SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

OUR MASS MEDIA

You know, that postal strike wasn't all bad. I know it was a great inconvenience for some people, and meant a real financial loss for others.

But there was a certain quiet satisfaction in knowing that you didn't have to answer those urgent letters. There was relief in the thought that you wouldn't be getting three or four bills every day. And there was positive pleasure in not being bombarded by advertising flyers and other third class mail.

In short, there was a slight hiatus in our daily scramble. Of course, the day of reckoning came, when all the bills came in one bundle, and there was no way of putting off writing those letters. But there was a little peace there for a while in at least one aspect of our bedevilled lives.

It started me thinking about what would happen if the entire communications system was tied up by strikes. Everything: telephone, television, radio, newspapers, the lot. Do you think we'd survive?

I do. In fact, if the whole noisy, bothersome business ground to a halt for a couple of months, we'd probably all live a couple of years longer.

Those who would suffer most would be the young and the old. Taking away the squawk and thump of their transistors from the ears of teenagers would be like tearing a baby from its mother's breast. Robbing the elderly of their morning news and their evenings with the Beverly Hillbillies re-runs would be arrant cruelty.

But I don't think the rest of us would suffer, I think we'd thrive and grow fat and calm and interested in real life, on a couple of months of peace and quiet.

Those who have been out of touch with "civilization," on a hunting or fishing trip will know what I mean. One simply does not miss the ominous headlines, the grave news reports, and the assorted garbage contained in our mass media.

In such conditions, a newspaper is for lighting a fire with, or cleaning a fish on. Radio is completely unnecessary. Lack of telephones means that nobody can get at you with bad news. And sitting around a fire with friends is a lot more enriching than sitting around watching third-rate old movies.

Indulging in the mass media, or surrending to them, or allowing them to rule your day, is merely laziness and habit. And the deeper you sink into the slough of words, the harder it is to break out.

Some people are addicted to the morning paper. It's like the first cup of coffee or the first cigarette. They are surly and uneasy until they unfold it. And what do they get? Wars and rumors of wars, strikes and rumors of strikes, a lengthy rehash and expansion of last night's TV news, pompous editorials stating the obvious and assorted junk.

Some never read a paper at all, but depend on their news from the radio. The thing goes all day long with a steady stream of commercials, semi-hysterical disc-jockeys pouring forth piffle, and the same news and weather reports, almost verbatim, every hour. Don't think this doesn't erode the soul.

Some make the telephone their news media. They're not interested in the world or national news, but only in the local gossip, and they literally spend hours a day exchanging inanities with other addicts. I would not care if we never had a telephone in the house. One of my mottoes is that no telephone call is ever worth answering.

Then, of course, there are some people who are hooked on all forms of communication. As a result, they never read a book, never think an original thought, and can be led around politically by the nose.

These mass media add a lot to life, but they take a lot away as well. Under their constant barrage, we fail to cultivate our own garden.

I'm all for some quiet. Would you like to try it?

WHAT CAN THE CANADA PENSION PLAN DO FOR YOU?

1. If you are now 67 or older and retired, and if you paid into the Plan last year or this year, you are eligible to apply NOW for a Retirement Pension.

2. If you were 70 years old sometime between January, 1966 and the present time, and paid into the Plan last year or this year, you should apply NOW, even though you are still working.

3. If you are 65 to 69 years old and still working, you should enquire in the month before you retire about the date of eligibility for payment of your pension. But, if you become 70 while working the pension is payable immediately.

4. If you are now 65 or 66 years old and retired, you should enquire immediately as to when your pension will commence. Information is available from the Canada Pension Officer, who is Mr. Harvey MacEachern, Department of Health and Welfare, Federal Building, Dorchester Stree Sydney, N. S. Phone Number 562-5809 Sydney or if you wish you may contact him at the Municipal Buliding, Arichat every second Tuesday.

The Canada Pension Plan will do more than pay retirement pensions.

1. Commencing in February, 1968, at the earliest, it will pay Survivors Benefits, including a lump sum Death Benefit, a Widow's Pension, and benefits to your dependent children, provided that you contributed in 1966, 1967 and January in 1968.

2. Commencing in May 1970, at the earliest, it will pay Disability Pensions and benefits to your dependent children.

Let us take a closer look at these Survivors Benefits.

1. The death benefit is equivalent to 6 times your monthly retirement pension. If you were under 65 when death occured, the retirement pension is calculated as though you had reached age 65 when you died. If the retirement pension was found to be $60 a month, the death benefit would be $300. The amount of the death benefit cannot exceed $510.

2. The amount of the widow's pension depends on certain factors.

(a) If she is 45 to 65 years old or if she is under 45 and has one or more dependent or disabled children, or is herself disabled her pension will be the full amount on wages $5,000 a year or more. In 1966 and 1967, and $5100 a year or more in 1968 and subsequent years, it will be approximately $65 a month.

(b) If she is between 35 and 45 and has no dependent or disabled children or is not herself disabled, she will receive a reduced pension. Full pensions are shown in (a) above. The reduction amounts to 10% for each year her age is below 45.

(c) If she is under 35, with conditions the same as in (b) above, she would not receive any pension until age 65.

3. Benefits for your dependent children are at a flat rate of $25.50 a month for each of the first four children, and $12.75 for each additional child.

4. There is also a Disabled Widower's Pension, which is payable on your wife's death if she was a contributor, provided you were disabled and were wholly or substantially maintained by her when she died. Any children maintained by her would receive benefits as in 3 above.

Let us take a quick look at Disability Pensions

OCEAN GOLIATH LAUNCHED IN JAPAN

HALIFAX—On August 15, the prime minister of Ireland, the Hon. John H. Lynch, was in Yokahama, Japan, and shared in ceremonies as his wife christened the world's largest ship. The giant vessel is the first of a type which, by the early 1970,s, may be delivering crude oil to the Bristish American Oil refinery under construction at Point Tupper, on the Strait of Canso.

Built for long-term charter to Gulf Oil Corporation, with which B-A is affiliated, the new tanker, the "Universe Ireland", is the first of six of 312,000 DWT each being fabricated in Japan. The last of the series is expected to be in service for the corporation by July 1969.

Initially, the "Universe Ireland" will transport petroleum from Kuwait around the Cape of Good Hope to the storage complex Gulf is building at Bantry Bay on the south coast of Ireland. Here is being created one of the first superport facilities in the world capable of handling ships of this size. Later the tankers will similarly serve the Point Tupper refinery in Nova Scotia and a new Gulf terminal in Okinawa. Prime source for the crude will be Kuwait, but later the vessels may used from time to time to transport crude from Nigeria and Cabindo, as well.

The second of the giant tankers, the "Universe Kuwait", will be christened at Nagasaki August 30 by the wife of His Excellency Sabah Al-Salem, Kuwait's ambassador to London and the son of the Amir of Kuwait.

Gulf's plans to use these 2.3 million barrel tankers to serve specially constructed trans-shipment terminals were termed revolutionary by many when first announced in April, 1966. However, Gulf regards the concept as a logical means of reducing transportation costs and keeping its crude oil products competitive.

"The savings in transporation costs will be such as to make our crude competitive in costs with crude delivered to European ports from any oilfields yet discovered," Gulf Executive Vice-President I. G. Davis has stated. The giant tankers, each of which has a million barrel more capacity than the largest tanker currently afloat, will join a Gulf ocean fleet of 83 tankers, 29 of 54 of which are under long-term charter.

Some facts about the "312's":

—Each is 1,135 feet long—about the length of 3½ Canadian football fields.

—Total height is nearly 220 feet about equal to a 20-storey building.

—Originally the tankers were designed for a maximum draft slightly under 72 feet and 276,000 DWT, surpassing anything else afloat or in progress. Tests, however, confirmed Persian Gulf operations would be safe with the maximum draft deepened to 79 feet, thus boosting the DWT to 312,000.

—Twin 18,700 H.P. steam turbines will drive the big ships at 14.6 nkots.

—Using shipboard pumping facilities, the tankers will discharge crude oil cargo at a rate of 100,000 barrels an hour.

—At the new $50 million B-A Point Tupper refinery, 450,-000-barrel storage tanks will receive crude from the big vessels.

—Cost of the new superport being built at B-A's refinery site on Point Tupper is estimated at $8,400,000. This terminal, capable of handling the huge tankers, will be built by the Federal Department of Public Works and will be owned by the National Harbours Board and leased to B-A.

—Approximate construction cost of the "Universe Ireland" is $20 million.

—About 45,000 tons of steel material was used in the tanker's construction.

—About 497 miles of welds were required in her construction.

—Approximately 500 tons of paint were required.

FISH LANDINGS FOR THE MONTH OF JULY

Fish landings in the Maritime Provinces during the month of July, 1968 totalled 156.1 million pounds with a landed value of 6.9 million dollars. The Federal Department of Fisheries reports that the July catch was composed of 56.5 million pounds of groundfish valued at 2.5 million dollars, 93.2 million pounds of pelagic and estuarial species valued at 1.9 million dollars and 6.2 million pounds of shellfish valued at 2.5 million dollars.

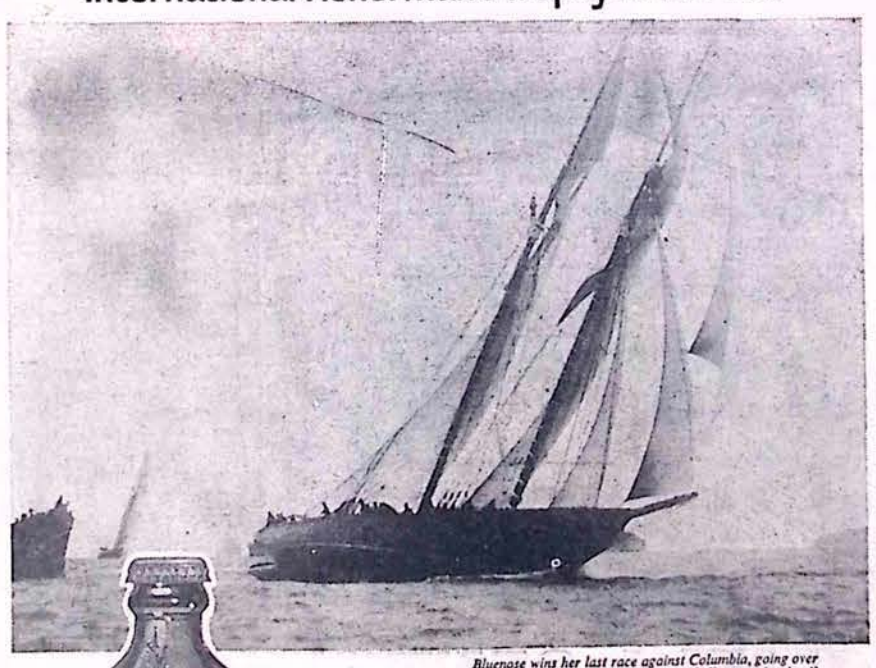

The total fish landings were below those of July 1967 but slightly above the three year 1965-67 average July catch. The groundfish catch for July, 1968 was below the 1965-67 July landings in quantity and value as was the shellfish catch. The pelagic catch was above normal in quantity but slightly below in terms of value.

On an individaul species basis the landings of redfish, pollock, herring, clams and scallops were above average. Landings of all other species were below their three year average.

Landings by the large draggers million pounds representing 12% of in the offshore fleet totalled 18.7 the month's total landigns and 33% of the groundfish catch in the Maritime Provinces.

The cumulative landings for the first seven months of 1968 total 587.3 million pounds valued at 40.3 million dollars. Statistics for the similar period of 1967 were 503.5 millon pounds valued at 36.0 million dollars.

ON ISLE MADAME

(Some time ago the following letter appeared in the daily press, referring to our freight and other services on the Island and we do agree with some of the statements made by Mr. Samson, and out of courtesy we are publishing this letter, which would have been inserted at the same time the daily press published it had we been requested to do so.—Editor.)

To the Editor:

Sir—During election time all candidates when canvassing state how Canada is progressing. Although Isle Madame is in Canada, it has declined during the last 40 years as far as government services is concerned.

Our population has increased by 40 percent and our revenue to the federal government has increased by 100 percent due to the large industry which was built in Petit de Grat.

In the years of depression we had a telegraph service, a passenger service, a freight service by which freight was delivered door to door, six days a week. (Even W.N. MacDonald, who was operating this service, was getting enough subsidy to have a man imitating Santa Claus by giving toys and candy to every child on Isle Madame at Christmas.)

Now we have completely lost all these services. If we want to move from the island, we have to hire a taxi which is an expensive means of transportation.

Isle Madame has a population of approximately 5,000. The closest daily freight service we can depend on is 50 miles away.

I wrote to the department in regard to this freight problem and the only answer I could get was—"You have good roads." Incidentally, this island does not share the trans-Canada highway like central Cape Breton. We, also, do not have a railway on Isle Madame.

In March 1967, the government granted Baddeck, Whycocomagh, Iona and Orangedale a five-day week extra CNR freight truck service. The same service could be provided on Isle Madame a truck leaving Mulgrave could deliver freight daily all around Isle Madame.

The northern part of Cape Breton Island can enjoy French television while Richmond and Cape Breton counties, with a large number of Acadans, cannot enjoy the same services.

The federal government must consider us second-class Canadians. I hope the new government, will try to rectify this unfairness so that we can enjoy good services like other parts of Cape Breton Island.

CAMPER TRAILER WON BY MRS. URBAIN BOUDREAU

The Tri-Town Arichat Lions Club held a recent Fund raising campaign. A Camper Trailer was drawn for early in August and proceeds from this project will be used for Community purposes. The drawing was sponsored by the Lions Club in Arichat, Louisdale and St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stitcher of Richmond, Virginia, participated in the draw, and the winner of the trailer was Mrs. Urbain Boudreau of Petit de Grat.

King Lion S. K. Ummat acted as Master of Ceremonies and stated on behalf of the Lions Club his appreciation for the support given by the public on this first appeal to the communities by this newly organized "Lions Club."

Chairman of the project was Cpl . Cecil Dole of the R. C. M. Police, assisted by the Club Secretary, Rev. A. D. Turnbull and Lion Louis Comeau.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Stitcher gave their impressions as tourists on Isle Madame. Mr. Stitcher felt that this was a great area to relax in, but had hoped that more opportunity for sports fishing would be found. He thought more boats could be an asset to the tourist industry.

The Tri-Town Lions Club would like to thank Tom Waye of Western Tire Store, St. Peter's, for arranging for the trailer; The Richmond County Record for their co-operation and Loronzo Boudreau's Irving Station for use of their property. The Club thanks all who sold tickets and to those who supported the drawing by buying tickets and also congratulates the winner, Mrs. U. Boudreau.

View From the Hill

The instalation of the new Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia is a well deserved tribute to the Oland family of Halifax. This family has contributed much to the people of Nova Scotia in their various contributions to the Church and Universities of Nova Scotia. Members of the Oland family have served their country well in two World Wars and their support of numerous sporting activities has added much to the youth of Nova Scotia.

Bluenose II and the Atlantic Fair are examples of the Oland's acceptance of challenge for works of a public nature that have increased the prestige of Nova Scotia at home and abroad.

This whole paper would hardly contain all the small charities and thoughtful uses of Oland financial support. And the Oland family would be the last people in the world to mention the scope of their activities.

Granted, that many of us have enjoyed the products that make it all possible but the appointment of our new Lieutenant Governor is indeed a most popular one with all thinking Nova Scotans. May we join in hearty congratulations to all the members of this wonderful family.

The progress of mankind is made possible by the publication of each and every achievement, improvement of technique, increased knowledge, in the printed world of books. Books are our way of spreading wide the knowledge gained by every research and study.

From the Hill I cannot see a public library in Richmond County. But the grapevine has it, that there are libraries in both the St. Peter's School and the Arichat School. It would appear to me that these books should be made available to the public before advancing technology and knowledge renders such books obsolete.

Better that books become worn out by use than preserved for a posterity that will only know what it sees on TV films. I am certain that since the ratepayers support expensive schools; that, use of the school libraries should not add greatly to the costs; but would show some greater return for the money already spent. A regional library with bookmobile service would be the ideal answer—but that might up the costs. In the meantime, there might be books locked up in schools that would be of great interest and help to residents that would want to increase their knowledge of some specific study or technique. The help of books could not be measured by the man, who, when he wants to build a boat or shed can go to the library and get books on that very subject. Books impart knowledge in every possible undertaking. There are books that teach us to draw plans, to build, to make furniture, to plant gardens, to farm a woodlot or to service the home appliences. Through the world of books the greatest men in every vocation make their knowledge available to readers.

Lets contact our Councillors and School Board Members and open the libraries to the people who pay for the schools and with better informed citizens Richmond County will flourish in the years ahead.

The expensive ' "Manpower' scheme of upgrading is available for free to anyone who wants to improve his knowledge by use of books. It will be most interesting to see if one Councillor or one School Board Member gets this message; if one reader should agree that existing library facilities should be used (that's spelt with a capital "YOU".)

STATEMENT BY THE HON. G. J. DOUCET MINISTER OF EDCATION

The opening of school in Nova Scotia this year will see 193,000 pupils returning to their classrooms and 18,000 young children setting out to school for the first time. The anticipated total enrolment of approximately 211,000 pupils represents an estimated increase of 3,000 over last year.

The students will be taught by some 9,000 teachers in the 650 schools in this province.

Progress is continuing in the development and co-ordination of the school curriculum and the various school programs.

Particular attention is being given to tho development of a reorganized high school program.

It is at the high school level that the greatest proportion of the increase in school enrolment is now occurring. Pupils of high school age are remaining in school in greater numbers to take advantage of new opportunities offered by the broadened program with its more extensive provisions for general and vocational education.

As part of the expansion of the comprehensive school system, an increasing number of high schools are offering the general course as well as the standard university-preparatory course. More and more schools are developing especially adjusted courses at the junior high school level. In addition, four new regional vocational schools and the province's second institute of technology will be opened this year, the opening dates of these to be announced later.

All in all, these new developments represent a steady growth in the provision of more suitable educational opportunities to meet the needs of the young people of this province.

WORTHINESS

Not all may reach the pinnacles of fame
Or lead his charging troops to victory.
Not all are born to win a state's acclaim,
And least of all perhaps for you and me.
Though some are talented on fields of sport,
And others head the heights of industry
What recompense has he who falls far short
Of being known beyond his family?
Take note of those whose only passive skill
Is being here, and by their presence spark
The inspiration to inflame the will
Of those whose restless souls must make their mark.
Some battles may be won by brawn alone;
But greater ones by heroes still unknown.
Spare just a moments' praise for those who tend
The fire that gives the temper to the steel,
And those content to staunchly back a friend
In times of need and honor his appeal.
For those who serve with willing heart and hand
Have proven worth, because they understand.

HELP LOCAL INDUSTRY

A weekly newspaper in a Nova Scotia town, was critical of business firms sending their printing orders out of town and handled the situation very well in an editorial, when he referred to an incident where his newspaper had given coverage to a new business being established in his own town and where he had given some free publicity in the columns of his newspaper calling the attention of his readers about this new firm in a kindly manner.

The editor then went on to say that his friendly gesture was not appreciated, because the proprietor of the new firm went out of the town to purchase his printing orders.

ACADIAN EXPANSION AT BRIDGETOWN

BRIDGETOWN — A two-acre, $2,000,000 expansion of production facilities geared to answer swelling Canadian and international sales has been announced by John Affleck, vice president and managing director of Acadian Distillers Limited.

Involving more than 100,000 square feet of floor space, the expansion includes blending, bottling, maturing, storage, staff and office facilities, plus a third rail siding, and a second steam generator for Nova Scotia's only distillery. Mr. Affleck said Acadian is already studying plans based on sales projections for further expansion by mid 1970's.

Part of the construction has already been completed. Construction in other phases is underway.

To mature the distiller's maximum product output, a new palletized warehouse has been built capable of storing 32,000 Blending of Acadian's 12 brands has been consolidated in a newly finished plant equipped with a stainless steel tank capacity of 125,000 gallons.

One hundred-twenty to 180 bottles per minute will be processed on each of three bottling lines to be housed in a 49,500-square-foot building now under construction. Bottle contact, jamming or breakwill be prevented by electrical control.

The bottling plant will include two floors for management offices, quality control laboratoriest, test panel facilities, lunch room, washrooms and locker rooms.

Another 34,000 square feet of warehousing is scheduled for completion by November 1969, and a further 11,000 square feet, or enough maturing area for 12,000 barrels, is slated for 1971. Acadian will have a capacity to store four million gallons of whiskey and rum maturing in 82,000 oak barrels.

The expansion is being financed through Nova Scotia's Industrial Loan Board. Contractors for the project are Dumac Engineering Limited and Kenney Construction Company.
