Isle Madame Folk Singer Continues to Win Popularity

ARICHAT — "Cape Breton's Bilingual Folk Singer" is the billing being credited to an up-and-coming young folk singing artist who is gaining prominence in her own right as a singer and entertainer. She is Cornelia Boucher, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Boucher, Arichat, and a second year student at the Nova Scotia Teachers College, Truro.

Cornelia first began singing in variety concerts at a very early age, singing and accompanying herself on the piano. As far as she could remember and from what she was told she could sing before she was able to speak.

She taught herself to play the piano and continued to learn by "ear" up until the age of approximately eight when Miss Boucher began to take music lessons. She took music lessons for about four years and ended up with a grade six certificate.

During her formative years she gained experience as an entertainer by singing for many variety shows in her community. At school she sang for dances, social gatherings and church services, played the organ for many different church services and sang for weddings, funerals and church celebrations.

In high school she took full responsibility in directing and staging variety shows in Grades nine to 12 and also organized a group of girls and formed a folk singing band and played the drums in the group. She also was part of a rock high school band. In Grade 12 a study of the theory of music was completed and she sang with Gib Whitney Orchestra for her graduation.

For her "Centennial Project" in 1967, Miss Boucher sang with and for the people who were travelling on the Centennial Caravan. An outdoor show, its primary purpose was to entertain the people who waited in line to see the caravan.

The summer of 1967 was exceptionally busy time for Miss Boucher starting with a Folk Festival which was held in Port Hawkesbury. For this occasion she composed her own song , and was judged on it three different times. She was successful and participated in Halifax's Centennial Spectacular. Then was chosen by the Nova Scotia Folk Arts Council to sing at the Prince Edward Island Folk Arts Fesival. Two months after her trip to P.E.I., she was chosen by the Folks Arts Council to represent Nova Scotia in Ottawa for its Dominion Day Variety Show which was made up of 12 acts from across Canada. She also sang at the Folk Art Festival in St. John's, Nfld., and the Jolly Tar Hornpipe Variety Show staged during Halifax's Natal Day festivities. To end her summer engagements which included variety shows,coffee houses and playing the organ in a rock band, she also sang at a rally, where she represented the Acadians and sang Acadian French songs.

During her first year at College in Truro, she sang for various functions: banquets, coffee houses, winter carnivals, fashion shows and conferences. She made up one part of the girls' choir which was formed of music specialists of her class. The choir won the T. C. Johnson & Son Rose Bowl Trophy which was awarded in the Halifax Music Festival. She has continued engagements throughout 1968.

Cornelia is 19 years old and is bilingual which adds to her inherent charm and personality, the mark of an accomplished artist.

Not so long ago she appeared on the CJFX Radio Preliminary Talent Show, Antigonish, along with seven other contestants from sections of Nova Scotia. There were six shows one each Wednesday night. Miss Boucher appeared on this show and received 9.5 points out of a possible 10 from three judges.

The final show took place on December 18th and at this competintion Cornelia sang her own composition in French and was the winner over all other contestants. She also won the MacLean Beverage of New Glasgow award.

Cornelia also appeared with the Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem in Antigonish in December at the Oland Centre in that town.

We congratulate Miss Boucher and wish her continued success.

RUSSELL DAVID MacLEOD DIES IN TRURO

The passing of Mr. Russell David MacLeod occurred at his home on Roosevelt Avenue, Truro, on February 28th. Mr. MacLeod's passing was learned with deep regret by many friends in his native Richmond County. Born in Cleveland, Cape Breton he was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David A. MacLeod.

Mr. MacLeod resided in Truro for the past 18 years where he was well and favourably known. He was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion; also a member of Fellowship Lodge A.F. & A.M., Truro and Solomon Lodge, Port Hawkesbury and was an active member of First United Church, Truro, of which he was an elder.

Surviving are his wife, the former Marion Embree of Amherst; two brothers, Gordon of Alberta and Stanley in Ontario; also two sisters, Jennie, (Mrs. Arthur Smith) and Miss Julia, R. N., both of Ontario.

The beautiful Masonic Service was held Sunday evening at the Kennedy Memorial Residence, in Truro, with a large attendance of Masons and friends.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. MacLeod, the pastor and personal friend of the deceased. Rev Mumford assisted by Rev. Russell L. Smith, nephew of Mr. MacLeod and Pastor of Highland-Clyde Church, Highland, of Michigan, U. .S A.

The pall bearers were all close friends of the deceased as follows: Messrs R. T. MacCabe, Donald Stephens, Malcolm Neary, Jim Graham, Alex Nicholson and Sandy Forestes.

We extend our sympathy to Mrs. MacLeod, the sisters and brothers in the passing of a beloved husband and brother.

The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful; also in lieu of flowers a number of friends donated to the Heart Foundation.

The Four Ghosts On The Ferguson's Cove Road

BY T. A. BOYLE (All Rights Reserved)

Panting and perspiring freely, after my mad rush, I was startled to realize I was almost up to Bolligan's Tree, that ghastly spot where that terrible man hanged himself, after murdering his wife and child. His ghost was reputed to haunt this place, imploring all passers by to remove the rope from his strangled neck. Yes, the Tree was over there, a gnarled old oak, probably three or four hundred years old. My straining eyes were just taking in its outline, when there was a loud cracking sound and I saw the tree go down. Almost instantly I saw a blinking light over the side of the cliff, opposite the tree where no light had a right to be. Half paralized with dread I waited a second or two and again that blinking light appeared. Convinced now for certain that the devil was afoot, wild horses could not drag me past that fatal tree. But neither could I retrace my steps, when I could still faintly hear the horrible sounds set up by the demons on the beach. With the devil behind me and God only knows what horrible spectress in front, there was but one course for me to take, and that was to the woods. Blindly I left the road and entered the dense underbrush, instantly losing all sense of direction. Nature must have led me homeward as, after a time, I have recollection whether it was minutes or hours, I found myself back on the road on the further side of that cursed tree.

My clothes were in tatters. Blood dripped from my scratched face and torn hands, and one of my knees, which must have bumped against a boulder, ached painfully.

The account of the Third Incident which occurred at Creaking Rock, involving a headless soldier, and an attack by a wild beast, in which our traveller was painfully injured, follows:

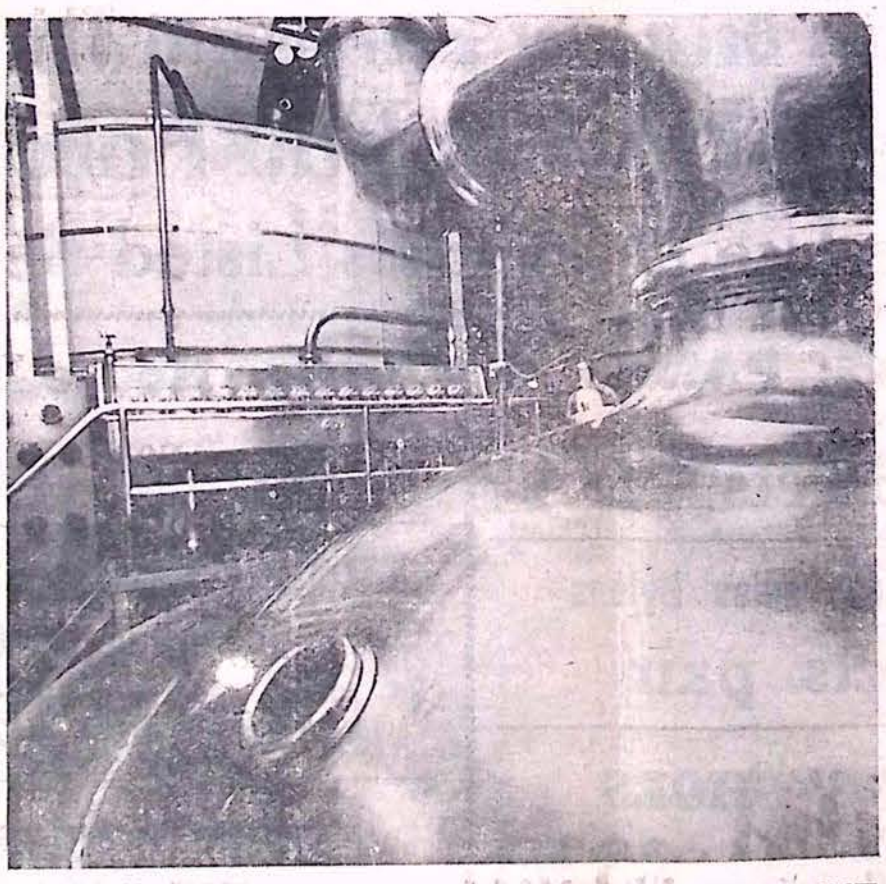

THIRD INCIDENT

I was now getting closer to Creaking Rock, a giant boulder, half as large as a house, so called, because of its unstable balance, rocked to and fro on windy nights, making a moaning dismal sound. This was the place, the legend said, the headless soldier was forever doomed to search for his missing top piece. Terrible though this apparition might be, I felt less uneasy about passing the spot, as the old folks said he rarely ever appeared and then only on Fridays and this was Thursday. Suddenly a cold chill ran down my spine as I realized that it surely now must be well past midnight and, therefore, Friday.

By his time the howling wind had reached the stage of a hurricane, coming in sudden terrifying gusts, carrying almost everything before it. Above the roar of the storm I could, at times, faintly hear the groaning sound of the big rock as it lashed, back and forth, a prey to the fury of the wind. I could now see the boulder itself, but, "God in Heaven" what was that dark shadow alongside. Rooted to the spot for a second, I instantly decided to rush back, when I was lifted bodily up by a terrific gust of wind and hurled with alarming force against some hairy monster. Almost immediately I heard a loud snort, the like no human could utter, and then I was struck a stunning blow in the back, which sent me down on all fours. With lungs deflated of air from the force of the blow, I scrambled to my feet as best I could, and ran as fast as my bruised and painful limbs would allow.

It was a long mile to the last hangout of the spirits for me, as, by this time, I could scarcely walk.

OLAND'S INVEST $500,000 IN NEW EQUIPMENT

The Oland brewery on Agricola Street in Halifax will undergo an internal facelifting during the next few months—new equipment and storage tanks that will substantially increase the production capacity of the brewery. The announcement was made this morning by Bruce S. C. Oland, Executive Vice President of Oland's.

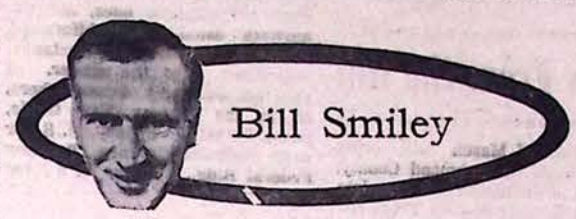

"Oland's broke all sales and production records last year," Mr. Oland said. "Our production capacity was stretched to the limit. The new equipment will permit us to run double shifts at the Agricola Street plant, doubling its capacity. Total new investment will exceed $500,000."

New equipment includes storage tanks of over 6000 barrels capacity, a 100 ton water chiller and a new mash mixer. In addition, a new fast-filler for the bottle line, along with high-speed labellers and automated inspectors, will be necessary to realize the full potential of the revamped plant.

"At the same time, a number of changes will be made at Keith's Brewery," Mr. Oland stated. "Our draught beer sales have been rising and it is necessary to modernize facilities at Keith's to produce the kegged product in greater volume." He added the canning operations at Keith's would also be improved and expanded.

"We are undertaking these changes with the cooperation of the union," Mr. Oland said. "Ultimately, of course, they can only benefit from this kind of ambitious expansion program."

The changeover is scheduled for late September.

How school has changed!

Great changes are taking place these days in education. Let's have a look at some of them from a straight-forward, honest, prejudiced point of view, and then you decide whether they are good or bad.

Corporal punishment is practically a thing of the past. Good or bad? I think it's good for the students and perhaps bad for some of the teachers. It never did have any deterrent effect on the students as I know from personal experience as a student. It merely made the brutish student more brutish. But it was a great safety valve for the hot-tempered teacher.

Now I know there shouldn't be such things as hot-tempered teachers. But there are. They are human beings. And some of the hottest-tempered are the best teachers. Often, they care more.

No more for them the glorious release of hurling chalk or blackboard brush at that sniggering lout in the back seat. No more for them the sedative of the clout on the ear, the ruler crack on the knuckles, the five-of-the-best on each hand.

What's going to happen to them? You can turn the other cheek only so often. I prophesy a large tax increase for the purpose of building more mental institutions for teachers who crack under the strain of choking back their honest rage.

So much for that. Let's look at Counselling, or Guidance. This is one of the fastest-growing aspects of education. Only a few years ago, any guidance was done by regular teachers, usually chosen for their common sense. They chatted with the kids and tried to steer them in the right direction.

Now the Guidance Department is one of the busiest spots in the school. You don't teach Guidance. You're "in" Guidance. Right up to your ears.

The reason for this is that the duties of guidance people have snowballed. Why? For two reasons. Many parents have abdicated as counsellors of their own children, and leave it to the school. Many other parents, however desperately they try, simply can't cope with their children, and expect the school to help.

Inevitably, the guidance teacher has become involved with emotional disturbances, family backgrounds, physical handicaps and all the other things that influence a child's behavior. He has become a sort of padre without dog-collar.

In addition, he is expected to guide the student into the right course. Thus, he must convince Johnny, who wants to be a doctor, and who failed his Grade 10 science dismally, that he might be better in another field. Even worse, he has to convince Johnny's father, who is a doctor and is damn-well going to have another one in the family.

Glad I'm not a guidance teacher.

How do you feel about examinations? They, too, are changing in status. The emphasis on exams is diminishing, and in some schools they have vanished. Good or bad?

My feelings about them are mixed. One day I feel that they should be abolished, so that we could get down to the business of learning, that they are an unnecessary ordeal, that they cater to mediocrity.

The next day I've reversed my stand and am convinced that: they are the only goad for the lazy student; that the pressure-relief are good therapy; that the student who is a wallflower in class has a chance to blossom on paper; that they reveal the classroom charm-boy for the ignoramus he is.

On the whole, I'm in favor of retaining exams, in some form, until our competitive society has changed completely. Otherwise, you have a repetition of the disastrous Children's Crusade of the Middle Ages. You are sending kids into battle with no weapons except a series of successful field trips and "projects".

You have to learn how to drive a car, and then you have to prove it in an examination. The same applies to building bridges or removing tonsils.

In fact we need more examinations: for prospective father's in diaper-pinning; prospective husbands in coping with tears. And so on. I'll bet you can think of a few.

View From the Hill

The 21st. of March will bring Spring Time to Richmond County. The end of the month will complete the first Quarter of 1969. From the Hill I am wondering how you are coming with this years plan and will the end of March find you ahead or behind of your planned progress. Those who did not bother to plan any special objective for '69 will find the year is slipping by quietly and they are happily going nowhere.

The House of Assembly has been noisily meeting in he Great Big amalgamated City of Halifax and we have all been invited to be participants by sending in our suggestions as to how Medicare can be paid for.

This, at a time of the year, when we are expecting the arrival of our 4% municipal tax notices, as we struggle with that overwhelming Income Tax Return for Ottawa.

It will be an actual fact that Taxes will soon exceed our incomes. That is only to be avoided by each and every one of us getting a Medical Degree then with $30,000 incomes we can all enjoy the affluent society.

It will only cost about $35,000 each and you can get a student loan to make it all possible.

Universities that grant Medical Degrees in Canada would soon close without the government grants of your tax dollars. The Medical Socities had better reconsider their announced stand.

It is an historical fact of the struggle of mankind that when the price becomes too high a substitute will be made to suffice. Would the high minded physicians believe their diagnostic services could be mainly replaced by a central computer that would be available to every telephone subscriber. I must admit that no substitute is possible for surgical skill but certainly not every doctor is a Surgeon. There are many doctors who realize that Medical treament should be equally available to rich and poor and it has become necessary to introduce a Medicare plan in order to bring this about.

The reasonable planning for the introduction of Medicare should have taken ten years. We really do not have an adequate number of doctors, nurses and other necessary technically trained staff. Neither does this country have an adequae number of modern hospital facilities. It is all the result of poor planning at the senior government levels. Actually it is enough to make us all sick when we realize the arrival of a Medicare plan that we can't afford financially or technically.

Who's for an ocean voyage on our new, untried, FIFTY MILLION DOLLAR hydrofoil. Our defence department should be congratulated. It floats! I saw it. I hope the Maiden voyage includes a trip through St. Peter's Canal to the Bras d'Or Lakes so the ghost of A. G. B. might also see it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This income tax column has been prepared by the Sydney District Office, Department of National Revenue, Taxation. The questions used are common ones, and the answers usually straightforward. However, unusual circumstances sometimes alter the answer. If your question isn't answered here, or in the Income Tax Guide, phone 539-2150 in Sydney, N. S., or write National Revenue, Taxation Federal Bldg., Sydney, N. S., for free service.

1. Q. Can one return be used for both husband and wife?

A. No, not in this country. A separate return must be completed for everyone who is required to file.

2. Q. What is the most common type of improperly completed return?

A. Those that do not provide all the information required by the form. Over 10% of returns filed lack necessary information, mainly concerning personal exemptions claimed. Failure to attach T4 slip is very common. Omissions rather than actual errors are our greatest problem.

3. Q. My employment in 1968 was such that I earned a portion of my income in the form of tips and gratuities. I understand that I may pay additional Canada Pension Plan contributions on this income so that I may qualify for full pension benefits. Is this correct and if so, how may I make the additional payment?

A. Yes, you may elect to pay 3.6% on this income provided you have not already made the maximum contribution of $81.00 on your other wages. To make such an election you must file a T1 General form and complete the "Canada Pension Plan Contribution on Self-Employed Earnings" area on page 1 of the T1 General.

4. Q. If I receive an advance from the Canadian Wheat Board, when is this money taxable?

A. You should include it in your income for the year in which you receive it.

5. Q. My wife and I were married in September. She was working before marriage but has not worked since. Can I claim the full married exemption of $1,000 for her? What does she do about filing a return?

A. Yes, if she received no income after your marriage you may claim the full married exemption of $1,000. It is only income she received after your marriage that affects your exemptions. If your wife is taxable or had tax deducted from her salary, she must file her own return. Her exemptions are not affected by her marriage.

5. Q. My wife's uncle is unemployed and is living with us. Can I claim him as a dependant?

A. Not unless he is mentally or physically infirm. If he is, you can claim the amount you actually spend on his support up to $550.

6. Q. I purchased a rental property part way through the year. Is capital cost allowance restricted to the person in the year during which I owned the property?

A. No. You are entitled to claim full capital cost allowance each year so long as you own the building at the end of the year. The cost of land is not subject to this allowance.

CAMP RANKIN

Camp Rankin, the first 4-H Campsite of its kind east of Camp Rayner, Saskatchewan, is taking shape. You will find it located on the tip of the Bras d'Or Lakes, about seven miles from St. Peter's. The plot of land now owned by the Richmond Co. 4-H Leaders' Council consists of 50 acres.

How did Camp Rankin begin?

It started as a Centennial project when the 4-H Leaders' Council saw a need for young people of that county to have a place where they could go camping. These youth needed a place of their own. At that time this piece of land came up for tax sale, so the Council wasted no time in buying the property. A plan was then formulated for development.

The Campsite

This property was once the home of a Murray family. They were a Scottish family who settled along the Bras d'Or Lake and earned their living by farming and fishing. The foundation of their home and barn can be seen on the site today.

Their main means of transportation was no doubt the waters of the lake.

The Name—Camp Rankin

Camp Rankin has been named after Angus Rankin, the former Agricultural Representative of Richmond County. Angus, as he is known by his friends, was born and brought up in Judique, Inverness County. He received his High School education from the Arichat Academy. He graduated from St. Francis Xavier and the Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

He will always be known for his remarkable sense of humor, and his ability to communicate with young people. Today, he and his family reside in St. Peter's. Mr. Rankin is Librarian at the L'Ardoise Consolidated School.

Where to in '69?

Camp Rankin has made much progress. This spring will see the establishment of a Recreation center (24' X 40'). The 4-H clubs in Richmond Co. have raised over one thousand dollars. Many clubs throughout Nova Scotia have helped raise this amount.

Other additions to the site will be a picnic area, a well, and two washrooms.

What has been done?

The parents and members of the Lakeside 4-H club have cleared the brush and trimmed the trees of about 10 acres of land. They have worked many Saturdays at the campsite cutting alders and other undergrowth. Also, a road has been constructed into the site where our recreation centre will be built.

The site will be a beehive of activity during the coming months. We are opening this site to any 4-H group that would like to come to visit Camp Rankin this summer. Be prepared to roll up the sleeves and lend a helping hand.

If your Club or County Council would like to help out financially you can send your donations to — Mrs. Joe MacNeil, Johnstown, Rich. Co., N. S. or Mr. Jack Redden, Dept. of Agriculture, Sydney.

Camp Rankin is no longer a dream. It needs your support and ideas. If you have any ideas or suggestions don't hesitate to let us know.

THE FOUR GHOSTS ON THE FERGUSON'S COVE ROAD

By T. A. Boyle

I fervently thanked the good Lord that I had so far come through with my life, but, as I crawled painfully along, reviewing what I had seen and heard and actually encountered, I began to realize that this was as nothing compared to what might be ahead at the last mile; and there was no way here to make a detour, as I had done at Bolligan's Tree; because the road followed the bottom edge of an unscalable cliff.

The account of the fourth incident the most terrifying of all, occurred at Devil's Hill. will be continued in our next issue.
