When Movies Meant More

In one small town after another, the local movie-house, once the town's foremost center of second-hand sin and sex, violence and valor, excitement and ecstasy, is darkening its former bright spot on the main street, and closing its doors, to stand there in bleak reproach, mute testimony to the havoc that is being wrought on our culture by that one-eyed monster, the television set.

I read the other day that the theatre had been closed in my old home town, and it gave me quite a pang, like learning of the death of a boyhood friend still in his best years. For some of the most formative days of my life, that theatre drew me into its black maw with the awesome ease of a whale yawnnig to let one small herring swim inside.

As a small boy, I wept, shivered with fear, screamed with laughter and almost died of suspense, in that theatre. I chased Indians with Tom Mix, fell desperately in love with Marlene Dietrich and thundered through the jungle on the back of Tantor the Elephant with Tarzan.

I remember going to every matinee I could manage. Money was scarce in those days, and raising a dime was harder for a kid than raising a dollar now. Sometimes it took me a solid hour to wheedle the sum out of my kid brother, an industrious type who had a newspaper route.

There was a matinee Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, in those days and it taxed my ingenuity to make all three, but I seldom missed. If I couldn't find any empty beer bottles to sell, and my brother was adamant in refusal, I'd hit up my pal "Egg" Slegg, an equally ardent aficionado of the silent screen, but one with a little more money. If he had only one dime, we'd buy one ticket, and both try to squeeze past the ticket-taker. He knew what we were doing, and if he was in a good mood, let us both in.

One time, I was completely stymied. I had to go to the show to see if Tarzan got away from the crocodiles who were converging on him last Saturday. I got his last six cents from my brother, but couldn't raise another sou. It's about 30 years ago, so I guess nothing will happen if I admit I swiped the other four from my mother's purse. It was the one time the show wasn't worth it. The sunofagun got away from the crocodiles, and I suffered deep pangs of remorse for weeks.

A wonderful part of my cultural education in those days, though I didn't realize it at the time, was the music instilled in me at the show, when they were still running silent pictures. Down in the pit, watching the picture and matching its every mood with consummate skill on the piano, sat Lornie Noonan. How he could make you sweat as the wheels started coming off the stagecoach. How he could make you weak with hot, salty tears at a touching moment.

During the teens, the theatre was a different, but equally thrilling place. In its comforting darkness, the most timid boy would find the courage to reach shyly for the hand of his girl and sit there, clutching it fiercely until both their paws were slippery with sweat.

And if the girl whose hand I clung to on many a wonderful Saturday afternoon, with the teenage crowd in the gallery, reads this, I hope she won't be embarrassed.

It was one of the very nicest parts of growng up.

I'm sorry if you've been bored by these reminiscenses. They started from my horror at the rapid decline of the small town theatre. How people can sit and watch that appalling junk on TV, when there's a first-rate movie at the local show, I can't understand. When the theatre in their own town goes dark, those who have enjoyed a thousand experiences in it will be sorry. And none will more bitterly regret it than your humble servant.

MACDONALD — FORGERON

Immaculate Conception Church at West Arichat, N. S. was the scene of a very pretty fall wedding, when Monica Ann, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Wilfred C. Forgeron, became the bride of William Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacDonald, of Judique, N. S. Rev. A. Doucet celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin peau de soie. The semi-fitted skirt featured a train of the same material which fell from a lace cummerbund. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil was held in place by a lace covered satin pillbox. She carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations intertwined with green ivy.

Miss Pauline Forgeron, sister of the bride was maid of honor while Miss Fidelis MacDonald, friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. Miss Zelia Boudreau, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Miss Forgeron and Miss MacDonald wore identical floor length gowns of emerald green satin peau de soie featuring 3/4 length sleeves and semi-fitted skirts. Their headpieces were green satin and tulle. Their bouquets were white pompoms. Miss Boudreau wore a similar styled gown with white satin bodice and green semi-fitted skirt. Her headpiece was a white and green bow. She carried a miniature bouquet of pompoms.

Attending the groom were his twin brothers, Joe and Harold MacDonald and George Forgeron, cousin of the bride.

Soloist for the occasion was Mr. Al Fougere of Port Hawkesbury. ception was held at the K. O. C. Following the ceremony, a re- Hall, West Arichat.

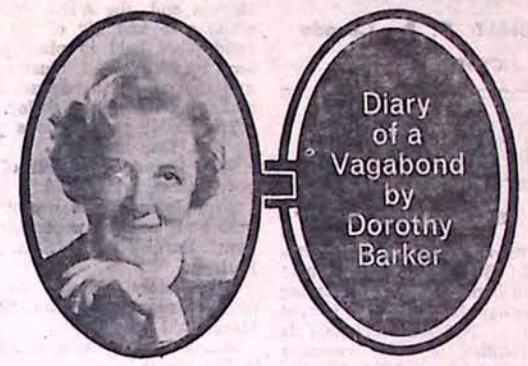

Receiving with the bridal party were the parents of the couple. The mother of the bride wore a beige wool suit with mink collar and brown accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a blue silk dress, black feathered hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. A. Doucet and responded to by the groom.

Following the reception, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to the U. S. A. For travelling, the bride chose a forest green wooi suit with beige and brown accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald will take up residence in Port Hawkesbury, where both are employed with Nova Scotia Pulp Limited.

We join with their many friends in wishing them a long and happily wedded life.

Careers Plus

For many, the fact that they have made a success of their chosen careers is not sufficient. These are the people who reach out to help others or, as in some instances, to enrich their own lives by developing latent talents.

Last fall a 13-year-old Greek girl was able to enter High School because of the thoughtfulness of 60 Canadian National office employees in Saskatoon. The news of their generosity has been in my files for several months. It was added to a collection of items about employee endeavors I had been building through personal contacts, or that thing called human communication which exists in every organization. The personalities and these office workers I have chosen to write about, appeal to me as outstanding column material and the kind of human interest story columnists love to unearth for readers to relish.

Dark-haired Ourania Dede, who lives in a mountainous village in central Greece, had resigned herself to forfeiting a secondary school education because her destitute family could not provide the necessary funds.

Employees in the CN Saskatchewan Area offices, however, agreed to increase their contribution to the Foster Parents' Plan, making sure that their "adopted daughter" would be able to continue her schooling. From their initial payment of $16.00 towards the girl's upkeep, these employees now pay $28.00 per month. The original payment provided her with food, clothing and medical care. This additional amount will ensure education for her of which she would have been deprived.

Such examples of thoughtful generosity are typical of many CN employees across the System.

The Foster Parents Plan, relief committees and other fund-raising institutions have drawn willing assistance from all ranks of railway employees.

Surprise Award

I would like to have seen the expression on the face of Joe Lamarche, a CN pipefitter in the Transcona car shops in Winnipeg, when he was surprised with the award of "Youth's Best Friend" by co-sponsors, the local Hadassah-Wize Council and Station CJAY-TV. Joe's wife said he was 'stunned' when informed he had been selected as Winnipeg's champion youth worker out of hundreds nominated by youngsters around the city.

What did Joe do to merit this award? Thirteen years ago he became sports director of his neighborhood community club devoting many evenings to the direction of the hockey program.

In 1959, and several years after, he took a team to Goderich, Ontario to compete in annual national peewee hockey tournaments. Besides his hockey endeavors he gives swimming lessons and, in the summer, helps boys in a minor baseball league. This then is "Youth's Best Friend".

Accident Led to New Career

An accident 20 years ago cost Godfrey Hebert, veteran Moncton railwayman, his left leg. While he was convalescing he had time to indulge an artistic talent which dated back to depression years when he took a course in showcard and sign painting. Since then, painting has been more or less an avocation, his developing interest due to his accident. Recently he completed his first commissioned portrait in oils. This was destined for Ontario, but it is not the first sale of his pictures that Mr. Hebert has made. Collectors as far apart as St. John,, Vancouver and Chicago have purchased his work and he is very much in demand for his paintings of Atlantic Province landscapes.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

"WE SHALL BANISH WANT"

It was an inspiring statement. It said, "We shall banish want; we shall banish fear. The essense of National Socialism is human welfare.... National Socialism is the revolution of the common man. Rooted in a fuller life for every German from childhood to old age. National Socialism means a new day of abundance at home and a better world order abroad . . ."

Some of you will have guessed who said it. It was Adolph Hitler!

I remember it as I read a letter-to-the-editor in the NDP paper, THE COMMONWEALTH. The writer was deploring the fact that, "We have not socialism in our NDP anymore. We did have many years ago when it started." The writer recalled the days when Mr. Coldwell sneered at reformers as merely putting salve on sores. But now Mr. Coldwell is a reformer himself, along with the present leader of the party, and they have abandoned socialism.

The letter writer goes on to say, bitterly, of leaders, that "They are only human and have weaknesses, they become comfortable and like applause and esteem (from, often, quite ignorant people) and gradually forget all their high ideals and go in for reform and do not like to disturb the placid waters of the status quo."

The lady who wrote this letter wants socialism, and grieves that Coldwell and Douglas and the NDP have departed from it.

On the other hand, I rejoice that they have apparently departed from it. I wish they would turn completely towards freedom and renounce compulsion as a way of life.

Fear and want cannot be banished except by responsible individual human beings meeting and solving the problems of their environment, and then acting with charity toward those unable to do so. Set men free, and in a voluntary society would have a chance to blossom. And there would be abundance at hand to make charity effective.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

WEDDING BELLS
TOUGAS—ADAMS

St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church was the scene of a colorful wedding, when the Rev. Paul MacNeil, P. P., performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass, uniting Sylvia Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, St. Peter's, C.B. and Constable Joseph Michel Tougas son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tougas, Sabrevois, Quebec.

The organist was Sister Mary Raphael. Chief soloist was Miss Margaret Adams, sister of the bride; the other soloists were: Mrs. Mary Knox, Halifax, N. S. and Mrs.. Thomas Summerell of St. Peter's.

Vases of gladolii decorated the altar while the pew markers were Lilies of the Valley tied with blue and gold ribbon.

The lovely bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her dress was a white, floor-length silk faille, with Alencon lace, a Cathedral train, and a long mantilla of Spanish lace. She carried a single Red Duchess Rose.

Miss Mary Adams, sister of the bride was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Jessie Adams, another sister, and Miss Juanita Doyle. The three attendants wore peau de soie dresses with matching headpieces and shoes. They carried blue tinted carnations tied with gold ribbon.

The flower girl, Miss Holly Stairs, wore royal blue faille with net overlay and a matching headdress. She carried a basket of marigolds. Master Daniel Stairs was ring bearer, attired in a child's RCMP blue serge with red coat.

The best man was Corporal George Timko. Ushers were Robert Brogan, David Maloney, Terrance Ryan and Len Hermanchuck. All the male attendants wore the dress uniform of the RCMP.

Following the ceremony, a breakfast for 71 guests was held at the Knights of Columbus Club, St. Peter's, for the bridal party, the immediate families, and out-of-town guests. Receiving the guests with the bridal party was the bride's mother, wearing a champagne lace- over- taffeta dress, champagne accessories, and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. The groom's mother, also in the receiving line, wore a soldier blue suit, white hat, with matching accessories, a mink stole, and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature RCMP and Bride. Table decorations were tall tapers in silver holders, sweet peas and roses. The hall was decorated with flowers of the season and banners in the RCMP colours.

The toast to the bride was given by Corporal Timko and responded to by the groom.

In the afternoon a reception was held at the K. O. C. Club, catered by the St. Peter's Altar Society.

For a wedding trip which included the Cabot Trail, Annapolis Valley and Prince Edward Island, the bride wore a shocking pink, basket weave wool suit, with white hat, white accessories and a white orchid.

The couple will reside in Montreal, Quebec, where the groom is stationed.

Out of town guests attended from Sydney and Johnstown, C.B. Antigonish, New Glasgow and Halifax, N. S.; St. John, N. B.; and Montreal.

OBITUARY
ANNE JANE MAUGER

Anne Jane Mauger, passed away suddenly at the home of her niece, Mrs. M. J. Bourinot, on October 15th. She was in her 87th year and had been residing with her niece in Arichat for the past seven years and was an invalid for the past five years.

Although practically blind and afflicted with arthritis she never complained and was always cheerful and being an exemplary Christian she put her trust in the divine guidance of God.

The late Miss Mauger, was a devouted bible student, and read and re-read the bible many times and when her eyesight failed, her greatest enjoyment and comfort was to have someone read her favourite chapters of scripture.

For many years she resided in Boston, Mass., and retiring several years ago she took up residence at Cape LaRonde, at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, the late Mr. and Mrs. James Mauger. Prior to coming to Arichat, she resided alone at her summer cottage at Cape La Ronde up to six years ago when ill-health caused her to take up residence with her niece in Arichat, who tenderly cared for her.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mauger, pioneer residents of Cape La Ronde and of Jersey decent, she was the last member of her immediate family. A brother, George Mauger, predeceased her two years ago. He was in his 99th year.

Surviving are several nieces and nephews.

Funeral took place from the Bourinot residence to St. John's Anglican Church, Arichat and was largely attended.

Rev. Neil Williams, Rector of St. John's Parish, conducted the funeral service and in a brief address spoke of the fine Christan qualities of the deceased. Interment took place in the Mauger plot in St. John's cemetery.

C. A. Boucher, Funeral Director was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Favourite hymns of the deceased were sung: "The Lord's My Shepherd", and "How Sweet the Hour of Closing Day."

The organist was Mrs. James A. Dickie.

THE CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE OF CANADA

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Joseph's Council C.W.L. was held in the parish hall in Petit de Grat on Sunday.

The meeting was opened with a prayer led by Rev. J. J. MacDonald.

A report was given by the various convenors. After these reports were read, Father MacDonald gave a few words of advice to the convenors. He advised them to have a written report at every meeting and he urged them to be more active in their jobs.

The Social Action convenor, Mrs. Eugene Benoit, reported that she had sent get well cards to four sick persons from the parish. She also reported that the two boxes of surgical dressings had been bought with the proceeds from tickets sold on a camera donated by Mr. Benoit, and given to a sick man from the Parish. Five dozen gauze pads were made by Mrs. Benoit and were also passed on to this sick person. The Social Action Convenor was praised by the Director on her fine work during the past month.

Father MacDonald announced to the members that a Cana Conference was being organized and would be held in Louisdale on November 21st. He urged the women to plan now to attend this conference, as he would like to see as many married couples as possible attend this coming session.

Plans were then made by the members to attend the regional meeting of the C. W. L. to be held in Johnstown on Nov.8th. A large representation from this council is expected.

The meeting was then adjourned followed by an "act of consecration" recited by all members present.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. M. J. Bourinot, wishes to express her sincere thanks to kind neighbours and friends who helped in any way in her recent bereavement in the passing of her late aunt, Miss Anne J. Mauger.

Special thanks to Rev. Neil Williams, Dr. J. H. E. Winter, the nursing staff of St. Anne Hospital, for their kind and efficient services.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Esther Meyer, a 50-year-old owner of a small store who makes $5,800 a year.

If Esther continues to earn this amount from her business until age 65, she and her husband, who is disabled and cannot work, can look forward to a retirement income of $104.17 from the Plan and $75 from Old Age Security—a total of $179.17 a month. When her husband receives Old Age Security, their income will be $254.17 a month.

Should Esther die anytime after 1967, having contributed until her death, her husband will receive a disabled widower's pension of $64.06 a month until he reaches age 65. At that time, or if he is already 65 when Esther dies, his pension under the Plan will be $62.50 a month plus $75 a month Old Age Security. On the death of his wife, Mr. Meyer will also be entitled to a lump sum payment of $500.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If, like Esther, you have self-employed earnings of $5,800 a year, you will pay $158.40 a year which is 3.6% of $4,400, the maximum amount upon which contributions are payable. Payment will be in instalments in the same way you pay your income tax.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

Issued by authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Canada.
The Honourable Judy LaMarsh.
