WE NEED PARENT POWER

An interesting and rather frightening manifestation of the times is the rapidly increasing popularity of the concept of POWER. Among the millions of words with which we are constantly bombarded by the mass media, that one pops up with alarming frequency.

There's nothing wrong with the word itself. It's not a dirty word. We don't get alarmed when we thing of such terms as power plant, power boat, power drill, power of attorney, or hockey's power play.

We aren't spooked when we think of mental power or physical power or spiritual power. The word merely denotes strength.

But in the way it is used so often these days, it has more sinister connotations. It has undertones of hatred and senseless rebellion. It suggests smashing somebody or something.

We have been carefully acclimatized. We have accepted, because of timidity or indifference, the ideas of air power and union power and political power and lobby power.

And now we have Black Power and Student Power, both of them with built-in provocations to violence and brutality. The only one that seems fairly harmless is Flower Power, but even this is associated with drugs, sexual promiscuity and anarchy.

It's fairly obvious that I can't turn this pernicious tide of power by writing a column about it. But all your readers might remember once in a while that every new power group chisels away at your personal freedom as an individual, and also at the ideals of peace and brotherhood for the world.

Now, after that little sermon, I'm going to reverse my stand and come out strong for another power group. It's not a new one, but it's so feeble that it needs artificial respiration and intravenous feeding. 'Im talking about Parent Power.

This used to be one of the biggest power grops in society, as we old squares well recall. Your parents told you to do something, and in most cases you did it. If you didn't, you suffered the consequences. These ranged from being sent to bed without supper to a good licking.

If your old man caught you smoking at a tender age, he'd whale the tar out of you. If you came in too late from a dance, even though you were a young lady of 17, you might get a lusty application of the hair brush to the lower posterior.

If you got a strapping at school, you didn't mention it as home, because you'd likely get another one there. If you flunked because you didn't work, you were invited to get out and get a job.

This was Parent Power. Maybe it sounds sadistic, in this permissive age, but it wasn't. Parents loved their children then, too and tried to direct them toward their own good. Many a clout on the ear or whack on the tail I got, and deserved every one of them, and loved my parents deeply.

Today, Parent Power is on the verge of extinction, unless we can figure out something new in a hurry.

Oh, we still have a certain authority when they're little. After all, a six-year old probably won't threaten to run away and become a hippy if he gets a smack on the bum. But don't count on it.

The kids have us on the run, and they know it. Threaten a teenager even with something as harmless as cutting the allowance or non-use of the car, and you get a threat right back that he (or she) will leave home. We don't want them to, and ruin their lives. So we knuckle under.

Kids have been running away from home for centuries, but they usually ran off to sea or off to the city to get a job. They didn't run away to Yorkville or Vancouver to become teenage pickings for the pimps and pushers.

Who's for Parent Power, and how do we get it back?

Address Given by Hon. G. J. Doucet At Opening of N. S. Summer School

Since I became Minister of Education some seven months ago, I have had the opportunity to study our own system of education in some detail and at the same time I have been able to see first hand the systems of education in parts of four other countries — United States, Great Britain, France and Italy.

I have been impressed with the interest people are showing in education. Progrssive countries recognize the fact that education is the best way to improve the economic and social conditions of a country in this technological age in which we live. In some quarters there seems to me to be a willingness to over-emphasize the value of school education and under-value the influence of other educative agencies in the community. In most countries today the real problem is not only how to secure money to spend on education, but rather how to become more efficient in education and how to secure more value for the money we now have to spend. Our people, I believe are prepared to give educational spending a high priority providing it is efficiently spent.

I have been impressed by the attitude of some educators towards change. Many thinking people in education today recognize the need for change and are willing to make the necessary adjustments to meet the needs of our times — sometimes at very great administrative inconvenience to themselves. These are the people who are plotting the course of the future and are starting it on its way.

I have also been impressed with found in our own Department of Education. I find that the work the forward-looking attitudes I have being done in our Department has been and is being recognized internationally. I was proud to visit well established countries, countries who through the years have made their presence felt in iternational affairs, and have their leaders in education point out to me the leadership this Province is showing in education today.

It is true we have some weak spots and it is true we have some particular schools and some particular instances that warrant criticism. This gives us something to work for. It is true that our Nova Scotia Department of Education is recognized internationally for attaining distinction in the field of educational television, in new ideas in reading instruction and in this very summer school we came here to open tonight.

The outstanding people who come here to assist us with the program of this summer school have done us proud in two ways:

1. They have had a salutary and enlightening effect on our own system. They have helped to broaden our horizons and have even helped us to look beyond.

2. They have taken home good tidings regarding the kind of teacher and the kind of system we have in this province. They have in fact given us a good name in their home areas and in their areas of influence.

I hope the visiting staff from Great Brtain, France, the United

View From the Hill

Everything we have has evolved from something that has gone before. Each generation in its time adds something and so the progress of these space age times is built on the foundations laid by those who have gone on before us. The Oriental peoples recognize this in their worship of thier ancestors. It would seem that from the hill all I see that in Richmond County we bury our dead and then forget them and their contribution to our community. Most of the Churchyards are in need of care; the grass crops seem to thrive among the headstones and crosses. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the clergy and form a work party for one Saturday afternoon each month. Tom brings a power mower and Dick and Harry bring rakes and shovels and the more the merrier and less work for all. Where are the good Christian men? Are they all on the other side of that overgrown grass? I just see that the topside needs cuting and a little communal effort would improve the looks of the place so very much.

Now girls while the men are cleaning up the Church yard and putting the cannons back into some semblance of order what say we whip up a fish chowder. That's the elastic type meal that you can feed many, with very little. Following along with this we won't say how much fish to use or the measurement of any of the other components of our chowder because you vary the amount with both the money available and the number you have to feed. Start by dicing up the potatoes and cutting up an onion; now cut up some bacon. BACON in FISH CHOWDER? Pay no attention girls. Fry the bacon in the pot you are going to cook the fish in. Cut it in small quarter-inch strips and it soon fries up; now add the cut-up fish spoon size pieces preferred, add very little water. Cover and simmer until the fish is just cooked. Meanwhile boil the diced potatoes and onion in another pot, again with very little water, until the potatoes are just cooked. The new seafood seasoning is used in the fish pot and salt and pepper are added to the potato, onion pot. And when both potatoes and fish are cooked combine in the larger pot and add a small amount of summer savory. Cover and simmer for a few minutes then add milk depending on how many you have to feed. A little flour mixed into a cup of milk will thicken this if you prefer creamier chowder. Serve with bread sticks or salted crackers. The family, the club membership ,the parish or the whole community, fish chowder can be made for any size group.

We're just in time girls; the boys are back from the Church and the grass is all cut and everything is neat and tidy. Pass the crackers!

Two masses were offered for deceased relatives of members and a stipend for the usual monthly masses was given for living and deceased members of the Council. THE MacNEIL FAMILY VISIT ARICHAT

Mr. Hector MacNeil, P. Eng., of Montreal, accompanied by his two sisters, Ella MacNeil and Jean MacNeil R.N., also of Montreal, were recent visitors to Arichat where they spent several days guests at the Isle Madame Motel.

Former residents of Arichat, they are the son and daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. B. MacNeil.

Hector is now retired after a very successful career as a professional engineer, having been engaged in many important engineering projects during his long years of service. One of his last engineering projects was the Seven Islands Railroad construction where he was the resident engineer. After his retirement he was engaged as a consultant engineer in Montreal.

Although the MacNeils live in another part of Canada they have never lost touch with their native Arichat and they were much impressed with the improvements especially the Court House and the Municipal Building.

Their visit here was a personal delight and we are sure their many other friends in Arichat enjoyed their vist as much as we did.

At West Arichat they visited Miss Mary A. MacDonald and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph T. LeBlanc.

Before returning to Montreal they motored over the Cabot Trail and other parts of Cape Breton .

Rh DISEASE IN BABIES WIPED OUT IN N. S. NEW SERUM

Rh disease, affecting babies born of parents with incompatible blood types, can now be "wiped off the face of the earth" and certainly wiped out in Nova Scotia.

A newly-developed Rh immune serum globulin, which eliminates the effects of Rh blood incompatibility, will be given free of charge to Nova Scotia women.

The free medical service has been made possible by a provincial government grant. Injections of the new serum would normally cost the patient from $75 to $100.

Dr. James Corston, Chairman of a special committee set up to study Rh disease and sponsored by the Nova Scotia Medical Society, said that simultaneous results have been obtained by researchers in Great Britain, the United States and other parts of Canada.

The first injection of the serum in Nova Scotia was administered at the Grace Maternity Hospital in Halifax in June. It brings new hope to parents with incompatible blood types and a new chance of life for their unborn babies. Approximately 900 babies are born in Nova Scotia each year who are potential victims of Rh disease. Twelve per cent of married couples in this province face blood type incompatibility and the over-all mortality rate is more than 15 per cent for babies born of these parents.

The new serum, which is injected into the mother within 48 hours of the birth of her first child, arrests the build-up of antibodies which could prove fatal to any subsequent babies.

Since last July, the Rh Committee under director Dr. R. S. Grant and Dr. Corston, has been carrying out a weekly "bleeding" program. Ten dedicated women are donating blood to provide the new serum — ten women who themselves cannot be helped — but who had built up huge amounts of antibodies following previous births. Two or three of the women give blood donations at the Grace Hospital each week on a rotational basis which means each one donates at least once a month. The first 500 cubic centimetres of blood taken from the donor is rushed to the Red Cross where it is processed, the plasma extracted and the red blood cells returned to the donor. A further 500 cubic centimetres is taken, undergoes the same process, and the cells returned to the donor.

One thousand cubic centimetres of blood gives 500 of plasma, and this plasma is flown to Connaught Laboratories in Toronto where the serum is made at cost price. Seven 1.5 ml. vials of the serum can be obtained from 500 c.c. of plasma, and will keep indefinitely, under refrigeration. The serum is being distributed to hospitals around the province and will be available to all Nova Scotia women requiring it.

One ironical aspect of the program was pointed out by Dr. Corston. If the Committee achieves its aim of wiping out Rh disease, they will at the same time eliminate their only source of serum supply, namely, women affected by the disease. However, further studies are being carried out to discover new methods of obtaining the serum, with the same result — that of saving infant lives.

ARMES — MARTELL

St. Joseph's Church, Petit de Grat was the scene of a lovely summer wedding recently when Rev. Fr. Daniel Doucet united in marriage Catherine Martell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martell of Samson's Cove and Mr. Larry Armes of Hamilton Ontario.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin and lace with a short train. Her veil fell from a diamond shaped coronet and she carried a bouquet of pale pink Picardy glads.

Miss Daphne Humphries was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss June Williamson and Miss Joan Martell. They wore identical full length dresses of turquoise peau de soie with matching headdresses. Their bouquets were of pale pink and mauve glads.

The two little flower girls were Paulette Dugas and Mary Ann Martell who wore matching gowns in a pink shade and carried nosegays of daisies. Darren David was ringbearer.

The best man was John Wright and Leon Martell and Carl Samson were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Parish Hall. Receiving with the bridal couple were the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Samson of Buffalo, N. Y., godparents of the groom.

For their honeymoon in Newfoundland the bride chose a matching dress and coat ensemble in pink and white with matching accessories and a corsage of a single gardenia and stephanotis.

The happy couple will reside in Stoney Creek, Ont., where they are both employed.

We join with their many friends in wishing them every happiness.

FROM BOSTON

Rev. Father Augustine DePatie, of Boston, Mass., recently attended the Pardy-Samson wedding at Notre Dame Church and was present in the sanctuary.

Father DePatie is a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Samson and made a special trip to Arichat to be present at their daughter, Aurine's wedding.

Father DePatie was accompanied by Father Kane, who will soon be ordained to the priesthood and who read the Epistle at the wedding Mass.

Both Father DePatie and Father Kane delivered very nice addresses at the wedding reception.

We join with Father DePatie's many friends in congratulating him on his fiftieth year in the priesthood. May he continue to serve and may every happiness and good health be bestowed on the beloved padre for many years to come.

While in Arichat Father DePatie and Father Kane were visitors at the former's sister's residence, Mrs. Josephine Broussard who is spending the summer here.

She is survived by a brother, Harry Marchaand, Petit de Grat; three daughters: Stella, (Mrs. Clayton Pelrine); Theresa, (Mrs. Wilfred Manuel) and Carmella (Mrs. Paul Ivy) all of Halifax; three sons; Dominic and Valma of St. Catherines, Ont.; and Urbain, of White's Lake, Halifax County; three step-sons; Albert and Anthony of Halifax; and Francis of Vancouver, B. C.; 24 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral service was held at St. Catherine's Church, Halifax, with Rev. Father Frecker, officiating. Interment was in Gate of Heaven Cemetery.

VISITS HIS OLD HOME

Canon George A. Andrew, of Toronto, spent a happy holiday at his native Arichat and Isle Madame. His son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Andrew and their delightful children motored here while Canon Andrew made the trip by rail.

Before returning to Toronto they made a trip to the Cabot Trail and other parts of Cape Breton Island.

While in Arichat he enjoyed calling on old friends and relatives. He also had a pleasant visit with Very Rev. A. P. Poirier, at Notre Dame Rectory and exchanged notes on the early history of Isle Madame and Louisburg.

Canon Andrew was also a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mauger of Cape LaRonde. Mrs. Mauger is a cousin of Canon Andrew. He also was a guest of Miss Laura and Ralph Cutler for a few days.

Canon Andrew is always a welcome visitor to Arichat and being a native of the place, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Andrew, he is well known and beloved by everyone. From 1913 to 1919 he was the Rector of St. John's Parish, Arichat, of which his late grandfather, Rev. James Allen Shaw, was the first Rector, when the church was established in 1828 where he served the parish faithfully for 26 years.

Canon Andrew's strong desire to enter the foreign mission field came in 1919 when he gladly answered a call and took up his duties in Honan, China, where he served for 30 years. He returned to Canada in 1948 and took up residence in Toronto, when he again entered the service of the church and has been connected to the church of St. Michaels and All Angels where he continues to serve.

Canon Andrew celebrated the 50th year of his priesthood several years ago and is now approaching the 60th year of his ordination.

May this beloved priest continue to enjoy good health and happiness, so as he may be able to bring spiritual blessings to the many people he serves and to those with whom he comes in contact with.

Before returning to his home in Toronto he visited friends in Sydney and also made a visit to the old fortress of Louisbourg, where he gave some valuable information on the history of a chalice which was in the possession of his late grandfather, Rev. James Allen Shaw and donated to the museum at Louisbourg by Canon Andrew some years ago. This chalice was used for Holy Communion services by the first French Missionary to the Micmac Indians in Cape Breton and salvaged after the siege of Louisbourg.

FROM MALDEN

Mr. and Mrs. George Foster and young daughter of Malden, Mass., were motor visitors to Arichat recently.

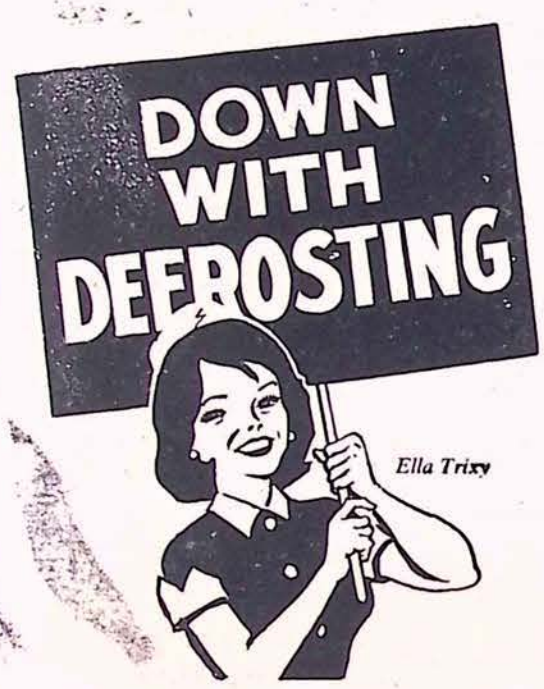

During his youth, George made several trips to Isle Madame with his father and step-mother, the late Mr. and Mrs. George Foster, (Alice Latimer).

While here he called on many old acquaintances at Cape LaRonde, Arichat and St. Peter's. They also visited many points in Cape Breton including the Cabot Trail.

George is a war veteran of World War II serving in the American Army on the Western Front where he received a serious ear injury in a tank corps in Normandy, France.

It was nice seeing George and to make the acquaintance of his wife and daughter.

Mr. Foster is an employee of the Malden Post Office.

Canada's "Cowboy Troubadour" Stu Davis, and his balladeer son, Duane, narrate the history of the early West in the new summer series Trail-Riding Troubadour, Wednesdays on the CBC-TV network in color. The series utilizes an unusual combination of documentary and variety techniques, with added dimension of the songs and ballards that grew out of Canada's early West.

THE RHYMING PHILOSOPHER
RECOGNITION

While some may seek fortune in strange lands
Or yearn for greener pastures far away,
And others see their birthright changing hands
As ties are cut on some unguarded day;
Regardless how the foreign honors mount
Or potentates acclaim some roving son,
Let no one slight or fail to take account
Of other ways the treasure trove is won:
For he who stays at home to till the soil
And build the stature of his old home town
May be the greater hero for his toil
Too easily we tend to treat with scorn
The stalwart son who wins where he was born.
Then let us hail the home town pioneer,
Including those who cast their lot with us,
And designate at least one day a year
To celebrate the less adventurous.
Festoon the streets and roast the largest boar
For those who stayed at home to mind the store.

Harry W. Fletcher

MINISTER OF EDUCATION OPENING OF THE NOVA SCOTIA SUMMER SCHOOL

States and other parts of Canada have a good summer. I do not need to tell the members of the staff who have been here before that this is a beautiful Province with an ideal climate (provided you appreciate a little bit of fog now and then), populated with friendly people. This couples with a group of teachers who are capable and willing to learn new ideas to mix with the best in the old, should provide for the development of a congenial atmosphere in which learning and development can take place. I welcome both the new members and the old to this year's summer school and I would like to wish you a happy and productive six weeks.
