SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

ONE WEEK OF SACRIFICE

We were sitting around bickering after church the other day. My daughter had a bad cold, and was generally owly. She didn't think much of God.

"How can God let so many people in the world be starving?" she wanted to know. Well, it's a fair question.

Her mother and I tried to explain that it was not God's doing, but man's. We said it was man's greed, insecurity and fear that made us live like kings(far better than medieval kings, in fact), while hundreds of millions of people in the world, our brothers, starved and died of illness unnecessarily.

She wasn't buying any. "It all sounds pretty foggy to me," she grumped. "I don't think much of God, if that's the way He runs things."

I asked her what she'd do about the situation. Like all kids, she didn't know, except to repeat that it was all wrong.

Well, you can't have a 15-year-old sitting around running down God; so like all fathers since the cave-days, I tried to come up with an answer.

First, I explained that the government did a great deal to help less fortunate countries, with our taxes. When she cornered me on details, I had to admit that it was a drop in the bucket with a lot of strings attached (try that metaphor on for size). I further admitted that government could not do much more without creating a hue and cry among taxpayers.

In desperation, I loked around for someone else to blame. "The churches should take the lead, and start a nationwide campaign to help feed the hungry." My wife reminded me that we give a buck a week to missions. "Yes, and all these piddling church misstions add up to a spit in the ocean," says I.

"So what would you do, Mr. Smart Alex?" says she.

"So I can probably thing of something, Mrs. Wise Guy," says I. And I did. The result is National Tighten-Your- Belt Week.

It's very simple. For one week a year, every Canadian family willing to help will live on a bare subsistence alowance. The difference between that and the normal cost of living goes into the pot. Every cent of this pot goes to buy food, clothing, contraceptive pills and other necessities for the vast, poor, down-trodden masses of the world.

It's hard to believe that this world-shaking concept took seed and blossomed right there in our living-room. But it did. Swiftly we did some figuring. It was rough, but close enough.

The average family spends from $20 to $30 a week on food. One week a year we exist on $5 per family. It could be done, you know. Lots of rice, macarini, porridge, bread, home-made soup. Water instead of coffee, tea, milk, beer. The same week we walk everywhere and save $3 on gas. We turn off the furnace and learn what it's like to be cold. We clean our teeth with salt. We avoid shaving and hair spray and deodorants and drugs and cigarets We wear nylons with runs. We turn off the hydro, except for cooking, and use candles.

The average family could kick about $30 into the kitty. Take a town of 10,000 population. Let's say a minimum of 1,000 families. That's $30,000. That will pay for a lot of wheat, penicillin, and birth-control pills. Multiply this modest token by all the families in Canada, and you could jack up India in about two years.

I know, I know. You've already picked 84 holes in the plan. All the supermarkets would go broke if they lost a week's business. Well, there's no reason they couldn't tighten their belts, too, for a week.

All the fruit and vegetables and meat would rot. Not if the producers knew such a week was coming, and planned for it.

The provincial governments would collapse, if it lost a week's taxes on booze and beer. I doubt it. A few miles of highway might not be built. So what?

Seriously, I think it would be fun. Many people would take part because it is something concrete, rather than a vague thing like foreign aid or missions.

And there'd be beneficial side effects. Slimmer waistlines. A new slant on our good life. And I can guarantee that, after three days of macaroni, the squirrels in our attic would never by a problem again. They'd be stew.

Holiday Trip Through Province

After leaving Brooklyn where many of the employees of the Mersey Paper Co., reside, we headed for Bridgewater.

We arrived in this busy South Shore town, where the Acadia Engines are manufactured and other small industries are located. The town is built on the slopes of the LaHave River and when you proceed across the highway bridge you can either take the highway via Mahone Bay or take the route along the LaHave River to Lunenburg. We followed the latter route and here you can view large freighters and oil tankers docked in the River across from the town of Bridgewater and one wonders how these ships turn to head out to the open sea, due to the narrowness of the River.

Along the River bank can be seen shipyards where wooden draggers and long-liners are built and where repairs and renovations are made to wooden ships, from time to time we have seen the old type sailing banker being converted into a dragger, but these types of ships are now only few in number, however, we understand that Lunenburg will use one of these sailing vessels, not only as a tourist attraction, but to commemorate the part played by skippers, fishermen and last but not least by the ship builders of the town and county It was from the Smith and Rhuland shipyards where the famous champion Bluenose was built and also the new "Bluenose II", owned Col. Oland, of Halifax.

All along the River Bank can be seen well kept homes, schools and churches.. Approaching the old historic town of Lunenburg the highway curves around the head of the harbour The town streets are quite steep, but here you will find large homes, some of an early design, but very well built. The newer homes are mostly on the town's border line and considerable building is in evidence.

The waterfront of the town is quite active and here one of the most up-to-date fish processing plants is in operation, giving employment to a large number of people. A large fleet of draggers operate out of this port.

Time did not permit us to call on some friends in the town of Lunenburg and to call on Leon Landry, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Landry of Boudreauville. Leon is manager of a fish processing plant at Riverport.

It was quite late in the evening when we left for Mahone Bay which is only a short distance from Lunenburg. On this particular evening the waters near and on Mahone Bay harbour reflected the outlines of the many pretty yachts and cruisers anchored not far from shore. Mahone is a very quiet town and is often referred to as a town of beautiful churches which stand side by side along the harbour shore line, only a short distance from the business section of the town.

After leaving Mahone Bay, you head for the coast along the beautiful St. Margaret's Bay, where Oak Island is situated and is supposed to hold the treasure of Capt. Kidd, buried beneath the Island. Great sums of money have been spent trying to recover this treasure. The last operation for recovery took place not so many months ago and at that time it was reported that the seekers were near their goal, however water filled the underground tunnel and operations were discontinued.

Much has been written about Oak Island and tourists from all parts of the U.S.A. and Canada have visited this historic Island and now according to press reports in recent weeks, the residents of Lunenburg County feel that the Island should be used as a tourist attraction and that no further digging operations should be undertaken.

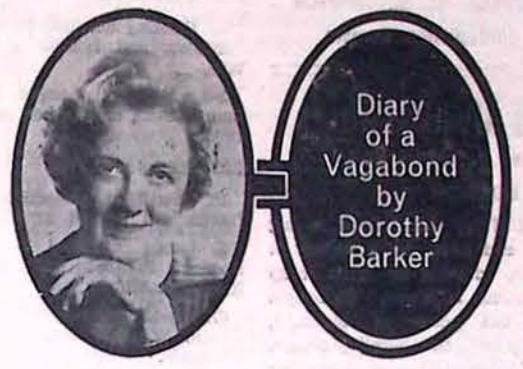

Continuing our journey along the St. Margaret's Bay, we entered Chester and here we were tempted to stay for the night at the "Bucaneer Motel", beautifully loclated in an inlet of the Bay and at this place facilities for Marine Tourists is provided. At the office of the Motel we were attracted by several models of Lunenburg and Gloucester fishing schooners that had taken part in the International Schooner Races some years ago. The models included the famous "Bluenose" of Lunenburg and American challengers, Elsie and Gertrude L. Thibeau.

The model of the "Espranto" the first American champion and the Lunenburg "Delawana", defeated by the Espranto. All these models were fully rigged and command considerable attention of the guests staying at this modern Motel.

The next morning bright and early we set out, still following the shoreline and with the varied colors of Maple Leaves reflecting on the placid waters of the Bay, made a delightful and natural Autumn scene.

At the head of St. Margaret's we leave the water and enter French Village, where a former Rector of St. John's Parish, Arichat, Col. the Rev. William Rippon, is in charge of the large and fast growing parish which includes three churches, one at Boutiliers Point, one at the Head of St. Margarets Bay and one at Tantallon, all within the Deanery of Lunenburg. Although it was still quite early in the morning, the good Col. had been up and about a few hours previous to our visit. He informed us that his youngest daughter, Rosemary, who holds a responsible position with the Department of Public Health and Welfare, had left for Halifax only about an hour before we arrived.

Oldest Provincial Capital

As our centennial year draws closer I intend now and then to write about places, persons and things that have contributed to Canada's historical record.

And, significantly, I will begin with the oldest, and also the smallest provincial parliament building in the country. Province House in Halifax, Nova Scotia, has such personality and charm, classic design and compact proportion that, unless one attends a session of the legislature, it is hard to realize that the tremendous task of governing this fast growing province is carried on in such unique surroundings. It is also the only Legislature in Canada where Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition sits among members of the elected government. This is because, though the four elected liberal members sit opposite the Premier and his cabinet, they must also sit among the 39 Profressive Conservative MPP's who have spilled over onto the opposition side of the house.

I was fascinated by some of the traditions that have been carried on through the years. One in particular, the fact that the speaker wears a high silk hat during every session made me realize that, though we are spoken of as a young country, this Atlantic Provincial Government has held steadfastly to its very old, early 19th century procedure. I looked through much of the literature pertaining to the building to try and find out how this formality originated, but not even the commissioner who escorted me had the answer.

Interestingly enough it has been said that more history has been made within Province House than all the other nine legislative buildings combined. Province House has witnessed the birth of responsible government in the British Commonwealth; the fierce debates on Confederation; the establishment of freedom of the press and the enactment of free school legislation. Within its walls governors general have been sworn into office and kings and queens have received their subjects; here has taken place the lying-in-state of the province's illustrious sons. At this point in time we also remind ourselves that the Fathers of Confederation, following the Charlottetown Conference of September, 1864, went on to Halifax, where they deliberated behind closed doors in the Council Chamber on Saturday and Monday, the 10th and 12th of September.

First "Skyscraper"

The Royal Gazette of August 14, 1811, gives a detailed account of the laying of the cornerstone on the Prince of Wales birthday. Prior to this, three appointed commissioners prepared a plan calling for an elevation of 40 feet, which made it the "loftiest and most impressive building in the lower provinces of British North America". It was completed in eight years, constructed of sandstone brought by water from Ramsheg (later known as Wallace) at a cost of approximately a quarter of a million dollars.

Nova Scotia's legislature met for the first time in this new building on February 11, 1819, when the speech from the throne was read by the then Governor, the Earl of Dalhousie.

Probably one of the most historic events to take place within the walls of Province House was the trial of Joseph Howe, the young editor of The Novascotian. The crime, of which he was acquitted after six hours of speaking in his own defence, was based on the fact that he had published a letter attacking wealthy merchants who as a Commission of the Peace, mismanaged the affairs of the city of Halifax. Thus was established the principle of a free press and Joseph Howe's immortality.

PRESIDENT FOR SIXTEENTH TIME

W. J. (BILL) STEPHENS

Provincial Red Cross Commissioner C. L. Illsley of Halifax was the guest speaker who congratulated the Sydney Branch on the outstanding achievements of its blood donor clinics in the past year.

The meeting was presided over by W. J. Stephens, who in his presidential report paid high tribute to all fellow executive mem bers and all division chairmen for their efficient and loyal services and for the achievements in their respective departments.

Lunch was served by the ladies at the close of the meeting.

We congratulate Mr. Stephens on his outstanding record as president of the Sydney branch of the Red Cross Society and we are also pleased to learn that Bill and his good wife are making a satisfactory recovery from injuries received in a car accident some months ago.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

AM I BUSHED?

Most of my life I lived in big cities, and then, for a variety of reasons, decided to pack it up and become a farmer. We bought some ten acres of stubborn, gravelly soil, two burbling creeks, and a splendid view of Mount Baker in Washington. We moved in a couple of months ago, and renamed the place "Greenhorn Farm", adopting the slogan, "Run by GENUINE Greenhorn".

Yesterday, I had to leave the farm for a day and drive into Vancouver to attend a meeting. I had forgotten what a mad lot city folk are. Perhaps I am bushed, from the isolation.

It was a thrill, at first, dressing up in my store-bought suit, putting on a crisp, white shirt and shiny dress shoes again. I felt quite the dandy. Scything, hoeing, lifting so my suit jacket hung the way have taken inches off my tummy, its maker intended.

The pleasure evaporated when I drove onto the Fraser Highway where cars, trucks, busses and motorcycles sped by me on either side. Beautiful scenery flanks the highway, but when I dawdled to stare I got blasted with car horns. Even a sweet, gray-haired woman gave me a dirty glance as she whipped her exhaust pipe in my face and roared by me to what must be some very important job in the City, God bless her.

God bless all of them- - the grim-lipped wheel grippers who fight traffic so the work of the world gets done; while this gleeful farmer walks through daisy-decked meadows, forks pungent manure, rips up the sweet-smelling earth and generally has a heck of a good time.

When I was a wheel gripper myself,I rarely gave much thought to the purpose of all the rush, but yesterday I puzzled over it. What are they really doing? Are they making anything- - except money?

The word "money" sobered me at once, and I looked at those frantic caricatures of human beings with new respect, and stepped on the gas to avoid detaining them.

And I took new delight in the farmwhen the day was over and I got home again.

HON. GERALD DOUCET PROVINCIAL SECRETARY ANNOUNCES NOVA SCOTIA CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT

HALIFAX, Nov. 8, 1966—Provincial Secretary Gerald J. Doucet announced today that the Nova Scotia Consumer Protection Act, part of the province's consumer protection program, will come into efect January 15, 1967.

The new regulations, under the Act were approved by Governor in Council.

In announcing the new regulations, Mr. Doucet reminded all conyear, the cost of credit will have cerned that as of January 15, next year, the cost of credit will have to be disclosed to consumers as an annual percentage, as well as in dollars and cents.

The provincial secretary went on to say that during the past six months he and officers of his department held many meetings with representatives of the credit community, advisory councils and other interested persons concerned with the operation of the legislation. He particularly commended the advisory councils, comprising the Retail Merchants, Sales Finance Companies, and the Small Loan Companies, and their national organizations, as well as the representatives of other provinces, local and national consumer associations, federal government officials, boards of trade, credit unions, businessmen and other interested bodies and individuals.

Mr. Doucet stressed that as a result of the work and advice of these organizations an important break through had been made in consumer credit legislation that would enable Nova Scotians to shop and compare the cost of credit throughout the province. He said that in setting January 15 as the effective date for the Consumer Protection Act, businesses and establishments in Nova Scotia would have two and one-half months to obtain copies of the act and regulations in order to acquaint their staffs with the implications and legislation.

The provincial secretary emphasized that as a consequence of the valuable advice received, Nova Scotia would enjoy the most progressive consumer credit legislation in North America. "And this", he said, "could only have ben brought about with the help and co-operation of all interested partiets."

Mr. Doucet pointed out that the new Consumer Protection Act has been designed to help the consumer to help himself and also to make for more healthy climate in the expanding field of consumer credit.

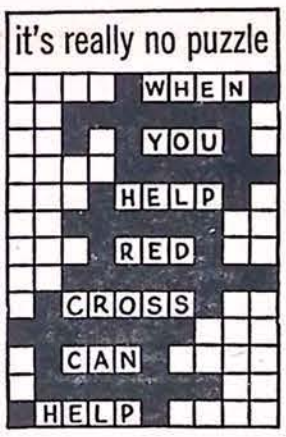

He said that he could only express thanks and appreciation to all those who assisted in the drafting of the act and regulations. Mr. Doucet remarked, however, that this did not mean that he was always in agreement with representations, but could assure all concerned that all presentations had been given careful hearing and study, and that as a result the final Act and regulations now well as to the lenders and sellers. provide help for the consumer as "I am convinced", Mr. Doucet said, "that the disclosure of the true cost of credit will benefit all".

The provincial secretary said he was particularly grateful to those people who had come from Ottawa, and other parts of Canada, as well as from the United States, to help produce a simple, workable solution to a new complex problem.

Mr. Doucet added that it was hoped that the other jurisdictions in Canada, considering similar legislation, would find Nova Scotia's effort acceptable for their purposes which would result in uniforminty of such legislation that would help consumers, sellers and lenders all across the country.

Earlier in the year, the province enacted the Mortgage Brokers and Lenders Registration Act, requiring most mortage lenders to register with the Provincial Secretary's Department.

Both Acts were passed at the last session of the legislature and will be administered by the Office of the Registrar of Credit.

We listened intently to poems written by our good friend, Eileen (Cameron) Henry and presented so well by Bruce Rafuse.

These poems were really beautiful and we are sure Eileen's thoughts were in the right place when she composed them.

Mrs. Henry is a weekly contributor in the "Casket", and her feature "About Town and Conntry" is read with interest by the many readers of this popular weekly.

CENTENNIAL PROGRAM COMMITTEE FOR RICHMOND COUNTY APPOINTED AT MEETING

A County-wide representation met in the Municipal Building in Arichat the past week to discuss Centennial Program Celebrations in central points of the County for 1967.

The meeting was presided over by Councillor Joe LeBlanc of D'Escousse, who called on the meeting to appoint a Secretary and by unanimous motion Mr. Keats Currie of St. Peters was chosen.

Municipal Clerk and Treasurer, Mr. Roy Thompson, read a tenative program, on behalf of the Council committee which was presented to the meeting.

Each community was taken separately and dates were discussed, so as not to interfere with programs in other sections of the County.

Mr. Hutt, a government representative was present and gave a very informative talk on the meaning of the Centennial celerations and pointed out what other parts of the province were doing in regard to preparing programs for the 1967 celebrations and felt that guide lines could be followed and similar programs in some cases could be drawn up to suit any particular community.

Mr. Hutt graciously answered many questions and his assistance at the meeting was most co-operative and helpful.

The chairman, Mr. LeBlanc suggested that a permanent committee be appointed at this meeting. After some discussion it was decided to call for nominations to fill the position of President. Mr. LeBlanc's name being the only one presented, he was unanimously declared President of the County Committee.

Mr. Keats Currie was also elected by unanimous vote of the meeting as Secretary of the Committee.

At this point Mr. Hutt suggested that a lady could serve in the capacity of Vice-Chairman. By an unanimous vote Madame Tambon, of D'Escousse was the choice of the meeting for Vice-President of the Committee.

Directors from every section of the County were appointed.

The meeting was well attended by Clergy, Councillors and business men as well as representatives of various organizations in the County.

Every effort should be made to make the Richmond County Celebrations in honor of Canada's Centennial year among the best in the province.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Josephine Langlois of D'Escousse wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to kind neighbours and friends who helped in any way during their recent sad bereavement.

Special thanks to Rev. Father Mombourquette and to those who sent Mass and sympathy cards; also to C. A. Boucher, Funeral Director of Arichat.

TO TORONTO

Rev. Neil Williams, Rector of St. John's Parish left on Monday for Toronto where he will attend the wedding of his sister and wil take part in the Nuptial ceremony.

His father who accompanied him on the trip will also attend the wedding of his daughter.

They motored to Halifax and continued their journey by plane to Toronto.

We wish them both a very happy holiday.

WORK ON COURT HOUSE

Work on the Court House here is now in progress under the foremanship of Benedict Boudreau.

The East side of the building is now being re-shingled and other major repairs will be made.

It is very encouraging to see this old landmark being restored to its original state.

Tourists coming to Arichat during the summer are much interested in this Colonial design building which is the subject of many photographers. The interior of the Court House is of Gothic design and here in recent months redecorating of the Court Chamber has added greatly to the building.

Now with the Centennial Year coming up every householder in the County should improve their dwellings and to encourage ratepayers a recent advertisement from Mr. MacRae Director of Assessment appeared in this newspaper stating that no increase in assessment would result if such improvements are made.

FLYNN — SCOTT

A very pretty fall wedding was solemnized at Stewart Uunited Church, Manse, Whycocomagh on November 4th at 4 P.M., when Isabel Mathilda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Frank Scott, Skye Glen, became the bride of Alexander Wallace, son of Mrs. Harvey Saltzman and the late A. J. Flynn all of Oban.

Rev. D. A. Sutherland was the officiating clergyman in the presence of relatives and friends.

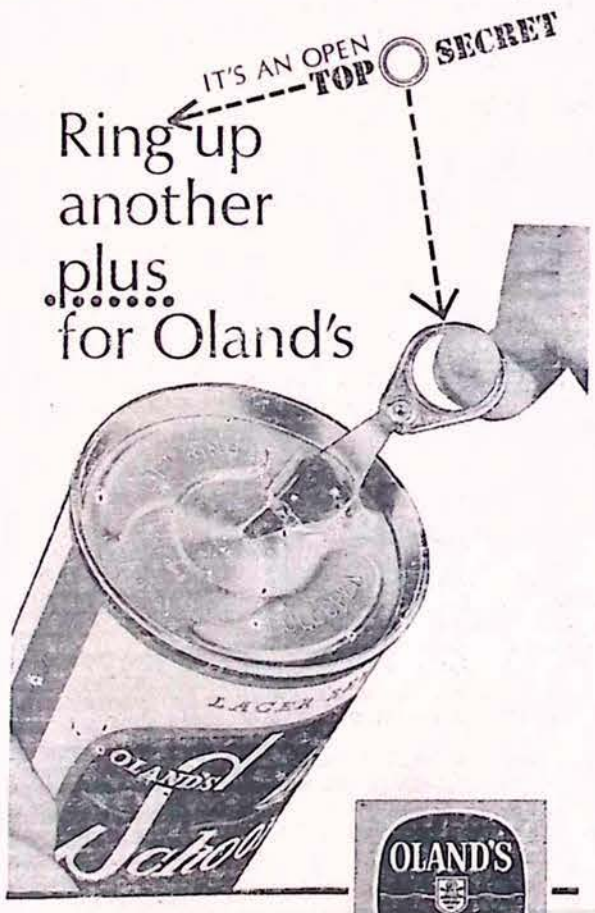

The bride who was given in marriage by her father looked lovely in a suit of blue-heather mist with accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of white roses. Her sister, Mrs. Catherine Cox was matron of honor wearing royal navy, with winter white and carried mixed roses. Ronald, acted as best man for his brother.

Mrs. Scott wore a dress of blue for her daughter's wedding, with accessories to match and a yellow corsage. Mrs. Saltzman, mother of the groom wore a three piece suit of cranberry wool. Her accessories were in keeping and she wore a blue corsage. Little Miss Vera Saltzman was dressed in Cape Breton tartan.

Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the party motored to the home of the bride's parents where a delicious supper and reception was catered to by the bride's sisters, Mrs. L. Gillis and Mrs. E. MacDonald. The lace covered table was centered by a three tier wedding cake in which the bride and groom jointly placed the knife and after being cut and apportioned was served to all by the bride. The guest book was looked after by little Catherine Gillis the bride's niece.. Telegrams were read from relatives of both the bride and groom.

Rev. Mr. Sutherland offered grace..

Beautiful gifts were opened and verses read by the bridesmaid, Catherine Cox. A dance was held at Whycocomagh and all left wishing the bride and groom many years of health, wealth and happiness.

A kindly and hospitable Rector, he is beloved by everyone and his stay in Arichat will long be remembered by former parishioners and friends on Isle Madame; to all of whom he conveys his best wishes.

Before leaving on the last part of our trip we visited two of the churches in his parish, St. Margaret's at the Head of the Bay, where his late wife was laid to rest in the church cemetery and where a beautiful black granite stone marks the resting place of a beloved wife and mother. We shall always cherish the memory of this courageous Christian lady.

The Church at St. Margaret's is located on one of the most scenic spots along the St. Mar-Margaret's Bay and gradually sloping towards a placid inlet of the bay.

Both the exterior and the interior of this church where extensive renovations have taken place is a credit to the Rector and the parishioners.

The Col. who accompanied us took us through St. James Church at Boutilier's Point and here is another church in his charge that has undergone extensive repairs and both the exterior and interior has been completely renovated,

The Col. has purchased a new modren home located at Mason's Point and overlooks the St. Margaret's Bay and when he retires from an active ministry, will take up permanent residence here with his good daughter, Rosemary, however, by the robust appearance of Col. Rippon, it will be some time yet before he goes into retirement.

We returned to the Rectory after a very enjoyable visit around his parish, with the exception of a visit to the church at Tantallon, as time would not permit.

We bade the kindly padre farewell and left for the intersection at the Hammonds Plains Highway a short distance from French Village.

In our last issue we anticipated completing this column, however, it now appears we will have to conclude in our next issue our visit to Springhill via Truro and the Wentworth Valley.

(Concluded in next issue)

ANNUAL MEETING OF RED CROSS IN HALIFAX

Figures spoke louder than words at the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Red Cross in Halifax on 4—5 of October.

Upwards of 200 officers and delegates from all parts of the province attended this year's meeting. Their reports on the organization's wide-spread activities showed surging interest and participation by Nova Scotians in all provincial regions.

President A. F. Wigglesworth reported that 36,312 blood donations were made in the province during 1965 - - the largest number ever made in a single year. He also said that over 33,000 enrolled in water safety courses, 502 in home nursing courses, and that assistance was given to 945 homeless persons as a result of fires and other disasters in Nova Scotia last year.

He praised the support given to the 1965 campaign, which topped the $200,000 mark for the first time other than war years, and he commended Commissioner Charles Illsley, his staff and Red Cross volunteers for their fine efforts in the division's widely diversified programs: homemaker, nursing, veterans, and emergency aid services, as well as women's work, sickroom equipment loans, and the Red Cross Corps and Red Cross Youth activities.

Looking ahead, Mr. Wigglesworth predicted that 1966 would be another record-breaking year. At the same time he warned: "We are facing changing times and our lives have been revolutionized in the space of a single lifetime. We must make certain that our Red Cross organization keeps pace."

Officers attending the meeting included; Very Rev. A.P. Poirier, Mr. Gerald LeBrun and Mrs. Wilert Stone of Arichat; M. M. Kelly of Margaree; James G. MacAskill, St. Margarets Village; John McMullin, GlaceBay; Major Roy R. Ward and Mrs. J.M.A. LeBlanc, Sydney.

Very Rev. A.P. Poirier was re-elected as honorary vice-president and Major Roy R. Ward was re-elected as regional vice-president at the meeting. Mrs. J.M.A. LeBlanc was newdy elected honorary secretary for the provincial division.

Special DEER HUNT

Chignecto Game Sanctuary Cumberland County

NOV. 10th—30th

Since the extreme winterkill of 1960-61, at which time as many as 30 deer per square mile were found dead from malnutrition and related causes, the number of deer wintering in the Sanctuary has been increasing annually.

To prevent continuing range damage and recurrence of the 1960-61 tragic resource waste a special hunt in the Sanctuary has been recommended for November 10-30 for 75 hunters per day.

This hunt will serve three major purposes.

1. Provide additional hunting opportunity to resident big game hunters.
2. Reduce the over-wintering population thus benefitting both deer and range.
3. Provide important biological data on the herd in the area.

For this special hunt the Sanctuary has been divided into three zones. Zone One will support 15 hunters per day and Zone Two 20 hunters per day entering through the check station at the Chignecto Base Camp on the Boars-Back Road between River Hebert and Halfway River East. Zone Three will support 40 hunters per day who will be entered through the check station at the Harrison Settlement entrance.

Permits to hunt on the Sanctuary will be issued daily on a first come basis in accordance with regulations.

The regulations made by the Governor in Council on the 8th day of October, A.D. 1958 pursuant to the provisions of Section 154 of the Revised Statutes, 1954, the Lands and Forests Act, are amended by adding thereto the following regulation:

8 (1) Notwithstanding any other provision in these regulations, the Minister may by written authorization permit not more than seventy-five hunters to enter the Chignecto Game Sanctuary each day, except Sunday, to hunt deer and bear between the 10th and 30th days of November in the year 1966.

(2) Every person hunting in the Chignecto Game Sanctuary shall
(a) apply for a permit at, and enter the Sanctuary through, the check stations located at Base Camp No. 1 on the Boars-Back Road and Harrison Settlement.
(b) possess a valid Resident's Big Game License and a tag;
(c) obtain and wear an identifying marker to be issued at the check stations.

(3) Every person authorized to hunt in the Chignecto Game Sanctuary during the said period shall
(a) follow all instructions with respect to hunting in the Sanctuary;
(b) comply with all provisions of the Act and regulations with regard to hunting;
(c) report not later than 5:30 p.m. to a checking station before leaving the Sanctuary on the day for which a permit is issued and file a report as required by the Regulations.
(d) turn over to authorized personnel, the reproductive tract and lower jaw of any deer killed or taken within the Sanctuary.

(4) (a) No person authorized to hunt within the Chignecto Game Sanctuary shall kill or take more than one bear and one deer within the Sanctuary.

(b) The bag limit specified for deer under Section 120 of the Act shall include any deer killed or taken pursuant to a permit issued under this Regulation.

(5) A permit to hunt in the Sanctuary shall be valid for the day on which it is issued.
