SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

Stop the World

Sometimes you feel like Atlas, trying to carry the world on your shoulders. With a slipped disk and an arthritic knee.

Well, what can you do? You can't drop it. It would break into pieces. And you can't set it down for a rest. You know you could never pick it up again.

This is the predicament in which the average middle-aged husband and father finds himself most of the time.

That's the fellow you find wandering dazedly in a supermarket; or blundering through a swamp trying to catch a seven-inch speckled trout; or playing golf with intense ineptitude.

If you ask him he'll swear that he's not quite over the hill yet, that he can carry his world for another few steps. But if you corner him and quiz him, you'll find that he's not only over the hill, but sliding down the other side so fast there'll be nothing but a greaseball left when he hits the bottom.

He'll also be broke, if he has a wife. My old lady, after a couple of quiescent weeks following an operation, is in full cry again.

"What do you really think about that crumby old bedroom suite?" We bought it on sale 15 years ago. As far as I'm concerned, it's fine. There's a raised platform called a bed, on which to sleep, and a number of drawers without handles, which I can open with a screwdriver. It's perfectly adequate.

"What do you do in a bedroom anyway, except to go to sleep and get up and stumble around in the morning?" I ask in all honesty.

She gives me a withering look. Apparently there all sorts of other things a bedroom is handy for. Like putting ladies' coats in when you have a party. Or cutting your toenails in.

To me, the bedroom suite we have seems quite suitable for these and other minor activities.

But my wife feels it doesn't have tone, class, elegance or practically anything worthwhile — it's just a place to sleep. Exactly my point. Her ideas run toward a new bedroom suite, fresh decorating, and a lot of other things that aren't going to make me sleep, or do anything else any better than I do in the present shabby, lovable, little joint.

I can't, for example, see me tying my tie with any more flair with a new bedroom suite in the background. I can't see that a new eggshell-blue interior is going to make me look or feel any better when I sit on the edge of the bed, groaning and scratching, at 7:30 a. m.

I fail to realize that broadloom is going to give me anything but a big bank loan. It certainly isn't going to make me spring out of that new sack every morning, carolling:

"Here hath been dawning another new day.
Think, wilt thou let it slip useless away?"

It's not really that I'm an old curmudgeon. It's just that I've been through it before. We once started out with a new sink in the bathroom. Eventually, I wound up with something resembling a sultan's bath chamber, in black and pink and debt up to my ears.

Just to cheer old Atlas up this week, Kim has been diagnosed as the possessor of infections mononucleosis. Ie sounds pretty impressive, but like most things that do. it's just a big pain in the arm. It's bad enough to have a teen-ager around the house anytime. But to have a sick one!

The doc said she wasn't to study, work or play the plano. But he didn't say anything about arguing or being snippy or throwing cold water on her parents' hopes and plans for her.

If you hear a tremendous thud one of these days. Atlas has shrugged.

UNLIMITED HORIZONS ON THE BRAS D'OR

This idea is fostered by many parents, 4-H leaders, and 4-H'ers with the construction of Camp Rankin in Richmond Co. The leaders and Junior leaders of Richmond Co. have purchased a 50 acre farm on the Bras d'Or Lakes. Within the immediate future, they hoped to build facilities to accommodate youth from this area who wish to attend various camps.

The 4-H Leader's Council under the capable leadership of Mrs. Eva Landry, Samsonville, has undertaken this project. They are asking the support of local business firms, private individuals, 4-H Clubs, and friends of 4-H to support this project with their donations.

What is unique about this group? They have the determination and will to do something for themselves. Already, 4-H members are clearing the campsite so tourists and visitors can use the premises for summer picnics. As you can see, the proper spirit of co-operation and working together has already been kindled.

In regard to facilities, the coming year will see the construction of two latrines and a recreation hall (40' x 20'). Although some assistance will have to be required, the majority of the work will have to come from 4-H members and interested parents and friends.
Remember - - Help comes to those who help themselves.

We have named this Camp, Rankin, in honor of Mr. Angus Rankin, St. Peter's, Rich. Co. Mr. Rankin, a long time supporter of 4-H, was the past Agriculture Representative of this County. He retired in this past year, 1967.

The project certainly has unlimited prospects as it could certainly develop into the youth center of Richmond Co. As they learn to do by doing, all concerned ask for your support. This will be opened to all 4-H'ers throughout Nova Scotia. If you are just a passer-by on a picnic or a camper looking for a place to pitch tent, you'll always be welcome at Camp Rankin.

Register your support, help these young people help themselves. They can do it, if YOU will give them the backing.

Mrs. Adolphe Babin

This community was saddened to hear of the sudden passing of Lucille, beloved wife of Adolphe Babin, which occurred at the V.G. Hospital, Halifax on Friday, May 10th.

Besides her husband, she is survived by six children; Wayne, Delores, Perry, Boyd, Gayle and Rene.

The remains were transferred here for burial in the parish cemetery, following funeral service at the Immaculate Conception Church of which she was a devout member. Funeral arrangements by C. A. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Samson of Samson's Cove and by six brothers William, Hycinth, Rene, Joseph, Edwin and Alfred, and by five sisters; Amelia (Mrs. Berthman Boudreau), Little Anse; Delores, (Mrs. John Marchand), Louisdale; Clara (Mrs. Wilfred Marchand) of Louisdale; Sister Theresa, F.D.J. Saulnierville, Digby Co., N.S. and Betty at home.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved husband, parents, brothers and sisters.

The husband and family of the late Lucille Babin, wish to express their sincere thanks to all those who assisted them in any way during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a loving wife and mother. "Man and His World" — A Little Expo,

"Man and His World," Montreal's continuing world exhibition which opened on St. Helen's and Notre Dame Islands last week, will feature the national exhibits of close to 50 countries in their original Expo 67 pavilions. Several of these countries will leave their presentations unchanged from 1967.

In a long-awaited announcement at the end of January, the city's dynamic Mayor Jean Drapeau also said that the buildings or pavillions of 22 other countries or participants will present displays conceived by the City of Montreal and offered by private sponsors or Man and His World itself.

Fifteen other governmental or private bodies will present their original or new exhibits, or a combination of both, in their pavilions.

The exhibition, which will run through to Oct. 14, occupies the same territory as Expo 67 minus Cite du Havre. It includes most of Expo's original theme pavilions as well as the amusement area at La Ronde. Man the Provider, Man the Explorer and Man in the Community, last year's theme pavilions which proved so popular, also remain.

Same Concept

Materially, physically and visually, the Man and His World Island offer the same scope as Expo.

"It will not be Expo 67," Mayor Drapeau explains. "But at the same time we wish to remain as close as possible to the original concept. We would not do anything that would damage or change the image of Expo that the world now has.

One national pavilion that will have a completely new presentation will be that of Canada itself. The federal government has decided against exhibiting in it, and as a result it will become a memorial to Expo 67. Man and His World will keep the memory of the original exposition alive there through sound, pictures, newspaper clippings, tableaux and other displays.

Year-Round Use

One novel idea that has not been passed on to Ottawa is the mayor's for all-year-round use of the site. "It seems a shame that our beautiful site is only to be used for five months of the year. Thus we aim to create a winter play-ground for three months in the winter. There's no reason why a family should have to leave the city just to find clean snow. Here they will be able to ski, skate on the lagoons and canals and practise their snowshoeing."

The mayor plans on three months for the winter, five for the summer and two months in between to get things ready for each. He hopes to inaugurate the new program next winter.

View From the Hill

The tourist season is upon us yet there is still time to repaint the informative signs on Route 4 inviting the tourists to visit our beautiful Isle Madame. High priority representations should be made to the Department of Highways to repair the potholes, especially the chasm that is opening in the road near the turn to Louisdale from the Lennox Passage Bridge. The shore road into Arichat is also very much in need of repair. There are one or two unsightly spots along this road that should be cleaned up before the tourists are upon us.

The establishment of camping and trailer sites should be encouraged by the Board of Trade or other service club in the area.

Your writer wishes to publicly congratulate the newly formed Lions Club on their valiant effort to clean up the Pondville beach, "Good work fellows, such actions are in the true spirit of Lionism!"

Provision of a life guard service at the beach and organization of swimming instruction classes should be the next step. Has the municipal council considered this step? The Red Cross water safety Program has been of great value in other areas and a child that learns to swim has eliminated the water accident hazard to his growing up and had fun doing it. Let's make a move to get a program going.

Oh, George! — he's too busy doing all the other things that people leave for him to do.

The women of our Island could get into the tourist business too, possibly by making bread or rolls and selling them by means of a small roadside sign.

I once visited Mackinac Island in the Straits of Mackinac and the people there do a thriving business in the sale of home made fudge. Any tourist from the northern Part of Michigan will vouch for this.

As we turn the corner of June and start into July and August we should all keep in mind the importance of making our visitors happy and pleased with our version of good Cape Breton hospitality Richmond County style.

THE RHYMING PHILOSOPHER
MANNERS

By all indications our language is dying
From wanton neglect and a callous disease;
The facts are appalling, there's no use denying
How often we ask but omit to say "Please."

Politeness costs nothing, though valued as priceless
It can't be converted to cash in the banks;
But rich is the person whose manner suffices
To never forget, and politely says "Thanks."

No personal status is lost to be pleasant
Beginning as soon as we're started in school:
If children and adults and each adolescent
Would practice the precepts of that golden rule.

The loveliest blossom in this human garden
Is he who is gracious and kind in his ways.
For even the mighty can say "Beg your pardon,"
And this is the "class" his good breeding displays.

So let us resolve to be noble and kindly
And never revealed as an ignorant ass.
We'll be more respected and actually find we
Can prove by our manners we've real "upper class."

KEEP THE HIGHWAYS CLEAN

The Nova Scotia highways department is distributing some 100,000 litter bags throughout the province as part of its annual anti-litter campaign.

The blue and white plastic bags are available from service stations, motels, hotels, camp and picnic sites municipal and provincial travel bureaux.

Highways Minister I. W. Akerley has urged motorists to use the litter bags which can be deposited in garbage receptacles.

"Clean and attractive highways serve to create a favorable first impression among visitors and to achieve this co-operation of the public is needed in keeping the highways litter free," he said.

The anti-litter campaign is carried out in an effort to keep highways clean for residents and the 1,000,000 visitors expected to come to Nova Scotia this year.

It was moved that the league donate $200. towards the cemetery project which is presently underway in the Parish.

A committee was appointed to organize a water safety course given by Miss Alice Madden, Arichat during the summer.

Six delegates and the director were chosen to attend the diocesan convention at Lourdes on June 1st and 2nd.

The President approached the ladies about the mental health campaign which is to begin in the parish soon. The members agreed to look after this campaign.

It was moved that a letter be sent to the Munipical Clerk and a copy to the Warden, stating the wishes of the league, as a community minded organization, towards the collection of garbage for Isle Madame, to be paid for by a special tax levy.

Rev. J. J. MacDonald, director, in his closing message, congratulated the ladies on having come to the meeting on Mother's Day. Father MacDonald reminded the ladies that this month was also dedicated to our Blessed Mother, the mother of God, and that we should try to follow the example she has set for us while on earth.

The meeting was then adjourned followed by a prayer to our Lady of Good Counsel.
