ISLE MADAME SQUADRON

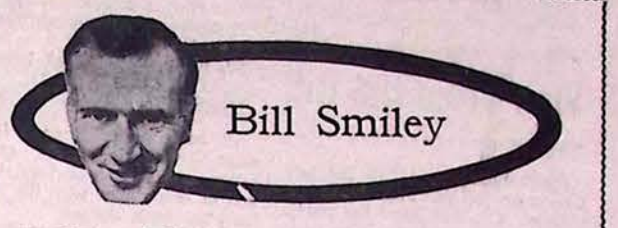

The Cadet Annual Inspection of Isle Madame Squadron 678 was recently held at the Isle Madame District High School Auditorium, Arichat. This year more parents and interested citizens than ever before came out to view the very impressive ceremony.

Trophy winners were as follows: Best all around Cadet: Shared between Marcel Marchand and Cameron Frost; Best 1st year cadet: Paul MacNeil; Best Girl Cadet: Shared between Pauline Miles and Betty Poirier; Most valuable Band member: Shared between Bob Stone and Greg. Power. George Hearn, Linda LeBlanc and David Britten all received Cadet Graduate Certificates. David Britten was the winner of the Cheryl Ann Roberts, Memorial Trophy. This trophy was designed and constructed by W. O. Ralph Roberts of Canadian Forces Base, Stadacona, Halifax. Both Warrant Officer and Mrs. Roberts were in atendance at the Inspection are to be complimented for the support they give to the local squadron.

After the Inspection the Ladies Auxilary of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 150, catered to a dinner for local and out of town officers as well as invited guests.

Lieut. Col. Ells was Inspecting Officer and other regular Officers on parade were: Lt. Cantley, Summerside, P.E.I., Lt. Bates, Halifax; Sgt. Canary and Sgt. Gaudet both of Haifax.

We had the pleasure of attending the Inspection and we were much impressed by the advancement made by the Squadron and much credit goes to Commanding Officer Power, his officers, and trainers. Every encouragement and support by our citizens should be given the squadron, which is one of the greatest assets in moulding our boys and girls into bright and worthy citizens.

The readers write

Irish stew today, or clam chowder, or whatever your favorite mucky dish is. It will contain fish and eggs, metal and glass.

A recent column on personal beefs brought a hair-raiser from W. T. House of West Gravenhurst.

Quote: "Question—for what formal education teachers have done and are doing, should history indict them as murderers, manslaughterers, suicides and conspirators thereto? I must vote 'yes,' because after years of research I have not been able to find others on whom to place the responsibility for the hell on earth which will be Our Canada in a very few years now — death and destruction everywhere."

It may have been my attack on the beer can that sparked this. But he goes on to say that scarcely any teachers know that ours is a metal civilization, that we have nearly exhausted the most necessary of these metals and that therefore our form of civilization is ending.

Mr. House would never make a public relations man for either the teaching vocation or the metals industry, but he sure comes to the point.

The same column in which I attacked disposable bottles, brought a letter from — guess who — the public relations firm for the Glass Container Council. Enclosed was a brochure called "No-Deposit Bottles — A Study."

The summary of The Study says the facts have shown that, properly handled, the no-deposit bottle is not a danger to children or livestock, not a significant source of litter, not a cause of forest fires, not a problem in handling solid waste.

How did we get onto forest fires?

It ends on a smug note: "The no-deposit bottle is wanted by the public as a form of convenience packaging." Well, I'm one of the public, and I don't want it. Also, "convenience," used to be a noun when I went to school.

But the key words in that blurb are "properly handled". Do they mean the facts of the bottles. Facts, properly handled, can be a snow job.

However, mustn't get hung up on the bottle. I promised some fish in this stew. Read the fish story the other day. It's too good to be true, but will pass it along.

Local couple was vacationing in California. They were invited to a wine and fish dinner. Hostess had a huge fish, salmon or something, cooked, garnished and put on the table. She went in from the patio for a last-minute check and there was the family cat up to its eyebrows in fish.

She squealed for her husband. He came and like a sensible chap, said, "Turn it over; they'll never notice." There was only about a pound missing, from the one side. They did, the guests were called in, and unanimously called it the best fish they'd ever eaten.

Host, pleased at his ingenuity strolled outside and saw the cat lying dead. His thoughts can only be conjectured. But three hours later, after all the guests had been to hospital and had their stomachs pumped out, he and his wife got home, just a little harassed. A neighbor woman came to the door.

"I didn't want to disturb you while you had guests, and I'm terribly sorry, but I ran over your cat and killed it." End of story.

Which reminds me of Gracie Fields and the eggs. This is true. I was there. Miss Fields, Lancashire lass with great voice and comic sense, was on her fourth-last farewell tour. She took the old steamer Hamonic, on which I worked, down the lakes from Duluth to Detroit.

In for breakfast two hours late, she ordered eggs. The chef was sore, but fried them. She sent them back, because they were sunny side up. The chef lifted an Oriental eyebrow then his spatula, flipped them over on the plate, and sent them back in, sunny side down.

Gracie being a woman, peeked, and the poor devil of a waiter, working his way through college, took the full force of a Lancashire tirade, while the wily old chef, in the galley, helped himself to a gin, caring not a Cantonese damn about Gracie Fields.

Rev. Vernon Fougere Celebrated His First Mass At St. Joseph's

Rev. Vernon Fougere, son of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Fougere, Petit de Grat, was recently ordained to the Priesthood, at an impressive mass in Sacred Heart Church, Sydney by His Excellency the Rt. Rev. Bishop Power, D.D., of the Diocese of Antigonish. Clery from all over Cape Breton and other parts of the Diocese were in attendance to witness the ordination of Father Vernon Fougere and others who were also ordained to the priesthood on the same day.

Father Fougere's parents, relatives and friends witnessed the ordination at Sacred Heart Church and later attended a reception for the newly ordained priests.

On the following day Father Fougere was the celebrant at his first Mass in his home church, St. Joseph's, Petit de Grat. The church was filled to capacity and everyone in the community as well as others from all over Isle Madame attended the Mass.

The Vice-Chancellor, Father Willard of the Seminary, Montreal and several students attending the Seminary were in attendance at the Mass as well as clergy from Isle Madame and Louisdale.

Father John MacDonald, pastor of St. Joseph's assisted in the Mass and in a very impressive address spoke of the splendid qualities of Father Fougere and the happiness brought to the parish on the first ordination of a native son. Father MacDonald congratulated Father Fougere's parents for their Christian example in the home and in the community.

The Epistle at the Mass was read by Mr. Wilfred Duann, a close friend and neighbor of Rev. Father Fougere. The Gospel was read by Mr. Benedict Samson, of Petit de Grat, who recently graduated from St. F. X. of Petit de Grat.

In delivering his first sermon, Father Fougere spoke in glowing terms of the devotion of his parents, to whom he said he was most grateful and also to Father MacDonald for his guidance and encouragement.

Father Fougere said he was mindful of his responsibilities in the performing of his duties in the sacred calling he had chosen and thanked everyone for their prayers and good wishes. He made special mention to Rev. Father Willard, Vice-Chancellor and others who came to Cape Breton to attend the ordination and to be present at his first Mass.

We had the pleasure and honor of attending Father Fougere's first Mass and also to be present at the dinner reception following the Mass.

We were highly impressed with the manner in which Father Fougere performed his duties as celebrant at the Mass and for the spendid sermon he delivered on this memorable occasion.

We extend our best wishes to Father Fougere.

View From the Hill

Congratulations to all the new Graduates of St. Francis Xavier College. You now have the public recognition that you have the mental tools to start learning how to apply the knowledge your professors have passed on to you. How far you carry the light shining in your eyes depends, now, on you and your drive to create the better world for all of us.

Let's, for a few moments think of the people involved in a graduation:

1. A mother who taught you most of what you know.

2. A father who in most cases carried the financial burden so willingly.

3. All the school teachers who helped you through the groundwork of scholastics.

4. The persons in the environment that inspired the specific course of study.

5. The professors, other faculty members and university staff.

6. Successful Alumni that contribute heavily to University support.

7. Publishers, authors, librarians etc.

8. We the taxpayers that support the Government Grants to Universities.

Many hundreds of people are involved in the creation of a graduation. Educational institutions do not grow like toadstools or fungus, overnight. They grow by many people contributing each his own miniscule part. As the single cell that grows and divides, taking nutriton from its environment so all the institutions of learning grow by taking from the total environment in order to grow and expand, ever increasing the variety and scope of its teachings.

Many graduates have trouble accepting the fact that a college degree, in itself, does not fit the cash register at the I. G. A. Many others take a little time to come down out of the clouds of this past weeks acclaim but sooner or later all will realize that it's not what a man knows but what he does that counts in the long run through our terrestrial environment.

The footprints, we'll follow with interest
That you make on the sands of Time,
Oh! all you vaunted graduates,
Of the Class of '69.

L'ARDOISE SCHOOL HAS LONG HISTORY

Away back in 1724, Laurence Kavanagh, one of two elected members from the County of Cape Breton (actually C. B. Islands) to the Legislature Assembly of Nova Scotia, was asked to make an official survey of educational conditions in his constituency. Actually the Kavanaghs were members of L'Ardoise parish until St. Peters was created a parish in 1896.

On the parish of L'Ardoise he reports as follows — "In the neighborhood of L'Ardoise there are 60 families, at least 70 children fit for schooling, out of which eight or ten are instructed by a Canadian teacher in the winter season. L'Ardoise is a fishing settlement and the inhabitants are very poor. The teacher is so badly paid, he is obliged to turn fisherman in the summer season."

The state of the L'Ardoise school system was no better or worse than the schools in most fishing and farming parishes of this size. The year after the Education Act was proclaimed in 1864, the inhabitants built a schoolhouse at a place called L'Ardoise Highlands. As population increased other schools were built at about two-mile intervals located at Grand Greve, Rockdale, West L'Ardoise, L'Ardoise, Cross Roads, (Highlands) Brymer and Point Michaud a distance of 12 miles.

Teachers were paid the usual stipend, $200. and up a year when you got it." It was not uncommon during the Depression for a school to owe the current teacher, a substantial amount to the last teacher and possibly a small last payment to her predecessor.

The teachers themselves helped out with a pre-Christmas and Easter concert which reaped twofold benefts. It gave the teachers some much needed money which they deducted from their dues and it gave the pupils a fling at the thespian arts, perhaps more than they are exposed to today.

Such was the situation along the years until the people began to realize that something had to be done.

As a first step they invited the Congregation of Filles de Jesus to commence a school in the parish. This they did and on August 23, 1943, they were installed in a family home.

Classes for the upper grades were started in the parish hall but it burned in February, 1946.

The ratepayers had a taste of consolidated schooling and they liked the results. Many meetings were held. The people were by this time involved with the processes of democracy, having set up study clubs, a credit union, co-op Home and School, Community Club, etc.

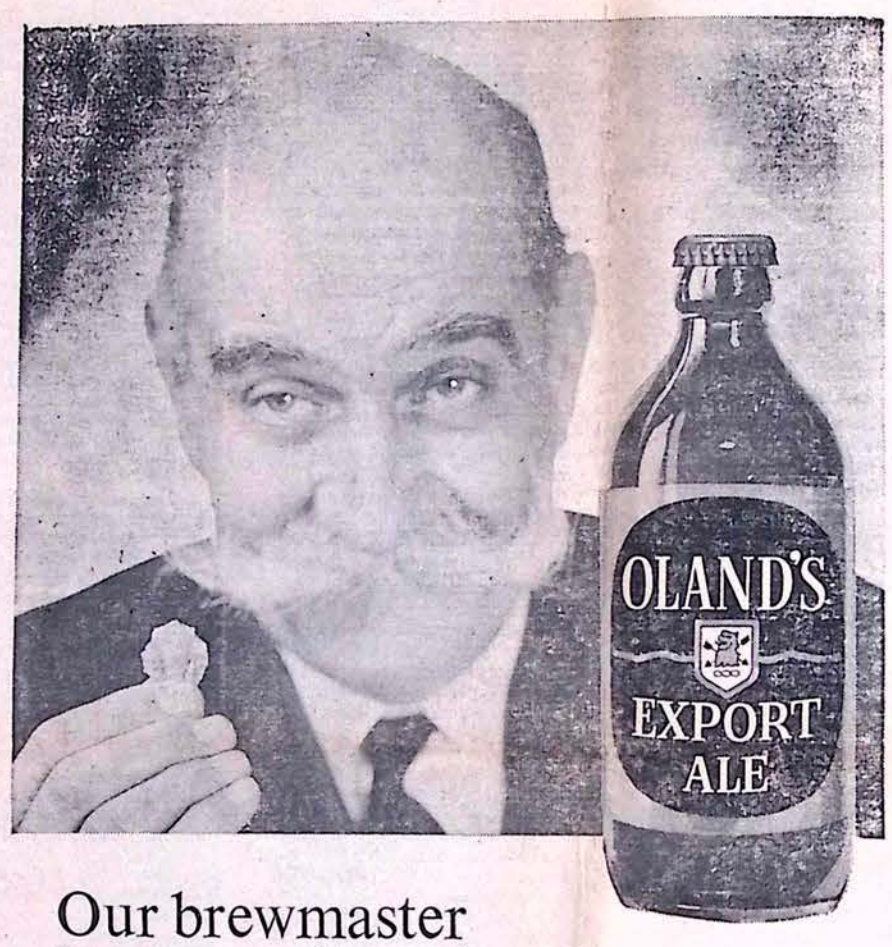

They set to work with a will. A talented local architect planned an efficient two-storey 12-room wooden school with basement auditorium, and this at a time when massive government cost-sharing was an idea for the future.

Hon. Gerry Doucet, Minister of Education and M.L.A., for Richmond County visited his constituency recently and met with citizens at the Municipal Building, Arichat.

The Minister who had been visiting the Soviet Union returned recently and has brought back many interesting observations of the Education System in that country.

The advancement made in educational facilities in recent years has been notable in this province and the County of Richmond has shared a generous portion in the building of new modern schools in various parts of the County and at Arichat alone over 1000 students attend the Isle Madame District High School; as well as several hundred attending the St. Peter's District High and Elementary Schools in that town; Louisdale, River Bourgeoise; L'Ardoise;; Point Tupper and Johnstown have a large record of attendance. Born in England and educated in Nova Scotia and England, Mr. Oland obtained his degree as Master Brewer from the United Brewers' Academy of New York in 1947. He has been associated with Oland's brewing interests since 1936, latterly as Executive Vice President.

Mr. Oland has been active all his adult years in the Militia and Naval Reserve of Canada. He now holds the rank of Commodore in the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and is Senior Naval Reserve Adviser to the Director-General of the Canadian Armed Forces in Ottawa. Mr. Oland is also Honourary A.D.C. to the Governor-General.

Bruce Oland has particular interests in other than Naval affairs. He is, for example, Director of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children, a Director of the Canada Safety Council, a Member of the United Services Institute and Governor of the Brewers Association of Canada.

Mr. Oland is a numismatist and philatelist. His sports interests include sailing and deep-sea fishing. (He is well remembered for his 1967 record-breaking tuna catch... an 855-pounder, the first tuna to be boated off Prince Edward Island.)

Officially, Mr. Oland assumes the Presidency and is a Member of the Board of Oland & Son Limited, Halifax; A. Keith and Son Limited, Halifax; Olands Brewery Limited, Saint John, N.B.; and Olands Brewers Grain & Yeast Limited, Halifax. As a Master Brewer and with many years of experience in the production of Oland's products, Mr. Oland is well fitted for the position he now undertakes.

POINT ZERO EIGHT
SAFETY BREAKTHROUGH

Accident baiters who mix alcohol and gasoline may soon find themselves on the wrong end of a breathalyzer test.

New federal legislation which establishes a .08 breath alcohol content as proof of impaired driving ability, and which makes it mandatory for suspect drivers to take breathalyzer tests, has been hailed as a major highway safety advance by Hon. I. W. Akerley, Nova Scota's Minister of Highways.

The new regulations are incorporated in the House of Commons "omnibus bill" which was passed 149 to 55 last Wednesday, and now awaits Senate approval before it can receive Royal assent and be proclaimed law.

Mr. Akerley joined with other Canadian Highways Ministers and the Federal Justice Minister earlier this year in submitting proposed changes in the impaired driving regulations to the federal government.

"We've needed more teeth in this law for a long time", said Mr. Akerley - - particularly when you consider that alcohol is involved in at least 50 percent of all accidents on our highways.

The impaired driving changes will make it an offence to have a breath-alcohol reading of eight one-hundredths of one percent and will make it mandatory for drivers to take balloon tests to establish the level.

Those drivers who refuse to take the test upon the request of a law officer, without reasonable excuse for such refusal, will be liable to the same penalties as those provided for driving while impaired.

Mr. Akerley was confident that the tougher regulations will bring about a reduction in fatal mishaps on provincial highways. He noted that the same standards when established in England had achieved a 42 percent reduction in accidents.

"Last year in Nova Scotia there were 14,179 accidents involving 23,261 drivers. The accidents cost us 237 lives. If we could cut that toll by 42 percent think of the financial loss and untold suffering that could be avoided" he said.

CARD OF THANKS

Our sincere thanks to all kind relatives, friends and neighbors who helped in any way during our sad bereavement.

Very Special thanks to Rev. Vernon Fougere, the choir, C. A. Boucher, Funeral Director; Dr. J. H. Winter and nursing staff of St. Anne Hospital, Arichat.

DON'T TWINKLE — SHINE!

The familiar ditty "twinkle, twinkle little star" carries an important safety message which Nova Scotian motorists, should heed says Highways Minister Hon. I. W. Akerley.

Many otherwise safe drivers fall into the twilight trap when motoring at dusk, and use only their cars parking lights for illumination.

He suggests motorists should take time out and look at the stars tonight, compare one with the moon, and note the difference.

The same contrast exists in the early hours of dusk when a motorist depends on his parking lights rather than full headlights to warn other drivers that he is on the highway.

Many drivers think full headlights are used only to illuminate the highway - and they are wrong.

Full headlights can be a very important safety feature in vehicle operation not only at dusk but during overcast or inclement weather conditions.

Mr. Akerley said he had noted a tremendous increase in "after supper driving" these fine Spring evenings, and in most cases the motorists were using parking lights instead of full head lights.

"Driving with only parking lights makes a car appear farther away to other drivers, he said, "thus defeating the purpose of putting them on."

His message "Light Up and Be Seen."

Shine on silvery moon!

REV. ARTHUR TURNBULL APPOINTED ARMY CHAPLAIN

Rev. Arthur Turnbull, Rector of St. John's Parish, Arichat, for the past two years has been appointed Chaplain in the Canadian Armed Services and will be stationed at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Very active in both parochial and community work he was a valued member of the Arichat Lions Club and for some time acted as Secretary of the Tri-Town Lions Club.

He was also a member of the St. Anne Hospital Board and was also quite active in Co-Operative Housing both at Arichat and Port Hawkesbury.

At his farewell service at St. John's Church, Arichat he was presented with a sum of money by Stanley Diggdon, Warden on behalf of the parishioners.

We wish Mr. Turnbull and family continued success and happiness in their new home.
