SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

We're Cool Toward Heat

Year after year we moan about the bitter winter, or dreary fall, or the backward spring — until July and August when we take the rare-felt heat as a personal affront, and whine increasingly.

Along about the first part of July, we usually get a little whiff of that hot weather we've been looking forward to since Christmas. Nothing torrid. Just a little breath of warmth that a native of the tropics would sneer at. So what do we do? Do we cast off our long-handled underwear and burn it in the streets? Do we have a big welcome party for genial old Sol?

Not we. We totter around complaining even more bitterly than we did all winter. We adopt a harrassed air. If we live in the city, we dash from one tomb-like air-conditioned building to another, inevitably catching a wicked summer cold in the process. We greet each other with anguished groans and that old folk-saying, "Hot nuff fer yuh?"

Some idiots try to fight fire with firewater. With remarkable ease they convince themselves that a long cool one is the only way to beat the heat. Which is about as effective as trying to put out a small blaze by pouring gasoline on it.

Others have an even more silly solution. Their idea of getting away from the heat is to hit the highway, drive for four hours in extreme discomfort to a beach where they lie baking with similar sweaty citizenry, before retiring to sleep in a cabin like a steam bath.

Most of the preceding remarks have to do with the male population, poor devils. I must admit women and children stand up to the heat better. Big reason, of course, is their attire, or lack of it.

Small fry have less clothing on them in this weather than there is in the handkerchief their old man totes around in his hip pocket. Women, whose name in vanity are interested in acquiring a tan, so expose every possible inch and ounce to the dazed gaze of the men. Women's summer garments are a delight to the eye, and the ultimate in common sense. Maybe that's why ladies don't sweat but just perspire.

Not so the men. Unless they're on their holidays they face the heat with a surly lack of compromise that would be admirable were it not stupid. Most of them wear the same clothes in summer as in winter, except for an overcoat. The odd one will take off his jacket. A few sneakily remove their ties. And the wild individual will roll up his shirt-sleeves when it hits a hundred.

But that's about as far as they will go. The vast majority of men wear wool socks, heavy leather shoes, long trousers of wool or flannel, and the same shorts they wear in January.

One more thing that makes a man miserable in the heat is the amount of junk he has to carry in his pantspockets. In cool weather he can spread it around in jacket and overcoat pockets. But when he has only trousers pockets in which to carry cigarettes, lighter, handkerchief, coins, car keys, pen, notebook, pipe and tobacco, golf tees, sinkers and about 50 other essentials, he looks about the shape of an old tree, covered with fungus.

Hot weather is not for men. They should all be given about six weeks off in the summer while the scantily clad women and kids keep things going. The men won't be happy until they sniff the first nip of fall in the air, and can start grumbling about the cold, and what it costs to heat the place.

Don't lose wour health by accident. The Canadian Paraplegice Association reminds you to live safely and drive carefully. Don't become a paraplegic by accident.

ST. JOSEPH'S CREDIT UNION NEWSLETTER

PETIT De GRAT, C. B.—As this letter is being prepared for publication, our Planning Committee, have been more than active getting ready for the opening of our ultra-modern and beautiful office, which is now completed and how the business has increased since the opening.

The other day I heard a citizen in our community make the remark "that Petit de Grat, now had a new bank," those words were truly spoken, but may we add this new credit union building is your building and if you are a member you share in this privilege. So how about entering this new building to-day and make application for membership. Carl will tell you about it and benefits of being a member of a Credit Union.

During the month of June our shares increased to $2,846.41 and in the same month our Loan demand increased by $7,161.89. Interest received for the same period was $1,910.41. Our assets at present amount to the sum of $227,467.67. Yes sir, wer'e closing in fast and look for larger amounts in the months ahead.

It is possible and the figures prove it—that our Credit Union Members have saved since January 1, 1965 to the month of June $30,187.15. This is better than an average of $5,000 a month—"Keep the money rolling in", says Carl.

A full report of our opening will be reported later when Hon. Gerald Doucet, Provincial Treasurer will be our guest speaker and many high officials of the Credit Unionists in Nova Scotia.

The women in the parish are working feverishly to prepare a grand meal for the Celebration.

We have added an assistant Treasurer to the staff and your newsletter has stated in well chosen words that SHE is the pleasant and vivacious Edith Landry from Petit de Grat and is a recent graduate of our High School Secretary Class. Congratulations Edith.

Before closing my monthly letter Mr. Editor I must not forget that Mr. Henry Fortune is our new janitor and he is keeping our new office clean, neat and tidy. This is good fortune for our Credit Union to have his services.

NEED A LOAN? Come and see Carl....We feel that he won't see you stuck. These services are yours by being a member.

Will see you next month.

MacRAE — JOSHUA

Spring flowers decorated St. Paul's Anglican Church, in Halifax, when Mary Deltina Joshua became the bride of Lloyd Francis MacRae.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Joshua and Mr. and Mrs. James MacRae are the groom's parents. all are from Louisdale, Cape Breton.

Rev. Gordon W. Philpott performed the marriage ceremony.

Professor Harold Hamer was the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by the groom's father wore a floor-length dress designed in bridal taffeta with a scallop neck line and long sleeves; the back of her gown was accented with a large bow. A rhinestone headpiece held a shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of read roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Donald Wile was matron of honor and Donald Wile was best man.

Donald Harnish was the usher.

Rev. Philpott proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held at the future home of the bride and groom on Compton Avenue, Halifax.

For their wedding trip throughout the province the bride wore a turquoise suit which she accessorized with white. Her corsage was yellow roses.

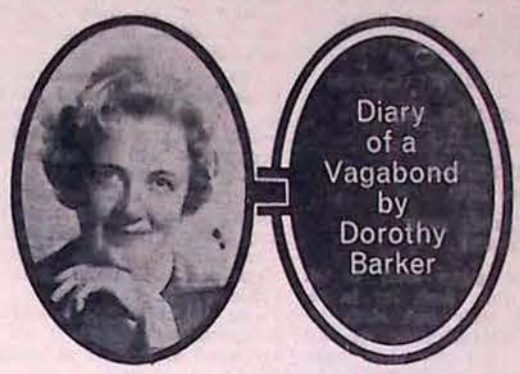

SAFETY AWARD FOR SHOP

St. John's, Nfld. — Canadian National's diesel shop in St. Johns has been awarded the 1964 CN safety award for motive power departments.

The award — a special engraved plaque — was presented by W. E. Danter of Moncton, general superintendent of equipment for CN's Atlantic region, at a ceremony at the diesel shop. A. Rowe general foreman at the shop, received the award on behalf of the shop personnel.

The diesel shop which employs more than 140 men had no lost-time accidents during the year. It was in competition for the award with five motive power shops across the CN system.

Several merit awards will also be presented to the shop by the Newfoundland Industrial Safety Association. It is the second time the St. John's diesel shop has won the annual safety award.

Two By Two

Out on the prairies, just 14 miles east of Edmonton, there is a modern Noah. He is Al Oeming who has established the Alberta Game Farm, where on 1000 acres species of native animals and those from other lands, as well as birds and fowl breed happily under almost ideal conditions. My only regret when I visited the farm was that I did not meet this man who has brought so much pleasure into the lives of nature lovers who visit his farm by the thousands each year. He was away at the time on a scouting mission for more animals and their mates to add to his amazing family of wild beasts.

Tawana, his pet cheetah, did her best to make me and several hundred summer visitors welcome. She purred, in what was a barely audible sound, above the hushed exclamations of pleasure voiced by children exploring the farm for the first time.

I have visited many, many zoos in my day but this was the first time I had felt that the wild creatures I saw there in captivity were perfectly content with their lot.

There is no doubt due to their surroundings for the most part and, secondly to the understanding care given the stock and bird life by the farm's ten employees.

Al Oeming was assisted in establishing this farm by his wife May. They chose 1000 acres, which included Lost Lake, and decided any animals they acquired would be given great areas of their own in which to roam confined only by as little fencing as was necessary.

The farm, which is open all year round has never been subsidized or has it benefited from endowments. Privately owned by the Oemings, it depends for its revenue on the patronage of its visitors. National television series have been produced at the farm and a tame lynx from there was featured in Walt Disney's "Incredible Journey".

Another source of revenue that has made the continuing growth of this animal farm possible is the sale of stock to other zoos. The Oemings often trade their animals too, strengthening not only their own stock, but that of other established enterprises of similar nature.

Animals in Pairs

I am fortunate because exciting things always seem to be happening when I am in the vicinity. The day I was being taken on a tour of the Alberta Game Farm by Bill McKay, two gigantic white rhinoceros, a lady and a gentleman, had just been released from two months' quarantine. They were taking up residence on a mound of rootable earth. One of the largest mammals in the world, exceeded only by the elephant, these great ferocious looking beasts were making peculiar grunting noises behind their cement fences possibly approving of their new home. I didn't ask Bill McKay to prove his statement that the murderous looking horn on their snout is really a twist of matted hair. It looked to me wicked enough to gore a man. But ,from whence they came, they couldn't be lassoed by this projection but had to be shot with tranquilizers before they could be captured. They are reputedly the only white rhinos in captivity.

Not too far away Bill opened a gate and with an encouraging shove pushed me within the enclosure where half a dozen wallabies were bounding about. From the pouch of one, "Little Joe" peeked out inquisitively and I had visions of his mother taking a swat at me with that powerful tail wallabies use as a thrust behind their great leaps and bounds. I've made a monkey of myself at times, but I never expected to be behind bars with this smaller species of Australia's kangaroo. Personally, I would prefer being caged with a cuddly koala teddy bear.

Species which never before have reproduced in captivity have given birth at the Oeming farm. Good care, vitamins, and room to roam together with the healthy atmosphere of the Canadian prairies have no doubt contributed to their successful breeding.

STRAIT SERVICE ON SUMMER SCHEDULE

Moncton — Canadian National's Northumberland Strait ferry service went on summer schedule June 25 and gives Prince Edward Island the most frequent service ever. The three CN ferries make 38 scheduled crossings a day, four more than during the peak season last year.

The summer schedule will be in effect until September 7 and features departures from both Borden and Cape Tormentine as early as 6:30 a.m. and as late as 11 p.m.

The extra crossings being made this year became possible with completion of the new berth at Borden.

During 1964, Centennial celebrations and the visit of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh helped draw 573,766 visitors to the Island by ferry — an increase of 57,226 over 1963's total.

With the summer increase in traffic, the Northumberland Strait service is preparing for another record season.

A CN chartered bus service operating between Charlottetown and Amherst, N.S., connects with Ocean Limited trains and the east bound Scotian train.

OF MANY THINGS
By Ambrose Hills

DON'T FORGET HOW IT WAS DONE!

A famous golfer used to tell amateurs their fault lay in remembering their bad shots instead of concentrating on the good ones and how they were achieved. A famous writer advised amatuers on how to invoke the mood of success which led to each salable piece of writing. Now the chairman of the board of a great oil company has come up with a similar bit of advice for our Canadian society as a whole.

Mr. C. D. Shepard, of BA Oil, told a luncheon meeting in Brandon the other day, that "we are all in our respective busy lives apt to forget why and how this country grew great and why we have a great future. We are apt to concentrate on the imperfections we see around us and to forget that other forms of government which are not favourably disposed toward private enterprise have even more imperfections."

He pointed out that Canada is the second richest nation in the world; we rank second in the ratio, of cars and television sets to population, to name only two items. We are outranked only by the USA — a country that also favours private enterprise.

Some will object that these are material blessings. So they are. But we are blessed in spiritual things as well — we have freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and economic freedom. Many believe that this spiritual freedom lies at the bottom of our material success, because wherever freedom is limited, material success does not last.

So perhaps the golfer's advice should apply to Canadians. Don't forget our successes, and how we achieved them. After all, we didn't get where we are through sheer luck. Our democratic system deserves a lot of the credit. We would be wise to retain it.

FIFTH YEAR FOR AWARD

Toronto — Canadian National Railways has won the Public Safety Activities Award of the Ontario Safety League for the fifth straight year for its efforts in making the public more safety conscious.

The award went to CN's Voice of Safety, a monthly publication issued by the railway's supervisor of safety and fire prevention. J. R. Bannerman.

Some 6500 copies are distributed monthly to individuals, safety organizations and industries throughout North America and across the CN system.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Cezar Forgeron of Martinique wish to thank all their kind friends and neighbours; also those who loaned cars to attend the funeral or helped in any way during their recent sad bereavement. All these were much appreciated.

OVERHAUL ATLANTIC REGION RAILINERS

Moncton — A complete overhaul and modernization of Atlantic region railiners has started at Canadian National's Moncton shops. Approximately five weeks of work by up to 30 men go into each unit before they are returned to service.

Installation of a modern snack bar, improved luggage racks, a new color scheme and reclining individual seats are main features of the renovation program, explained W. E. Danter, general superintendent of equipment for the Atlantic region.

The new style of seat replaces straigt-backed ones used previously. A different type of upholstery —blue and grey cloth with black armrests — will be another feature of the railiners.

The first of eight railiners has already been done. It is 109 running between Halifax and Sydney. The railiner in the Moncton shops now was taken from the Chaleur area.

One car at a time is taken in for work and the others are rescheduled so there is no lapse of service to any area.

The railiners under the renovation program are completely stripped — even the tile is taken off the floor — before painters, electricians and sheet metal workers take over. At the same time the engines and undercarriage are being overhauled.

EXECUTIVE CHEF RETIRES FROM KITCHEN

Jasper Alta., — He has prepared meals for members of the Royal Family, government officials, and a former first lady of the United States.

As executive chef of Jasper Park Lodge, he and his staff of 100 turn out nearly 4000 meals a day.

He is William Schmidts, 61, a man who can look back on 48 years of hotel experience, 39 with Canadian National Hotels.

Schmidts is retiring from the world of the hotel kitchen.

Schmidts' entry into the hotel business seems to have been predestined. His Quebec-born mother and German father met and were married in the old Buckingham Hotel London. The couple moved to Bruges, Belgium, to become proprietors of a hotel, and it was there that "Willy" was born.

In the mid-20's Schmdits was at work in Germany. Multi-lingual — English, French, German and Flemmish — he was called upon to act as interpreter for an Alberta Government colonization agent who was trying to persuade a group of German farmers to emigrate to Canada.

The farmers didn't move, but Schmidts did. In 1926 he crossed the Atlantic, settled in Winnipeg joined CN and became assistant chef at the Fort Garry Hotel there.

Bill Schmidts has literally prepared meals "fit for a king". He had served Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, the Queen Mother and the late King George VI and Eleanor Roosevelt.

Of his 100-man staff here each season, about 85 are college students, many of whom have never seen the inside of an hotel kitchen. Working with but a small corps of professionals brought in for the summer from other CN hotels, Schmidts treats the students with what he calls "cordiality and understanding", quickly building up spirit and efficiency, proving that even with amateur help a master chef can still produce top-notch meals.

Here is one of Chef Schmidts' recipes for popular TV or party snacks:

Stuffed Vienna Rolls Beatrice

Slice a roll in half and butter it. Top with minced spiced meat and cover with a slice of cheese. Bake in the oven and serve hot. An excellent snack for a cold winter's night.
