SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

WE Had A Wing- Ding

Boy, there's nothing like a week end in the city to relax you. Every so often, rigid with the tension of smalltown living, my family and I tear up the budget, fling it and caution to the winds, and have a wing-ding.

At least, last week end, we had a good excuse for a wing-ding. Our baby, the brown-eyed butterball whose diapers we'd changed with delight, the little boy we'd taught to swim and skate, was playing the lead role in his college musical.

Everything, as usual with a Smiley family wing-ding, went according to plan. We get our plans from the chap who used to write the sketches for the Three Stooges.

Night before, had a small party. Next morning, both alarm clocks didn't go off, as they always don't do in such cases. Half an hour late, picked up our passenger, a nun (don't ask me to go into all this), and took off.

I was glad I'd practised low-flying in the air force. The two hour trip to the city took one hour and 22 minutes. There were talking. Excitedly.

Checked in at the hotel. The girls went in all directions. I tried a combination, of coffee morning papers, and hair of the dog, which tasted rather strongly of wing-ding.

Before I'd even begun to wish I were home, the family was there: old woman eager to talk to kids; Kim, full of ideas about things we hadn't time or money for; Hugh, bright-eyed, bushy-tailed, and broke.

Lunch. For four. $12.50. Had promised Kim she could buy a guitar with the money she'd earned playing organ at church. Went to music store. Went through half-hour of 70 adolescents playing 70 musical instruments, simultaneously.

Visit to one of those wild record stores, to pick up a Bob Dylan record and the latest Rolling Stones (more organ money). I stood outside and watched the hoods go in. Wished I were a hood and had no family.

Scramble back to hotel. All hands try guitar. Fix up faces. Rush by cab to buy roses for leading lady. Leading man broke, still.

Fly to theatre. Thrill to brown-eyed butterball (see above) singing, dancing without disgracing family. Totter back to hotel (brown-eyes off to post-production party which lasted until dawn.)

Try to convince Kim (14 and with first eye-shadow on) that it's bedtime, not coffee-house, folk-singing time. Succeed by falling asleep in middle of speech. Wake up to chaps watching late movie. Order tea all round. At 40 cents a tea-bag.

Can't sleep with traffic outside banging, crashing, screeching, hooting, and drunks next door laughing, singing, shouting.

Four-thirty a. m., the old woman smells smoke. Snarl at her. Seven a. m. she wakes me, triumphantly. Below is the fire truck. Outside our door are six firemen. Seems there was a blaze in next room, where the drunks were. Try to sleep .

Seven-fifty a. m. Kim wants action. A walk, breakfast, anything. Snarl at her. Nine a. m., church tower across street begins bonging bell . Snarl at organized religion.

Old Battleaxe can't sleep. At 9.30, have to give learned, literary criticism of kid's performance of previous evening. At 10.30 Kim starts binding about going to a movie. At noon, the star turns up hungry, broke.

I suggested cheap lunch and home. Vetoed. Everyone wants Chinese food. Swinging Chinese dinner at four p. m., Sunday afternoon. Try it. $12.00. Check out. Leave son looking lonely. Momma cries. Dad drives 100 miles home through the light-glare of 7,000 drunken deer-hunters heading back to city.

Everyone sleeps on way home. Dad wheels into garage, leaps out, kisses floor of garage. Nothing like a wing-ding in the city to get you away from smalltown nerves.

LEBLANC — DOREY

Immaculate Conception Church was the setting for a pretty wedding of widespread interest on Monday, November 22nd. at 8:00 when Mary Gean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon LeBlanc of Port Royal became the bride of Francis Leon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Dorey, West Arichat, C. B.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. A. Doucet. Mrs. Joseph Mury presided at the organ accompanied by the church choir.

Upon entering the church the bridal party was blessed by the Priest and accompanied to the alter followed by their parents and other relatives and friends.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon net over satin, rounded neckline and long tapered sleeves. The full sweeping skirt was caught at the waistline with a bow and her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crystal crown. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias with lily of the valley and satin streamers.

The bride's sister, Genenine was her attendant. She wore a knee-length dress of pink lace with a circular nylon tulle veil caught up by a pearl crown. She wore white accessories and carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations with satin streamers.

The groom was attended by Joseph Dorey.

Following the ceremony, breakfast was served at the home of the bride's brother, Sandy LeBlanc, Port Royal, to over forty guests. A three tier wedding cake centered the bride's table flanked on either side by tall lighted tapers. The cake was cut in traditional manner by the bride and groom.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Fr. A. Doucet and responded to by the groom. In the evening a buffet supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs, Edward T. Forgeron, for a number of guests. The table was attractively set for the occasion, centered with lovely dainties and served to the guests by Mrs. E. Forgeron and Mrs. Gaston Richard.

The mother of the bride wore a red wool crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom wore a yellow acetate crepe dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorey received many beautiful gifts, including a sum of money. They will reside here. Their many friends and relatives wish them a long and happily married life.

A NOBLE WORK

To assist the Nova Scotia Tuberculosis Association in its preparation for Christmas Seal Campaign, over 100 members of the Senior Citizens' Club assisted in the folding of Christmas Seals and over 570 Girl Guides used their meeting hours to stuff envelopes and place on them the mailing addresses. As the Tuberculosis Association is truly a voluntary Association, it is obvious that the efforts of the hundreds of volunteers used have greatly lowered campaign costs. The same situation holds for the many provincial committees throughout Nova Scotia.

Industrial Empire Built on Bricks

The story of L. E. Shaw Limited reads like a romance. Having celebrated its century mark manufacturing clay products in the maritime provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick during good times and bad it is now rated foremost in its industrial field.

There is a mistaken belief that the twentieth century marks the spectacular progress of youth in big business. It was in 1861 that Robert Shaw started manufacturing bricks when he was just 21 years old. Four generations of the Shaw family have expanded the business in a hundred and four years to a nine plant organization with a multi-million dollar annual sales record.

It wasn't always as flourishing as it is now. The century of the company's development was also a century of chaos and disaster. Two world wars and a depression contributed to its struggle for survival while disaster contributed to its success. Need for construction material after the Saint John fire and the Halifax explosion, plus the construction of the Angus L. MacDonald bridge connecting Halifax with the burgeoning city of Dartmouth were responsible for the company's periods of progress.

Robert Shaw's first plant was at Hantsport, Nova Scotia. He built three plants in this area but when the clay became depleted he moved his operation to Avonport. It was there that his son, Lloyd E. Shaw, first helped his father and, incidently, laid the corner stone of his own career in an industry which became his life's work.

Young Lloyd soon established his own business manufacturing bricks in the town of Middleton. Between this venture and the incorporation of L. E. Shaw Limited in 1921, he acted as manager of the Middleton and Avonport plants of the Nova Scotia Clay Works, a business he later took over during the depression.

One might wonder why I became so interested in clay products. For several years during my travels I have visited an attractive pottery shop in a small community called Lantz. Here Alma and Ernest Lorenzen work and sell their distinctive creations I want to write about them too but first I thought I should use this space to tell about their benefactor, the same Lloyd E. Shaw, whose plant is adjacent to their store.

Construction Boom

Camp Gagetown and the nearby new town of Oromocto and the exploding construction now taking place in the maritimes has necessitated expansion of plant facilities. An old plant was converted to manufacture concrete products. A plant at Sydney produces precast concrete units and pipe. At Halifax there is a masonry centre and a major advance in the manufacture of concrete pipe with a rubber gasket is the responsibility of the Lantz plant.

L. E. Shaw passed away in 1960 at the age of 82, leaving behind him a legend of industrial success and public service. The community of Lantz, where well-planned houses for workmen were erected near the plant, plus a school, church and community centre testify to his consideration for employees. These are only part of the memorial to L. E. Shaw.. A perpetual one is the contribution his company has made to modern construction.

With increased manufacturing, better processes, skills and equipment, the Company's sales position is rapidly expanding. L. E. Shaw Limited products are being shipped by CN to dealers and construction sites far afield from The Maritimes where much of the basic ingredients of its many products are mined.

FAMILY LIFE BUREAU

The Family Life Bureau, Nazareth House, Sydney, was recently presented with a tape recorder by St. Hildegarde's Guild of Nurses of Sydney.

President of the organization is Mrs. Ollie MacKinnon; Secretary Mrs. Albert Boudreau and Treasurer Miss Isabel Chisholm. In expressing appreciation for the donation, the Bureau Director, Father A. J. MacLeod said that this filled a long-felt need. "For example, in our educational program to improve family life, we can now tape important talks and lectures on various topics in in family life and make these tapes available to groups in areas where speakers are not easily obtained." He thanked the members for their interest in improving family life so tangibly expressed by this gesture, and he hoped that other groups and individuals would work actively for the improvement of family life through family education.

ST. JOSEPH'S
CREDIT UNION NEWS

Again Mr. Editor allow me a little space to bring to your readers and to members of St. Joseph's Credit Union, Petit de Grat, the efforts of our office staff and members since our last report.

The 12th Newsletter tells us that our energetic manager reports our Loan Business Booming- and that members have repaid $12,795.43 on loans during October.

At the same period the Credit Union gave Loan Service to our members to the tune of $21,920.00.

The Check Off at Booth's Fisheries is going along nicely and to help out matters in regard to members weekly check off figures for 1966 Philip Boudreau is contacting members and should have a full report before the close of the year and members are requested to co-operate when Phil makes the rounds.

Just think of it $4,500.00 is processed through our Credit Union monthly from the voluntary check-off at Booth's. We add our thanks to Frank Rideout, Pay-Roll Clerk at the plant and we also add thanks to the General Office and other staff members, for their splendid co-operation in helping in this community effort.

If members need money for Christmas we would advise them to read their Newsletter and there you will find the ingredients required before seeking a loan and if you come up to these standards we guarantee that any financial hangover, will be solved.

Make your New Year resolutions now and may we suggest that you lay aside some money in your Credt Union for your child's education. You will find some good suggestions in your Newsletter, or better still see Carl our manager he will help you.

Carl is giving some good advice before the old year strikes out at 12 and wonders if members would not have a little more to add to their savings.

The following figures is what the Money Counters found when last checked:

Loans outstanding	$224,999.70
TOTAL ASSETS	258.051.60

Food For Thought:

Put your Baby's Family Allowance in your Credit Union Every Month (If you are employed you'll never miss it) and when he or she reach the age of 10 years you will have saved about $760.00 and at 16 years the sum of $1.348 will be accounted for. This new Twist will pay your college fees for the First Year and what could be a better start for your young son or daughter. Think it over!

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James Mombourquette. The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of heavy white taffeta with Guipure lace appliqued around the scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented at the back by a wide bow, and her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crystal crown. She carried a bouquet of red roses intermingled with lily of the valley and fern.

The bride's attendant was the groom's sister, Margaret, who wore a knee-length red velvet gown and a white organza bow with a circular nylon tulle veil. She carried a nosegay of deep pink and white carnations with pink streamers.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Joseph's Council C.W.L. was held in the parish hall, Petit de Grat, on Sunday Nov. 14th at 2:00 p. m.

The meeting was opened with a prayer led by the president, Mrs. Fulbert Boudreau.

Reports were given by the various convenors. The ways and means convenor stated that she had purchased 100 wine glasses, and tablecloths to be used by the women during the many functions to which they cater. Mrs. Amedee Boudreau then asked the members if the tablecloths should be rented along with the dishes to anyone wanting them. It was decided by the meeting that these would not be rented.

The social action convenor, Mrs. Benoit, advised that she would call upon a few women in the near future to help her fix a variety of second hand clothing to be passed on to some needy families of the parish.

ARICHAT HOME AND SCHOOL

At a Home and School meeting on November 16th. the members requested the Secretary of the Association to forward the minutes of the meeting to the Editor of the Richmond County Record for publication

It was reported by the Principal of the Elementary that the Children's Hallow-e'en Party was a success and the members wished to thank all who helped in any way towards this success.

Forming a Credit Union in the school was discussed and a committee was asked to bring in a decision at the next meeting.

Delegates were chosen for attendance at a Home and School Council meeting at Petit de Grat on November 22nd.

The meeting went into discussion on next month's meeting, finally deciding that the programme would be similar to the previous year with exchange of gifts, Santa and a Social evening rather than a business meeting.

The meeting then adjourned and a lunch was enjoyed by all.

Secretary.

Footnote:

It might be well to note that the Arichat Home and School could have a larger attendance and it would be nice to have parents showing a greater interest in the children by being present at the Home and School meetings held regularly on the second Tuesday of each month.

We will be looking forward to a greater number on December 14th.

It was suggested by the members that a note of appreciation be sent to the C. W. L. members of Lower River, who gave such an interesting panel discussion in Johnstown on Sunday, Nov. 7th., on the problems of youth.

The president then informed the members that she had been called upon by Mrs. Wilbert Stone of Arichat on the question of having a first aid course given in the parish.

Mrs. Benoit was appointed by the members to get more information on this subject which will be discussed more fully at our next meeting.

The meeting was then adjourned followed by a prayer.
