British Ghosts Aghast

From Britain came an unprecedented rumbling in the atmosphere.

No it wasn't thunder. Not real thunder, anyway, though it sounded mighty like it.

It was made up of two things: great men turning in their graves; and a vast groan of disgust and dispair from several million ghosts.

If you listen carefully, you can even distinguish some of the individual voices in this continuing thunder of protest from the nether world.

Surely that rasping growl belongs to Sir Winston Churchill. Poor old chap. Barely laid to rest when something like this comes along to destroy his hard-earned peace.

Doesn't that angry bellow belong to Sir Francis Drake? Could that bull's roar of rage be anyone but Henry the Eighth?

Surely that booming of blank verse is John Milton? And wouldn't that howl of anguish be Rudyard Kipling?

There's a duet: the angry snarl of the Duke of Wellington and the outraged holler of one-eyed Horatio Nelson.

And there's a trio. It sounds much like the pontifical tones of Archbishops Cranmer, Ridley and Latimer, martyrs three.

Gruff Gladstone and dapper Disraeli, roaring protest, are in tune as they never were alive.

I'd bet money that female squeal, rising above the others, belongs to Good Queen Bess, hurtling down the halls of five centuries, as she rages, "Namesake! Child! Elizabeth! How could you?"

Methinks that magnificent bell-toned baritone with the shudder in it could belong to none other than The Bard, sobbing in sorrow and frustration, "Is this a Beatle which I see before me?"

There. It's out. I knew the suspense was killing you. Yes, the great ones of Britain's glorious heritage have good reason for their celestial storm of indignation. The Beatles were awarded the M.B.E. (Member of the Order of the British Empire).

Yes, to this depth of depravity have sunk the ancestors of those giants who took on the Spanish Armada, the Pope, the French, the Germans, who clobbered natives all over the world and established peace and good trading conditions, who defied single-handed the great tyrants Napoleon and Hitler. (Well, almost single-handed.)

Don't quail like that, old chap. Don't rip off your Victoria Cross or your D.S.O. and throw it in the garbage. Chin up. Have a stiff drink. You British have always been able to muddle through. You may even muddle through this one.

But it will write finis to the once-mighty British Empire. And perhaps it's best this way, after all. The Empire was shrinking like a two-dollar all-wool sweater. If you couldn't end with a bang, be satsfied with a snicker.

CITIZENS HONOUR DR. GEORGE R. DEVEAU AT TESTIMONIAL DINNER

We are grateful to George Raymond Deveau, M. D., who has resided in Arichat where he practised his profession in the Isle Madame-Louisdale area for the past 46 years. Dr. Deveau was born in Digby County and after graduating in medicine from Laval University came to Arichat to practice. Shortly afterwards he married Margaret Fortier of Quebec City. They raised a family of five children. The two boys Gaston and Bernard, in Hamilton, Ont. One daughter, Magdelene resides in Halifax. Another daughter, Lucille resides in Rio de Janerio, Argentine. The eldest Jeanne is a professor at the University of Montreal.

Dr. Deveau practised his profession here long before a hospital was established. He perhaps more than anyone, urged the promotion of a hospital where the sick could be better cared for than in their homes. Dr. Deveau was on the hospital staff for almost the entire time since the the hospital was established and he was a member of the Hospital Board since the beginning.

During the early years of his practice the Doctor could relate many interesting stories of sick calls made by horse and sleigh, when the roads were shovelled out by hand.

Doctor Deveau took keen interest in ice racng and always kept a spirited horse which he also used on sick calls. The doctor was noted as a good sport and win, or loose, he entered races purely for sport and enjoyment. He was always ready to help in sporting activities.

Doctor Deveau experienced the rigors of Cape Breton winters before the use of cars on snow-filled highways and the disadvantages encountered in a rural practice.

Dr. Deveau was County Medical Health Officer for many years. He also served as Port Physician.

He was a member of the Provincial Legslature of Nova Scotia, representing Richmond County from 1933 to 1937 under the late Hon. Angus L. Macdonald.

To Doctor Deveau goes a large amount of credit for whatever success the hospital has had. He has always put the interest of his patients ahead of any other considerations.

It was fitting that his many friends sponsored a Testimonial Dinner for him at the Canadian Legion Hall. This dinner was chaired by an Arichat born doctor, Doctor Herbin. The guest speaker was Dr. Tom Gorman of Antigonish, President of the Medical Association of Nova Scotia. Dr. Gorman praised Dr. Deveau's interest in his patients even when they were sent to a hospital and were under the care of another doctor. Five spokesmen for the different areas and their wives were at the head table. Each spoke briefly, thanking Dr. DeVeau for his services to the people. Mr. George Samson spoke for the Petit de Grat area, Mr. Paul Doyle for the Arichat area, Mr. Rudolph LeBlanc for the West Arichat area, Mr. Wilfred Poirier for the D'Escousse area and Mrs. Viola Landry for the Louisdale area.

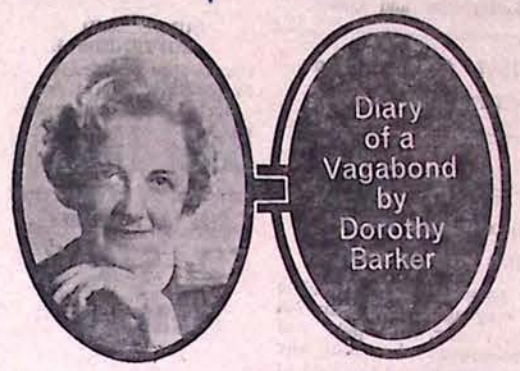

Mrs. Herbin presented a bouquet of carnations to Mrs. Deveau.

M. J. Bourinot made a purse presentaton on behalf of those present following which Dr. Deveau spoke emotionally, expressing regret that he had to end his medical practise due to ill health.

The dinner ended with the singing of "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow". Following which a reporter for the Sydney Post took pictures and former patients went to bid their farewells to Dr. and Mrs. Deveau.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion deserve much credit for the delicious turkey supper and the gracious manner in which it was served to over two hundred guests.

The Record wishes Dr. and Mrs. Deveau many years of well earned retirement. We hope now, that he is relieved from some of the stresses and strains of life, he will be able to regain his usual vigorous health. We shall expect to see the Dr. and Mrs. Deveau on visits to Arichat from time to time.

First In The World

As Canadians we are not a boastful nation. Many times phlegmatic in attitude, seldom prone to spontaneous praise, we too often take for granted the achievements of persons, places or industry in this country.

In my travels by rail across Canada I have often been inspired beyond the limitation of mere words by a personality, the beauty of a scene, or an industrial success story.

On at least two occasions I can remember I have written about the excitement successful mining of potash in Saskatchewan has created in the province often referred to as the "bread basket of the world." Though potash is oiling the economical wheels of this province, it was Kalium Chemicals Limited that wrote mining history during the latter part of last year.

After more than six years of research, trial and error, in August, 1964, this company was able to announce that, for the first time in the history of the entire world, potash had been successfully mined by a solution process at their plant near Belle Plaine.

It is naturally a well guarded secret just how this was accomplished and rightly so. Bear in mind that solution mining was tried fifty years ago in Germany, in Mexico and at least in recent years, twice in Saskatchewan. The company's secret we honor, its process we praise.

Sounds Easy

To quote from one of the press releases, "Successful, full-scale operation of Kalium's mine and refinery settles long held fears that solution mining of potash was not economically or technically possible."

The process, I was told in layman's language which even I could understand, is to pump water down through bore holes into the potash beds a mile below the surface of the earth. This dissolves the potash-bearing portion of the ores and returns them to the surface in solution. When refined by crystallization and drying, the fine white produce is stored for shipment in tremendous structures that look like stunted silos. The tiny pellets are dust free and its purity shows no trace of the pink tones that tint most potash mined in North America.

Perhaps I should remind readers that potash is one of three necessary ingredients of all fertilizers and that three-fourth's of the world's population is awfully hungry. Fertilizers, properly used, step up agricultural production which in turn means more people can be fed.

There is enough potash in these Saskatchewan beds to supply all the demands of the world at its present rate of consumption for the next 8,000 years!

Just for a moment, while we digest this known factor in our economy, let us start assessing its allied effect on industry. Production at Kalium is expected to reach 600,000 tons per year. This must be shipped by rail to eastern Canada, the United States and to our ocean ports for export to world markets.

This all adds up to more food for more people, more employment in Saskatchewan, and a new source of income for the nation and its railways. Most of all, let us be just a little proud nationally that government departments, the assurance of a means of transportation and the co-operation of highly skilled technicians and contractors brought this "first" into being for Canada.

Of Many Things

MAKING FUN OF FOWLER

It is possible that Canadian politics may again have some fun with Mr. Fowler, the pulp and paper executive who habitually heads commissions on Canadian broadcasting.

Mr. Fowler gets appointed by Liberal governments, but when he devises bureaucracies to run broadcasting, the Liberals aren't always on hand to choose the bureaucrats.

Mr. Fowler first recommended the Board of Broadcast Governors. But the Liberal Government that had appointed him got tossed out of power. So Mr. Diefenbaker and his cabinet selected the BBG. It was a good body, and though it clashed both with CBC and the Private Broadcasters a few times, it was fair to both, and there was a big improvement over the old regime where there was a single authority.

But lo! Diefenbaker lost power, and the Liberals couldn't tolerate a BBG on which Tories were sitting. So they again turned to Mr. Fowler, and appointed him to make still another study. He studied, and decided he'd done wrong and that his BBG wouldn't work. Conveniently he came up with a new Board, to be called the CBA, and it would have even more power, and no doubt Liberals would sit on it.

Politics is some game!

But now there's an election, and it could be that Mr. Fowler's new invention will also be taken over by the hated Tories. If Mr. Fowler has to do this whole thing over again in a few years, it will be interesting to see what kind of a Board he comes up with then.

Not so amusing is the fact that Mr. Fowler was right the first time. The BBG, which he recommended, did good work, and broadcasting made a little more headway than it had done in the years before. The BBG clashed on a few occasions with private broadcasters and with the CBC, but was fair to both. If there must be a Board at all, the BBG was the proper kind. It seems a shame to get rid of it for what appears to be largely political reasons!

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Huguette Samson, a 22-year-old married woman who earns $56.50 a week.

Huguette and her husband, who is earning $4,200 a year, hope that Huguette will work for a few years before family needs require her attention full time.

Assuming that Huguette does just this, her contributions to the Plan will benefit her in several ways. For example, if she works only for another five years, at age 65 she will receive a small retirement pension of $8.38 a month in addition to her $75 a month Old Age Security.

Through her husband's contributions to the Plan, should he die when they have three young children, Huguette would receive a widow's pension of $57.81 a month plus $25 a month for each child—a total of $132.81 a month. She would also receive a lump sum payment of $500.

At age 65, based upon both her own and her husband's contributions she would receive a pension of $57.53 a month plus $75 a month Old Age Security—a total of $132.53.

If she decided to supplement her income at any time by returning to work, she could still receive the widow's and orphan's benefits, could substantially increase her retirement pension, and could also ensure her entitlement to a disability pension if she became disabled.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If you are employed and, like Huguette, have earnings of $2,938 spread evenly over the year, you will pay at the rate of 81¢ a week. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.
