining scene the picture was bright.

Exploration continued at a near-record level.

Eight companies carried on exploratory programs and extensive geological, geochemical and geophysical work was carried on. Intensive offshore geophysical exploration to locate petroleum continued.

Gypsum ond anhydrite, salt and limestone production will likely reach new records and the output of silver an all-time high.

Nova Scotia's attractive economic climate is doing much to attract new industry and Industrial Estates Limited has contributed substantially to our efforts to expand our manufacturing industry.

Unemployment, of course, is influenced to a great extent by the state of the province's manufacturing industry. During the year the number of unplaced applicants at unemployment offices was somewhat less than in the previous year. Employment in manufacturing was up 5.7 per cent.

Construction, second only to manufacturing in value, is an important element of strength and acts as an indicator of the movement of the economy.

Estimates are that construction expenditures in 1964 will have exceeded $220,000,000. Total public and private investmment for new capital and repairs will have reached an estimated $353,000,000 in 1964,, up from $343,000,000 in 1963 and $314,000,000 in 1962.

Housing is an important comvestment, and the number of proponent of public and private invincial building permits issued was up 10 per cent over the same fishing industry was the opening of the new $6,000,000 fish plant at Lunenburg which gave us one of the largest and most modern fish plants in the world.

One of the major events in our period in 1963.

A 10 per cent increase in the value of fish landed was anticipated. Marketed value, which is the landed value added to the value derived from processing was expected to be close to BAD? IT'S EVEN VERSE!

There's no better indoor sport than versifying. And there's no better versifyer around these days than George Bain. Find out for yourself. Read this book, "I've Been Around .... and Around .. ..and ....".

Bain is a newspaper man with a lively eye for the ridiculous, and he has been around Washington, Ottawa and London come under his guns, and he seldom misses when he lines up his rhymes and fires a parody of anything from a folk song to a Gilbert and Sullivan snatch.

He's also a wicked man with a pun. To wit: a chapter entitled "How To Get Down From a Duck, Eider You Know Or You Don't." In this chapter, he's talking about an eider-down vest presented to a high dignitary. Bain continues, "No doubt, somewhere in the frozen North, there is now a proud eider duck strutting around with his little bald chest stuck out, envy of every duck for miles around." And he has a verse.

Said a chap to a poor donor duck,
"To what do you credit your luck?"
Said the duck, "Goodness knows,
But one must, I suppose,
Assume that I showed lots of pluck.

Just a sample from a rattling good book, a combination of rueful humor and satire with an edge to it.

This business of writing verses is fascinating to some people. Me for one. Every so often I get the urge, and burst into rhyme that has the readers of this column wincing, or running to the bathroom, gagging. Don't worry, not this week.

But just by sheer coincidence, I have come across some old verses (not mine) that consolidate my opinion that the English language is about the most illogical in the world. The following effort is dedicated to English teachers and the poor, baffled devils of foreigners who are trying to learn the crazy stuff.

The wind was rough
And cold and blough;
She kept her hands within her mough.
It chilled her through,
Her nose grew blough
And still the squall the faster flough.
And yet, although
There was no snough,
The weather was a cruel fough.
It made her cough
(Pray do not scough);
She coughed until her head blough ough.

What's that? You want more? I think you're out of your mind, but there's that old folk saying, particularly applicable these winter days:

It's not the cough
Wot carries you off,
It's the coffin
They carry you off in.

Several of the very few clean limericks in the world also reveal the oddity of the English tongue. For instance.

At fifty-five minutes past eight,
The kids at a feverish reight
Are seen rushing towards school,
And you'll find, as a rhool
It's because they're afraid they'll be leight.

Aw, come on. You don't REALLY want another! Well, I just happen to have:

A streetcar conductor once said
To a car full of people, "My haid
Has such a bad ache
That I fear it will brache, 6
Oh, I wish I were home and in baid."

There you are. A brand new party game. Think of the fun you'll have on these long winter evenings with things like,
A man on a picnic said, "Please
Don't be cross if perchance I should snease;
I've observed from my youth
That the horrible trouth
Is it's caused by the scent of the trease.

Got the idea. Let's try making one up. It'll be lousy, but . . .
A sailor, attempting to ski,
Ran his head right into a tri.
Although almost dead,
He angrily sead,
"It ain't near as soft as the si."

There. That ought to give you a few sleepless nights.

JUST ASK

The kindness of people often surprises me. I once wrote to a United States Senator to ask a simple question. His complete, courteous answer left me with a warm spot in my heart for all Americans. I could do nothing to further his political career, yet he undertook a lot of work to get and organize information for me.

Recently a statement in Louis Bromfield's book about Malibar Farm puzzled me, so I wrote an implement company for clarification. Apparently there was no simple answer, because I received a six-page letter, and on its heels a collection of brochures. Then, on top of all that, there came — on loan — from the same research man a book with the caution, "Guard it with your life; it's out of print and hard to come by now." This, I thought, was far beyond the call of duty and it certainly was not prompted by self - interest, for I had made it clear I was not in the market for any machinery.

Canadian firms seem equally eager to help solve problems related to their specialty. Until recently, however, there was a shortage of research facilities. That is being rectified today, particularly in Ontario, where Sheridan Park is becoming one of the most modern research centres in the world.

Seed companies are most obliging when it comes to answering qestions, even crazy ones from greenhorns like I, who can't tell a nematode from a rutabaga.

Recently I wrote to an electric light company to ask if it is really true that they make bulbs, purposely, so they don't last too long. The president – no less – answered. "There has to be a choice," he wrote, "between the amount of current used and the length of life. We do deliberately reduce the life, in order that you will not draw too much current." That was certainly a different slant than the pamphlet I'd been reading.

Got a problem? There are experts posed with the answers. Just ask!

N. S. P. C. TO BUILD NEW POWER LINE TO SERVE FISH PLANTS

Nova Scotia Power Commission will proceed with construction of a transmission line to serve the power needs of a new fish plant at Canso and the planned expansion of existing fish plant facilities at Port Bickerton, it was announced recently by Commission Chairman G. I. Smith.

The line will be constructed for 69,000 volts, but will operate initially at 23,000.

Construction is expected to commence as soon as final details of the power contracts have been arranged with the fish companies

"This new line is necessary because existing power facilities in this area are not capable of handling the increased industrial load associated with fish plant developments," Mr. Smith said.

The line is designed to take care of these new loads and to provide for some future industrial expansion also.

Main supply for the line, to be built at an estimated cost of $850-000 will be from an inter-provincial grid take-off at Antigonish. a common line will be built as far as Salmon River Lake, where two branch lines will be constructed — one leading toward Canso and the other across country to Port Bickerton.

The construction program will be timed to coincide with the anticipated construction and in-service needs of the two fish plants concerned.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

OBITUARY

THOMAS W. ACTON

The sudden passing of Thomas W. Acton, in his 63rd. year, a highly respected resident of Arichat, has occasioned widespread sorrow in this community, where he resided for the past 38 years.

The late Mr. Acton was born in England and came to Canada, as a child and lived in Sydney, where his late parents took up residence, and where two brothers and one sister survive.

Tom, as he was familiarly known by his many friends throughout Isle Madame, was a highly skilled Radio and T.V. Technician. For the past number of years he was an employee at Booth Fisheries, Ltd., Petit de Grat, as an Electrician, having supervised all the electrical work at this plant, when it was constructed. He was a most valued employee and will be greatly missed by the workmen at the plant who knew and respected him.

For some years prior to the Maritime Telephone Co., taking over the Telephone service on Isle Madame, the late Mr. Acton was in charge of construction and foreman for the Isle Madame Telephone Co., Ltd.

The funeral took place from Notre Dame Church, with Very Rev. A. P. Poirier as Celebrant, assisted by Monsignor A. Boudreau of D'Escosse and Rev. A. Doucet of West Arichat. The large attendance at the funeral attested to the esteem held for the late Mr. Acton.

The pallbearers, all neighbors and friends of the deceased, were Thomas Boudreau; Robert Lake; C. C. Bouchard; Jeffrey DeCoste; Wilbert Stone and Norman Samson. Interment in Parish Cemetery.

Surviving besides his wife are three daughters; Mrs. Norman Samson (Lillian), Petit de Grat; Mrs. Harold Comeau (Doris) of Ottawa and Mrs. Alexander Marchand (Anita), Arichat; also two sons, Richard attending Radio College in Toronto and Bernard at home; also two brothers and five sisters.

We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved wife and family and to his brothers and sisters in the passing of a beloved husband, father and brother.

Joins R. C. A. F.

Robert Bouchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bouchard, of Arichat, has joined the ranks of the R. C. A. F.

Robert was always in demand as a singer and with such a pleasing personality, he will be greatly missed by his many friends.

We wish this young lad every success.

We are glad to report that he is now home and well on the road to recovery.

Dan motored to Halifax during the week to visit his mother, Mrs. Alice Madden, whose health is now much improved. While in the City he visited his sisters, Mrs. McKenna and Mrs. Marchand.

Brief Visit

Constable Amedee Bowen, of the R.C.M.P. Detachment, Corner Brook, Nfld., arrived from Halifax, where he was a patient at Camp Hill Hospital. After visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hillary Bowen, for a few days, he returned to his homme in Corner Brook, Nfld., where he has been stationed for the past few years.

We wish Constable Bowen a speedy recovery.

Our deepest gratitude to all.

REVIEWING 1964

Fleet expansion should accelerate the growth of Nova Scotia's oldest industry.

The forest industry shows a continuing trend toward fuller use of our resources. Sawn lumber production was expected to be comparable with 1963. Pulpwood production increased sharply.

The addition of Scott Paper Company's $50,000,000 kraft pulp mill will create a strong and favorable impact on employment.

The index number of farm prices of agricultural products remained lower than the 1963 figure during the first quarter, but climbed to a higher level during the second quarter. This upward trend is attributed almost entirely to higher prices for livestock, particularly hogs and potatoes. Farm cash income at the end of the first half of 1964 was down to $19,000,000 from almost $21,000,000 in 1963 with the largest decline being in the value of the production of eggs.

The tourist industry is one of tre province's major sources of income. During the period June spent an estimated $56,600,000, an to September, 826,392 visitors increase of some $2,000,000 over the previous year.

Reflecting the growth of business and industry, net generation of electrical power increased 121,433 thousand k. w. h. between January and the end of September. Sales by the Nova Scotia Power Commission increased over 1963 by more than 10 per cent. Sales of new motor vehicles increased by 20 per cent.

The organizational phase of Nova Scotia's voluntary economic planning program is almost complete.

The province's economic structure has been divided into 10 sectors and each sector will submit a report to the Voluntary Planning Board for its consideration. from all sectors, a complete plan When reports have been received for the future economic growth of Nva Scotia will be prepared.

Eight of the 10 sectors have organized within the framework of the plan, and sector and segment committees have been set up. Committees are meeting regularly to discuss their problems, to find solutions for them, and to plan future growth. The two remaining sectors will be organized early in 1965.

The province continues to be a leader in labor-management relations. During the year, amendments to the Trade Union Act were enacted. Amendments were proposed to government in a joint brief by management and labor, and after consultation with the Joint Labor -Management Study Committee, were incorporated into the Trade Union Act.

In the field of education, school construction and changes in curriculum were prominent.

A substantial program of construction continued but the emphasis shifted from previous years. The need for new high schools decreased, but more elementary schools were built and many more are in the planning stages.

New courses were introduced into the curriculum and a number of experimental projects were carried out.

A total of 1,707 students attending six vocational high schools indicates the interest that was shown to meet the demand for specialized skills required by increased industrialization.

Health and welfare play a vital part in the well being of our people. There was further development of community mental health clinics, which receive a large measure of financial support through provincial and federal funds.

A program to assist in the provision of drugs for patients attending mental health clinics was undertaken. Oral Sabin vaccine was provided for 200,000 Nova Scotian children. No cases of poliomyelitis occurred in the province during the year and this is a source of satisfaction to all of us, especially parents.

The province continued and expanded its public welfare assistance programs and child welfare program. A new social development division will be directly concerned with improving the housing, education and employment opportunities in those areas and communities that have not reaped the benefits of our general progress.

In the field of municipal administration, 1964 saw considerable expenditures by our municipalities to improve their facilities and to enlarge their services.

The highways department continued to work toward its goal of providing a highway system designed to meet the demands of our expanding provincial economy. During the year, 196 miles of road were constructed or reconstructed, 140 miles of new paving were laid and 191 miles of repaving carried out.

It is fair to say that 1964 was an outstanding period of progress in Nova Scotia's history and that this progress will continue in 1965.

We must, however, work diligently so that the momentum will not diminish but will increase.

HOLDS HOPE OF NEW INDUSTRY

Nova Scotia Provincial Secretary Gerald Doucet said here Monday he hoped a new industry would be established in the County soon.

In an address to Richmond County Council, Mr. Doucet, MLA for Richmond, said he was "very hopeful" that a new industry will be forthcoming in the general area.

The district leading the pitch for a new industry is believed the Point Tupper area, Councillors said after the meeting. Mr. Doucet did not name any site or industry.

Mr. Doucet, commenting on the provincial government's share of education costs for Richmond County, said it would be increased to around 86 per cent, an increase of around 1.1 per cent. The figures are based on the government -set foundation program.
