SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

THEY EAT ANYTHING

I've never raised pigs, but there can't be too much to it, according to what I've seen in the past week.

You merely give them all they can eat, and then clean up after And there's no trouble at all in preparing their food.

One of the great advantages is that there's no garbage. Apparently the only thing pigs won't eat is returnable bottles.

This is a fine way to talk about my son Hugh and his friend Alex, but it's the solemn truth. It's not meant in a disparaging way. I'm not full of disparagement, but of despair.

When I was their age, I was a pretty fair trencherman. On one occasion, as I recall, I set a new family record for corn on the cob. I ate 13 cobs. On another, I ate 12 baked apples.

But these were individual feats. They pale alongside the stuff Hugh and his mate put away.

They start off slowly. "Just a cup of tea, Mrs. Smiley, if you like. Oh, well, maybe I'll have a fresh peach, if you want to get rid of them."

Half a basket of peaches later, they might succumb to be a few cobs of corn (it's noon by now, because they never get up until it). Before the corn, they've had a can or two of cold beans and a half-loaf of toast "just to be sociable."

When the corn is gone, they look up with their little, beady eyes glittering and absolutely refuse dessert, "Unless you have some old cake and ice cream that's maybe going bad." There always seems to be some old cake or pie that's on its last legs, and some ice-cream that's going bad unless you eat it the day it's bought.

They manage to get through the afternoon with the odd hamburger and a few bags of chips and a couple of beers. But by dinner time, their snouts are prying the lids off pots and their little feverish paws are stirring the gravy and saliva is running so fast you have to wear rubber boots in the dining-room.

It's not the food I mind. I've bought moose pastures in Northern Ontario that were guaranteed gold mines. I've dropped $5,000 bombs in fields in Holland, a slaughtering of 10,000 turnips. I've tried for 20 years to make my wife base her arguments on erason, not emotion. I know what it is to loose.

No, I don't expect any return. It's just pure fascination. Where in the name of the Holy Old Jumpin' Jehosophat do they put it?

They're not big, fat, fellas. They're young and slim. I give them a plate of steak or turkey and spuds and vegetables and salad that would make a lumber jack ill.

And I start to eat my own. And I look up, and there they are twiddling their hoofs, plates licked clean, eyes fixed on the main platter.

That's not the worst thing. If I eat too much maybe at Christmas or New Year, I have enough sense to subside in a corner and belch amiably as I watch television.

Not these piggies. One hour after a meal that would put the fat lady in the circus on her back for a week, they can be seen peering into the refrigerator.

They eat from six to eight. And when they get in, at three a.m., they have a little nite-cap: half a pound of cheese and a pound of bacon and a half-loaf of bread and two cans of soup to wash it down.

Perhaps it's explainable when they tell you that they often go for days, weeks, living on bologna sandwiches and coffee, chips and milk, hot dogs and pop. Sometimes nothing.

Ever try that nothing? I have I've gone for three days with nothing and then eaten so much cabbage soup it was coming out my ears and my belly was touching my chin.

It's not that I don't like to see young people eat heartily. It's just that if I want to raise pigs, I'd like to have some pork.

FLETCHER'S PHILOSOPHY JUNIOR

It may be that wisdom and judgement become the adornment of age, if well earned and hard won, but strangely enough our good sense will succumb to the whimsey and wiles of a five year old son.

He dodges the issues and circumvents rules, detracts from the purpose and clouds up the image; but fails to evade muddy puddles and pools, and eats all around his potatoes and spinach.

He gets quite forgetful of combing his hair; when brushing his teeth he makes motions, but doesn't; when told to do chores he exudes laissez-faire, but bristles with vim doing things that he mustn't.

He smiles with an innocent look on his face and devastates Dad with a shrug of his shoulder. Mom feels like she's been in a chariot race, but secretly wishes he wouldn't grow older.

TRI-TOWN LION'S CLUB PROPOSES ARTIFICIAL ICE RINK TO SERVE THIS AREA

The LION'S Corner

At the last meeting of the Tri-Town Lions Club, it was proposed that an artificial ice rink be undertaken by the club to serve all the area.

The proposed project met with much support and we understand the club will pursue the matter further. A report can be expected at the next regular meeting of the club.

A project of this kind should meet with the approval of the communities on Isle Madame and Louisdale; also St. Peters and all the area served by the Tri-Town Lion's Club.

At present young people in the area who are interested in skating and hockey must go to Port Hawkesbury, where a large modern ice ring is much in use. With a rink in this area, a hockey league could be formed and an exchange of games and skating would bring about better sporting relations with the Strait and the Richmond County area.

CO-OP SUPPLY DEPOT INVESTIGATED

Nearly one hundred Strait of Canso and Isle Madame residents attended a Co-Op information meeting. The meeting was held in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, Port Hawkesbury, on Monday 2, December. The meeting was organized by a group of citizens concerned at the rising cost of groceries.

The meeting was chaired by Rev. Art Turnbull of Arichat, who introduced the guest speakers. Mr. Eric Dean of Halifax, a representative of Maritime Co-Op Services, outlined the Co-Op Supply Depot (C.S.O.) plan. Mr. Dean was instrumental in organizing such a store in Dartmouth which now has six hundred (600) members and is preparing to expand to a second outlet.

Mr. Dean, in his remarks, told the audience that consumers (the shopper) should have a direct voice in marketing. Today the larger chain stores control the consumer. He explained the operating procedure of conventional Co-Op Retail Stores ,which are familiar to Isle Madame residents. He then explained the new C.S.D. concept.

The C.S.D. is a refinement of the basic principal of Co-Op marketing. In a C.S.D. the customer member has a direct and active part in the operation of the store. Products are sold at wholesale prices to the members, the members being the only customers allowed. The housewife will make a direct saving every time she shops. In return each member contracts to pay a weekly service fee to pay for the operation of the store (rent, wages, lights etc.).

Share capital, Mr. Dean explained, is raised by the members. Each member invests an agreed amount into the share capital. This is returned to the member if the member moves or wishes to withdraw.

Mr. Gus MacNeil of M.C.S. in Sydney explained the operating procedure in the new Stores in Sydney and New Waterford.

Many concrete questions were presented from the floor, and a good discussion ensued. The Strait Area citizens formed a committee to develop interest, raise membership and establish an outlet. Mr. Art Robertson is chairman of this committee.

The Isle Madame citizens have arranged for a further study meeting to investigate the C.S.D. plan. Father Turnbull has agreed to meet with this group.

PROVINCE OF NOVA SCOTIA COULD BECOME PRODUCER OF INDUSTRIAL CHEMICALS

HALIFAX—Nova Scotia could become a major producer of sulphur and other important industrial chemicals, according to recent studies by scientists of the Nova Scotia Research Foundation.

In research on anhydrite, NSRF's chemistry division has underway studies which may show that from anhydrite, or calcium sulphate, sulphur can be economically produced in Nova Scotia at current elevated market prices.

In Nova Scotia there's plenty of anhydrite, particularly in the Cape Breton area.

In releasing the NSRF annual report, Hon. W. S. K. Jones, minister of finance and economics, said the anhydrite study is one of three laboratory investigations by research foundations scientists which could mean the development of brand new chemical industries in this province.

The two other studies are also in the form of technologies for the production of industrial chemicals. These are magnesia and bromine, and both involve extensive use of the sea water which almost surrounds this Atlantic province.

To produce 200 tons of magnesia a day, 20,000,000 gallons of sea water a day would be pumped through extraction chambers, using native limes as a precipitant to recover this valuable mineral.

Next stage in developing a Nova Scotia magnesia industry, NSRF scientists say, is to interest private industry in surveying the market potential.

Magnesia is used in the refractory brick linings of basic oxygen steel-making furnaces, and in the pulping process of paper mills. At present all the magnesia used in this country is imported.

The proposed production of bromine would also make heavy use of sea water. Like magnesia, no bromine is produced in Canada at present. U. S. bromine is extracted from salt wells and from the warm sea water of the Gulf of Mexico.

The problem of producing bromine in Nova Scotia up to now has been that cold sea water from the Atlantic is too expensive to raise to proper temperature for extraction. But with the opening of the heavy water plant of Deuterium of Canada Limited in Glace Bay, NSRF scientists will have ready-made the necessary source of warm salt water, needed for producing bromine.

The heavy water plant will discharge a maximum of 40,000 gallons a minute of heated sea water after removing the heavy water content. NSRF scientists calculate that a normal bromine plant using this effluent could produce 30 to 40 tons of high-priced bromine a day.

This chemical, used in the manufacture of ethylene dibromide, an anti-knock component in gasolines, now sells for about $350 a ton.

Sulphur production is fundamental to any modern industrial economy. About half the world production of sulphur at present goes into the manufacture of sulphuric acid which is used primarily to produce phosphates for modern fertilizers.

Shipping phosphate rock from Florida to Nova Scotia cheaply by sea would make possible phosphate fertilizer production in this province, based on sulphur and sulphuric acid production.

The process of extracting sulphur from native anhydrite, as proposed by NSRF scientists, could make use of Cape Breton coal possibly with the additional recovery of its high sulphur content.

It is understood that the federal Department of Energy, Mines and Resources has recently developed a similar process.

Buy into Canada.

There are probably as many good reasons for buying Canada Savings Bonds as there are Canadians. There are the hopes, plans and ambitions you have for yourself and your family. There is the desire, which all of us share, to play a part in building the future of our country. The simple, safe, profitable way to help realize these goals is to buy Canada Savings Bonds.

They offer an excellent return. The average yield to maturity is 6.75% a year. There are fourteen annual interest coupons which begin at 5.75% and rise to 7.00% for each of the last nine years. These can be cashed each year as they become due. Better still, if you choose to keep these coupons uncashed, you can earn interest on your interest. Take full advantage of this option and, when your Bonds mature, your total interest earnings plus your original investment will amount to $250 for each $100 invested.

They are available to everyone. Canada Savings Bonds are available to every Canadian resident in amounts from $50 up to $50,000, for cash or on instalments, wherever you work, bank or invest. Adults, children, businesses and institutions—all may buy them.

They are instant cash. You can cash them any time at any bank in Canada at their full face value plus earned interest.

Few investments are so profitable. None builds more surely for the future. Buy into Canada today. Buy Canada Savings Bonds. It pays.

It pays.

View From the Hill

The other day I noticed a strange car in our area that seemed to be calling at every house on our road. My first thoughts were that it was a salesman or canvasser of some type. But it turned out to be our local assessor who explained that he was visiting every home and business place in the County this year as they are engaged in doing a re-assessment. I know that I had been assessed for County taxes each year so I asked this assessor to please explain the necessity of a re-assessment.

The Lord and Marshall Bourinot knows that taxes are high enough now for the servcies we get here in the County. This assessor was very willing to explain; that, assessments, are based on market values and as market values change in different areas and houses and buildings depreciate from year to year. These two factors combine to put individual assessments out of line with regard to uniform taxation. Property values are increasing in some parts of the County and as the last reassessment was done in 1964 there were many properties that were under-assessed and some that had depreciated since 1964. The assessors are directed by law to assess property at market value having regard to use their opinions to see that taxation falls in a uniform manner on all real and personal property in the County.

He went on to explain that if anyone feels that their assessment is out of balance with someone else's then our assessor would gladly and willingly show why there is a difference in the assessments. This service they offer; in order that every ratepayer in the County can feel he is being assessed fairly under the current assessment laws.

After the assessor's visit to my platform on the Hill, I felt we would all be treated fairly; knowing that not every taxpayer is happy whenever there is any change in his assessment. If the assessment goes up, its because property vaues in my area are going up; if it goes down, really that's bad, because it means property values are going down too. We all are proud of our homes and we do like to think they are appreciating in value along with the rising costs of building materials. Higher assessments do not necessarily mean higher taxes. Taxes are meant to cover the proposed expenditures for County services, schools, etc. The assessment of property by assessors is the way our community ensures that the tax load is shared equally by those who have, and those who have little.

Now that the assessor has made his visit I think I'll close in my platform on the Hill with Plastic to keep out the Atlantic gales that are getting rather cold.

Check the woodpile Charlie, it's going to be colder.

SAFE DRIVING WEEK

Safe driving is more than just a slogan to curb highway accidents —it's a subject which could mean life or death for any of Canada's 7,800,00 licensed drivers, Hon. I. W. Akerley, Nova Scotia's Minister of Highways said recently.

In a statement issued in conjunction with Safe Driving week, December 1 to 7, Mr. Akerley said that a proper approach to the operation of motor vehicles is more essential in Nova Scotia this year, than ever before, because of the opening of many miles on both the Trans-Canada and other all-weather provincial highways.

Driving procedures on new "all-weather" highway systems necessitates a re-education of vehicle operators, he explained, and the result is that the Department of Highways, through its Registry of Motor Vehicles is placing special emphasis on defensive driving.

Defensive driving courses, aimed at drivers who already hold licenses, are being sponsored by the Department in co-operation with the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

"Basically", he said, "the Department is providing a refresher course for drivers, enabling each to analyze their individual problems.

"Motorists who recognize that they may have acquired bad driving habits, and are concerned about the need for improvement, should be commended for showing responsibility in this regard by attempting to improve their driving ability by participating in Defensive Driving courses.

"It may well be that the courts in this Province will one day require offenders with poor driving habits, to participate in a Defensive Driving course.

"Through these methods we may be able to improve the human aspect of motor vehicle operations.

"We have been fortunate in receiving the co-operation of a number of service clubs in Nova Scotia, in assisting in the presentation of our Defensive Driving courses, in which approximately 1,000 people are now participating.

"We are aware", said Mr. Akerley, "that this is merely a beginning in this field, but are hopeful that this program, coupled with the Department sponsored Instructor's courses and the Driver Education programs in Nova Scotia schools, will help convince motorists of the urgent need for them to upgrade their driving habits for their own protection".

Have your child immunized against

MEASLES!

WHY? Because measles can be more than just a harmless childhood disease . . . it can and has been a killer. Encephalitis or inflammation of the brain is the most serious complication which occurs once in every 1000 cases of measles. Encephalitis ends fatally for 25 per cent of its victims . . . and tragically for another 33 per cent who are permanently paralyzed or mentally impaired. One in every six children with measles develops other complications such as ear infection, pneumonia and bronchitis.

WHO? Who should receive measles vaccine? All pre-school children nine months of age, up to and including children in their first year at school*, who have not had measles of the seven to nine day variety commonly known as red measles. German (3 day) measles is not the same as regular measles. If you are not sure which type of measles your child has had he should get this vaccine to be sure he is really protected.

HOW? By taking your child to the next public immunization clinic in your area. Adequate protection for your child requires only a single dose. Your signature on a permission slip will be required. For clinic schedules in your area, contact your local public health office.

*It is anticipated that the measles immunization program will be extended to include all susceptible persons regardless of age.

A First in 4-H for Nova Scotia has been started in Richmond Co. Camp Rankin is no longer just a dream, but has fast become a real thing. Friday, November 29th, St. Peter's Parish Hall, Richmond Co. set the stage when Mr. Walter Fougere, County Warden, officially presented Mrs. Eva Landry, President of Rich. Co. 4-H Leaders' Council with the Deed to Camp Rankin.

As most people already know, this Camp has been named after the past Agricultural Representative in Richmond Co., Angus Rankin. Mr. Rankin, who is now retired, was special guest for the evening.

Special guest speaker was Mr. Walter Grant, Director of Extension for the Nova Scotia Dept. of Agriculture. He commended the 4-H leaders in Rich. Co., for looking to the future. Mr. Jack Redden, 4-H Representative Sydney, then explained what had been done at Camp Rankin and the plans for the future of the site. Mrs. Landry, and Mrs. Joe MacNeil, Secty-Treasurer, of the 4-H Leaders' Council, then accepted donations from various organizations. To date, approximately Seven Hundred dollars have been raised. Many ambitious projects will be put on this winter to reach the goal.

In closing, Mrs. Landry thanked everyone for their response and encouraged all county organizations to support this project. This can easily become a county recreation center for all youth of Richmond Co. It will also serve as a 4-H center for club activities in Rich. Co., Eastern Nova Scotia and the rest of the Province.

The voice of the Canadian Indian is growing stronger across the land on matters pertaining to his welfare. The voice of Ojibway Johnny Yesno is heard Saturdays on CBC radio on the program Indian Magazine—a national forum for the opinions of Indians, Metis and Eskimos. It's also a means of letting non-Indians hear the Indian viewpoint and helps promote understanding. Yesno won a Wilderness Award for his role in a CBC-TV Wojeck episode.

FISH LANDINGS FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER

Fish landings in the Maritime Provinces during the month of October 1968 totalled 106.3 million pounds valued at 5.9 million dollars. The Federal Department of Fisheries reports that the catch was composed of 44.7 million pounds of groundfish valued at 2.0 million dollars, 55.0 million pounds of pelagic and estuarial species valued at 1.4 milliin dollars and 6.6 million pounds of shelfish valued at 2.5 million dollars.

The total October catch was 17.1 million pounds and 607 thousand dollars above the catch for the same month last year. The October landings exceeded the three year 1965-67 average October landings by 3.1 million pounds and 1.1 million dollars. The October groundfish catch was somewhat below the average for the month during the three previous years however the catch of pelagic and shellfish species were above average.

On an individual species basis the landings of cod, redfish, herring, swordfish and lobster were above the three year October average while the catches of haddock, flatfishes, pollock, hake and mackerel were below average. The scallop catch, while slightly below average in terms of quantity, has been substantially above average in value.

The draggers and trawlers over 70 feet in length landed 19.6 million pounds of fish during October. The catch by these vessels was approximately 8.7 million pounds less than during the same month last year. The catch by these vessels represented 41 per cent of the month's total groundfish landings and 72 per cent of the scallop landings.

JOHN H. DICKEY, Q.C. CHAIRMAN OF BOARD OF GOVERNORS MOUNT ST. VINCENT

John H. Dickey, Q.C., of Halifax, was elected chairman of the Board of Governors of Mount St. Vincent University at a recent meeting of the board.

H. B. Rhude was named chairman of the newly organied finance committee and E. G. Jarvis chairman of the building committee, which was also formed at the same meeting.

Others named to the executive committee of the board were Keith C. Bishop, Miss Florence Wall, Sister Catherine Wallace and Sister Irene Farmer.

Sister Irene Farmer, who is superior general of the Sisters of Charity, had been acting chairman of the board pending election by the board of a chairman. The board was established under a charter approved by the Legislature in 1966 and has been in operation for about six months.

Mr. Dickey, a lawyer, is a member of the firm of McInnes, Cooper and Robertson. He is active in many organizations in Halifax and is a former Member of Parliament for Halifax.

The cumulative landings for the first ten months of 1968 total 1,180 million pounds valued at 63.4 million dollars which indicates a probable record year for landings in the Maritimes. Figures for the similar period of 1967 were 944 million pounds valued at 53.3 million dollars and for 1966, 969 million pounds valued at 53.3 million dollars.

Let your liver bile relieve irregularity

It's a proven fact that a sufficient flow of liver bile will relieve irregularity. How does this work? Excess fat globules in the digestive tract often cause irregularity. The best way to break down these unwanted fat globules is with a sufficient flow of liver bile. And Carter's Little Liver Pills has proof . . . clinical proof that it improves liver bile flow by breaking down unwanted fat globules and unblocking the digestive tract. So whenever you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need relief from irregularity get Carter's Little Liver Pills. 50¢.

NEW QUARTERS FOR THE NOVA SCOTIA MUSEUM IN HALIFAX

The Nova Scotia Museum, the oldest institution of its kind in Canada, will move into a new approximately $1.4 million building on Bell Road, Halifax, in the Fall of 1969.

Education Minister G. J. Doucet, in announcing that Kenney Construction Company Ltd., of Yarmouth had been awarded the tender to construct the four storey building, said work is underway at the site.

The new 65,000 square foot building will house both the science and history divisions of the museum and large display halls will enable the assembly of effective exhibits related to the history of man and the natural history of Nova Scota.

Several classrooms and a small auditorium will be provided for the use of visiting school classes and other interested groups. Laboratories and workshops will enable the staff to restore, preserve and prepare the many specimens and artifacts for study and display.

"The new building will allow the museum to display a large and varied collection of valuable scientific and historical material which has never been seen by the public due to lack of display space in our present quarters," J. Lynton Martin, museum director said,

The Nova Scotia Museum began with the collection of the Mechanics Institute in Halifax in 1831 and was taken over by the Province 100 years ago.

Since about 1900 the museum has been housed in the Nova Scotia Technical College on Spring Garden Road, and more recently has maintained a history branch in the Halifax Citadel.

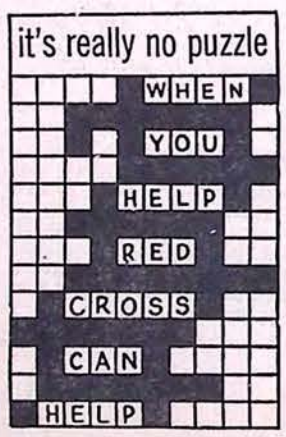

In 1966 the Museum added the Maritime Museum of Halifax to its collection and this has now become the marine history department of the museum.

The Nova Scotia Museum is also responsible for the historic houses at Mount Uniacke, Windsor and Liverpool and for the Balmoral grist mill at Tatamagouche and the woolen mill at Barrington.

The responsibility for the development of historic resources throughout the province was recently given to the museum.

Visited by over 400,000 persons annually at the Spring Garden Road and Citadel branches, the museum has been an important part of the educational system of the province, both through its exhibits and its many publications.

The well known "Birds of Nova Scotia" was printed by the museum and to date over 5000 copies have been sold. Other books and pamphlets cover such subjects as fishes, amphibians and reptiles, seals, whales, Nova Scotia furniture and glass, and the Micmac Indians.
